EYE WINTER VOTE ON NEW GRADE SCHOOLS

Board Grants Liquor Permit To Osco Store

An eighth license for retail sale of liquor in Arlington Heights was authorized for the village's new Jewel-Osco Store, Wing and Davis Streets, by unanimous vote of the board of trustees Monday.

Trustee Norval Stephens, the only member of the board who voted against increasing the limit of package stores to eight when the Jewel request first came up in January, was absent from Monday's special meeting.

At the time the license quota was increased, several liquor dealers in the village objected to the establishment of another store in the downtown area, but the board ruled that the purpose of a licensing system was not to limit competition.

At that time, Jewel's application for a liquor license was in village hands and a Jewel attorney appeared in support of the quota increase, though the board said the increase was not being granted specifically for any one concern.

IN WHAT was simply a formality vote Monday, the board reaffirmed a position which had been stated in practicality last January.

The board vote was not a legal requirement at this point, since issuance of a village liquor license within the quota rests entirely under authority of Village Pres. John G. Woods, doubling as liquor commissioner.

But village policy requires that the board first vote approval of any prospective licensee.

Representatives of the Jewel-Osco chain outlined plans Monday for establishment of a small liquor department in a front corner of the store completely separated from the remainder by a partition.

THE VILLAGE is now requiring other establishments in the village with combined drug and liquor sales to physically separate the liquor department from the remainder of the store also.

The Jewel spokesmen noted that the liquor department was to be located on the drug side of the shopping complex rather than the grocery side. The village had previously denied liquor sales within a grocery store in the village, while allowing such use in three drug stores.

There was no chance for further objection by other village license holders to granting of the Jewel-Osco permit, since the policy matter was handled as a non-agenda item in a special meeting.

Trustees at the meeting commended Jewel for its record of no dram shop complaints since liquor sales were initiated in the chain stores in 1946.

Planners To Report Saturday

The Arlington Heights village board has tentatively scheduled a meeting this Saturday with members of Tec-Search Inc., for a progress report on a revised comprehensive plan for the village concentrating on redevelopment of the central business district.

When the firm, headed by village planner M. Eugene Baughman, was retained in June to work on the federally financed plan, a preliminary report on the downtown section was promised within three months and completion of that section was promised by the end of the year.

THE PROGRESS report for village officials is to be followed by a general meeting of the ACTION committee, to which all interested citizens would be invited for a similar presentation by Tec-Search representatives.

That meeting has been tentatively set for the first part of October.

Fiesta Tickets Go on Sale

Tickets for the Comas Day Fiesta to be held Oct. 10 at Arlington Park Race Track are now available at two acting agencies in the village as well as from members of the Inter-American Friendship Committee.

The Tickets, at $1 apiece for adults, may be purchased at the Insurance Center, 15 N. State Rd., and the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn., Evergreen and Campbell.

Children under 16 will be admitted free to the Fiesta, designed to promote interest and raise funds for Arlington Heights' sister city, Comas, Peru.

Apartment Burglary Loss Set at $635

A daylight burglar or burglars netted about $35 in cash and $600 worth of miscellaneous contents of the apartment of Mrs. Minetta Myron, 519 Algonquin Rd., Arlington Heights, Monday.

Mrs. Myron, who lives in a second floor unit of the large apartment development, returned home Monday evening to discover that a television, portable radio, watches, appliances, luggage, liquor and some women's apparel had been taken during the day.

ACCORDING TO police, a pair of grip pliers was used to twist the outside door knob, breaking the lock mechanism on the front door.

Neighbors reported having seen nobody enter or leave the apartment during the day, though traffic in the area is heavy because of the concentrated number of units.

Questions Asked On 13 Park Sites

A proposal for reservation of 13 sites in Arlington Heights for park use which was passed on a split vote by the plan commission Aug. 26 is apparently destined for significant revisions before the village board.

The Arlington Heights Park District has asked the village to amend the comprehensive plan and map to designate the three proposed community park sites and 10 neighborhood park sites for public use.

Action by the plan commission was simply advisory, while the village board must hold a public hearing and take formal action to reserve the land for a two-year period.

IN PRELIMINARY discussion of the park plans at a special meeting Monday, the trustees agreed that at least two proposed sites should be excluded from the planning, and questioned the location of a couple more.

The board also saw the advisability of a neighborhood park site where there is none planned now — in Arlington Park Manor, a subdivision being spurred toward redevelopment.

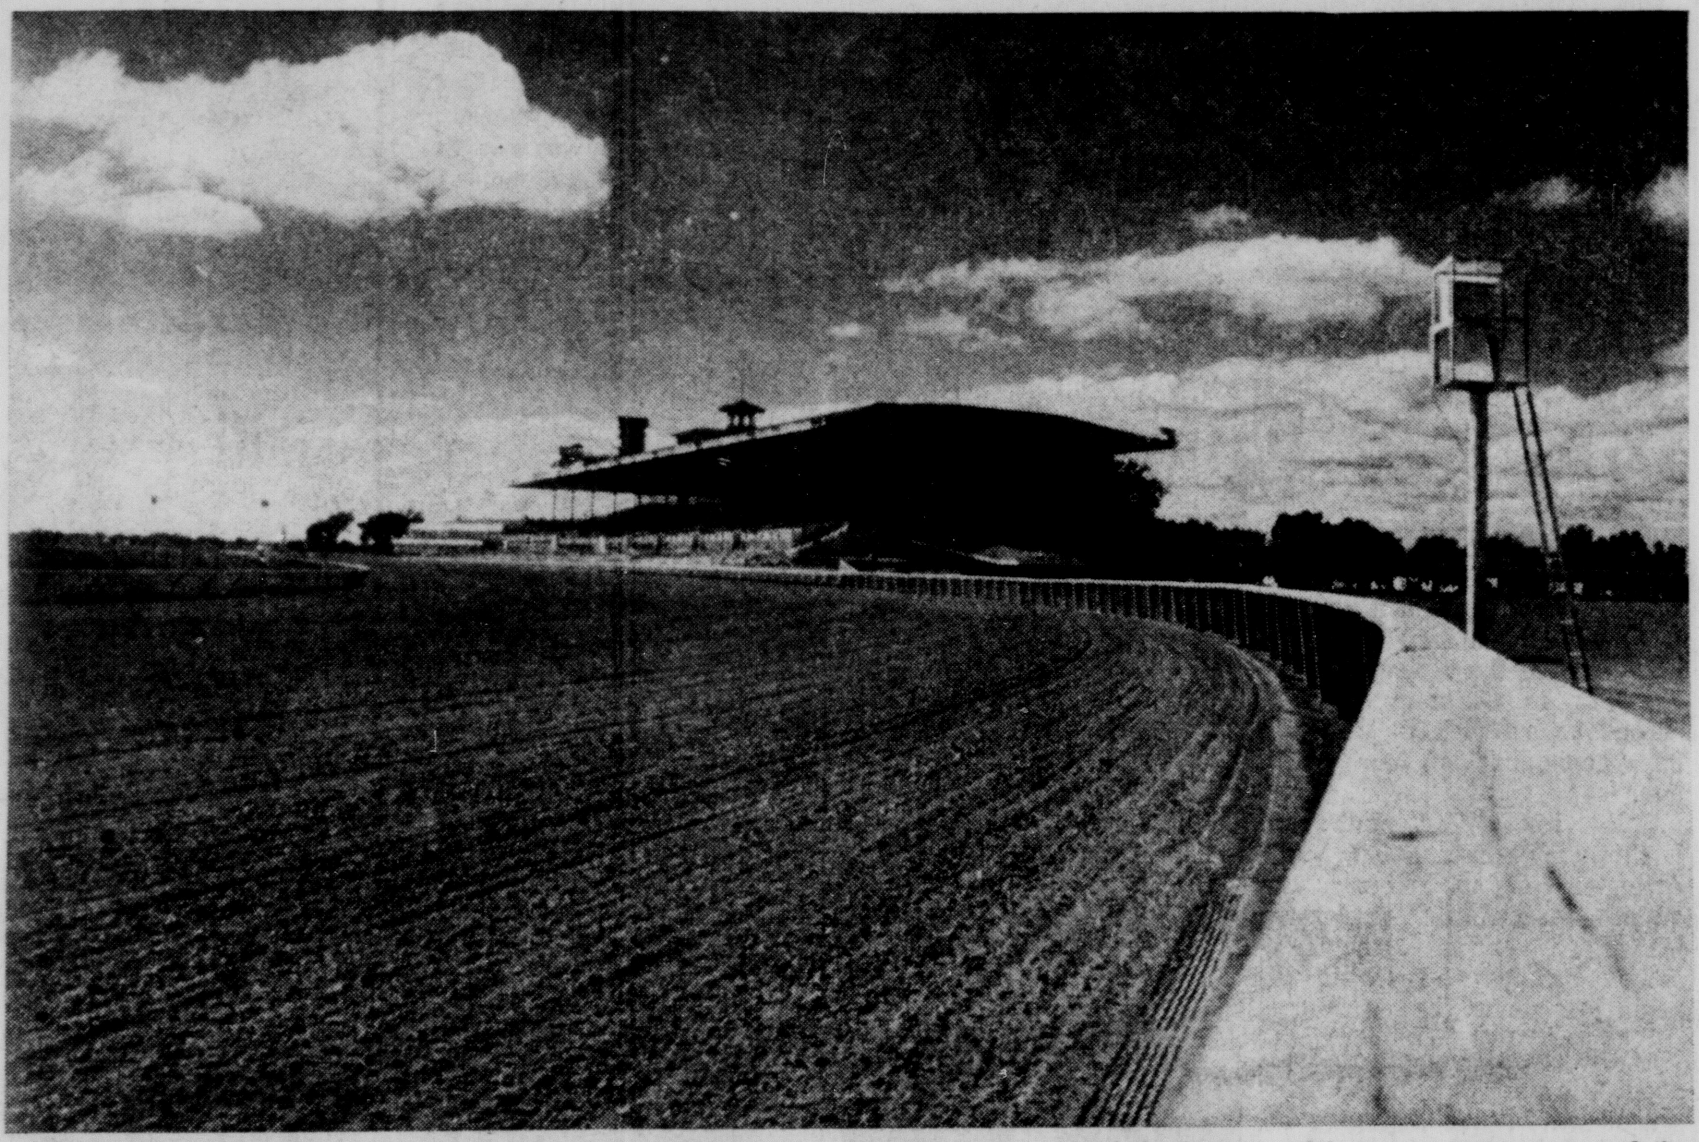
No major objections were voiced in the preliminary discussion to location of any of the major park sites — one in the north end of the village near Palatine Road and Kennicott Avenue, and two at the south end including a planned community park and golf course of 50 to 100 acres on property presently used by the Nike base.

TWO NEIGHBORHOOD park locations which were mentally cast out by the board were proposed for industrially zoned land near the North Illinois Tollway and Algonquin Road.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson commented that the industrial areas surrounding the sites should generate no need for a local, five-acre park, and added that one of the sites near the intersection of Route 58 and the tollway was "one of the most prime pieces of property around there."

Other questions were raised about the proximity of three neighborhood park sites in the section of the village east of Arlington Heights Road and south of Central.

No date was set by the village board for public hearing on the necessary plan and map amendments to set the land aside.



THE LAST STRETCH was Monday, and after the longest season in its history, Arlington Park Race Track yawned and went to sleep in the sun for another year. Tuesday, when this picture was taken, most of the horses and horsemen were gone, and the thousands of people the track brings each summer to Arlington Heights and neighboring communities were noticeably absent.

New Group Hopes to Bring Christianity to Daily Life

During the next week, small reading and study groups meeting in churches throughout Arlington Heights will mark the beginning of a new attempt at Christian cooperation and understanding.

The groups, now being formed, are the seeds from which a Community Christian Forum is to grow. The size to which it will mature, and the food it will provide for community thought, are matters for optimistic speculation by many clergy and laymen involved in the program.

The Forum is to be a meeting ground of Arlington Heights Christian churches to study how the concept of "Christian life" can be projected into the day-to-day living of the community.

The idea originated with initial meetings by the clergy of several churches in the village and representative laymen.

These representatives, who formed a coordinating committee, in turn went back to their churches to organize discussion groups of 10 to 20 persons to prepare for the first joint Forum meeting.

THE GROUPS will meet through September and the first part of October, and read a few assigned books. Following this, the first forum will begin.

The Rev. Samuel N. Keys of St. Simon's Episcopal Church, head of the Forum committee, terms question marks as the correct punctuation for most of the things up for discussion at the joint meetings.

Four such meetings will be held on Sunday evenings, beginning Oct. 18, with topics centering around the relation between the church and the community.

GUEST SPEAKERS are slated to discuss a single primary topic at each meeting, after which Forum members are to break into small discussion sections without regard to denomination.

Questions which arise in the discussion sections will then be put to a panel including the evening's guest speaker.

The Forum is bound to run upon controversial points of difference between denominations, according to Father Keys, but similarities will be emphasized rather than the differences.

Dr. William T. Jones, pastor of Southminster Presbyterian Church and a member of the committee, pointed out that, "The fact that the clergy and men and women of different Christian faiths could and would meet together in this manner was an event almost revolutionary in the history of the modern Christian Church."

IMPLICATIONS of the overall Forum topic were stressed by the Rev. James Doherty of St. James Roman Catholic Church, also a member of the committee.

He noted that, "To a great extent in the past, the church has been one environment and the 'community' has been another," under many influences outside the church which affect the behavior and standards of both Christian adults and their children.

Father Doherty said that one purpose of the meetings would be to restudy and restate the basic viewpoint of the Christian Church that "Christian doctrine and ethics in addition to being spiritual ideals are also applicable and mandatory in all areas of Christian everyday life."

The main hope, according to Father Keys, is that churches working together can offer guidance in some of the personal and community problems existing today.

He also expressed the hope that the Forum would evolve into permanent working groups of an interdenominational nature in the community.

Park Manor Paving Contract on Agenda

After tonight (Thursday) work on the largest special assessment project in the history of Arlington Heights — designed to promote development of Arlington Park Manor — should be all over but the construction.

The village's board of local improvements is scheduled to award the contract tonight for street paving and improvements in the area at a cost of nearly half a million dollars.

Park Manor subdivision extends from Dryden Place east to Arthur Avenue, between Central Road and the Chicago and North Western Railway tracks.

CONTRACT on a second portion of the giant special assessment, installation of water mains and sewers, was awarded last month to Rosetti Construction Co. for about $296,000.

Bids for the street paving and improvement section, which includes storm drainage for the provements in 1960 when it be- streets, were opened last Saturday by the board of local improvements.

Apparent low bids on alternate paving specifications for asphalt or concrete were turned over to the board's consulting engineers and the village engineer for a recommendation to be heard at tonight's meeting.

The apparent low bids were $479,582.36 for bituminous concrete with a pozzolanic base, from Allied Asphalt Paving Co., Hillside, and $485,313.50 for portland cement concrete, from Rock Road Construction Co., Chicago.

UNDER THE special assessment procedure, property owners in the affected area must pay not only the contract cost, but engineering and legal fees in addition which are anticipated to raise the total for sewer, water and paving to nearly $1 million.

Residents and property owners in the area, annexed to the village in 1955, first petitioned for the special assessment improvements came apparent that development was stagnated without them.

But in the following four years before the project obtained court approval this summer, plans for the improvements drew numerous objections from residents and underwent several revisions.

The improvements which finally passed were designed by village planner M. Eugene Baughman along with a rezoning plan for the area which changed single-family residential use to a combination of single-family, apartment and commercial.

THE INSTALLATION of improved streets, sewer and water will make way for construction of a large apartment project planned by developer George Wallach, holder of the largest combined parcel of land in the subdivision.

The total land area has remained only 12 per cent developed since annexation to the village, but combination of small residential lots for construction is expected to follow the scheduled improvements.

Board Gives Green Light

With three new schools barely opened, the school board of Arlington Heights District 25 Monday authorized the administration to begin planning for another building referendum this winter.

Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh presented figures to the board on opening day enrollments in both K-5 and junior high schools and they told their own story.

Class sizes average 27 pupils in the primary grades, and 31 in junior high—even without the increase in enrollments which may be expected through this school year.

Clabaugh said the district, faced with booming subdivision development, would do well to get through the next two years without serious crowding problems in the junior high schools, and that added primary classrooms would be needed by 1966.

He added that the past K-5 construction program had been proof that holding building referenda in the fall of the year before schools are needed does not allow enough time for completion.

HE ADVISED that to have schools ready by September of 1966, a referendum should be held in either January or February of 1965.

The administration did not make any specific recommendation on what would be included in the building program, but Clabaugh warned that thought should be given not only to meeting the need at the time buildings are completed, but also to providing space until the next building program can be completed.

A study of need which the administration was authorized to begin would indicate where schools or additions are to be constructed, and how many additional room wil lbe necessary.

Growth in the district has averaged about 700 pupils a year over the last three years, which would create a need for 20 new class sections every year to keep class size constant.

CLABAUGH estimated that the 1966 building program would have to include at least the completion of a second wing on Thomas Junior High School, if not the first wing of another.

He said addition of K-5 schools or units would depend on which areas of the vilage experience greatest growth, but the primary area for expansion is above Palatine Road and Rand Road.

Charles Bennett, a member of the school board who also sits on the village plan commission, named a number of subdivisions in the area with lots in the hundreds which will be developing in the next two years.

Though District 25 is filling in far faster than the outer areas of the village in the Wheeling, Prospect Heights and Elk Grove elementary districts, Clabaugh estimated growth would continue until about 1970.

The study of building needs authorized by the school board Monday would extend not only to the 1965 program, but also to another two building programs which Clabaugh said could be spaced two years apart. This would mean building referenda in 1967 and 1969 as well.

Work Still Undone at 3 Schools

The Arlington Heights elementary school board reviewed last year's building program with a remaining note of urgency at Monday's meeting.

Though Greenbrier and Dwyer schools, and Thomas Junior High School, were occupied on opening day, the heating plants were still not working in any of the three schools as of Monday.

Other interior work remained to be done at Greenbrier and Dwyer schools, including glazing of partitions between corridors and classrooms. The glass panels allow light to spread to the halls from classraam fixtures.

ARCHITECT WILLIAM Ganster said the two K-5 schools were coming along as well as could be expected, though, because of the tight time schedule under which the contractor was working from the beginning.

The board also approved site drawings for all the new schools, on the basis of which bids will be let for site improvements.

Student Surprises His Finnish 'Foster' Parents

Arlington High School's first foreign exchange student, Craig Quackenbush, came home early last month from his junior college year in the University of Frieburg in Germany, and a second return visit to Finland, his "homeland" of four years ago.

Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Quackenbush, 545 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, and a scholarship student at Princeton University, returns to the New Jersey campus this month to begin his senior year of study.

FOUR YEARS ago at just about this time Craig, as a high school senior, was adjusting to the schedule of Helsinging Normaalilysee, Finland's number one school.

He had spent the summer in Helsinki getting acquainted with a new way of life, a new language and a new family, Mr. and Mrs. Vaino Ahola, Marja, Jussi and Pepe. When he came home after a semester of schooling in Helsinki, Craig returned with a high B-plus average, a deep affection for the Ahola family and a determination to see them again.

CRAIG QUACKENBUSH

Craig began his college studies in Princeton University in September, 1961. He spent the summer of 1962 in West Berlin, working for the city government, and it was then that he managed a reunion with the Aholas in Helsinki. He had let them know he'd be coming and their reception was excited, and full of the same affection for him that Craig felt for them.

HE RETURNED to the United States for his second year at Princeton, then was in Europe again to begin his junior year of study. To begin with there was no time for anything outside Frieburg and his courses at the university there.

A history major, Craig earned A grades in German history and language, as well as in almost all the other courses he took. (Craig admits a little sheepishly that the only B he received was in the only course he took in English!)

Between semesters in Frieburg University, during March, April and the first week in May, Craig spent nine weeks in Finland doing research for his senior paper. The trip was possible because of a grant from the Lewis Calder foundation and most of the research would be done in Helsinki. This time Craig did not let his foster family know he was coming. "I just pulled a happened-to-be-in-the-neighborhood - thought - I'd drop-in. It was wonderful — they were so excited and surprised."

ALTHOUGH Craig returned to the Ahola home to visit whenever he could, his nine weeks in Helsinki were filled with hard work.

His senior paper will examine the origins of Finland's wars with Russia (the "little" one from 1939 to 1940 and the big one, 1941-44) and he interviewed every living former politician and statesman who held a cabinet rank during that era.

He says that he is only the seconed person to have ever tackled the job and "that it was a big one, but fascinating."

And the frosting on the cake was being able to pop in on the Aholas and be "home" again, any time he felt like it. (A

Student Surprises His Finnish 'Foster' Parents

Arlington High School's first foreign exchange student, Craig Quackenbush, came home early last month from his junior college year in the University of Frieburg in Germany, and a second return visit to Finland, his "homeland" of four years ago.

Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Quackenbush, 545 S. Vail, Arlington Heights, and a scholarship student at Princeton University, returns to the New Jersey campus this month to begin his senior year of study.

FOUR YEARS ago at just about this time Craig, as a high school senior, was adjusting to the schedule of Helsinging Normaalilysee, Finland's number one school.

He had spent the summer in Helsinki getting acquainted with a new way of life, a new language and a new family, Mr. and Mrs. Vaino Ahola, Marja, Jussi and Pepe. When he came home after a semester of schooling in Helsinki, Craig returned with a high B-plus average, a deep affection for the Ahola family and a determination to see them again.

CRAIG QUACKENBUSH

Craig began his college studies in Princeton University in September, 1961. He spent the summer of 1962 in West Berlin, working for the city government, and it was then that he managed a reunion with the Aholas in Helsinki. Strive to Cut Costs of Arlingdale Water Mains

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements will decide tonight (Thursday) how much can be lopped off of scheduled special assessment proceedings for installation of water mains in Arlingdale subdivision.

About 40 residents of the area, a triangle bounded by Euclid Avenue, Wilke Road, and the Chicago and North Western Railway, have supplied the village a cash guarantee that they are willing to make necessary installations by private contract.

In a continued public hearing on the project Saturday, homeowners' representatives from the area told board members that they are still working among the 58 property owners in the subdivision to obtain more cash guarantees.

INSTALLATION OF the water mains by private contract would save an estimated one-third of the project cost, but any sections of main removed from the special assessment project must be in a continuous line connecting to an existing water main to make a working system.

Property owners on both sides of the street from any section, which runs down the municipal right-of-way must have deposited their money before that section may be removed.

The board of local improvements had encouraged homeowners in the area to agree upon private contract installation before the project came to the hearing stage, but the number of cash deposits was insufficient at that time.

After the increased cost of a special assessment proceeding was explained at the first formal hearing, deposits were increased considerably.

COST HAS been estimated at about $40,000 if the whole project were done by private contract on a cash basis, and $60,000 if it is done by special asessment and payment is spread over a period of 10 years.

Members o fthe board anticipated that the special assessment portion would be cut substantially tonight, but that not all who have deposited money would be able to join the private contract effort since some might not be able to join the continuous section necessary.

Special assessment portion of the project would also involve an element of public benefit. or funds to be paid by the village, where it is necessary to cross under the railroad tracks to make connection with a feeder main.

Women Voters Seeking $800 to Finance Work

Arlington Heights League of Women Voters members are seeking $800to underwrite cost of their voter service projects.

The League, which passed out 4,000 registration reminders last week and this week is celebrating nationally-designated Women Voters Week, will start its finance drive Saturday, Sept. 19.

League members will be ringing doorbells and visiting offices until the $800 they need is raised.

"The $800 goal represents two-thirds of our year's budget," explained Mrs. Russell Gardner, president, "and we are asking businessmen, professional men and other citizens to help us raise it because we think the entire community benefits from the voter services we provide."

THE $800, Mrs. Gardner said, is used primarily for paper, printing and training aids, and League members themselves, contribute to it in addition to volunteering their time and paying dues.

"Although all our League work — at the state and national level, as well as here — is done by volunteers, the materials that we use must still be paid for," Mrs. Gardner said.

Funds to support League projects will not be sought by going door to door. Letters announcing the annual drive were sent out to possible contributors two weeks ago. They will be followed up by personal calls.

"In this community," explained Mrs. Ralph O. Waterhouse, finance chairman, "An average contribution is $5 and $10 is a sustaining contribution. But we welcome any amount — $1 or $2 as much as the $25 or $50 contributions that we also get."

MRS. Watrhous, a Mount Prospect resident, has as her vice chairmen Mrs. John Solon of Arlington Heights and Mrs. Frank Hines of Elk Grove Village. Her committee includes Mrs. Louis H. Nye Jr., Mrs. Donald Krezek, Mrs. Robert B. Bishop, Mrs. Bruce Bremberg of Mount Prospect and Mrs. R. J. Schlott.

Leaguers will kick off this year's finance drive with a coffee and assignment meeting Saturday, Sept. 19, at 9:30 a.m. in the Krezek home at 514 E. Hawthorne. They will visit homes on Saturday and make business and industry calls next week.

Drive captains include in addition to the committee, Mrs. Hal J. Cress, Mrs. Paul Richardson, Mrs. Stephen Caruso of Prospcet Hights, Mrs. Keith Atkins of Elk Grove Village, Robert E. Jacks, Mrs. Bruce Kelly, Mrs. George Sully, Mrs. Norman Soderstrom, Mrs. Frank Moore and Mrs. Gardner.

Serving as advisers for this year's finance drive are a men's advisory committee including Robert Bishop, Harold W. Klingner and Dr. Frank J. Psota of Arlington Heights, Charles Houchins and Sheldon Mells of Mt. Prospect, Joseph E. Lesniak of Prospect Heights, and Horace S. Villars and Robert Fleming of Elk Grove Village.

Baylor Praises Kerner's Record

David C. Baylor, Democratic candidate for the Illinois state senate from the 4th senatorial district, said last week that the record of Illinois' growing economy during the administration of Gov. Otto Kerner is "proof of leadership in the areas of economic growth and social action."

In a meeting for volunteer workers in Morton Grove, Gov. Kerner's economic achievements were detailed by Baylor, 29 year old Morton Grove attorney who studied economics while in undergraduate school at Butler University.

TERMING the record of the present governor "one of identification, decision, and action," Baylor cited these Kerner accomplishments since taking office in 1961:

—Formation of an "outstanding" citizens committee to study causes and solutions to unemployment;

—Creation of the board of economic development as "an economic sales department" for the state;

—Formation of a statewide council for foreign trade and encouragement to Illinois producers to seek new markets overseas; —Development of Illinois' natural and historical resources to attract out-of-state tourists.

Baylor said the results of Kerner's economic leadership can be seen in a "higher-than-ever personal income that reached $30 billion in 1963; a rise in employment rates adding to the total labor force, a "significant" decrease in unemployment rates adding to the total labor force, a "significant decrease in unemployment, and again in productivity that parallels one of the highest average industrial wage levels in the nation."

Annex Dedicated

Education Centennial Marked by St. Peter's

St. Peter Lutheran Church, 111 W. Olive, Arlington Heights, began the observance of its parochial education centennial year last Sunday with special dedicatory services.

A $270,000 education annex was dedicated during a 2 p.m. service with the Rev. Dr. W. W. Stuenkel, president, Concordia College, Milwaukee, as guest speaker.

The new addition is the home of the school's junior high department with five classrooms, a science-art room, a music-visual aids room and a faculty lounge.

Citizens Group Hears Case For Education Tax Increase

The case for an increase in the educational tax rate was presented by H. L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of High School District 214, to a group of Wheeling and Elk Grove Township citizens meeting at Arlington High School Sept. 9.

The 47 citizens represented the various villages and unincorpated areas of the townships in District 214 and had been invited to serve as members of a lay committee to study and make recommendations regarding a proposed referendum on the tax increase.

Slichenmyer pointed out to the committee that it had been seven and one-half years since the voters were asked for an increase in the educational tax rate and in the ensuing years, many school expenses have gone up, due primarily to the rapid rise in enrollment. This fall, final enrollment is expected to be 8,300 pupils in comparison with last year's $7,350, he said.

A tax increase is necessary, the superintendent said, if the district is to maintain its present educational program. The projected tax rate for the 1966-67 school year calls for five cents more than the district now is allowed to tax, according to Slichenmyer. The present tax levy is at the maximum legal rate of $1.17 per assessed valuation. (A $25,000 is assessed at approximately $10,000).

SLICHENMYER noted that the per pupil assessed valuation in District 214 has decreased over a period of years.

While a 21-cent increase would be requested in the referendum, the administration plans for the increase to be spread over another seven-year period. It is expected that five cents of the increase would carry the schools through the 1966-67 school year with two cents being added the following year.

Slichenmyer pointed out to the committee that further tax increases would be unnecessary if the state would provide a larger share of school costs. At the present time the state of Illinois provides nine per cent of school funds, including federal aid. Illinois aid to its public schools is one of the lowest in the United States.

The superintendent told the committee there wree two alternatives in case a referendum were not held or were unsuccessful. The Board of Education could resort to deficit spendin gusing tax anticipation warrants, a policy the board does not favor, he said. The present educational program could be curtailed as the alternative plan, he said, and listed 14 methods that might be employed.

AT THE meeting of the lay committee, officers were elected, including chairmen and vice chairmen for three subcommittees. They were: general chairman, William Casteel; vice chairman, Walter Strobel; Subcommittee to Study Curriculum Improvement: chairman, John Costello; vice chairman, Dr. Paul Heck; Public Report Subcommittee: chairman, David Lindsey; vice chairman, James Rohm; Election Subcommittee: chairman, E. Charles Alft; vice chairman, Mrs. Leah Lummins.

Several service clubs and parent-teacher organizations had representatives at the meeting, and 79 citizens in all have agreed to serve on the three subcommittees.

The Election Subcommittee held its first meeting Monday at the Arlington High library. The subcommittees on curriculum improvement and public report met last night (Wednesday) at the same location prior to the second meeting of the entire committee.

At the first committee meeting Sept. 9, there were five school board members and five school administrators present in addition to the 47 committee persons.

AFS Exchange Plan To Be Explained

A meeting is planned at Prospect High School in Mount Prospect next Tuesday to explain the Americans Abroad Program of the American Field Service.

At that time students interested in the program may submit their applications. Forms are available from James Gelhaar in Room 132 at the high school.

Scheduled to speak at the 8 p.m. meeting are Don Jernberg, Ralph Thompson and Nancy Bischoff, who recently returned from South America after participating in the foreign student exchange program.

APPLICATIONS will be processed by the Selection Committee of the Foreign Student Exchange Committee, made up of school personnel and adults in the community. The Selection Committee also will make home interviews.

The committee will then make its recommendations to the New York office of the AFS where the final decision will be made.

All interested persons are invited to attend Tuesday's meeting as the committee would like to increase its membership, according to Mrs. C. L. Rezner, publicity chairman. (ACM

AAUW Hears Views Of 3 Candidates

Political candidates of the two opposing parties asked to compare general party records, platforms and programs before the Arlington Heights branch of the American Association of University Women Sept. 10 did not ignore the opportunity to further their personal campaigns.

The candidates, Lynn A. Williams of Winnetka, Democratic candidate for 13th District U.S. Representative, and John W. Bickley of Mount Prospect, Republican candidate for Cook County State's Attorney, are both seeking to unseat incumbents in November.

Also on the Thursday evening program held at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn. was Eugene F. Schlickman, GOP candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives, who was asked to talk about the "bedsheet" at-large ballot for that body.

Schlickman, first on the rostrum, urged the audience to vote a straight ticket for the 118 candidates "of the party you support, Republican or Democratic," rather than the 177 selections possible by a split ticket.

IN ANSWERING to questioning, Schlickman said casting 59 votes on the best of the opposing party would "dilute the strength" of a straight ticket vote.

The Arlington Heights candidate also outlined three important issues which will face the general assembly in its next session — reapportionment, a new revenue article, and education and public assistance.

Bickley, second on the stand, launched directly into a discussion of his record, "the status of crime in Cook County," and his plans for revisions in the state's attorney's office.

WILLIAMS, also reviewing his background and qualifications, spoke on the federal level and praised the accomplishments of the Kennedy-Johnson administration.

But he also slapped at the voting record of his Republican opponent in the 13th District race, Rep. Donald Rumsfeld of Glenview.

The candidates' talks were followed by a question-and-answer session.

Arlingtones Seek State Title Again

The Arlingtones, last year's Illinois District champion barber shop chorus, will compete again for the same title this Saturday, Sept. 19, at the Illinois District SPEBSQSA convention and contests in Rock Island.

The Arlington Heights chapter of the barber shop singing organization represented the district last June in international competition, placing sixth among the top choruses from the United States and Canada.

LOCAL APPEARANCES included the group's regular show last November, a "San Antonio Special" show in May to finance their trip to the international contest, and several appearances at other chapters, institutional shows, community and charitable affairs.

In addition to the chorus contest, the Rock Island convention will feature a quartet contest for district championship in that division. The Foursome quartet, including Dick Reed, Len Klaproth, Vern Dohe and Bob Keck of the Arlingtones, will be an entry.

Earl Auge, who directed last year's championship effort, will continue this year as chorus director.

Committees Named

Citizens Group Hears Case For Education Tax Increase

The case for an increase in the educational tax rate was presented by H. L. Slichenmyer, superintendent of High School District 214, to a group of Wheeling and Elk Grove Township citizens meeting at Arlington High School Sept. 9.

The 47 citizens represented the various villages and unincorpated areas of the townships in District 214 and had been invited to serve as members of a lay committee to study and make recommendations regarding a proposed referendum on the tax increase.

Slichenmyer pointed out to the committee that it had been seven and one-half years since the voters were asked for an increase in the educational tax rate and in the ensuing years, many school expenses have gone up, due primarily to the rapid rise in enrollment. This fall, final enrollment is expected to be 8,300 pupils in comparison with last year's $7,350, he said.

A tax increase is necessary, the superintendent said, if the district is to maintain its present educational program. The projected tax rate for the 1966-67 school year calls for five cents more than the district now is allowed to tax, according to Slichenmyer. The present tax levy is at the maximum legal rate of $1.17 per assessed valuation. (A $25,000 is assessed at approximately $10,000).

SLICHENMYER noted that the per pupil assessed valuation in District 214 has decreased over a period of years.

While a 21-cent increase would be requested in the referendum, the administration plans for the increase to be spread over another seven-year period. It is expected that five cents of the increase would carry the schools through the 1966-67 school year with two cents being added the following year.

Slichenmyer pointed out to the committee that further tax increases would be unnecessary if the state would provide a larger share of school costs. At the present time the state of Illinois provides nine per cent of school funds, including federal aid. Illinois aid to its public schools is one of the lowest in the United States.

The superintendent told the committee there wree two alternatives in case a referendum were not held or were unsuccessful. The Board of Education could resort to deficit spendin gusing tax anticipation warrants, a policy the board does not favor, he said. The present educational program could be curtailed as the alternative plan, he said, and listed 14 methods that might be employed.

AT THE meeting of the lay committee, officers were elected, including chairmen and vice chairmen for three subcommittees. They were: general chairman, William Casteel; vice chairman, Walter Strobel; Subcommittee to Study Curriculum Improvement: chairman, John Costello; vice chairman, Dr. Paul Heck; Public Report Subcommittee: chairman, David Lindsey; vice chairman, James Rohm; Election Subcommittee: chairman, E. Charles Alft; vice chairman, Mrs. Leah Lummins.

Several service clubs and parent-teacher organizations had representatives at the meeting, and 79 citizens in all have agreed to serve on the three subcommittees.

The Election Subcommittee held its first meeting Monday at the Arlington High library. The subcommittees on curriculum improvement and public report met last night (Wednesday) at the same location prior to the second meeting of the entire committee.

At the first committee meeting Sept. 9, there were five school board members and five school administrators present in addition to the 47 committee persons.

AFS Exchange Plan To Be Explained

A meeting is planned at Prospect High School in Mount Prospect next Tuesday to explain the Americans Abroad Program of the American Field Service.

At that time students interested in the program may submit their applications. Forms are available from James Gelhaar in Room 132 at the high school.

Scheduled to speak at the 8 p.m. meeting are Don Jernberg, Ralph Thompson and Nancy Bischoff, who recently returned from South America after participating in the foreign student exchange program.

APPLICATIONS will be processed by the Selection Committee of the Foreign Student Exchange Committee, made up of school personnel and adults in the community. The Selection Committee also will make home interviews.

The committee will then make its recommendations to the New York office of the AFS where the final decision will be made.

All interested persons are invited to attend Tuesday's meeting as the committee would like to increase its membership, according to Mrs. C. L. Rezner, publicity chairman. (ACM

AAUW Hears Views Of 3 Candidates

Political candidates of the two opposing parties asked to compare general party records, platforms and programs before the Arlington Heights branch of the American Association of University Women Sept. 10 did not ignore the opportunity to further their personal campaigns.

The candidates, Lynn A. Williams of Winnetka, Democratic candidate for 13th District U.S. Representative, and John W. Bickley of Mount Prospect, Republican candidate for Cook County State's Attorney, are both seeking to unseat incumbents in November.

Also on the Thursday evening program held at Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn. was Eugene F. Schlickman, GOP candidate for the Illinois House of Representatives, who was asked to talk about the "bedsheet" at-large ballot for that body.

Schlickman, first on the rostrum, urged the audience to vote a straight ticket for the 118 candidates "of the party you support, Republican or Democratic," rather than the 177 selections possible by a split ticket.

IN ANSWERING to questioning, Schlickman said casting 59 votes on the best of the opposing party would "dilute the strength" of a straight ticket vote.

The Arlington Heights candidate also outlined three important issues which will face the general assembly in its next session — reapportionment, a new revenue article, and education and public assistance.

Bickley, second on the stand, launched directly into a discussion of his record, "the status of crime in Cook County," and his plans for revisions in the state's attorney's office.

WILLIAMS, also reviewing his background and qualifications, spoke on the federal level and praised the accomplishments of the Kennedy-Johnson administration.

But he also slapped at the voting record of his Republican opponent in the 13th District race, Rep. Donald Rumsfeld of Glenview.

The candidates' talks were followed by a question-and-answer session.

Arlingtones Seek State Title Again

The Arlingtones, last year's Illinois District champion barber shop chorus, will compete again for the same title this Saturday, Sept. 19, at the Illinois District SPEBSQSA convention and contests in Rock Island.

The Arlington Heights chapter of the barber shop singing organization represented the district last June in international competition, placing sixth among the top choruses from the United States and Canada.

LOCAL APPEARANCES included the group's regular show last November, a "San Antonio Special" show in May to finance their trip to the international contest, and several appearances at other chapters, institutional shows, community and charitable affairs.

In addition to the chorus contest, the Rock Island convention will feature a quartet contest for district championship in that division. The Foursome quartet, including Dick Reed, Len Klaproth, Vern Dohe and Bob Keck of the Arlingtones, will be an entry.

Earl Auge, who directed last year's championship effort, will continue this year as chorus director.

As has been their custom for past years, the Homer Nielsen family of 403 N. Brighton Place spent the entire summer at their cottage in Fox Lake. And again the Dodson family of Florida were the occupants at 403 while the Nielsens were away. Mr. Dodson is a horse trainer and always spends the summertime in Arlington during the racing season.

The two older Nielsen children, Scott, 11, and Teri Lee, 8, are telling their friends about the exciting trip they took to California, with their grandmother, Mrs. Chris Nielsen, also of Fox Lake. The trip started out glamorously for the youngsters — in that their train was the same one taking Liz Taylor and Richard Burton to the west coast. The Taylor entourage occupied an entire car, but as it had to be crossed to enter the diner, the Nielsens had great fun peeking at the movie celebrities.

Disneyland, Los Angeles, Yosemite, San Francisco and the Grand Canyon were all highlights of the trip, and even a case of mumps that Teri contacted didn't spoil the journey. Fortunately it wasn't too severe a case, and after a short confinement in the hotel, Teri was able to go on to Yosemite with the tour. While the older youngsters were gadding about with Grandma, the youngest Nielsen, Bee Gee, stayed with Mother and Dad in Fox Lake.

SEVERAL showers preceded the wedding of Caroline Neas. The day after the one given by Mrs. Pat Christofferson of Miner Street for neighborhood friends, Caroline was guest of honor at a family party at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Edward Schneider of Prindle Avenue. Cousins from Downers Grove, an aunt from Racine and aunts from Evanston, were among the 12 guests.

After the wedding at Our Savior's Lutheran Church on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Egar Neas entertained for 60 out-of-town guests and family members in their home at 201 N. Brighton Place. The beautiful late summer weather was perfect for the garden reception party.

THE ROBERT Luedekings and the Herman Raasches, with their children, spent the Labor Day weekend at the Luedeking's motel in Tulsa, Okla. Just plain relaxing after a busy summer was the program for the holiday while the young people, Peter and Susan Luedeking and Barbara and Bill Raasch, spent every available minute in the pool.

The G. M. Luedekings, Bob's folks, were also guests in Tulsa. They had been Arlington Heights visitors for several weeks and made the trip to Tulsa with the Luedekings en route to their home in St. Petersburg, Fla. This had been their first visit north in three years.

Other summertime guests in the Luedeking household were Louise's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hertting from Milwaukee, and their Tulsa motel partners' daughter, Kathie Pedersen, who visited here for several weeks.

JAN HAWLEY'S birthday on Sept. 10 wasn't marked with its usual celebration this year as her grandfather from Palatine entered Northwest Community Hospital for surgery on that day. He is recuperating nicely, so Olive and Bud took Saturday off from their round of hospital visits to take part in their last Kings and Queen's golf outing of the year at Rolling Green Country Club. After golf and dinner, an awards ceremony was held for the low scorers of the day.

Golfing being the favorite summer pastime for the Hawleys, they spent a relaxing last week in August in Marinette, Wis., doing just that along with vacation companions, Pat and Bob Buckley. (A

In August, they went on a camping trip east; it was their first experience in camping. They enjoyed visiting Washington, D. C., Virginia Beach and the Shenandoah Mountains.

Thursday Nancy Smith's mother, Mrs. George Meyers of Lombard, came to visit her and her new daughter, Mary Louise. The Smiths reside at 1259 N. Chicago.

Saturday night Bob and Dawn Jantz, 1302 N. Yale, along with Dawn's sister, Shirley Baumbeck of Chicago, gave a party in honor of Dawn and Shirley's brother, Tom Baumbeck and his fiance, Bette Kiesler, both of Chicago. Approximately 40 relatives and friends of the future bride and groom attended the celebration. Among the guests were Bette's mother and two sisters and members of the wedding party.

Returning from their Tennessee vacation on Labor Day were Bob and Kay Roden and daughter, Kathy, 1212 N. Illinois. They vacationed for five days in Chattanooga. FROM RIDGE PARK

Vacationers Dolores and Henry Bellito and their family are back at 833 N. Patton, but their enthusiasms about their recent three-week summer trip will continue to linger for some time. Although their original destination was San Diego, where they visited friends and relatives, they made the most of their tourist opportunities by stopping at many points of interest along the way. They especially enjoyed the three-day stay at Glacier Park Lodge in Montana, while in Washington they journeyed to Grand Coulee Dam and at Seattle dined at the Needlepoint Restaurant, remembered by many from the previous World's Fair. Also high on the list of enjoyable sightseeing were the redwood forests in California; Knott's Berry Farm; Disneyland and the Wax Museum at Anaheim.

Susan Delia was born last year on Sept. 11, a little too eager to wait until her dad's birthday Sept. 18. Sunday Susan's parents, Paul and Dianne Delia, celebrated their daughter's first birthday at a barbecue at 632 N. Salem. Attending were Susan's godparents from Niles and Chicago; grandparents, the senior Paul Delias of Niles and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gorsko of Des Plaines, and an uncle, Dennis Delia.

AMONG THE early departees for college was Jean Cameron, who left Sept. 6 to begin her junior year at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. Jean, a member of Alpha Phi Sorority, departed early to be on campus in time for "rush week." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cameron, 926 N. Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Korte of Fremont, Neb., arrived this week to visit their sons and families in Ridge Park. They will be staying with the Loren Kortes, 821 N. Harvard, and the Robert Kortes, 1011 N. Princeton.

A welcome goes to David and Kay Knight and their son, Craig, who recently moved to 809 N. Patton from Highland Ave. David is employed by the Arlington Heights Post Office. Sailing is his recreation choice during the summer months. He is a member of St. John United Church of Christ and Kay is a member of Faith Lutheran Church.

Tommy Stevens, 13 Sept. 11, had his birthday timed just right to coincide with the Beatles movie that arrived in town last week. One guess is all that's necessary as to where he chose to celebrate that day. Foraging their way through the crowded theatre with him (and reportedly enjoying every minute of it) were Tommy's guests, Gary Braunsreuter and Mike Pecoraro. Joining them afterward for pizza at the Richard Stevens household, 736 N. Kennicott, was another friend, Jack Karpin.

BUSINESS WAS combined with pleasure when Lee and Joanne Nelson traveled to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to attend the recent National Convention of Attorneys. The Greenbrier offered perfect facilities for swimming, golfing and "easy living." Ideal babysitters at 935 N. Fernandez while the couple was away were Karin and Janet's grandmothers, Mrs. Frances Johnson of Park Ridge and Mrs. Leroy Nelson of Lincolnwood.

Saturday brought an evening out for David and Sandy Yates, 1015 N. Harvard. They joined friends for dinner at Martinque Restaurant and then attended the Drury Lane production of "Take Her, She's Mine" with Forrest Tucker.

Bobbie Buechner, 1012 Fernandez, left last weekend for her freshman year at Western Illinois University in Macomb. Since she will be at college for her 18th birthday, Sept. 17, the event was prematurely celebrated Sept. 9 at a dinner party given by her parents, Robert and Laverne Buechner.

The William Randles, 832 N. Kaspar, are back from a week's trip to Missouri. With them were Carl and Bernice Randle of Melrose Park and Nelson Randle of Centralia. They visited the Randle brothers' sister, Marguerite and her husband, Robert Catlett in Springfield, and other relatives in St. Louis. Home for a weekend visit with his parents was Scott, who has begun classes at Wisconsin State College in Whitewater.

Carol Anne Robertson, Sept. 10, marked the occasion by sharing treats with her kindergarten classmates and then was the "special girl" at a family party. Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson, 1007 N. Fernandez.

FROM SHERWOOD

Lake of the Ozarks was the vacation choice for Mrs. Caroline Rohan, 1114 N. Patton, and her children, Nancy and Rick, during their recent two-week trip. They also visited members of Caroline's family in St. Louis and returned to Arlington with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Simon. The Simons will leave the Rohan home this Thursday.

Stephen Colvin, son of Mrs. Mary Colvin, 1319 Watling Road, will enter the University of North Carolina Sept. 18 as a law student. He is a June graduate of Washington and Lee University, Lexington. Va. Steve is presently in Florida on a business trip for his aunt, Miss Bonnie Colvin, and will fly from Miami this weekend to begin his classes at the Chapel Hill school.

THE ROGER Cotters, 1025 Watling, are home from a month's vacation east. Much of their time was spent in renewing acquaintances with friends in Gloucester and Needham, Mass., where the Cotters formerly lived. They also were at Caspian Lake in Vermont for a 10-day stay. Roger is temporarily "golfed out," but like all avid pursuers of the sport he will soon be ready to again join the ranks on the fairways.

Some cold and rainy weather arrived at Ball Lake, Canada, about the time that Robert and Dorothy Blackburn flew in from Kenora, but weather didn't hinder their enjoyment of an otherwise wonderful week's stay at Barney's Lodge. As for fishing, Dorothy did just fine with the 14 pound northern that she landed. Walleyes were also biting well, and the Blackburns caught a number of them. It was while at Ball Lake that the couple received the news that they were grandparents once more. Back home in Arlington Heights a daughter was born to James and Kay Blackburn.

MRS. PAUL Fellingham was in Cleveland recently to visit her cousins, Dr. and Mrs. A. J. O'Brien. After returning from there the Fellinghams joined friends, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Paulson, and went to Ephraim in Door County, Wis. Golfing, fishing and resting had their stamp of approval, but it was too chilly for swimming comfort.

Janice Rademacher became a collegian this week as she entered Western Illinois University. Janice's parents, Wilbur and Lucille Rademacher of 1105 N. Princeton, returned from Macomb Monday. (A

As has been their custom for past years, the Homer Nielsen family of 403 N. Brighton Place spent the entire summer at their cottage in Fox Lake. And again the Dodson family of Florida were the occupants at 403 while the Nielsens were away. Mr. Dodson is a horse trainer and always spends the summertime in Arlington during the racing season.

The two older Nielsen children, Scott, 11, and Teri Lee, 8, are telling their friends about the exciting trip they took to California, with their grandmother, Mrs. Chris Nielsen, also of Fox Lake. The trip started out glamorously for the youngsters — in that their train was the same one taking Liz Taylor and Richard Burton to the west coast. The Taylor entourage occupied an entire car, but as it had to be crossed to enter the diner, the Nielsens had great fun peeking at the movie celebrities.

Disneyland, Los Angeles, Yosemite, San Francisco and the Grand Canyon were all highlights of the trip, and even a case of mumps that Teri contacted didn't spoil the journey. Fortunately it wasn't too severe a case, and after a short confinement in the hotel, Teri was able to go on to Yosemite with the tour. While the older youngsters were gadding about with Grandma, the youngest Nielsen, Bee Gee, stayed with Mother and Dad in Fox Lake.

SEVERAL showers preceded the wedding of Caroline Neas. The day after the one given by Mrs. Pat Christofferson of Miner Street for neighborhood friends, Caroline was guest of honor at a family party at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Edward Schneider of Prindle Avenue. Cousins from Downers Grove, an aunt from Racine and aunts from Evanston, were among the 12 guests.

After the wedding at Our Savior's Lutheran Church on Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Egar Neas entertained for 60 out-of-town guests and family members in their home at 201 N. Brighton Place. The beautiful late summer weather was perfect for the garden reception party.

THE ROBERT Luedekings and the Herman Raasches, with their children, spent the Labor Day weekend at the Luedeking's motel in Tulsa, Okla. Just plain relaxing after a busy summer was the program for the holiday while the young people, Peter and Susan Luedeking and Barbara and Bill Raasch, spent every available minute in the pool.

The G. M. Luedekings, Bob's folks, were also guests in Tulsa. They had been Arlington Heights visitors for several weeks and made the trip to Tulsa with the Luedekings en route to their home in St. Petersburg, Fla. This had been their first visit north in three years.

Other summertime guests in the Luedeking household were Louise's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hertting from Milwaukee, and their Tulsa motel partners' daughter, Kathie Pedersen, who visited here for several weeks.

JAN HAWLEY'S birthday on Sept. 10 wasn't marked with its usual celebration this year as her grandfather from Palatine entered Northwest Community Hospital for surgery on that day. He is recuperating nicely, so Olive and Bud took Saturday off from their round of hospital visits to take part in their last Kings and Queen's golf outing of the year at Rolling Green Country Club. After golf and dinner, an awards ceremony was held for the low scorers of the day.

Golfing being the favorite summer pastime for the Hawleys, they spent a relaxing last week in August in Marinette, Wis., doing just that along with vacation companions, Pat and Bob Buckley. (A

Vacationers Dolores and Henry Bellito and their family are back at 833 N. Patton, but their enthusiasms about their recent three-week summer trip will continue to linger for some time. Although their original destination was San Diego, where they visited friends and relatives, they made the most of their tourist opportunities by stopping at many points of interest along the way. They especially enjoyed the three-day stay at Glacier Park Lodge in Montana, while in Washington they journeyed to Grand Coulee Dam and at Seattle dined at the Needlepoint Restaurant, remembered by many from the previous World's Fair. Also high on the list of enjoyable sightseeing were the redwood forests in California; Knott's Berry Farm; Disneyland and the Wax Museum at Anaheim.

Susan Delia was born last year on Sept. 11, a little too eager to wait until her dad's birthday Sept. 18. Sunday Susan's parents, Paul and Dianne Delia, celebrated their daughter's first birthday at a barbecue at 632 N. Salem. Attending were Susan's godparents from Niles and Chicago; grandparents, the senior Paul Delias of Niles and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gorsko of Des Plaines, and an uncle, Dennis Delia.

AMONG THE early departees for college was Jean Cameron, who left Sept. 6 to begin her junior year at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio. Jean, a member of Alpha Phi Sorority, departed early to be on campus in time for "rush week." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cameron, 926 N. Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Korte of Fremont, Neb., arrived this week to visit their sons and families in Ridge Park. They will be staying with the Loren Kortes, 821 N. Harvard, and the Robert Kortes, 1011 N. Princeton.

A welcome goes to David and Kay Knight and their son, Craig, who recently moved to 809 N. Patton from Highland Ave. David is employed by the Arlington Heights Post Office. Sailing is his recreation choice during the summer months. He is a member of St. John United Church of Christ and Kay is a member of Faith Lutheran Church.

Tommy Stevens, 13 Sept. 11, had his birthday timed just right to coincide with the Beatles movie that arrived in town last week. One guess is all that's necessary as to where he chose to celebrate that day. Foraging their way through the crowded theatre with him (and reportedly enjoying every minute of it) were Tommy's guests, Gary Braunsreuter and Mike Pecoraro. Joining them afterward for pizza at the Richard Stevens household, 736 N. Kennicott, was another friend, Jack Karpin.

BUSINESS WAS combined with pleasure when Lee and Joanne Nelson traveled to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., to attend the recent National Convention of Attorneys. The Greenbrier offered perfect facilities for swimming, golfing and "easy living." Ideal babysitters at 935 N. Fernandez while the couple was away were Karin and Janet's grandmothers, Mrs. Frances Johnson of Park Ridge and Mrs. Leroy Nelson of Lincolnwood.

Saturday brought an evening out for David and Sandy Yates, 1015 N. Harvard. They joined friends for dinner at Martinque Restaurant and then attended the Drury Lane production of "Take Her, She's Mine" with Forrest Tucker.

Bobbie Buechner, 1012 Fernandez, left last weekend for her freshman year at Western Illinois University in Macomb. Since she will be at college for her 18th birthday, Sept. 17, the event was prematurely celebrated Sept. 9 at a dinner party given by her parents, Robert and Laverne Buechner.

The William Randles, 832 N. Kaspar, are back from a week's trip to Missouri. With them were Carl and Bernice Randle of Melrose Park and Nelson Randle of Centralia. They visited the Randle brothers' sister, Marguerite and her husband, Robert Catlett in Springfield, and other relatives in St. Louis. Home for a weekend visit with his parents was Scott, who has begun classes at Wisconsin State College in Whitewater.

Carol Anne Robertson, Sept. 10, marked the occasion by sharing treats with her kindergarten classmates and then was the "special girl" at a family party. Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson, 1007 N. Fernandez.

FROM SHERWOOD

Lake of the Ozarks was the vacation choice for Mrs. Caroline Rohan, 1114 N. Patton, and her children, Nancy and Rick, during their recent two-week trip. They also visited members of Caroline's family in St. Louis and returned to Arlington with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Simon. The Simons will leave the Rohan home this Thursday.

Stephen Colvin, son of Mrs. Mary Colvin, 1319 Watling Road, will enter the University of North Carolina Sept. 18 as a law student. He is a June graduate of Washington and Lee University, Lexington. Va. Steve is presently in Florida on a business trip for his aunt, Miss Bonnie Colvin, and will fly from Miami this weekend to begin his classes at the Chapel Hill school.

THE ROGER Cotters, 1025 Watling, are home from a month's vacation east. Much of their time was spent in renewing acquaintances with friends in Gloucester and Needham, Mass., where the Cotters formerly lived. They also were at Caspian Lake in Vermont for a 10-day stay. Roger is temporarily "golfed out," but like all avid pursuers of the sport he will soon be ready to again join the ranks on the fairways.

Some cold and rainy weather arrived at Ball Lake, Canada, about the time that Robert and Dorothy Blackburn flew in from Kenora, but weather didn't hinder their enjoyment of an otherwise wonderful week's stay at Barney's Lodge. As for fishing, Dorothy did just fine with the 14 pound northern that she landed. Walleyes were also biting well, and the Blackburns caught a number of them. Families Settle Down to Busy Fall Routines

The last of the vacationers are homeward bound and families are settling down to a more normal, but busy routine. There has been the usual flurry of excitement of sending college sons and daughters off to their respective schools and in getting the younger ones back to their local classes.

Sidelights readers will miss Dorothy Meyer's looked-forward-to copy this week as Mrs. Meyer spent the weekend in Montague, Mich. where she attended the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Frances Heinrich. Readers and the staff at Paddock Publications extend sympathies to Mrs. Meyer and her family.

The Gordon Zwissler family, 114 S. Brighton, is fast decreasing to its school year size as their eldest son, Douglas, after enjoying his 3 week vacation between summer school and his senior year at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo, Calif. flies west this week. Their second son, Bruce, flew back to California Labor Day, for his second year at Chaffey College.

Things could be a little lonely for Carol, an eighth grader at Minor Junior High, and Jim, a senior at Prospect High School, if it were not for Steve Kast, whose family moved to Ohio this summer. Steve will live with the Zwisslers while finishing his senior year at Notre Dame High School in Niles.

Earlier this month, the Zwisslers were hosts to a houseful of out-of-town guests. Her sister, Mrs. Phillip Johnson, and three of her daughters arrived Sept. 3, while enroute from their former home in Tucson to their new home in Charleston, W. Va. The two sisters had not seen each other for three years and enjoyed having three weeks together.

Their brother, George Thomson of Lake Bluff, and his wife and four children came to Arlington Heights on several occasions to add to the fun. A double birthday celebration was held Sept. 3 for the mutual birthdays of Mrs. Johnson and her niece, Miss Nellie Marie Thomson of Lake Bluff.

ALSO VISITING the Zwisslers at the same time as the Johnsons, were Mr. Zwissler's parents, the John A. Zwisslers of Ontario, Calif., and his sister, Miss Ruth Zwissler of Alhambra, Calif. They were on their way home from a 3-week fishing trip to Flathead Lake, Montana. While they were here they visited friends and relatives in Chicago and Gary, and spent a day at the races.

Highlight of their visit was just being here for the Gordon Zwisslers' silver wedding anniversary Sept. 6. A family dinner at home, ending with a special anniversary cake was the order of that day. On Labor Day morning, the California Zwisslers left for home, but there was still cake and candles on the menu for Bruce Zwissler, who marked his 19th birthday Labor Day, before flying back to school.

Bob itchell, son of the senior Robert E. Mitchells, 330 S. Gibbons, arrived home Tuesday after spending 12 weeks touring Europe on a motor scooter. Bob will enter the University of Illinois next week as a freshman.

The Sherwood Goslees, 122 S. Brighton, are back home after a month in the East visiting both their parents, the senior Goslees in Manchester, Conn., and the Fred G. Slawsons in West Hartford. They spent 10 days in Chatham, on Cape Cod, and then went to New York to visit friends and to see the New York World's Fair.

THE STEPHEN Jurcos, 217 S. Windsor, and son Stevie, spent six weeks vacationing in the East sharing a cottage on Lake Mohawk in New Jersey with her sister and family, Dr. and Mrs. Peter Lucchesi and their two children. During their stay, they motored to Gettysburg for a tour of historic points.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, 1305 Woodford, spent the weekend in Davenport visiting long-time friends, the R. A. Davises.

The Warren Klines of Stonegate moved to their new home in Deerfield last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McClure gave a family dinner party Monday to celebrate the second birthday of their daughter, Carole Jeanne. The McClures moved from Stonegate to an apartment in Mount Prospect recently, to stay just till their new home in north Arlington Heights is ready.

Clifford Macaulay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvan Macaulay, 428 S. Windsor, was feted at a family dinner Sept. 11, to mark his 18th birthday. Clifford left for Tempe, Ariz. the following day to begin his freshman year in the College of Education at Arizona State University.

Miss Lyn ohnson returned to Denison University Friday for her sophomore year after spending a week vacationing in Washington D. C. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. A. J. Johnson, 309 S. Stratford, and her aunt, Mrs. Fred Daun of Rhinelander, Wis. The trip to Washington D. C. was especially interesting to Miss Johnson, as she is majoring in Political Science. Besides extensive sightseeing, in which they had a private tour of the White House, Miss Johnson was permitted to sit in on Senate sessions for three days.

THE W. H. CARNSES, 106 S. Stratford, spent the past three weeks on a business and pleasure trip through the New England states. A visit to the New York World's Fair was included in their travels.

Mrs. James Kindelin, 202 S. Gibbons, and her four children are back home after spending the summer at their summer home in Delavan, Wis.

The John Haberstrohs, 1207 Mayfair, look forward to visits from friends they knew while living in Australia. Last Saturday they welcomed Mrs. Paul A. Gygax, who now lives in Sioux City, Iowa, for a weekend visit.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sutton, 627 S. State, went to East Orange, N. J., for the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. Sutton's parents, the senior James Suttons. An open house and reception was held Sept. 5, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Tordel in West Orange. Co-hosts inncluded two other daughters, Mrs. Betty Mueller and Mrs. John Maier of Rochester, N. Y., as well as the Suttons from Arlington Heights. Nine grandchildren attended.

A nuptial anniversary mass was celebrated the following day and was officiated by Mrs. Sutton's cousins, Msgr. Leo Mahoney of Jersey City and Rev. Thomas Grant of Hackensack, N. J., in Our Lady Help of Christians Church in East Orange, which was followed by a breakfast.

BEFORE returning home, the Suttons took their daughter, Shelley, to New York with them for a visit to the Fair.

THE WILBUR Daeschners, 310 Mayfair, returned home last Friday from a 3-week motor trip to Washington D. C. and Williamsburg, after which they motored north along the eastern seaboard to Maine. They stopped in New Canaan, Conn. to spend a weekend with former Scarsdale neighbors, the John Sickels.

Mrs. Norman R. Kellogg, 534 S. Dryden, will perhaps be the envy of her antique collecting friends. Last weekend, while she and Mr. Kellogg were visiting friends in Peoria, they spent an afternoon browsing through an antique shop and it was there that she came across her prize, a small chair dating back to 1850. She is anxiously looking forward to restoring the chair for her own living room.

Another hobby the Kelloggs enjoyed during their stay in Peoria, was skeet shooting with their hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lesh, 437 S. Pine, spent the past 10 days vacationing at Lake Tippecanoe, Ind. They were accompanied by their daughter, Lucy, and son, John, and joining them for the weekend were Scarsdale friends, the Fred Halls, who had just returned from a vacation at Boothbay, Me.

Mrs. Lesh was among members of the Sherwood Golf League, who attended the annual end of the golf season luncheon Thursday at the Evergreens in Dundee.

MRS. WILLIAM G. Heddesheimer, 443 S. Lincoln, and her three daughters, Suzanne, Sally and Barbara, came home last weekend from a 3-week motor trip in the East. They spent a week in Philadelphia visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Boyd, visited friends in Ocean City, N. J., Bronxville and New York City, spent several days at the New York Fair, toured Boston, and went to Falmouth on Cape Cod to rest and relax for awhile before coming home.

Paul Gustitus, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gustitus, 400 S. Dryden left for Champaign Sunday to begin his freshman year at the University of Illinois, where he will study industrial engineering. He pledged Delta Tau Delta fraternity.

Newcomers to Stonegate are the Robert Hankels who moved to 1605 Kensington Sept. 3 from Mount Prospect. They are parents of five children, Kenneth, 16, Bob, 17, Ron, 12, Susan, 6 and Ricky, 4 months. Mr. Hankel and his father are owners of Hankel's Florists on Chicago's north side.

Mrs. James Leftwich, her son, John, and daughter, Mary, came back to Arlington Heights for a visit after an absence of 19 years. The former Arlington Heights residents, who have been living in Las Vegas, were houseguests of her aunt, Miss Adeline Muller, 500 N. Pine.

THE EDWARD WEBERS of N. Dunton were in Chicago Sunday to attend a reception in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Ebert.

An anniversary mass was said for them Sept. 8, their wedding day, at St. Ferdinand's Catholic church of Chicago, which was followed by breakfast at the Ebert home for family members. Included at the breakfast were their two other daughters and their families, the Matthias Herberts and the Alfred Sieberts of Chicago, and a dozen close friends.

Sunday, an open house and buffet supper for 200 friends and relatives was held in the American Legion hall in Chicago. Out-of-town guests coming to the reception were the groom's cousins, the Frank Wolters of Hammond, Ind., whom they have not seen for 17 years.

Friends of the George F. Nuernbergers, formerly of 740 S. Beverly Lane, will be sorry to hear that Mr. Nuernberger died Sept. 12 in his California home. While living here Mr. Nuernberger was a member of the Arlington Heights Lions Club. He was employed as a safety engineer for A. B. Dick Co. before moving from Arlington Heights in 1958. (A

APPENDICITIS IS STILL A KILLER

Despite all our wonder drugs, a neglected acute appendicitis is as deadly as it was fifty years ago. The average hospital admits 19 appendicitis cases a month.

They are difficult for even a physician to diagnose. Symptoms are similar to acute indigestion. Vomiting and diarrhea may occur. Pain may become unbearable. If you ever have such symptoms which do not soon go away, never take a laxative which can cause the appendix to burst, throwing its poison into the system. Instead call your physician. Notes from Arlington Acres

Marie Marshall CLearbrook 5-2936

When the Robert Robinsons of Wheeling, who just bought the Lynn Lemons home at 504 S. Prindle, move in later in the month, Mrs. Robinson will not be a total stranger, thanks to Joan Lemons, who hosted a morning coffee Thursday to introduce her to some of her new neighbors. Happy to be invited to meet Gail and to enjoy Joan's hospitality were Betty Kunz, Charlotte Hermanson, Betty Jenko, Virginia Smith, Jackie Schneider, Louise Johnson and Marie Marshall.

The sympathy of friends and neighbors is extended to the Robert Runge family, 525 S. Phelps, on the death of Bob's 96-year-old grandmother, Mrs. Alvina Runge, one of the oldest residents of Arlington Heights.

Among the June graduates of area high schools who are now at home on campuses around the country is Gary Cook, son of the Don Cooks, 525 S. Forrest. He left Sept. 8 for the University of Wisconsin at Madison, where he is enrolled in the engineering school.

GAIL MINER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miner, 421 S. Gibbons, has enrolled in an art course at the Chicago Art Institute in conjunction with the University of Chicago, which will lead to a bachelor of arts degree.

Carol Hinchliff, daughter of Mrs. R. Dale Hinchliff, 428 S. Forrest, returned to the campus of Carroll College at Waukesha, Wis., Sunday as a member of the senior class. Carol, who recently celebrated her 21st birthday, took with her many happy memories of a vacation trip through the Great Smoky Mountains with her mother, which was part of her birthday gift.

On the day itself, Sept. 6, she was guest of honor at a family dinner at home, where she was wished the best by her grandmother, Mrs. Martha Matthews, and aunts, uncles and cousins, including the Don Cooks of Arlington Acres and the John Finches of Northbrook.

Dick Smith, son of the Richard Smiths, 517 S. Prindle, left for Ames, Iowa, over Labor Day weekend to start his senior year at Iowa State. Dick is working toward a degree in electrical engineering.

Rip Van Sky, son of the senior Rip Van Skys, 1915 E. Grove, flew to Dallas Sunday, then took a bus to Denton, Tex. where he is enrolled as a freshman at North Texas State College. A phone call home Sunday evening assured his parents of his safe arrival.

BEST WISHES for a speedy recovery go to Mrs. Arvid Alvin, 513 S. Phelps, who has been in traction in Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, for the past 10 days. Jan is in room 300.

A favorite vacation spot for Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, 424 S. Waterman, is Las Vegas. They returned Saturday from their fourth trip there in three years, having spent a week at the Hacienda while visiting the casinos and night spots and seeing most of the shows.

Before starting their trip, the Williamses had been joined by friends in celebrating their Aug. 28 wedding anniversary by having dinner at the Show Boat Lounge and a nightcap at the Gaslight Club.

For Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, 537 S. Prindle, the end of summer was as bustling as the early part. After waving goodbye to the Charles Hugenguglers of Philadelphia, old friends who had been their houseguests for several days, the Burnses prepared to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rosa of Miami, Fla.

Former Chicagoans, the Rozas have not been back for five or six years, and the week they spent here passed too quickly to get caught up on "home" news.

THE ONLY REGRET Mr. and Mrs. Burns felt was that their guests could not stay to help them celebrate their 39th wedding anniversary, Sept. 12, an event they observed by dining out and attending the theatre.

When the Kenneth Sealock family, 521 S. Prindle, boarded a jet at O'Hare recently, it was to fly to Tampa and then on to San Juan for a week's vacation. However, they hadn't reckoned on "Dora" whose appearance changed their plans. Instead of going to San Juan, Ken, Mary Lu and their daughters, Deanna and Jennifer, spent the week in Tampa, relaxing and sightseeing. Among the highlights of the stay was a visit to Cypress Gardens.

The family returned in time to hold a quiet celebration for Deanna's 15th birthday, Sept. 5, but too late to plan a formal party.

NANCY ASHBROOK, 416 S. Forrest, was guest of honor at a party Sunday to celebrate her fourth birthday. Her sisters, Janie and Susan assisted their mother, Mrs. Dexter Ashbrook, in serving refreshments and supervising games for Nancy's friends, Scott Kunz, Susan Gryzik, Mark Bayuk, Lori Spagnoli, Lisa Morgan and Darrell and Kevin McGuire.

Steve Brunsfeld's birthday conveniently coincided with Labor Day this year, giving him an entire holiday to celebrate being 11. A family dinner was given by his parents at which he was congratulated by his brother, Mike, sisters, Susan and Gail, and grandparents, the O. T. Kettlers of Chicago. Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brunsfeld, 416 S. Phelps.

When Sept. 1 rolls around, the Robert Swaim family, 512 S. Waterman, prepares to celebrate two big events, their wedding anniversary and their son, David's birthday.

This year David and his sister, Shelly, were taken to lunch and the movies in the afternoon by their mother. In the evening the celebration of David's seventh birthday continued on a grander scale with the arrival of Grandpa and Grandma Swaim of Evanston, for dinner topped by birthday cake and ice cream.

BECAUSE THEY believe that an anniversary calls for a more elaborate celebration, the senior Swaims took Bob and Joann to Don the Beachcombers for dinner the following Saturday to mark their eighth anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hermanson, 437 S. Forrest, received congratulations on their 17th wedding anniversary Sept. 6. To mark the event, Gust and Charlotte, accompanied by their children, Greta and Mark, had dinner out and took in a movie.

Bobby Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Thompson, 508 S. Phelps, was guest of honor at a family picnic Labor Day Sunday to mark his Sept. 10 birthday. Guests were his grandmother, Mrs. Matie Eklund of Evanston, and a host of aunts, uncles and cousins. The 8-year-old had such a good time that he suggested a second party the following Sunday for guests unable to attend the affair at Fox River Grove. His parents fell in line with the suggestion and gave a dinner at home Sunday for Grandpa and Grandma Thompson and other family members, as well as several friends.

The Dinner-of-the-Month Club enjoyed the last of its summertime steak cook-outs Sept. 5, before resuming the custom of dining out together monthly. The get-together was held on the patio at the Howadd Schulzes' in Des Plaines, and dessert, usually omitted, was a decorated cake in honor of the Frank Marshalls' 28th wedding anniversary. Other guests were the Al Mays and the Roy Stoehrs of S. Prindle.

FOR SOME TIME a feeling of bustling activity has been present in the Lyle Longrie home, 429 S. Forrest, because they have been getting ready for their son, Chuck's arrival home on leave from Laughlin AFB in Del Rio, Tex. Wednesday of last week Chuck arrived and the feeling in the air is now one of excitement because they are preparing for Chuck's wedding to Sandra Udey this Thursday. Ten-year-old Marcia is particularly happy because she has been asked to be flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNulty, 412 S. Prindle, had a sixth wedding anniversary Sept. 13, which they marked quietly at a cook-out Sunday shared by their children, Tommy, Michael and Danny.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Briscoe, 433 S. Forrest, celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary quietly at home. (A

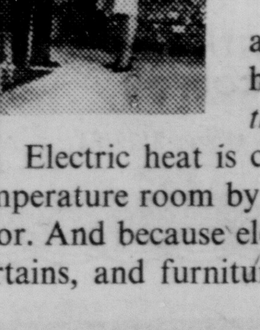
"When I install electric heat I guarantee low operating cost"

Harold Hensley, President of Hensley Electric Company, Chicago Heights



Harold Hensley's company has made more than 600 electric heat installations since 1958—and right now, Mr. Hensley is installing electric heat in another 628 homes under construction!

"Electric heat has really come of age," he says—and he backs up his conviction by offering to guarantee the monthly heating cost on every one of these homes.

Today, by helping supervise construction from the outset, Public Service Company applies vast experience to the solution of each new building problem. Moreover, electric heat is now a better buy than ever, because electric heat rates today are 50% lower than they were in 1958!

Electric heat is clean, safe, the most comfortable heat by far. Separate thermostats let you control the temperature room by room, in every room—for Mom in the kitchen, Dad in his shower, Baby playing on the floor. And because electric heat burns no fuel, there's nothing to create dirt, dust, and fumes. Walls, ceilings, curtains, and furniture stay clean longer. There's little or no maintenance.

If you'd like more information about electric heat—the only really modern heat—please call your nearest Public Service Company office.

Families Settle Down to Busy Fall Routines

The last of the vacationers are homeward bound and families are settling down to a more normal, but busy routine. There has been the usual flurry of excitement of sending college sons and daughters off to their respective schools and in getting the younger ones back to their local classes.

Sidelights readers will miss Dorothy Meyer's looked-forward-to copy this week as Mrs. Meyer spent the weekend in Montague, Mich. where she attended the funeral of her mother, Mrs. Frances Heinrich. Readers and the staff at Paddock Publications extend sympathies to Mrs. Meyer and her family.

The Gordon Zwissler family, 114 S. Brighton, is fast decreasing to its school year size as their eldest son, Douglas, after enjoying his 3 week vacation between summer school and his senior year at Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo, Calif. flies west this week. Their second son, Bruce, flew back to California Labor Day, for his second year at Chaffey College.

Things could be a little lonely for Carol, an eighth grader at Minor Junior High, and Jim, a senior at Prospect High School, if it were not for Steve Kast, whose family moved to Ohio this summer. Steve will live with the Zwisslers while finishing his senior year at Notre Dame High School in Niles.

Earlier this month, the Zwisslers were hosts to a houseful of out-of-town guests. Her sister, Mrs. Phillip Johnson, and three of her daughters arrived Sept. 3, while enroute from their former home in Tucson to their new home in Charleston, W. Va. The two sisters had not seen each other for three years and enjoyed having three weeks together.

Their brother, George Thomson of Lake Bluff, and his wife and four children came to Arlington Heights on several occasions to add to the fun. A double birthday celebration was held Sept. 3 for the mutual birthdays of Mrs. Johnson and her niece, Miss Nellie Marie Thomson of Lake Bluff.

ALSO VISITING the Zwisslers at the same time as the Johnsons, were Mr. Zwissler's parents, the John A. Zwisslers of Ontario, Calif., and his sister, Miss Ruth Zwissler of Alhambra, Calif. They were on their way home from a 3-week fishing trip to Flathead Lake, Montana. While they were here they visited friends and relatives in Chicago and Gary, and spent a day at the races.

Highlight of their visit was just being here for the Gordon Zwisslers' silver wedding anniversary Sept. 6. A family dinner at home, ending with a special anniversary cake was the order of that day. On Labor Day morning, the California Zwisslers left for home, but there was still cake and candles on the menu for Bruce Zwissler, who marked his 19th birthday Labor Day, before flying back to school.

Bob itchell, son of the senior Robert E. Mitchells, 330 S. Gibbons, arrived home Tuesday after spending 12 weeks touring Europe on a motor scooter. Bob will enter the University of Illinois next week as a freshman.

The Sherwood Goslees, 122 S. Brighton, are back home after a month in the East visiting both their parents, the senior Goslees in Manchester, Conn., and the Fred G. Slawsons in West Hartford. They spent 10 days in Chatham, on Cape Cod, and then went to New York to visit friends and to see the New York World's Fair.

THE STEPHEN Jurcos, 217 S. Windsor, and son Stevie, spent six weeks vacationing in the East sharing a cottage on Lake Mohawk in New Jersey with her sister and family, Dr. and Mrs. Peter Lucchesi and their two children. During their stay, they motored to Gettysburg for a tour of historic points.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hall, 1305 Woodford, spent the weekend in Davenport visiting long-time friends, the R. A. Davises.

The Warren Klines of Stonegate moved to their new home in Deerfield last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter McClure gave a family dinner party Monday to celebrate the second birthday of their daughter, Carole Jeanne. The McClures moved from Stonegate to an apartment in Mount Prospect recently, to stay just till their new home in north Arlington Heights is ready.

Clifford Macaulay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvan Macaulay, 428 S. Windsor, was feted at a family dinner Sept. 11, to mark his 18th birthday. Clifford left for Tempe, Ariz. the following day to begin his freshman year in the College of Education at Arizona State University.

Miss Lyn ohnson returned to Denison University Friday for her sophomore year after spending a week vacationing in Washington D. C. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. A. J. Johnson, 309 S. Stratford, and her aunt, Mrs. Fred Daun of Rhinelander, Wis. The trip to Washington D. C. was especially interesting to Miss Johnson, as she is majoring in Political Science. Besides extensive sightseeing, in which they had a private tour of the White House, Miss Johnson was permitted to sit in on Senate sessions for three days.

THE W. H. CARNSES, 106 S. Stratford, spent the past three weeks on a business and pleasure trip through the New England states. A visit to the New York World's Fair was included in their travels.

Mrs. James Kindelin, 202 S. Gibbons, and her four children are back home after spending the summer at their summer home in Delavan, Wis.

The John Haberstrohs, 1207 Mayfair, look forward to visits from friends they knew while living in Australia. Last Saturday they welcomed Mrs. Paul A. Gygax, who now lives in Sioux City, Iowa, for a weekend visit.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sutton, 627 S. State, went to East Orange, N. J., for the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. Sutton's parents, the senior James Suttons. An open house and reception was held Sept. 5, at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Thomas Tordel in West Orange. Co-hosts innculded two other daughters, Mrs. Betty Mueller and Mrs. John Maier of Rochester, N. Y., as well as the Suttons from Arlington Heights. Nine grandchildren attended.

A favorite vacation spot for Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, 424 S. Waterman, is Las Vegas. They returned Saturday from their fourth trip there in three years, having spent a week at the Hacienda while visiting the casinos and night spots and seeing most of the shows.

Before starting their trip, the Williamses had been joined by friends in celebrating their Aug. 28 wedding anniversary by having dinner at the Show Boat Lounge and a nightcap at the Gaslight Club.

For Mr. and Mrs. George Burns, 537 S. Prindle, the end of summer was as bustling as the early part. After waving goodbye to the Charles Hugengulers of Philadelphia, old friends who had been their houseguests for several days, the Burnses prepared to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Michael Rosa of Miami, Fla.

Former Chicagoans, the Rozas have not been back for five or six years, and the week they spent here passed too quickly to get caught up on "home" news.

THE ONLY REGRET Mr. and Mrs. Burns felt was that their guests could not stay to help them celebrate their 39th wedding anniversary, Sept. 12, an event they observed by dining out and attending the theatre.

When the Kenneth Sealock family, 521 S. Prindle, boarded a jet at O'Hare recently, it was to fly to Tampa and then on to San Juan for a week's vacation. However, they hadn't reckoned on "Dora" whose appearance changed their plans. Instead of going to San Juan, Ken, Mary Lu and their daughters, Deanna and Jennifer, spent the week in Tampa, relaxing and sightseeing. Among the highlights of the stay was a visit to Cypress Gardens.

The family returned in time to hold a quiet celebration for Deanna's 15th birthday, Sept. 5, but too late to plan a formal party.

NANCY ASHBROOK, 416 S. Forrest, was guest of honor at a party Sunday to celebrate her fourth birthday. Her sisters, Janie and Susan assisted their mother, Mrs. Dexter Ashbrook, in serving refreshments and supervising games for Nancy's friends, Scott Kunz, Susan Gryzik, Mark Bayuk, Lori Spagnoli, Lisa Morgan and Darrell and Kevin McGuire.

Steve Brunsfeld's birthday conveniently coincided with Labor Day this year, giving him an entire holiday to celebrate being 11. A family dinner was given by his parents at which he was congratulated by his brother, Mike, sisters, Susan and Gail, and grandparents, the O. T. Kettlers of Chicago. Steve is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brunsfeld, 416 S. Phelps.

When Sept. 1 rolls around, the Robert Swaim family, 512 S. Waterman, prepares to celebrate two big events, their wedding anniversary and their son, David's birthday.

This year David and his sister, Shelly, were taken to lunch and the movies in the afternoon by their mother. In the evening the celebration of David's seventh birthday continued on a grander scale with the arrival of Grandpa and Grandma Swaim of Evanston, for dinner topped by birthday cake and ice cream.

BECAUSE THEY believe that an anniversary calls for a more elaborate celebration, the senior Swaims took Bob and Joann to Don the Beachcombers for dinner the following Saturday to mark their eighth anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Gust Hermanson, 437 S. Forrest, received congratulations on their 17th wedding anniversary Sept. 6. To mark the event, Gust and Charlotte, accompanied by their children, Greta and Mark, had dinner out and took in a movie.

Bobby Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Thompson, 508 S. Phelps, was guest of honor at a family picnic Labor Day Sunday to mark his Sept. 10 birthday. Guests were his grandmother, Mrs. Matie Eklund of Evanston, and a host of aunts, uncles and cousins. The 8-year-old had such a good time that he suggested a second party the following Sunday for guests unable to attend the affair at Fox River Grove. His parents fell in line with the suggestion and gave a dinner at home Sunday for Grandpa and Grandma Thompson and other family members, as well as several friends.

The Dinner-of-the-Month Club enjoyed the last of its summertime steak cook-outs Sept. 5, before resuming the custom of dining out together monthly. The get-together was held on the patio at the Howadd Schulzes' in Des Plaines, and dessert, usually omitted, was a decorated cake in honor of the Frank Marshalls' 28th wedding anniversary. Other guests were the Al Mays and the Roy Stoehrs of S. Prindle.

FOR SOME TIME a feeling of bustling activity has been present in the Lyle Longrie home, 429 S. Forrest, because they have been getting ready for their son, Chuck's arrival home on leave from Laughlin AFB in Del Rio, Tex. Wednesday of last week Chuck arrived and the feeling in the air is now one of excitement because they are preparing for Chuck's wedding to Sandra Udey this Thursday. Ten-year-old Marcia is particularly happy because she has been asked to be flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McNulty, 412 S. Prindle, had a sixth wedding anniversary Sept. 13, which they marked quietly at a cook-out Sunday shared by their children, Tommy, Michael and Danny.

Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Briscoe, 433 S. Forrest, celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary quietly at home. (A

Williams Praises Small Businesses

Lynn A. Williams of Winnetka, Democratic candidate for U.S. Congress in the 13th District, pledged himself to seeking a better break for small business.

Williams, president of Anocut Engineering Co. in Elk Grove Village said:

"Small business needs a better break.

"I have been an executive of a big buiness, and I have been through the hard school of starting a small business.

"THIS COUNTRY needs both. The contributions of big business are well known. But small business is important too. It stimulates new ideas, many of which are later copied by big business.

"Equally important, it creates a spirit of personal individual liberty and individual enterprise.

"But small business has become too precarious. Eighty per cent of all small businesses fail within five years.

"The 1964 tax cut of the Kennedy - Johnson Administration, which my Republican opponent voted against, has been good for small business. It has helped directly by reducing taxes. It has been even more important in maintaining general economic growth.

"BUT I FAVOR a further change in the tax laws to permit new small businesses to accumulate needed capital more rapidly and also to reduce the income tax rate on earnings of less than $50,000 annually. This change must give incentive to the actual building of business and not to manipulation or speculation.

"By helping small business we maintain a better balance between large and small business and keep the advantages of both."

Williams is running against incumbent Rep. Donald Rumsfeld. (B10

15-Home Project Cut to 6

Gnarled Oaks subdivision, planned as a 15-home development at the northwest corner of Wheeling and Willow roads in Prospect Heights, has been reduced at least temporarily to six homes by the Cook County Health Department.

The developer, Dr. Keith Wurtz, came before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last week seeking approval of a revised subdivision plan made necessary because the land is within 1½ miles of the village limits.

HE EXPLAINED that the northern portion of the proposed subdivision was too low to support the septic systems planned for the residential development, and that plans were vetoed by the health department until the land could be filled.

Nine lots at the north side of the plot were turned into one large lot for subdivision purposes, and five other lots on the south facing Willow Road remained intact.

Mrs. Lohse Elected by Church Choir

The Senior Choir of Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Euclid and Wolf Roads, elected Mrs. Kenneth Lohse of Mount Prospect as president for the 1964-65 choir season. Mrs. Laverne Woods of Wheeling remains as secretary.

Mrs. Lohse steps into the place vacated when the former president, Conrad Grundke of Des Plaines, was transferred to California.

The Senior Choir, the oldest organization of Grace Lutheran Church, is directed by Mrs. Vern Hipwell of Wheeling and accompanied at present by Mrs. Arlyn Hedin of Des Plaines. The choir sings every Sunday at the 11 a.m. Worship Service.

Grace Church is looking for an organist for the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. Anyone interested in being interviewed for the position is asked to call Dan Bergsma, chairman of the worship and music committee, at 392-0779. (ACM

Conservationists Discuss Plantings

A tree planting program for the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District was discussed at the meeting of district directors in Lake Zurich last week.

A list of conifer and hard wood seedlings available for planting from the State Department of Conservation was given the board. Order blanks, price lists and information on tree planting machines will be available at the Soil Conservation Service office in Lake Zurich.

The directors named Keith Chidley of Palatine to attend the tour of the Northeast Illinois Lane Council at Belvidere Thursday, Sept. 24.

FRANK WOLLNEY, board chairman, informed the directors that he had received information about release of prairie chickens in the Crabtree Forest Preserve site on Stover Road in Barrington. The Forest Preserve District is attempting to re-establish the prairie chicken in this area, one of the last strongholds of the wildlife fowl in northeastern Illinois.

Wollney reminded sportsmen and hunters that the prairie chicken resembles the pheasant, but it is illegal to shoot the prairie chicken.

Wollney and William Brough, also a conservation district director, were scheuled to attend a water resources development conference this week with Clifton Wishau and Elmer E. Offerman, soil conservationists. (B-10

Arizona Diggin's

Student Back from Archeological Camp

by DOROTHY MEYER

When John Zilen returned to Arlington High School this week he could say, "Arizona, I 'dig' you the most," and really know what he was talking about. He's one of only seven high school and college students in the United States who spent 10 weeks of the summer at an archeological work camp in Vernon, Ariz. They dug Arizona, most of the time.

John is the high school senior son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Zilen, 438 S. Banbury, and he's always been interested in archeology and anthropology. Last February he had an interview with Dr. Paul S. Martin, curator of anthropology at the Museum of Natural History in Chicago. John wanted first-hand information on how to prepare for a career in archeology, hoping too that he might get a job at the museum for the summer. Dr. Martin invited him to Arizona instead.

JOHN CAME home about two weeks ago, tan and tired, but more interested than even in archeology. "Little did I realize where that interview last February was going to lead," he said in telling about the work he and the crew had done. They worked six hours a day, five days a week, then worked some more on weekends, washing and cataloging the artifacts they'd found during the week.

Among the most exciting discoveries was a house, possibly the oldest ever to be unearthed in North America. To get a date from the ruins, all the charcoal found with it must have a carbon-14 test. John says the results are not in yet, and until they are he'll be doing his school work and everything else with crossed fingers.

He's going back to Arizona next year, John hopes, and he's keeping his fingers crossed about that, too.

'Telephone Pioneers' Give Helping Hand to Charities

By HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

A light blinks on an old switchboard and a mentally retarded boy makes the connection—hesitantly at first, more surely later.

A blind girl's fingers skim lightly over the lines in a Braille storybook. She chuckles in delight. She's reading. She's alive.

In both cases, the Gateway Chapter of the "Telephone Pioneers of America" have come to the aid of charitable projects in the northwest suburbs.

Related to the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the Gateway Chapter has one community-service project a year for the suburbs it covers.

"We have no set boundaries," says W. W. Kruse, past president of the chapter and presently chairman of the life member (retired personnel) committee. "It runs roughly from Lake Michigan on the east to Barrington, north to Libertyville and south to Elk Grove Village."

Because of the size of the area, the pioneers don't just limit themselves to one charitable act a year, though, when they complete their community-service project.

In addition to the major program, there are other things to be accomplished.

"We have quite a number of girls who type Braille in the spare time at home," explains Kruse. "Sometimes, someone wants a page or two of the telephone directory in Braille, which they'll do. They've also typed storybooks for the Hadley School for the Blind in Evanston."

To perform this task, the pioneers purchased six machines for typing Braille, but sometimes the company is called on to lend aid.

Donald Becker, director of Little City, a home for mentally-retarded children in Palatine at Algonquin and Roselle Roads, had asked the pioneers for an outdated switchboard to teach the children telephone procedure.

"We wrote a letter to the company, asking for the old switchboards," says Kruse. "At the same time, we got some old wall phones to go with them."

Prior to installing the board last year, though, the pioneers modified the jacks (plugs).

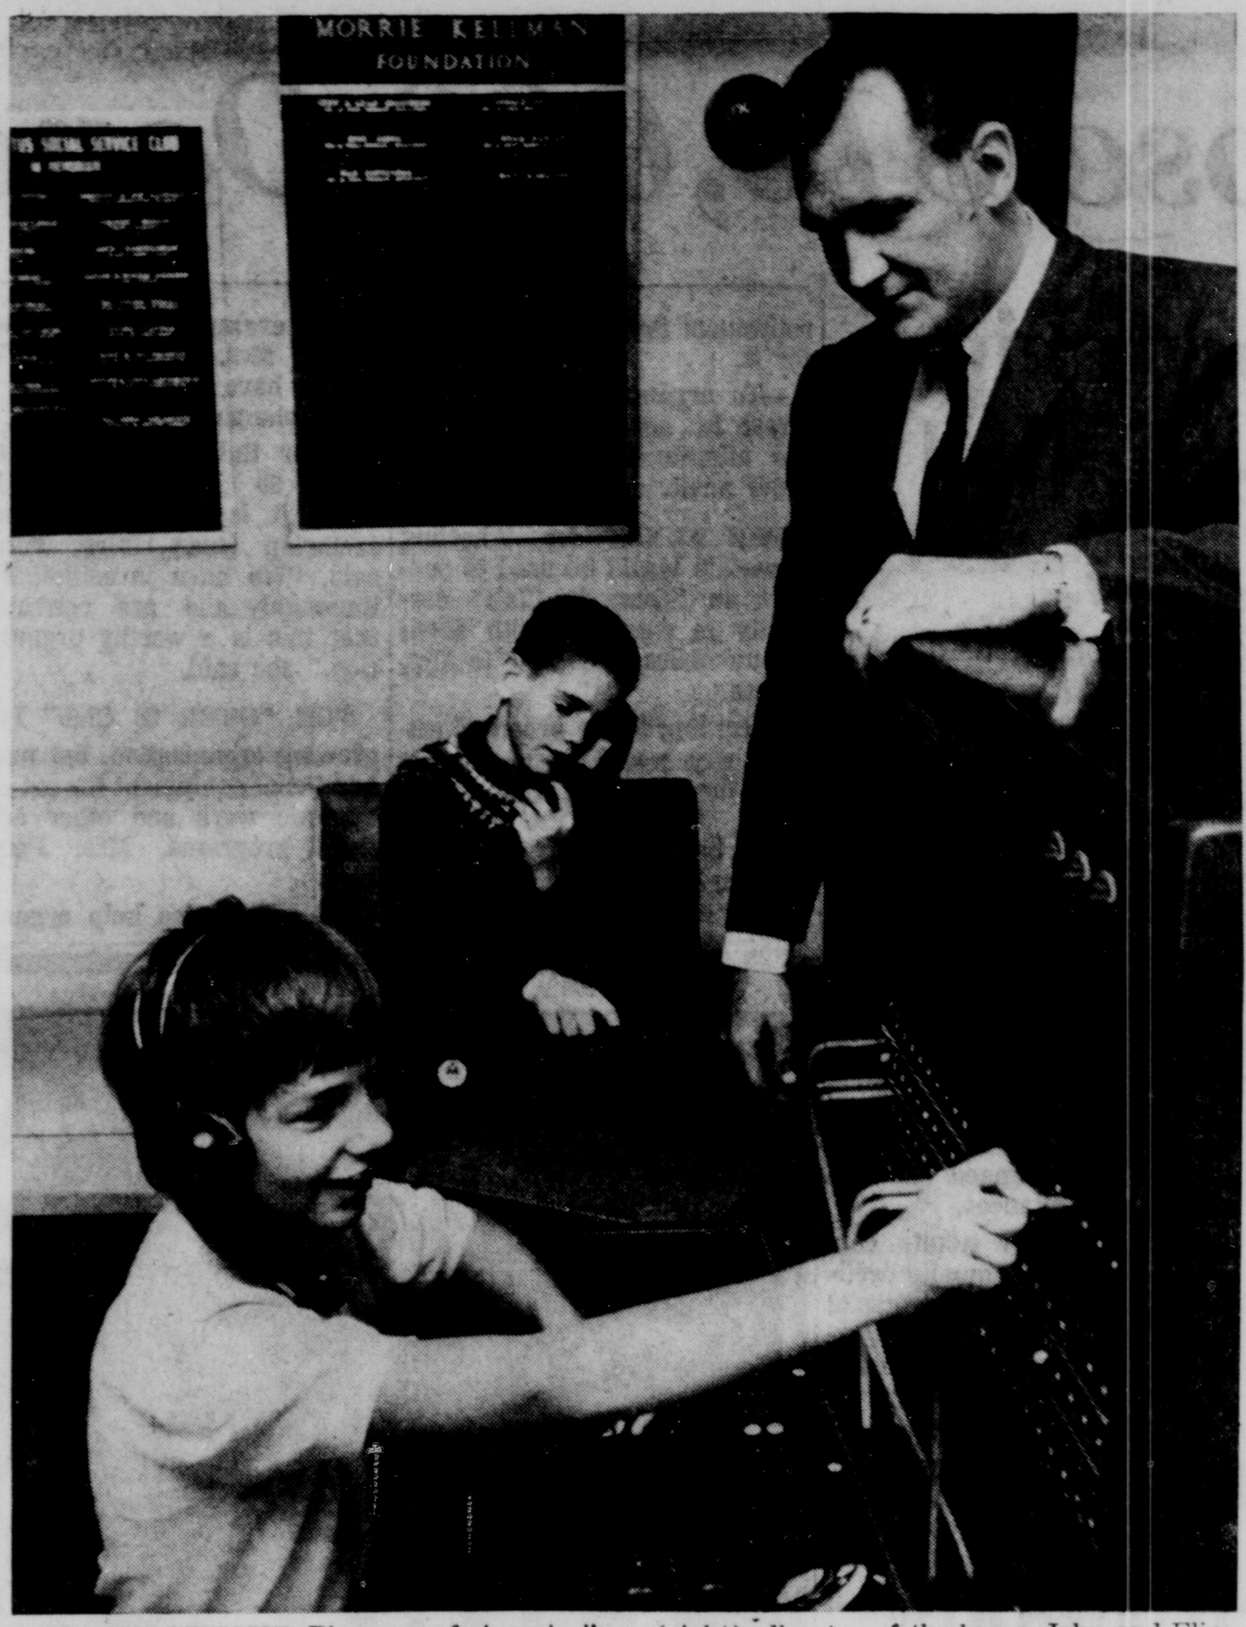
"We made them a little larger," explains Kruse, who lives at 222 Vine St., Park Ridge. "This made it easier for a child to grasp the jack and plug it in. The children learn to follow the light and connect the two phones."

During the switchboard planmaking, Kruse and Becker worked out a plan for the pioneers' community-service project that year.

"Becker told me that he needed a fence because one supervisor couldn't adequately watch the children when they were at play," Kruse states. "We decided to put up a five-foot cyclone fence for Little City then."

"We got the fence at cost from a company," explains Kruse, "and spent two Saturdays working on it."

"Of course," he adds, "no one had ever put up a fence before."



"THE TELEPHONE Pioneers of America" installed this switchboard system at Little City, a home for mentally-retarded children in Palatine, at the request of Donald Becker (right), director of the home. John and Elizabeth, the children using the system, are learning communication procedure. (A15

Little City has expressed need for additional help, continues Kruse, and may again be selected as the community-service project for the pioneers this year.

Among other things, Kruse said there was an indication from Little City of a need for observation rooms and "speakers of a special type."

Becker, meanwhile, says he's pleased with the results of the switchboard. "It teaches the children how to communicate. It's been very effective."

Although realizing no cash profits on it, the switchboard business has been active for the pioneers. In addition to Little City, the group has installed boards in the Park Ridge Retarded Day School and in the Countryside School for Retarded Children at Lake Zurich.

"We also had a big book drive recently for the Evanston Community Hospital and boys' schools downstate," says Kruse.

In addition to all of its other activities, the pioneers carry through their desire for communication in the case of mute persons who use larynx machines to speak.

"We repair anywhere from 20 to 30 a year in the northwest suburbs," Kruse states. "Like our work with the blind, we do this in our spare time at home."

The pioneers will "go out and pick up the larynx machines," he adds.

The chapter, with 170 life members and 470 active, also conducts a drive to collect old jewelry, which is then melted down. "The gold is sold then to get money for the needy," adds Kruse.

With all of this emphasis on charity, the pioneers, however, don't neglect their own members. Kruse right now is in the process of making a new directory of retired employes in Illinois, which lists everything from the year they retired to their hobbies, which are broken down into a unique code system.

"We don't want them to feel forgotten," he says, "so we send out birthlay and Christmas cards. We also have a special luncheon for them in May of every year."

To qualify for membership in the pioneers, an employe of the company has to be with them at least 21 years, Kruse states.

"We have no set boundaries in our council," he continues, "but, roughly, Lake Michigan is the eastern boundary, Barrington's the western, Libertyville's the northern and Elk Grove Village's the southern."

There's a lot of charitable projects in that area. Ask any pioneer. (A15

Special Township Meeting Is Called

by BEN BURNS
Staff Writer

A special Wheeling Township meeting Tuesday will focus on the needs of elderly citizens of the township.

The Arlington Heights Woman's Club, represented by Mrs. Albert C. Peters, will ask the electors to approve up to $10,000 a year in surplus township funds to be set aside for a community activity center for senior citizens.

Mrs. Peters, wife of the township supervisor, said her group hopes the electors, by a two-thirds majority approval of the proposal, will be taking a precedent-setting action for the entire northwest suburban area.

If approved, th funds would be designed to fulfill a six-fold purpose, under state statute, Mrs. Peters said.

THESE INCLUDE:

—To decrease the sense of isolation and dependence which often accompanies old age.

—To enrich the social and intellectual life of older adults.

—To help older adults meet practical problems attendant on aging such as health, diet, adjustment to changed circumstances and finances.

—To help older adults contribute to the community well-being as effective and useful citizens.

—To help persons approaching retirement to appropriately plan for it.

—To organize community interest in generally improving the climate of living for the older adult.

THE FUNDS for Wheeling Township would be used to support an "Over 50 Club" currently in existence with about 200 members, according to Mrs. Peters.

According to the proposed set-up, there would be no dispute over the administration of the funds because the oldsters would be responsible for handling the finances themselves.

"We hope that this can only be an example to other townships," Mrs. Peters said. "We would have clubs similar to this," she said.

Under the state statute, the "Over 50 club" qualifies because it is a non-profit, non-sectarian group, Mrs. Peters said. "We have investigated it thoroughly and are convinced that this is a worthy organization." she said.

THE "OVER 50 Club" is a growing organization, but needs additional equipment for art and ceramic work and other additional programs, Mrs. Peters said.

"It would also help organize additional clubs such as bowling and golf or anything else for the benefit of the senior citizen,' she said.

"There is a possibility of providing our own buildings for the "Over 50 Club," she said. The Arlington Heights group currently meets in park district facilities in Pioneer and Recreation parks, she said.

women than men in the club," women than emn in the club," he said. "But the men are coming in and there is a very nice relationship and harmony in the group.

THE MEN would like to have a place where they could meet and watch television and smoke, which would just be for men, and the women would like to see that they have such a place," Mrs. Peters said.

Mrs. Peters said there is no definite figure on the numbers of citizens over 50-years-old in the northwestern suburbs, but pointed out it is an ever increasing number because of increased health and medical knowledge, and therefore an increasing problem for suburban society. (A15

Suburb Supplement For Frozen Foods

Suburban newspapers are being included for the first time in the nation-wide National Frozen Food Association promotion that is spotlighting its multi-million dollar advertising campaign, "National Buy Time" Month.

Radio, TV, and daily newspapers are also incuded in the promotion covering all varieties of frozen foods.

The National Frozen Food Association is placing a 12-page color supplement in 77 suburban newspapers with 500,000 circulation in the Chicago area.

The supplement is incuded with this week's editions of all 15 Paddock Publications newspapers.

THE SUBURBAN advertising schedule was handled by the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc. Executive Director Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights, voiced his confidence in the pulling power of the suburban papers:

"We feel confident that the more than 100 frozen food packers participating in this massive sales effort will reap the reward of sound judgment reflected in selecting the suburban papers to carry their messages to more than a half million potential customers."

Hayes added that the foundation's research indicates that one-third of the nation's family population now lives in the suburbs and that by 1970, 60 per cent of these upper income families will have moved to the suburbs.

Eleven other midwestern states are included in the ad promotion. (A15

Arlington Greens

The September meeting of Arsociation will be held in the Willington Greens Community Asliam Smits home, 1137 N. Douglas, Tuesday, Sept. 22, at 8 p.m. All residents are invited.

Last call for Greens round robin bridge. Those wishing to join this group may call the Don Helblings, CL 3-8279 by Friday, Sept. 18.

New residents in the Greens are Edward and Christine Farnan at 1156 N. Hickory. The couple and their children, Valerie, 6, Tamara, 4, Edward III, 3, and month-old Heather, moved into their new home Labor Day weekend from Birmingham, Mich. Mr. Farnan is a sales engineer with Vickers, Inc. in Bensenville.

A motor trip east was the vacation choice for Mr. and Mrs. James Otis of N. Beverly Lane and niece, Miss Paula Schmidt of Wildwood. Camping along the way, they toured upstate New York, visited Niagara Falls, down through part of New England and saw the sights in New York City. More sightseeing was on the agenda. In Washington, D. C., they visited John F. Kennedy's grave at Arlington and then headed for historic Williamsburg and surrounding Virginia tourist treats. A day or two more of camping as they headed homeward ended their 11-day holiday.

HOUSEGUESTS in the Milton Walberg home on East Oakton the latter part of August were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Walberg of Detroit Lakes, Minn. Their five-day visit was the first since their son and family moved here last spring.

San Juan, Puerto Rico on Sept. 1 was a transfer point for John and Steve Heyer who boarded a jet for the remainder of their trip home to O'Hare and Arlington Heights. Seeing them off was their hostess, Mrs. Roger Moran in whose Virginia Island home the boys had visited during the summer months. Mrs. Moran remained at the airport to greet her returning daughters, Roberta and Janet who visited in the States during their summer vacation and were guests in the John Heyer home on East Clarendon. Part of their holiday was a two-week stay with the Heyer girls, Connie and Debbie at Camp Kroehler near Hayward, Wis.

Highlight of their stay in the Virgin Islands for the Heyer boys were celebrating John's 16th birthday and his travels as cabin boy on a craft touring the Caribbean area.

With the children happily occupied, Mr. and Mrs. Heyer chose the latter part of August for their holiday; a motor trip to upper New York and the St. Lawrence River. A week of wandering in the Thousand Lakes summer resort area, fishing, sunning and sightseeing filled the travel time. While back east they stopped to visit friends, Mr. and Mrs. William Huber of Syracuse. Labor Day weekend found the Heyer household intact again.

DINNER GUESTS in the Don Helbling home on E. Clarendon Sunday were grandparents, the A. F. Helblings and Mrs. Bessie Ducey who motored in from their Spring Grove and Richmond homes for the day's visit.

A pre-school holiday for the Fred Mensch family of East Oakton was a four-day stay at Starved Rock Lodge. Riding horseback, boat trips, hiking and their first airplane ride filled their four day Labor Day weekend. Joining them was the John Wrenn family of Rolling Meadows.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Averill of North Hickory motored to Milwaukee for a weekend visit with friends, Bob and Janet Biersach, and to help conduct a model airplane contest they were sponsoring.

A motor trip to their North Hickory home on Sunday ended a weekend visit for the Forest Saemrow family. They were guests in the Hartford City, Ind. home of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Beloga. The families were former neighbors in St. Paul.

HICKORY MEADOWS

Labor Day weekend holiday for the Ted Kries family of North Douglas was in Wisconsin's resort area of Door County. Joining them for the end of summer trip were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kries, a brother and family of Huntley.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Nagorny of East Marion were among the 27 guests at the wedding breakfast at the Elks Club for daughter Diane and Jeffrey Johnson of Mount Prospect. (A

Full Program Offered By Christian Church

(Another in a series of articles on the aims and activities of member organizations of the Arlington Heights Community Council.)

"A friendly church, a church where everyone is welcomed." This is a frequent comment of visitors to the Christian Church of Arlington Heights located at the corner of Thomas and Mitchell Streets.

The Christian Church of Arlington Heights was established in 1958 by several interested church families with the guidance and support of the Chicago Disciples Union. Worship services were held and a Sunday Church School began functioning, using the facilities of Miner Junior High School.

Dr. Orvis Jordan, 80-year-old indefatigable veteran minister, author, civic worker, became the organizing minister. Under his leadership, church membership grew at a steady pace.

IN 1960, a full-time minister, Rev. Donald L. Jones, was called, and a parsonage acquired at 306 N. Stratford. In 1962, the present church building at 333 W. Thomas was erected, to be occupied in January, 1963.

With the growth of the congregation, two Sunday morning worship services became necessary, one at 8:30, the other at 10:45, with church school at 9:45.

The Christian Church is affiliated with the Disciples of Christ, one of the largest Protestant communions in the United States. Christian churches recognize the right of the individual to think for himself in matters of faith. There are no set statements which must be accepted for membership, only a common belief and acceptance in Jesus as Christ.

Members are received into the church by transfer from another church or by affirmation of faith. A pastor's class is held each year for young teenagers desiring baptism.

ONE OF THE church's ideals is Christian unity, and it participates in the work of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago and the National and World Council of Churches.

The local congregation governs its own affairs through the official board, headed by Thomas Fennell, 621 S. Chestnut, chairman; Joseph Bryson, 1620 N. State, vice-chairman; Mrs. P. (Betty) Peterson, 1111 Juniper, Mount Prospect, secretary; Herbert Atkins, 1308 W. Park, financial secretary; and Ben Lockhart, 606 E. Clarendon, treasurer.

The work of the church is carried out through eight functional departments: Christian education, worship, stewardship, membership, world outreach, Christian action, property and evangelism. Each member of the church serves on one of these functional department committees to help in the planning and carrying out of worthwhile programs.

A vital Sunday church school program enrolls 200 pupils under the tutelage of 27 teachers. Classes are held for children from age 2 through high school. There are also a class for young adults of college age, two adult discussion classes, and one adult class which follows the regular lesson plan. A class for young married people is planned in the near future.

TEAM teaching is used in classes through fifth grade. In sixth grade and above, male teachers are employed. Training programs for teachers are held to constantly improve the excellence of Christian education offered. An observation-practice school is being planned for November.

Both adults, and children's choirs offer opportunity to participate to those who love music. Adult choir practice, under the direction of Joseph Bryson and Joseph Barthel, 830 S. Dunton, is held on Wednesday evenings. Choir practice for children in first through sixth grades is directed by Mrs. Carlyle (Gloria) Daniel, 1703 N. Kennicott, and is held on Friday afternoons after school.

The Christian Women's Fellowship seeks to develop the personal life of women through study, worship and service. Their work is not only in the local church, but extends to the community and to mission projects throughout the world. The fellowship is divided into four circles, which meet monthly at the homes of the members. Mrs. Donald (Julia) Walsh, 905 N. Mitchell, is the president.

The Christian Youth Fellowship, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hughes, 406 N. Williams, Palatine, provides opportunities for young people of high school age for service, worship and fellowship.

CHI RHO offers similar activities for the junior high age group. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hanks, 2125 Spruce, Des Plaines, are the sponsors. Both groups meet regularly at the church on Sunday evenings.

Minister of the church, Rev. Donald Jones, is a graduate of Phillips University, where he received his A.B. and B.D. degrees. He has also done graduate work at the University of Chicago. He has served formerly as assistant minister and minister at churches in Kansas and in Chicago. He was recently elected president of the Chicago Disciples Union. Rev. Jones resides at the parsonage with his wife and two children. (A

New Pastor Preaches at E.U.B. Church

A new pastor, the Rev. L. Dean Miller, was welcomed by the congregation of the Church of our Lord, Evangelical United Brethren, at a reception and installation services last Sunday.

THE NEW PASTOR preached his first service in the Arlington Heights church, 1426 S. Roosevelt Rd., Sept. 6. The four-year-old congregation now totals about 40 members.

Rev. Miller lives at the church address with his wife and four children. (A

Arrives in Taiwan As English Tutor

Rick Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Johnston, 532 S. Banbury, Arlington Heights, arrived in Taichung, Taiwan (Formosa), last week to begin two years as an English tutor at Tunghai University.

Johnston, whograduated from Princeton in June, is being sponsored in the overseas service by Princeton in Asia, an alumni group, and the United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia.

Faculty Presented To Windsor PTA

Annual presentation of Windsor School faculty members was made by Joseph Beacom, principal of Windsor School, at the Parent-Teacher Association meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Beacom introduced each teacher, made a few comments about the present school year and presented a short program of slides taken in Europe this past summer by two faculty members, Miss Miller, a second grade teacher, and Miss Pagani, fourth grade teacher.

The theme adopted by Windsor PTA for the 1964-65 school year is "Values and Today's Child." A variety of activities have been scheduled in keeping with this theme.

IN NOVEMBER there will be a combined PTA meeting with Miner and Kennsington Schools featuring Dr. Preston Bradley. in anuary the traditional buzz sessions will treat "Values and Today's Child" as their subject. In March a member of the FBI will speak on today's values.

A class for young married people is planned in the near future.

TEAM teaching is used in classes through fifth grade. In sixth grade and above, male teachers are employed. Training programs for teachers are held to constantly improve the excellence of Christian education offered. An observation-practice school is being planned for November.

Both adults, and children's choirs offer opportunity to participate to those who love music. Adult choir practice, under the direction of Joseph Bryson and Joseph Barthel, 830 S. Dunton, is held on Wednesday evenings. Choir practice for children in first through sixth grades is directed by Mrs. Carlyle (Gloria) Daniel, 1703 N. Kennicott, and is held on Friday afternoons after school.

The Christian Women's Fellowship seeks to develop the personal life of women through study, worship and service. Their work is not only in the local church, but extends to the community and to mission projects throughout the world. The fellowship is divided into four circles, which meet monthly at the homes of the members. Mrs. Donald (Julia) Walsh, 905 N. Mitchell, is the president.

The Christian Youth Fellowship, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hughes, 406 N. Williams, Palatine, provides opportunities for young people of high school age for service, worship and fellowship.

CHI RHO offers similar activities for the junior high age group. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hanks, 2125 Spruce, Des Plaines, are the sponsors. Both groups meet regularly at the church on Sunday evenings.

Minister of the church, Rev. Donald Jones, is a graduate of Phillips University, where he received his A.B. and B.D. degrees. He has also done graduate work at the University of Chicago. He has served formerly as assistant minister and minister at churches in Kansas and in Chicago. He was recently elected president of the Chicago Disciples Union. Rev. Jones resides at the parsonage with his wife and two children. (A

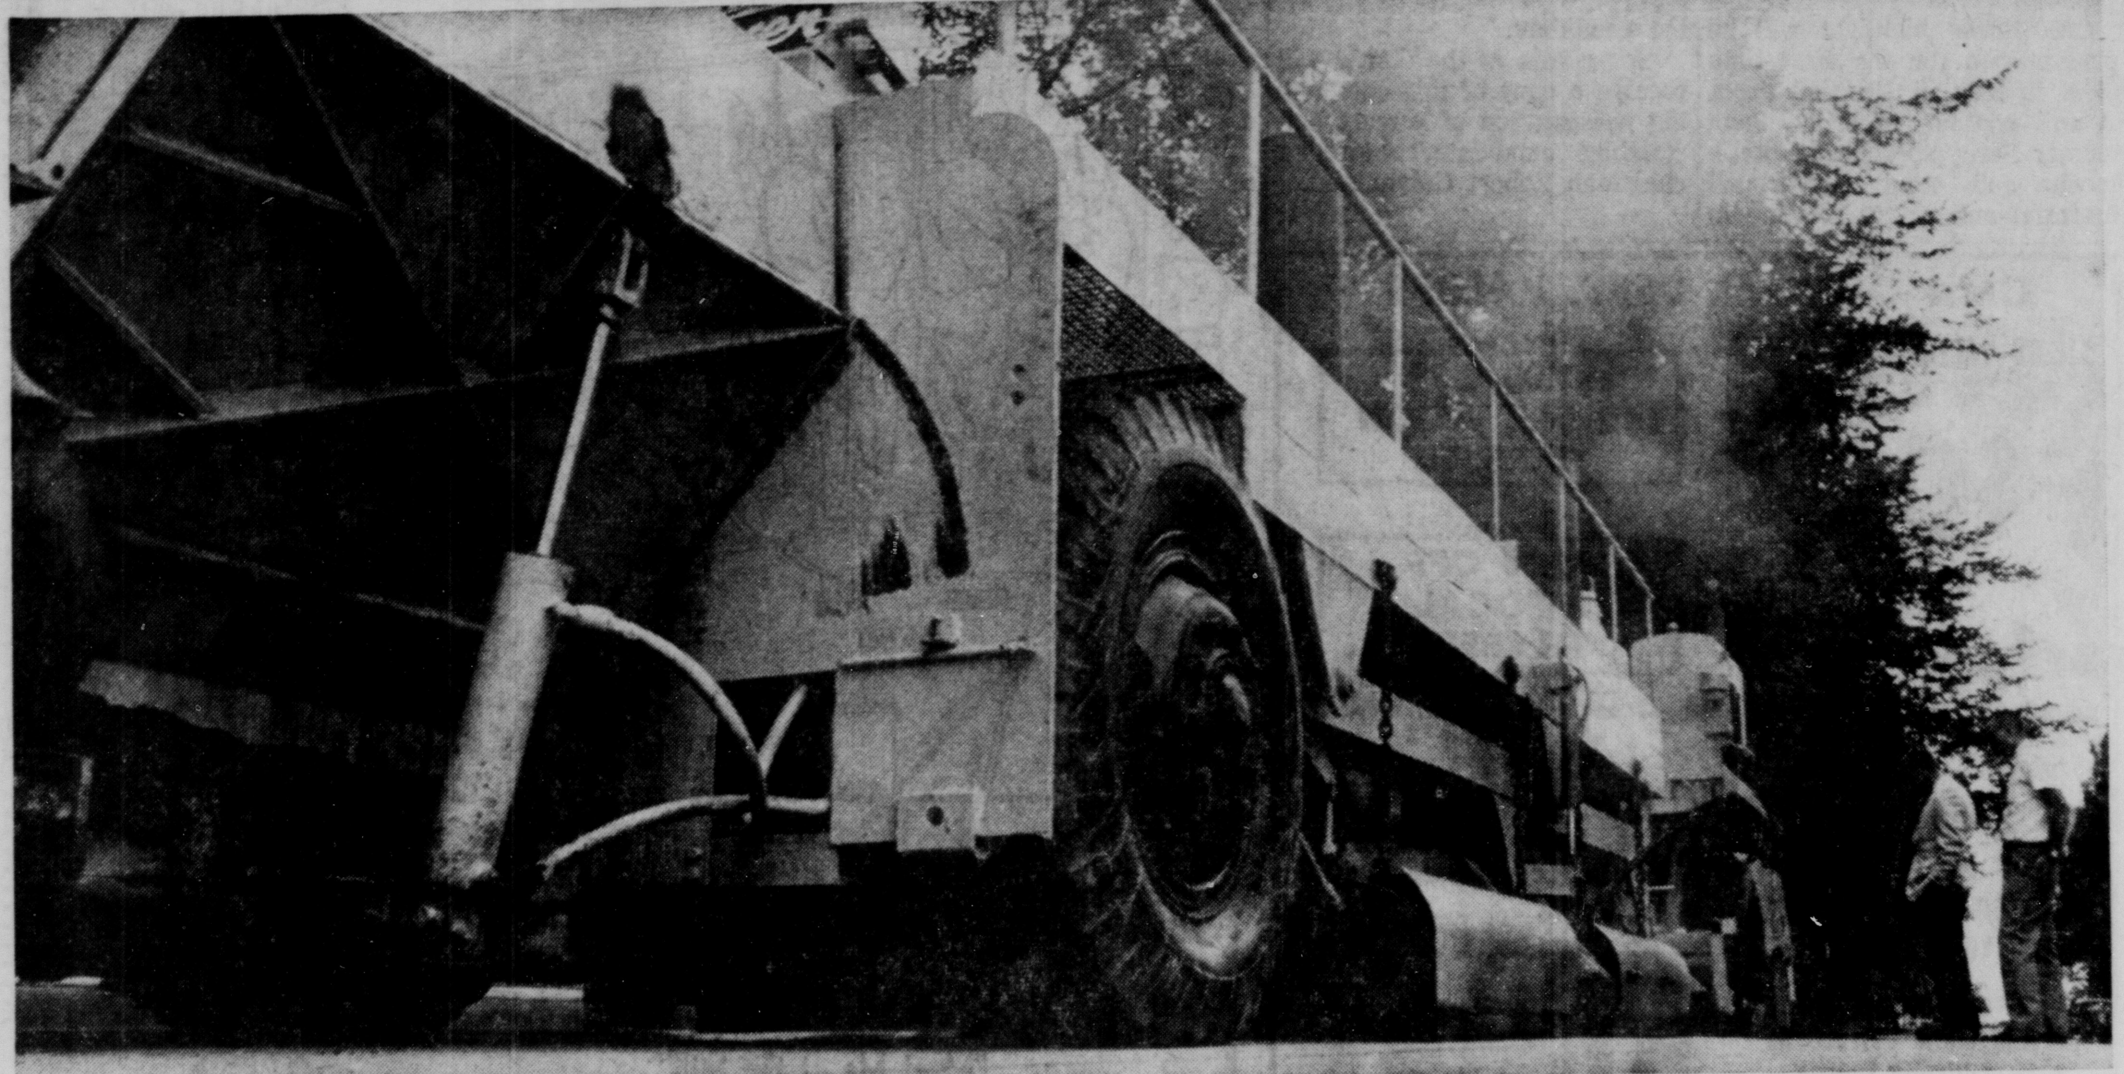
Sign Controls Promote Beauty, Safety



REPAVING DEMONSTRATION on Beverly and Dryden Avenues south of Euclid Sept. 10, 11 and 14 featured this 17-ton, 40-foot long R-1,000 repaver manufactured by Cutler Engineering, Inc., of Elk Grove Village. Arlington Heights village engineer Norman Toberman reported satisfactory results on the new repaving process which refinished 4,900 square yards of village streets. The machine softens and reworks existing asphalt paving, then adds a thin cover of new asphalt, all in one continuous process. The demonstration paving project, financed by the Cutler company, is to serve as an exhibit in the Chicago area to promote the new machine and process. Other existing processes involve either adding a thicker layer of new asphalt or removing existing pavement and starting from the base up to rebuild streets. Toberman said a decision on use of the process in the village would be withheld until formulation of next year's budget. (Staff photo)

Most Businesses Content with Laws

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

Even the signs of the times are regulated in the northwest suburbs.

Restrictions on signs advertising various businesses, churches, houses for sale, subdivisions, etc., are coming under scrutiny as some municipalities re-examine the controls and others find themselves giving ground on ordinance requirements.

George Majoros, Elk Grove Village public administrator, said controls are needed "partially for aesthetic reasons and primarily for safety."

He explained that fairly uniform signs, not too bright or too high or too spectacular, add to the beauty of the area.

Elk Grove Village does not permit free standing signs except at shopping center locations, Majoros said. He pointed out that a hypothetical case of a 15-store shopping center with 15 free-standing signs would not be attractive to the eye.

HE ADDED that most centers also have restrictions on the number of such signs allowed. The signs allowed by the village permit advertising of the center only, and not of individual stores.

As to the safety standpoint, Majoros said two factors are included.

The first is the structural form of the sign. Without structural requirements and periodic inspections by building department officials, a sign conceivably could be put up that would not withstand various forms of natural stress such as twisting winds and driving rains.

The second part of the safety factor in sign regulations concerns highway safety. Elk Grove Village, for example, does not allow illuminated or flashing signs. Majoros indicated neon lights are especially bad.

He said such signs, placed near busy intersections have a tendency to confuse the motorist. Especially, he added, "the motorist who is not familiar with the location of traffic signals in a community."

MOUNT PROSPECT Police Chief George Whittenberg is often consulted concerning the effect a proposed sign will have on traffic and its control.

Mount Prospect allows 40-foot signs at shopping centers only. However, variations have been granted close to that height for three other businesses along a thoroughfare through the village that are not in shopping centers.

Elk Grove Village, by comparison, allows shopping center signs to rise to 18 feet above ground level. Streamwood allows signs to be 15 feet above a building in shopping centers.

Most villages, including Wheeling, Streamwood and Elk Grove Village permit the area of signs to be three times the lineal front footage of the store. In other words, a store 60 feet wide could have a sign three feet high and 60 feet wide.

PALATINE limits area to 80 square feet and Mount Prospect limits sign area to several sizes, depending on the location of the sign in the village.

For example, "a sign in a B-1 business district shall not exceed 350 square feet." This was changed from 96 square feet.

Signs in golf cub districts shall not exceed 128 square feet in area in the village, and signs in residential areas are not to exceed 10 square feet. However, the village allows signs of 200 square feet if they are advertising a new subdivision or development area in a residential section.

Wheeling, according to James Bennett, director of public works there, recently revised its sign ordinance. He said it is much stricter than it was before.

Wheeling and Streamwood have included their sign ordinances in the zoning ordinance for the village.

Mount Prospect has a separate ordinance in the village code.

BUSINESS people generally do not argue with officials concerning the signs.

However, occasionally a variation is sought. When this occurs the ordinances are generally reviewed. It is notable that most of those seeking variations are new to the area.

Palatine, for example, is studying a request by a new car dealer for a sign not in accordance with the code. That village is considering revising the ordinance and is making a study of regulations in other villages.

Mount Prospect, by contrast, has granted variations to several new businesses without much discussion, although the sign ordinance there is slightly older than two years.

It seems clear, though, that established businesses are content with exisiting ordinances and signs.

Jack Keefer, president of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce, said he has heard little discussion of the ordinance and assumes there is no dissension among the business community.

Man Burns Hands In Generator Fire

Robert Montgomery, 1306 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights, suffered hand burns Monday in a basement fire caused when gasoline vapors from a generator were ignited by the pilot flame of a water heater.

According to Chief Harvey Carothers of the Arlington Heights Fire Department, Montgomery attempted to lift the burning generator up basement stairs before fireman arrived.

The generator fell again to the basement when Montgomery was burned, and the department extinguished the fire, which caused an estimated $300 damage. The call was received at 8 p.m.

THE DEPARTMENT also answered a call for a mattress fire in the home of Raymond Pressney, 1160 N. Haddow, Sept. 9.

The fire, presumably caused by a child playing with matches, caused an estimated $700 damage.

Three other minor calls were answered during the week, including assists to two people who had locked themselves out of their homes.

Dr. Clapsaddle is the general secretary of the Joint Section of Education and Cultivation of the Methodist Board of Mis- that office in 1962. The Board of Missions sponsors mission work in the United States and in 44 countries overseas and has a missionary force of more than 2,000. (A

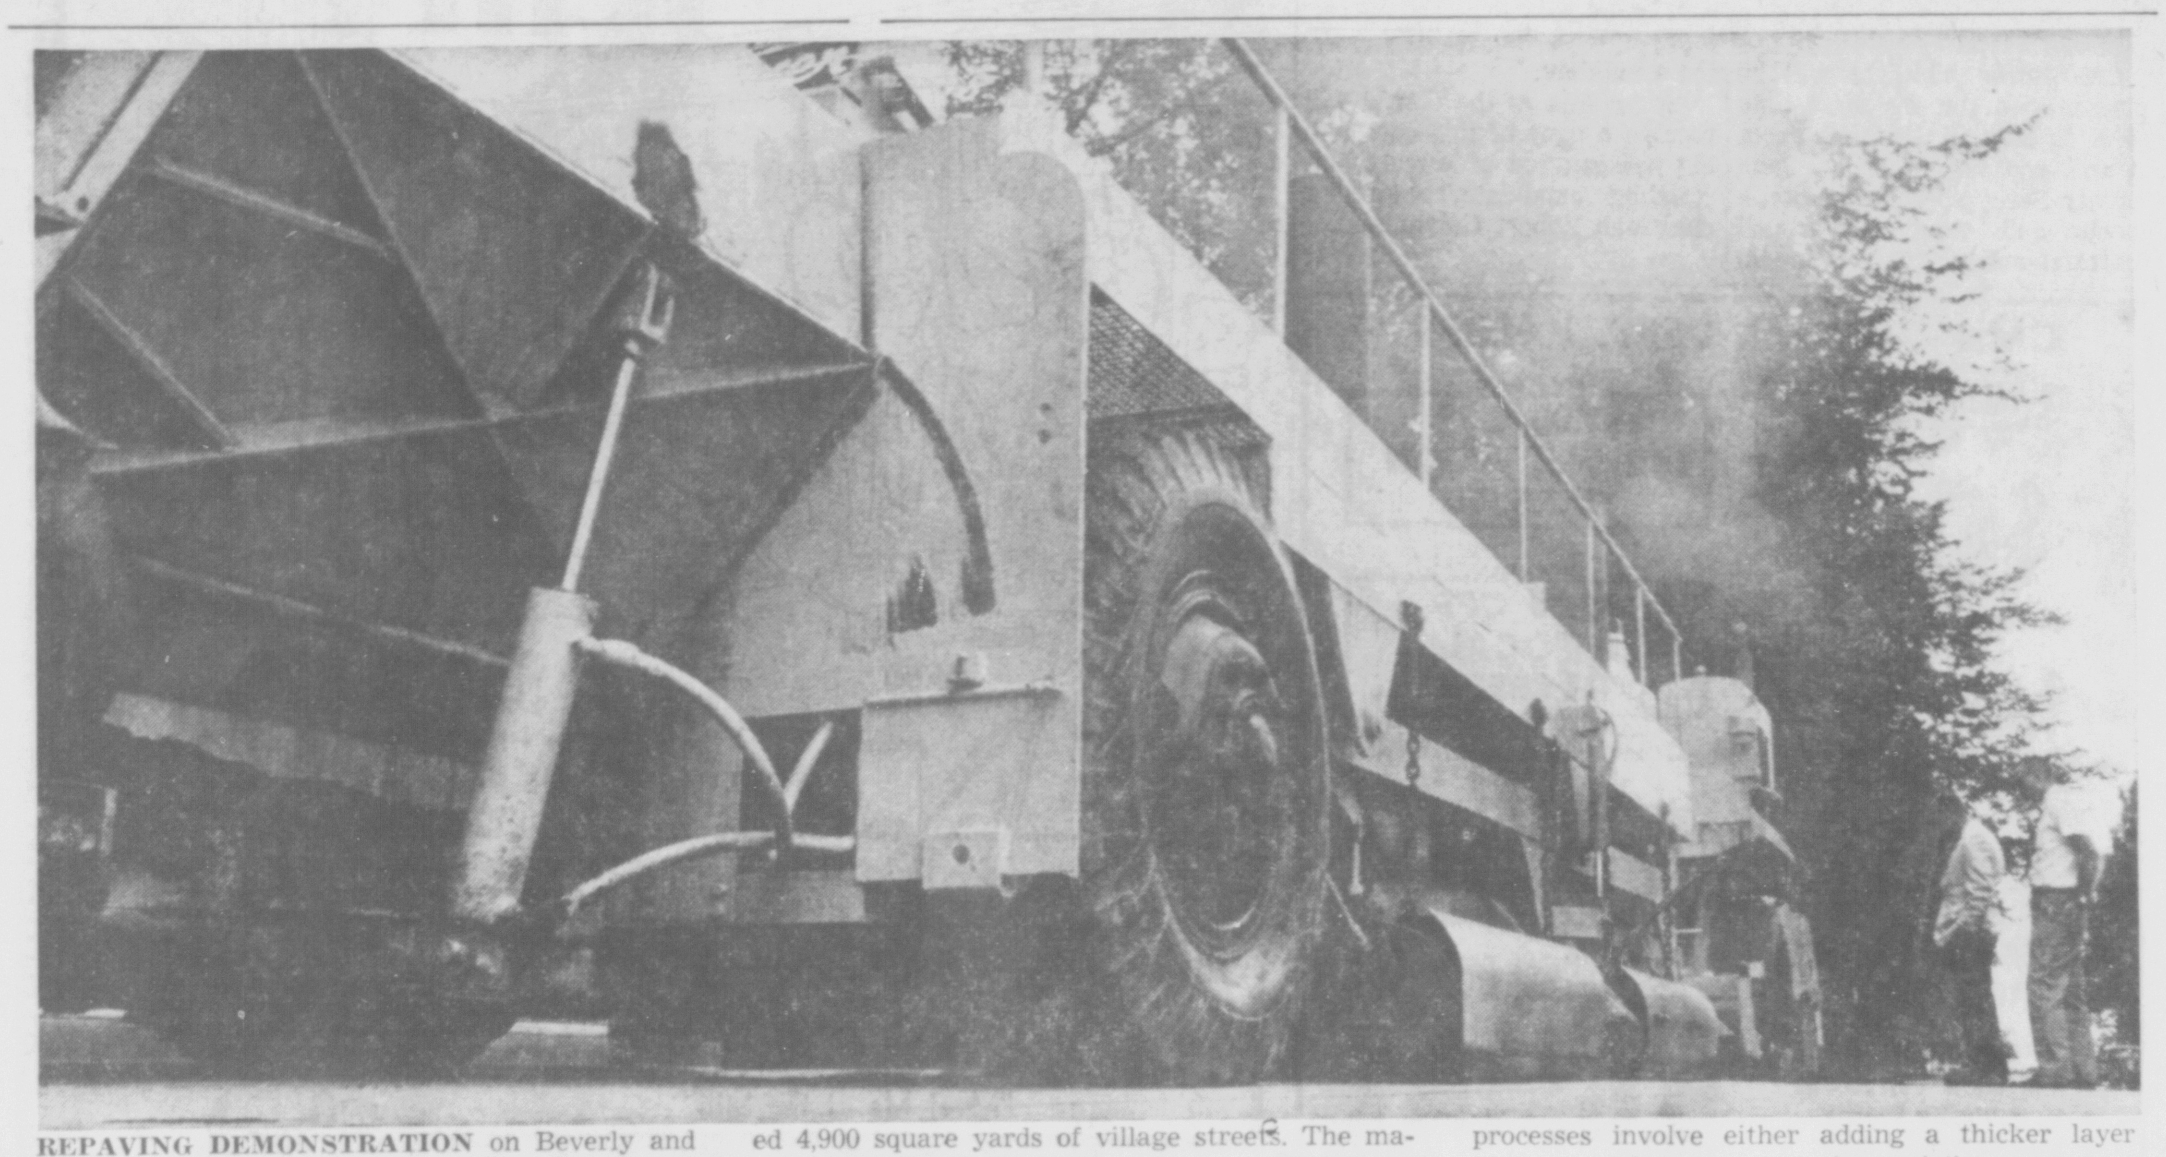
Sign Controls Promote Beauty, Safety



REPAVING DEMONSTRATION on Beverly and Dryden Avenues south of Euclid Sept. 10, 11 and 14 featured this 17-ton, 40-foot long R-1,000 repaver manufactured by Cutler Engineering, Inc., of Elk Grove Village. Arlington Heights village engineer Norman Toberman reported satisfactory results on the new repaving process which refinished 4,900 square yards of village streets. The machine softens and reworks existing asphalt paving, then adds a thin cover of new asphalt, all in one continuous process. The demonstration paving project, financed by the Cutler company, is to serve as an exhibit in the Chicago area to promote the new machine and process. Other existing processes involve either adding a thicker layer of new asphalt or removing existing pavement and starting from the base up to rebuild streets. Toberman said a decision on use of the process in the village would be withheld until formulation of next year's budget. (Staff photo) (A

Most Businesses Content with Laws

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

Even the signs of the times are regulated in the northwest suburbs.

Restrictions on signs advertising various businesses, churches, houses for sale, subdivisions, etc., are coming under scrutiny as some municipalities re-examine the controls and others find themselves giving ground on ordinance requirements.

George Majoros, Elk Grove Village public administrator, said controls are needed "partially for aesthetic reasons and primarily for safety."

He explained that fairly uniform signs, not too bright or too high or too spectacular, add to the beauty of the area.

Elk Grove Village does not permit free standing signs except at shopping center locations, Majoros said. He pointed out that a hypothetical case of a 15-store shopping center with 15 free-standing signs would not be attractive to the eye.

HE ADDED that most centers also have restrictions on the number of such signs allowed. The signs allowed by the village permit advertising of the center only, and not of individual stores.

As to the safety standpoint, Majoros said two factors are included.

The first is the structural form of the sign. Without structural requirements and periodic inspections by building department officials, a sign conceivably could be put up that would not withstand various forms of natural stress such as twisting winds and driving rains.

The second part of the safety factor in sign regulations concerns highway safety. Elk Grove Village, for example, does not allow illuminated or flashing signs. Majoros indicated neon lights are especially bad.

He said such signs, placed near busy intersections have a tendency to confuse the motorist. Especially, he added, "the motorist who is not familiar with the location of traffic signals in a community."

MOUNT PROSPECT Police Chief George Whittenberg is often consulted concerning the effect a proposed sign will have on traffic and its control.

Mount Prospect allows 40-foot signs at shopping centers only. However, variations have been granted close to that height for three other businesses along a thoroughfare through the village that are not in shopping centers.

Elk Grove Village, by comparison, allows shopping center signs to rise to 18 feet above ground level. Streamwood allows signs to be 15 feet above a building in shopping centers.

Most villages, including Wheeling, Streamwood and Elk Grove Village permit the area of signs to be three times the lineal front footage of the store. In other words, a store 60 feet wide could have a sign three feet high and 60 feet wide.

PALATINE limits area to 80 square feet and Mount Prospect limits sign area to several sizes, depending on the location of the sign in the village.

For example, "a sign in a B-1 business district shall not exceed 350 square feet." This was changed from 96 square feet.

Signs in golf cub districts shall not exceed 128 square feet in area in the village, and signs in residential areas are not to exceed 10 square feet. However, the village allows signs of 200 square feet if they are advertising a new subdivision or development area in a residential section.

Wheeling, according to James Bennett, director of public works there, recently revised its sign ordinance. He said it is much stricter than it was before.

Wheeling and Streamwood have included their sign ordinances in the zoning ordinance for the village.

Mount Prospect has a separate ordinance in the village code.

BUSINESS people generally do not argue with officials concerning the signs.

However, occasionally a variation is sought. When this occurs the ordinances are generally reviewed. It is notable that most of those seeking variations are new to the area.

Palatine, for example, is studying a request by a new car dealer for a sign not in accordance with the code. That village is considering revising the ordinance and is making a study of regulations in other villages.

Mount Prospect, by contrast, has granted variations to several new businesses without much discussion, although the sign ordinance there is slightly older than two years.

It seems clear, though, that established businesses are content with exisiting ordinances and signs.

Jack Keefer, president of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce, said he has heard little discussion of the ordinance and assumes there is no dissension among the business community. (B10

Johnson Backers To Open HQ Soon

Americans For Johnson will open the first of several area headquarters within the next ten days, announced general chairman Norbert W. Necker, Wheeling.

The headquarters will be located in the Palatine Plaza, Route 14 (Northwest Highway) near Baldwin Road, and will be staffed by area Americans for Johnson members.

Details of opening ceremonies and times the headquarters will be open will be announced next week.

Inquiries on forming similar groups are arriving from numerous downstate communities, according to Jan Bone, Palatine, publicity chairman of Americans for Johnson. She has just completed a series of four articles which will be published, beginning tomorrow, Friday, in the Quincy Labor News at their request. Decatur, and other downstate communities, have also asked for details.

MRS. BERNARD Masler, membership chairman, announced that Americans for Johnson now has members in 23 separate communities. Interested persons may contact her at 537-5731, or write her at 345 Wheeling Ave., Wheeling.

"We welcome all Republicans, Independents and Democrats who agree with our sole purpose, the election of Lyndon Johnson in November," she said. "Together we will work for our common goal."

Bumper stickers, signs, posters, buttons, campaign matchbooks, pamphlets and other literature will be distributed through the Palatine Plaza headquarters, and through other area headquarters as they are opened.

'Seminar' Scheduled On At-Large Ballot

In an effort to help prevent chaos at the polls, the Women's Republican Club of the 13th Congressional District will present a seminar, "Operation 13" designed to explain the Illinois at-large legislative ballot.

Mrs. Paul Sherrick, president of the organization has announced the one-hour program will be held at the Miner Junior High School, Miner and Dryden, Arlington Heights, Sunday, Sept. 20 at 2:30 p.m.

The training course, the first of two in the 13th Congressional District, will explain the mechanics of voting and counting the special 45-inch orange ballot which Illinois voters will use to elect state representatives.

IN COOK COUNTY alone, 6,820 workers are being recruited as transporters, watchers, overseers and "tally judges" to expedite the count of the at-large ballots on election night, Nov. 3. Prospective volunteers, along with confused voters, are invited and urged to attend the training course.

Mrs. Sherrick, who will act as moderator, will open the meeting and introduce the panel of speakers headed by Cong. Donald Rumsfeld.

Mrs. Alan Macdonald, chairman of the Women's Division of the Republican Central Committee of Cook County will discuss the role of the 13th Congressional District in setting up the model seminar for the entire county.

The background of the at-large election will be the topic of the Arthur E. Simmons of Niles Township, who was a member of the committee on reapportionment. Technical phases of the election will be discussed by John L. East, deputy chairman of the Republican Central Committee of Cook County. An appeal for volunteers to man the counting stations will be made by Mrs. Gerald Owen McDonald, vice chairman of the Women's Division of the Republican Central Committee of Cook County.

"Operation Eagle Eye" will be represented by Charles Hood, assistant to Charles Barr.

FOLLOWING THE seminar and training course, a reception honoring Rumsfeld will be given at Wheeling Township Republican Headquarters, 1030 Mount Prosepct Plaza, (Central Road and Route 12). Refreshments will be served.

All 118 candidates for the Legislature have been invited to attend "Operation 13" which is the pilot program for a series of similar seminars to be held throughout the state of Illinois.

Home Building Spurred by Northwest Tollway

Precise Effect Hard to Measure

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

Few experts would disagree that the toll road-expressway system has sparked residential building in the northwest suburbs.

But how big is that spark would be open to debate in any council.

The reason? Too many other factors have entered the picture.

When the Northwest Tollway opened in 1958, the country was recovering from a recession and permits issued for new houses were far above 1957.

Therefore, the question is posed: How many homes were built because of proximity to the tollroad-expressway system and how many because of the recovery from the recession?

Mount Prospect, for instance, issued 530 permits for single-family residences in 1958 as against 277 in 1957, according to Bell Savings & Loan annual reports.

Arlington Heights also showed an increase with 529 in 1958 and 442 in 1957. Streamwood, another village close to the tollway, jumped from 231 to 632 in the recovery year.

ROSELLE, however, issued 120 permits in 1958 as compared to 81 in the year previous. Addison, too, showed an increase, going from 284 permits in 1957 to 341 the following year.

Interestingly enough, the last two villages are not normally recognized as tollway communities, although Addison connects with Interstate 90 a few miles east.

(Interstate 90 is expected to go through Addison someday, but at present continues south for some distance before connecting with the Eisenhower Expressway to the heart of Chicago.)

Other communities, however, appear to have been carved out of the farmland partially (if not entirely) because of the Northwest Tollway, on which construction started in 1956.

Elk Grove would be a prime example of this with 637 permits issued in 1957, the first year it is listed on a Bell report. The community followed that with 763 permits issued in 1958.

IN OTHER WORDS, the building emphasis seemed to have shifted in the late 1950's from established communities to the creation of new villages. Arlington Heights therefore saw less of an increase in construction of single-family residences from 1957 through 1960 than did Elk Grove.

Long the leader in the suburbs, though, Arlington Heights showed a fantastic growth from 1946 through 1955.

Fred J. Hammer, then Arlington Heights' building commissioner, reported in 1957 the community had issued 4,015 permits with a valuation of nearly 60 million dollars in 11 years.

Building figures after 1958 for home construction, however, have had factors affecting them other than the tollroad-expressway system and the recovery from recession.

The home market began to go into a decline, and the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland reported in June, 1961, that large inventories of unsold new homes stood much higher than the previous year, even though interest rates went down from 5½ to 5¼ per cent.

APPROXIMATELY a year later, panelists participating in the fourth Economic Outlook Forum in Chicago pointed out the following factors contributing to the slowing pace of home construction:

—The rise of land prices;

—Easy financing of the mid-1950's which contributed to overdevelopment;

—Lower rate of family formation (it fell 50 to 60 per cent below what it was in 1952);

—Greater expense of home owners as compared to the 1950's (costs for home-building began increasing in 1956 at approximately $2,000 per home, according to reports).

WHAT ALL OF this meant in residential building was a shift in emphasis from homes to apartments as investors sought new arenas in which to test their dollars.

Addison again presented a problem in isolating the effects of the tollroad-expressway system by becoming a leader in apartment construction.

In 1961, for instance, the village issued permits for 468 apartments to lead the list. Part of the cause for this, however, was relatively easy zoning in apartment building.

The factor of financing also played an important role in apartment development. One savings and loan official reported in early 1963 that some builders were able to get 90 to 100 per cent financing for a project from some lending institutions.

WHERE APARTMENT projects were located, however, didn't follow the tollroad-expressway pattern as closely as some would assume.

Wheeling, for example, issued permits for 154 units in 1961 and isn't close to the system, while Arlington Heights issued 152 and is.

In conclusion, what have been the effects of the tollroad-expressway system on residential construction in the northwest suburbs?

It's been dynamic. In some cases, it's helped in the creation of whole new villages. But, just how dynamic remains a question that can't be answered precisely. (A15

Rules Pay Increase Would Not Be Legal

The compensation of county officers cannot be changed during their term of office, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held in a recent ruling.

Clark's opinion was requested by State's Atty. Richard Stengel of Rock Island County regarding a proposal of the Rock Island County Board of Supervisors to adopt a resolution this year providing a uniform salary increase for all county officers effective the first Monday in December, 1966. At that time, Stengel told Clark, some officers would be beginning a new term while others would be midway in their terms.

THE STATUTES provide, Clark's opinion said, that the time to fix compensation of county officers shall be at the meeting of the county board next before the regular election of officers whose compensation is to be fixed, but if the compensation is not fixed at this meeting it shall be done at the next regular or special meeting of the board thereafter. Thus, Clark's opinion said, the proposed resolution in Rock Island County is in direct conflict with the statute.

"Where there is a conflict between a statutory provision and a resolution of the county board, the resolution of the county board must give way to the statute," Clark's opinion said.

The Illinois constitution, Clark's opinion said, provides that the compensation of county officers cannot be changed during their term of office, Clark's opinion said. He stipulated Article 9, Section 11. (A15

Delinquency Graduates Meet Again

Graduates of the Delinquency Control Institute, sponsored annually by the Illinois Juvenile Officers Information File, held a class reunion last night (Wednesday) in Elk Grove.

John A. Troike, chairman of the Illinois Youth Commission and after-dinner speaker at the reunion, commented on the close kinship between the commission and local police departments.

The ITC cooperates in the conduct of the seminar which is held yearly to assist the suburban juvenile officers in developing their knowledge and techniques in handling the youths who come to their attention. Resources of DePaul University are tapped for experts in the field of juvenile work.

THE SEMINARS range from legal aspects through a study of the sociological and emotional characteristics of delinquency to the latest technique in counseling and rehabilitation.

The institute was organized after police chiefs from the northwest suburbs met to plan the course. Three seminars have been held.

Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Streamwood and Hanover Park were represented at the dinner meeting, as well as Bartlett, Roselle, Barrington and Bensenville. Palatine and Arlington Heights have also sent officers to the seminars.

Graduates of the two-week courses received certificates of completion and lapel pins. (A14

Advises Common Sense In Applying Statutes

"Extraordinarq circumstances" call for a reasonable construction of the statutes so they "may be applied in a practical and common sense manner," Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held this week.

Following this rule of statutory construction, Clark advised State's Atty. Donald C. Woolsey of Knox County that when the office of superintendent of assessments has been abolished by referendum effective Oct. 31, 1964, and where the supervisor has resigned Aug. 1, 1964, his successor may be appointed by the Board of Supervisors without an examination.

The current term of this supervisor of assessments of Knox County will expire Oct. 31, 1964, and the Board of Supervisors has no authority to end his term any sooner. The statutes, Clark's opinion said, require that in appointing a supervisor of assessments, it is necessary that notice be given in a newspaper of the time and place of an examination and that the appointment be made from one of the three persons obtaining the highest grade in the examination.

"BY THE TIME this opinion reaches you," Clark's opinion advised Woolsey, "there will not be more than two months of the term remaining, and if an examination was held, it could be that there would be one month or less of the term. This presents a situation which could not have been foreseen by the Legislature. It is very doubtful if any applicants would take such an examination when there was only one month or less of the term remaining."

However, Clark's opinion said, the Supreme Court in passing on the constitutionality of the School Election Law, said that "government could not be carried on if nothing could be left to the judgment and discretion of the administrative officers." Further, Clark's opinion said, statutes should be construed reasonably so as to be applied in a practical and common sense manner.

Therefore, Clark's opinion said, in such a case appointment of a Supervisor of Assessments can be made without an examination.

The County Treasurer, Clark's opinion added, could not be appointed Supervisor of Assessments as the statutes provide that an appointee cannot hold any other "lucrative public office or public employment." (A15

Park Approved for Arlington Vista Area

The Arlington Vista Homeowners Association was told Wednesday night by a member of the organization's park committee that favorable action had been voted by the Arlington Heights Park District in an effort to establish a neighborhood park in the subdivision.

Tom Strub reported to the membership that he had attended the last meeting of the Arlington park board at which they had voted unanimously to make a 10-year lease with School District 23 for the 3.4 acre site in the Vista for $120 a year with an option to buy the property for $18,000 at any time within that period.

THE PROPOSAL was subject to the following conditions.

1. That the school board be able to furnish clear title to the land.

2. That Arlington Vista disannex from the Wheeling Rural Park District and annex to the Arlington part unit.

3. That the $18,000 figure be subject to a written appraisal that would show the property to have a land value of not less than the option purchase price.

4. That all matters relating to the agreement be subject to a written formal contract.

In addition the Arlington Park District officials indicated that they would consider the purchase of an additional acre adjacent to the school board owned site in order to properly utilize the land for a park.

THE PARK board stated that the larger site would enable a better use of the land which could include facilities such as baseball diamonds, a football field, tennis courts, slides, and swings.

School District 23 President Dr. H. Robert Powell, who received a copy of the park district's letter at the Monday meeting of the board of education, termed the proposal as "coming 90 per cent of the way toward agreement and acceptance by us."

Powell stated that the $120 a year lease figure "was certainly nominal."

Member Bob LeForge interjected, "It is more than we got for it lying idle."

THE SCHOOL committee agreed to have Powell continue talks with Charles Cronin of the Arlington district after they had accepted a proposal by School Superintendent Louis Pansino to have an appraiser evaluate the 3.4 acre site for the district.

"In the event the two appraisers are unable to reach agreement then we could call in a third man," he said. (AF

Course in Humanities Planned

The Adult Education Evening School of High School District 214 will offer a special course in the humanities this fall. The class will meet once a week, on Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., for a 10-week period.

The tuition is $10 plus an $8 fee for materials which the student may keep.

Although the course was primarily designed for teachers, it may be of interest to many in the community. Each lecture-discussion will be conducted by a member from the District 214 faculty. Following are some of the topics for lectures during the fall: Japan's history reflected in its art, romanticism in nineteenth century America, evolution and the humanities, the tragic figures of Hamlet and Oedipus, far eastern histroy, Hemingway, and styles of music as related to styles in art and architecture.

Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, stimulated interest in such a course last year by questioning teachers about including this area in the Evening School. Many teachers expressed interest in a course which would deal with the unity of human experience.

REGISTRATION will be held on the following days: Sept. 21, 7 to 9 p.m., in the Arlington High School library; Sept. 22, 7 to 9 p.m. in the Prospect High School cafeteria; Sept. 23, 7 to 9 p.m. in the Forest View High School library.

It is necessary to register in order to attend the session which will begin on Thursday, Oct. 8, at Prospect High School, Room 100, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. It will not be possible to attend a single session of the course.

Any further information may be obtained by contacting the Evening School at Arlington High School. (ACM-E

CLASSES will be held every Tuesday from 3:45 to 5:15 p.m. at Pioneer Park Fieldhouse. The first session starts on Oct. 6, and the series continues for 12 sessions.

Youngsters are asked to register at the park district office and pay the fee before the opening class.

Home Building Spurred by Northwest Tollway

Precise Effect Hard to Measure

by HOWARD HARMENING
Staff Writer

Few experts would disagree that the toll road-expressway system has sparked residential building in the northwest suburbs.

But how big is that spark would be open to debate in any council.

The reason? Too many other factors have entered the picture.

When the Northwest Tollway opened in 1958, the country was recovering from a recession and permits issued for new houses were far above 1957.

Therefore, the question is posed: How many homes were built because of proximity to the tollroad-expressway system and how many because of the recovery from the recession?

Mount Prospect, for instance, issued 530 permits for single-family residences in 1958 as against 277 in 1957, according to Bell Savings & Loan annual reports.

Arlington Heights also showed an increase with 529 in 1958 and 442 in 1957. Streamwood, another village close to the tollway, jumped from 231 to 632 in the recovery year.

ROSELLE, however, issued 120 permits in 1958 as compared to 81 in the year previous. Addison, too, showed an increase, going from 284 permits in 1957 to 341 the following year.

Interestingly enough, the last two villages are not normally recognized as tollway communities, although Addison connects with Interstate 90 a few miles east.

(Interstate 90 is expected to go through Addison someday, but at present continues south for some distance before connecting with the Eisenhower Expressway to the heart of Chicago.)

Other communities, however, appear to have been carved out of the farmland partially (if not entirely) because of the Northwest Tollway, on which construction started in 1956.

Elk Grove would be a prime example of this with 637 permits issued in 1957, the first year it is listed on a Bell report. The community followed that with 763 permits issued in 1958.

IN OTHER WORDS, the building emphasis seemed to have shifted in the late 1950's from established communities to the creation of new villages. Arlington Heights therefore saw less of an increase in construction of single-family residences from 1957 through 1960 than did Elk Grove.

Long the leader in the suburbs, though, Arlington Heights showed a fantastic growth from 1946 through 1955.

Fred J. Hammer, then Arlington Heights' building commissioner, reported in 1957 the community had issued 4,015 permits with a valuation of nearly 60 million dollars in 11 years.

Building figures after 1958 for home construction, however, have had factors affecting them other than the tollroad-expressway system and the recovery from recession.

The home market began to go into a decline, and the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland reported in June, 1961, that large inventories of unsold new homes stood much higher than the previous year, even though interest rates went down from 5½ to 5¼ per cent.

APPROXIMATELY a year later, panelists participating in the fourth Economic Outlook Forum in Chicago pointed out the following factors contributing to the slowing pace of home construction:

—The rise of land prices;

—Easy financing of the mid-1950's which contributed to over-development;

—Lower rate of family formation (it fell 50 to 60 per cent below what it was in 1952);

—Greater expense of home owners as compared to the 1950's (costs for home-building began increasing in 1956 at approximately $2,000 per home, according to reports).

WHAT ALL OF this meant in residential building was a shift in emphasis from homes to apartments as investors sought new arenas in which to test their dollars.

Addison again presented a problem in isolating the effects of the tollroad-expressway system by becoming a leader in apartment construction.

In 1961, for instance, the village issued permits for 468 apartments to lead the list. Part of the cause for this, however, was relatively easy zoning in apartment building.

The factor of financing also played an important role in apartment development. One savings and loan official reported in early 1963 that some builders were able to get 90 to 100 per cent financing for a project from some lending institutions.

WHERE APARTMENT projects were located, however, didn't follow the tollroad-expressway pattern as closely as some would assume.

Wheeling, for example, issued permits for 154 units in 1961 and isn't close to the system, while Arlington Heights issued 152 and is.

In conclusion, what have been the effects of the tollroad-expressway system on residential construction in the northwest suburbs?

It's been dynamic. In some cases, it's helped in the creation of whole new villages. But, just how dynamic remains a question that can't be answered precisely. (A15

Rules Pay Increase Would Not Be Legal

The compensation of county officers cannot be changed during their term of office, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held in a recent ruling.

Clark's opinion was requested by State's Atty. Richard Stengel of Rock Island County regarding a proposal of the Rock Island County Board of Supervisors to adopt a resolution this year providing a uniform salary increase for all county officers effective the first Monday in December, 1966. At that time, Stengel told Clark, some officers would be beginning a new term while others would be midway in their terms.

THE STATUTES provide, Clark's opinion said, that the time to fix compensation of county officers shall be at the meeting of the county board next before the regular election of officers whose compensation is to be fixed, but if the compensation is not fixed at this meeting it shall be done at the next regular or special meeting of the board thereafter. Thus, Clark's opinion said, the proposed resolution in Rock Island County is in direct conflict with the statute.

"Where there is a conflict between a statutory provision and a resolution of the county board, the resolution of the county board must give way to the statute," Clark's opinion said.

The Illinois constitution, Clark's opinion said, provides that the compensation of county officers cannot be changed during their term of office, Clark's opinion said. He stipulated Article 9, Section 11. (A15

Delinquency Graduates Meet Again

Graduates of the Delinquency Control Institute, sponsored annually by the Illinois Juvenile Officers Information File, held a class reunion last night (Wednesday) in Elk Grove.

John A. Troike, chairman of the Illinois Youth Commission and after-dinner speaker at the reunion, commented on the close kinship between the commission and local police departments.

The ITC cooperates in the conduct of the seminar which is held yearly to assist the suburban juvenile officers in developing their knowledge and techniques in handling the youths who come to their attention. Resources of DePaul University are tapped for experts in the field of juvenile work.

THE SEMINARS range from legal aspects through a study of the sociological and emotional characteristics of delinquency to the latest technique in counseling and rehabilitation.

The institute was organized after police chiefs from the northwest suburbs met to plan the course. Three seminars have been held.

Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Streamwood and Hanover Park were represented at the dinner meeting, as well as Bartlett, Roselle, Barrington and Bensenville. Palatine and Arlington Heights have also sent officers to the seminars.

Graduates of the two-week courses received certificates of completion and lapel pins. (A14

Advises Common Sense In Applying Statutes

"Extraordinarq circumstances" call for a reasonable construction of the statutes so they "may be applied in a practical and common sense manner," Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held this week.

Following this rule of statutory construction, Clark advised State's Atty. Donald C. Woolsey of Knox County that when the office of superintendent of assessments has been abolished by referendum effective Oct. 31, 1964, and where the supervisor has resigned Aug. 1, 1964, his successor may be appointed by the Board of Supervisors without an examination.

The current term of this supervisor of assessments of Knox County will expire Oct. 31, 1964, and the Board of Supervisors has no authority to end his term any sooner. The statutes, Clark's opinion said, require that in appointing a supervisor of assessments, it is necessary that notice be given in a newspaper of the time and place of an examination and that the appointment be made from one of the three persons obtaining the highest grade in the examination.

"BY THE TIME this opinion reaches you," Clark's opinion advised Woolsey, "there will not be more than two months of the term remaining, and if an examination was held, it could be that there would be one month or less of the term. This presents a situation which could not have been foreseen by the Legislature. It is very doubtful if any applicants would take such an examination when there was only one month or less of the term remaining."

However, Clark's opinion said, the Supreme Court in passing on the constitutionality of the School Election Law, said that "government could not be carried on if nothing could be left to the judgment and discretion of the administrative officers." Further, Clark's opinion said, statutes should be construed reasonably so as to be applied in a practical and common sense manner.

Therefore, Clark's opinion said, in such a case appointment of a Supervisor of Assessments can be made without an examination.

The County Treasurer, Clark's opinion added, could not be appointed Supervisor of Assessments as the statutes provide that an appointee cannot hold any other "lucrative public office or public employment." (A15

Park Approved for Arlington Vista Area

The Arlington Vista Homeowners Association was told Wednesday night by a member of the organization's park committee that favorable action had been voted by the Arlington Heights Park District in an effort to establish a neighborhood park in the subdivision.

Tom Strub reported to the membership that he had attended the last meeting of the Arlington park board at which they had voted unanimously to make a 10-year lease with School District 23 for the 3.4 acre site in the Vista for $120 a year with an option to buy the property for $18,000 at any time within that period.

THE PROPOSAL was subject to the following conditions.

1. That the school board be able to furnish clear title to the land.
2. That Arlington Vista disannex from the Wheeling Rural Park District and annex to the Arlington part unit.
3. That the $18,000 figure be subject to a written appraisal that would show the property to have a land value of not less than the option purchase price.
4. That all matters relating to the agreement be subject to a written formal contract.

In addition the Arlington Park District officials indicated that they would consider the purchase of an additional acre adjacent to the school board owned site in order to properly utilize the land for a park.

THE PARK board stated that the larger site would enable a better use of the land which could include facilities such as baseball diamonds, a football field, tennis courts, slides, and swings.

School District 23 President Dr. H. Robert Powell, who received a copy of the park district's letter at the Monday meeting of the board of education, termed the proposal as "coming 90 per cent of the way toward agreement and acceptance by us."

Powell stated that the $120 a year lease figure "was certainly nominal."

Member Bob LeForge interjected, "It is more than we got for it lying idle."

THE SCHOOL committee agreed to have Powell continue talks with Charles Cronin of the Arlington district after they had accepted a proposal by School Superintendent Louis Pansino to have an appraiser evaluate the 3.4 acre site for the district.

"In the event the two appraisers are unable to reach agreement then we could call in a third man," he said. (AF

Course in Humanities Planned

The Adult Education Evening School of High School District 214 will offer a special course in the humanities this fall. The class will meet once a week, on Thursdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., for a 10-week period.

The tuition is $10 plus an $8 fee for materials which the student may keep.

Although the course was primarily designed for teachers, it may be of interest to many in the community. Each lecture-discussion will be conducted by a member from the District 214 faculty. Following are some of the topics for lectures during the fall: Japan's history reflected in its art, romanticism in nineteenth century America, evolution and the humanities, the tragic figures of Hamlet and Oedipus, far eastern histroy, Hemingway, and styles of music as related to styles in art and architecture.

Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School, stimulated interest in such a course last year by questioning teachers about including this area in the Evening School. Many teachers expressed interest in a course which would deal with the unity of human experience.

REGISTRATION will be held on the following days: Sept. 21, 7 to 9 p.m., in the Arlington High School library; Sept. 22, 7 to 9 p.m. in the Prospect High School cafeteria; Sept. 23, 7 to 9 p.m. in the Forest View High School library.

It is necessary to register in order to attend the session which will begin on Thursday, Oct. 8, at Prospect High School, Room 100, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. It will not be possible to attend a single session of the course.

Any further information may be obtained by contacting the Evening School at Arlington High School. (ACM-E

Can Suburban Lot Size Standards Be Kept?

Question Trend To Larger Lots

by TOM EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Buyers of new homes in the northwest suburbs are generally getting larger lots now than they would have four years ago, and considerably larger lots than 15 years ago.

Several municipalities are contemplating still larger lot sizes for single family dwellings.

On the other hand, legitimate questions are being raised about not only this trend in lot sizes, but about the over all patterns of development. And "urban sprawl" is a problem which is evoking concerns across the nation.

Crux of the problem is that the population is increasing by leaps and bounds and land space is becoming correspondingly precious.

"We can't go on building subdivisions forever and ever on bigger lots," declares Albert E. Riley, developer of Hasbrook subdivision in Arlington Heights and Plum Grove Countryside near Barrington.

TOM MOODY, civil engineer and a member of the Palatine Plan Commission, agreed. The idea of upping lot sizes by 1,000 square feet annually has "reached the end of the road," he feels.

One of the solutions being proposed are "planned unit developments," also called "cluster" development.

Harold Best, Arlington Heights building and zoning director, questions whether cluster development isn't "just a dodge to get denser development."

Arlington's present minimum lot size provides for at least 14 feet between houses, Best said. "You can't cluster them much closer than that" and still leave a suitable amount of living space with today's types of houses, he said.

ARLINGTON itself is a kind of a cluster development. Development is rather dense in the older central section of the village, with the lot sizes getting increasingly larger as the village expands outward.

But with the recent surge in construction of apartment buildings, it is doubtful whether the population density per acre is becoming any less despite the increase in lot sizes in Arlington and elsewhere.

There is more to the problem than density, according to Riley, who recently visited 11 major cities to view examples of planned unit developments.

It is a matter of designing the living amenities and services into the development, he said. Large lots waste living space as far as the population as a whole is concerned, he indicated, often remaining largely unused.

IT IS CONTENDED that present lot sizes are more than most families actually need or use, but chop up the land area so that there is much less available for general recreation activities. Further, the cost of development is increased to where the developer can ill afford to reserve land for parks.

Large lots require longer streets, sidewalks, water mains and sewers, Riley pointed out. The utility piping in front of a home may cost a homeowner $3,000, he said, money of which much could better be spent on the living room of the house to the greater direct benefit and enjoyment of the family.

In his own 180-acre Hasbrook development, Riley estimates that at least 30 per cent of the land is covered by streets and sidewalks. "They have to be maintained," he said, "and they are serving no useful purpose of living except for driving cars on."

Conservation of natural landscapes is stressed by Riley as an advantage of planned unit development over conventional types. Greater amounts of open space can be preserved, he said, and trees, streams and natural land contours.

EMPHASIS on large lots is, basically, to solve some of the financial problems of schools, Riley said. But "we are causing more problems than we are solving" by building practices which require "putting every little stream in a culvert or a ditch."

As much personal privacy can be built into unit developments as conventional ones, according to Riley, and more and cheaper services and utilities. The streets in such developments would be far safer traffic-wise, and the general security greater.

But public officials are leery of unit developments, probably because too many are being proposed with the high desity concentration but without the contingent open space being guaranteed. (B9

SPACIOUS LOTS such as those above are desired in many northwest comunities. But builders say such development is too costly, and some thoughts on planning are that large lots waste too much land which could be better used as open space. Above houses are along Willow Road in Prospect Heights where lots are about a half acre in area. Streets are curbless, and natural drainage via swales as in the foreground of the photograph is employed. There are also no sidewalks. (B10

Lot Sizes Listed For Area Villages

Lot sizes for individual homes in various communities of the northwest suburbs are:

Arlington Heights — Minimum lot size is presently 8,750 square feet, but village officials have been requiring 10,000 square foot lots in the majority of instances over the last year. A proposal to increase the minimum to 10,000 square feet is now under consideration. There is also a third zoning classification of 15,000 square feet.

Arlington increased its lot sizes from about 6,500 square feet to about 7,500 in 1952, then to about 8,500 in 1956, and finally 8,750 in 1960. Tracts of land platted before 1956 must be resubdivided to conform with present minimum requirements before building is allowed.

Palatine — Minimum is 10,000 square feet. If 10 per cent of the land is donated for public use, however, the village will allow lot sizes of 9,000 square feet. Developers who build on 20,000 square foot lots aren't required to install sidewalks, and a suggestion has been made that streets in such subdivisions should not be required to have curbs and gutter. Drainage would be by grass swales instead.

INCLUDING some of the older portions of the village, the over-all lot size in Palatine was estimated at about 8,400 square feet.

Mount Prospect — Minimum lot size is 8,125 square feet, but a variation to 7,200 has been permitted for one subdivision. Much of the development in the older parts of the village is on 6,000 square foot lots. One subdivision that was annexed to the village after development has lot sizes of about 18,000 square feet.

Elk Grove — Minimum lot size is 6,000 square feet, but an ordinance amendment to increase it to 7,500 is pending before the village board. Average existing lot size has been reported as 7,700 square feet, with almost all lots about that size.

Wheeling — Minimum lot size is 8,500 square feet, but the village board recently turned down a subdivision proposal with lots that size. Final agreement on this subdivision was for an average lot size of 10,200 square feet, with one of the trustees stating that he intends to seek even higher lot sizes in the future.

Past development in Wheeling, however, has ranged from some lots as small as 5,500 to a maximum of about 6,800 square feet. Highest zoning classification is 20,000 square feet, with large areas of undeveloped land so zoned.

HOFFMAN Estates — Minimum lot size is 9,250 square feet and the village average is about 10,000 square feet. Village officials are currently weighing a proposal for a 1,100-home development with 8,500 square foot lots.

Schaumburg — Average lot size is about 10,000 square feet. As are Hoffman Estates and Elk Grove, Schaumburg is almost an entirely new community.

Buffalo Grove — Minimum lot size is 6,600 but the village has been permitting nothing under 7,200 square feet in the last few years and the average lot size is about 7,500. The village recently approved a proposed development of about 750 homes with lots ranging from 7,600 to 8,750, with 8,200 about the average.

Northbrook — No lots under 12,000 square feet are being permitted, and many lots in that village are substantially larger.

Des Plaines — Minimum lot size is 6,875 square feet, with almost all single family residential development taking place in this zoning classification. Average lot size in the city is about 6,000 square feet, taking into account older sections. (B-9

'Y' Starts Bridge Classes Tonight

Evening bridge classes begin tonight, Thursday, at Northwest Suburban YMCA. Each class runs for seven consecutive weeks.

Classes will consist of a lecture and supervised play period. The lecture is presented in a fashion to minimize memory effort and increase player participation by the use of problems to be worked at home and reviewed in class. The supervised play gives the player an opportunity to learn correct "card play" at the bridge table.

THE BEGINNERS class is in session from 7 to 8:25 p.m.; an intermediate or "brush up" class from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

Classes are under direction of Robert Hathaway, a tournament bridge player of life master status.

The 'Y' may be called at CY 6-3376 for registration. (B10

Plant Bulbs Now For Spring Garden

Plant bulbs now for a beautiful spring garden is the advice of Tom Bowen, lawn and garden expert for Kersting's Garden Center, 621 N. Main St., Mount Prospect.

"Spring will be even more welcome when you have the pleasure of flowers to look forward to," Kersten commented.

"You don't need a mysteriously green thumb to have a beautiful garden," he said. "Colorful tulips, fragrant hyacinths, dancing daffodils and the many lovely little flowers of the new season grow from bulbs planted in the fall," he added.

BULBS ARE the simplest of flowers to grow, easy to care for and inexpensive, Bowen explained. Give them a home in the ground through the winter, and they will reward the homeowner with weeks of flowers, he said.

The garden expert advised that selecting bulb flowers with regard for their blooming time will produce flowers from early spring till late in the season.

Showdrop and crocus arrive first. The trees are still bare when Fosteriana tulips, golden narcissi and deep blue muscari reveal their colors. Before the end of April, hyacincths add their perfume to the spring air and the early tulips are in bloom.

In mid-spring Triumph and Darwin Hybrid tulips bridge the time between April and May. Then Parrot, lily-flowered, Cottage, Double Late, Darwin and Breeder tulips begin to unfold. Dutch iris flower well into June, Bowen said, completing the parade of bulb flowers that began three months earlier.

A FREE planting guide showing order of appearance in the garden, planting time, flowering time, height and way to plant is available this weekend at Kersting's. (B-10

Plans Announced For GOP Picnic

Gerald Moe, Buffalo Grove, and John Walsh Jr., Arlington Heights, announced this week more detailed plans for the Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman's picnic, Sunday, Sept. 27, from 1 to 6:30 p.m.

Last week Moe and Walsh were appointed by Thomas J. Houser, committeeman, to organize the event.

"We have had a meeting of our group," report Moe and Walsh in a joint statement, "and we can assure all Republicans of an enjoyable time. Buffalo Bill's picnic grounds, on Buffalo Grove Road, north of Dundee Road, have been reserved and games for all age groups are being planned."

"DON HILLENMAYER, who studied physical education, is arranging a father-son baseball game, races for the children, and an egg-throwing contest for couples," continued Moe and Walsh. Prizes for the children will be contributed through the courtesy of Northwest Firestone Store, Arlington Heights.

Ice cream and pop will be available for the children throughout the day, and at 5 p.m. beef sandwiches will be served to all in attendance.

"Invitations are being mailed to all Republican candidates," concluded Moe and Walsh, "and we are already assured of a fine representation." (ACM

Jobs Open For Mail Carriers

LUBE TIP

I see where some of the auto makers are going to put the grease fittings back on their new models. We think that it was a big mistake to ever leave them off.

Many drivers have found that the many miles between lubrications as quoted in car advertising wasn't doing their cars any good. We've replaced hundreds of plugs with regular grease fittings, and found important wearing points completely dry.

Drive over to JOE'S SUNOCO SERVICE at 640 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine for this important service. Your car will run smoother and safer, and last longer.

New Courses Added To Night School List

With the opening of the Wheeling High School this fall, the scope of the High School District 214 adult education program was enlarged to include the fourth high school. In addition several new courses were added to broaden the program.

New courses being offered in connection with the program include the following: banjo, salesmanship, two new courses in electronics, upholstery, history of Western painting, basic English, reading development, a co-educational physical recreation course, United States Power Squadron, and humanities.

The banjo class will be of the hootenanny, sing-along variety. The salesmanship course will be directed toward retail sales. New electronics courses are FCC licensing, and industrial electronics and control circuits.

Footstools, chairs and other small pieces of furniture may be upholstered in the upholstery class. For adults desiring training in the fine arts, the history of Western painting is designed to appeal to their cultural values.

BASIC ENGLISH is designed for those who need to learn the fundamentals in the use of the English language, and reading development is intended for the slow reader who needs to increase his speed and comprehension.

A course that will appeal to couples who need a physical tuneup is the co-educational physical recreation is metrics program—the newest and most publicized of the body building developments.

The U. S. Power Squadron is coming into the program for the first time with a piloting and small boat handling course.

A course in humanities is planned mainly for teachers and others with college backgrounds. College credit courses are being offered by Northern Illinois University, the University of Illinois and National College.

AN ADULT education brochure which was recently mailed to the taxpayers of the district contains dscriptions of the courses, dates, times, places, and tuition fees.

Registration for this fall will be held at Arlington High School in the library on Monday, Sept. 21; at Prospect High, in the cafeteria, on Tuesday, Sept. 22; and at Forest View in the library on Wednesday, Sept. 23. Registration at all three schools will start at 7 p.m. and close at 9 p.m.

For more information concerning the courses offered by the Adult Education department please call CL 3-1700. (ACME

Plans Announced For GOP Picnic

Gerald Moe, Buffalo Grove, and John Walsh Jr., Arlington Heights, announced this week more detailed plans for the Wheeling Township Republican Committeeman's picnic, Sunday, Sept. 27, from 1 to 6:30 p.m.

Last week Moe and Walsh were appointed by Thomas J. Houser, committeeman, to organize the event.

"We have had a meeting of our group," report Moe and Walsh in a joint statement, "and we can assure all Republicans of an enjoyable time. Buffalo Bill's picnic grounds, on Buffalo Grove Road, north of Dundee Road, have been reserved and games for all age groups are being planned."

"DON HILLENMAYER, who studied physical education, is arranging a father-son baseball game, races for the children, and an egg-throwing contest for couples," continued Moe and Walsh. Prizes for the children will be contributed through the courtesy of Northwest Firestone Store, Arlington Heights.

Ice cream and pop will be available for the children throughout the day, and at 5 p.m. beef sandwiches will be served to all in attendance.

"Invitations are being mailed to all Republican candidates," concluded Moe and Walsh, "and we are already assured of a fine representation."

When It Speaks, Politicos Listen

by DAN BAUMANN
Staff Writer

In the midst of this every-fourth-year election battle, politicians of both parties are taking time out to pat the ladies on the back.

The reason: this is League of Women Voters Week. President Johnson, Governor Kerner and others have issued proclamations citing the unique women's group which had its birthing in the suffragette movement.

Similar proclamations have been issued by officials in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village

As a political action group, the League of Women Voters has fostered the observance to call attention to its work, much as the canning lobby might sponsor national pickle week. Chances are, though, the politicians pay more attention to the league's observance than they do to pickle week.

That's because the league's influence reaches far beyond its small membership (135,000 nationally) and budget ($1.95 million on all league levels).

WHEN THE league speaks, politicians listen.

Not because it controls blocks of voters. Nor because it can pump funds into campaign money chests. But simply because it has the respect of many voters, male and female.

The league is a nonpartisan organization whose purposes are to promote citizen participation in government and to provide information on candidates and issues. It was originally a part of the National American Women Suffrage Association. When the 19th Amendment was added to the Constitution in 1920, the league succeeded the suffrage association.

The changing interests of women are mirrored by the history of the league. When it was a part of the suffrage movement, the major political interest of women was the question of women's voting rights. The 19th Amendment settled that question.

In the 1920's, other special interests of women continued to occupy the league — like women's and children's working hours and conditions.

Later, the group's interests broadened along with those of the women who composed it. In the 1930's, the league became concerned with civil liberties, which has become recognized as a major national problem only since World War II. The group also gave its support to the League of Nations.

ITS NATIONAL concerns today include the development of human resources, support of the United Nations (an enormous amount of effort goes into studying U.N. work), foreign economic policy, water resources, self government for Washington, D. C., tax rates, treaties and problems of loyalty.

On the state level, the league is concerned with welfare services, the need for annual sessions of the legislature, an updated state constitution, civil liberties and revenue, judicial and election reforms.

Two leagues exist in the northwest suburbs. The Palatine League of Women Voters covers Palatine Township. The Arlington Heights league covers Wheeling Township and part of Elk Grove Township.

The Palatine group's current agenda includes a "Know Your Town" survey of local government. It lists as a continuing responsibility the continual improvement of township government.

The Arlington league is working for establishment of a human relations commission in the village, updating its survey of local government and supporting improvements in county handling of family and juvenile problems.

Continuing responsibilities include support of the village manager form of government and working for "economical and efficient budgeting and wise expenditure of Wheeling Township income."

LEAGUES DO not arrive at their positions lightly, according to Mrs. Andrew Koller, Palatine league president.

"The process begins with the adoption by the league of a study item," she commented. "Each individual league studies it, developing all the information it can. It may take two or three years." At the national league's meeting, positions on national issues are adopted by majority agreement. At that point, public relations and lobbying techniques are employed to make the league's position known. The league does not employ professional lobbyists but uses volunteer elected members.

Income comes from two sources: membership dues and outside donations. The Arlington league will begin its drive Saturday to collect $800 in donations to support local activities and its share of state and national expenses. The Palatine league's drive for $500 starts Oct. 12.

In the November elections, the local groups will disseminate information about candidates and issues, will encourage voter registration and provide other voter services. One member of the Arlington league, Mrs. John Hoppe, headed a committee to obtain biographical information on the at-large state representative candidates.

It is activities of that sort that will be supported by the league fund drives.

The league is given major credit for such reforms as permanent voter registration, jury service for women, the Blue Ballot court reform and conservation programs.

But the league is affected by change, just as it works to bring about change. An example: the interests of women have broadened to the point where they are the interests of all citizens, and there is talk within the organization of opening membership to all (men may be admitted only as associate members). That would convert the organization into a "League of Voters."

According to Mrs. R. J. Schlott, Arlington public relations chairman, "We used to be an organization of women, for women. Now we're basically an organization of women for all people." (A15 VOTER SERVICE: Mrs. Bruce Bremberg, a member of the Arlington Heights League of Women Voters, explains ballots to be used in the November elections to Miss Lynn Stadell, 416 E. Fairview Ave., Arlington Heights. The league set up a booth at Randhurst shopping center to help voters. (A15

Gives Ruling on Pay Due Board Chairman

If the chairman of the County Board of Supervisors attended a meeting of the Board of Review in the morning, a meeting of the Board of Supervisors in the afternoon and a Liquor Control Commission in the evening, he would be entitled to three per diem fees for the day, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark ruled recently.

The chairman of the county board by statute is ex officio chairman of the Board of Review and each board member is entitled to a fee, Clark's opinion advised State's Atty. Richard Stengel of Rock Island County. Further, Clark's opinion said, he also is the county liquor control commissioner and as such is entitled to a fee.

A county board cannot alter statutory provisions, Clark's opinion said, and hence the board cannot establish a policy limiting all board members to one per diem fee for all county business undertaken in any capacity during any one 24-hour period.

The Supreme Court has held, Clark's opinion said, that a member of the Board of Supervisors can receive additional compensation for other statutory duties where the statute so provides. (A15

4 Plants Snagged From California

Teamwork by a group of Illinois state officials and business executives was credited with attracting four California companies to Illinois within the last 17 months.

"This is quite an accomplishment," said Gene Graves, executive director of the Illinois Board of Economic Development.

In a report to Gov. Otto Kerner, Graves said that a "Sell Illinois" visit to 30 California companies made in March, 1963, by 15 industrial development professionals representing the Illinois Board of Economic Development, chambers of commerce, public utilities and railroad companies, has resulted in the location of four major plants in Illinois.

"THESE FOUR plants alone," said Graves, "represent approximately $6 million in plant and equipment investments and 835 new jobs for Illinois workers."

Graves made the report following an announcement on last Monday, Aug. 31, by Capitol Records Inc., to build a $2 million manufacturing plant in Jacksonville. Ampex Company at Elk Grove Village, Litton Industries at Des Plaines, and the Gaylord Container division of Crown - Zellerbach at Carol Stream have all located here since March of last year. (A15

TV's 'Miss Beverly' At Woolworth Store

Romper Room's "Miss Beverly" will make a personal appearance at Woolworth's in Rolling Meadows shopping center, today (Thursday) in celebration of the opening of Septemberfest.

The "dime store" is turning the front walk into an outdoor cafe, serving orange drinks and hot dogs. Frankfurter is the preferred name of the American favorite sausage during Septemberfest.

To highlight this afternoon's activities in the center, Manager Alvin Hanson has arranged for Beverly Marston teacher of Chicago television's Romper Room to be at the store from 2 to 4 p.m. to meet youngsters of the northwest suburbs.

THE PROGRAM is beamed at children of pre-school age, its key aim to acquaint youngsters with the atmosphere of a classroom while they are still too young to attend school. It has been hailed by educators, critics and present as "just what the small set needed."

The program is sponsored in part by Woolworth, on WGN-TV, Channel 9, every Monday through Friday from 9 to 9:30 a.m. When "Miss Beverly" is free from the studio and rehearsals and conferences, she travels to Woolworth's many stores to meet her television "pupils."

Some features of the program are "Mr. Do Bee," an educated bee that teaches the children rights and wrongs of behavior; physical fitness activities; and the making of simple things. Youngsters at home are encouraged to follow the goings-on at the "classroom" on television where the teacher puts six youngsters through a day in kindergarten.

"Children today are more advanced than I was," says "Miss Beverly." "They're so accustomed to learning through television." She finds that youngsters who are anxious to enroll on the program make the best students, and they show a great deal of inventiveness. A different group of children is invited to appear on the program each two weeks.

PART OF Beverly Marston's knack for getting along with her audience comes from an extensive background in kindergarten and nursery education. She also has had a radio show that covered, among other subjects, child guidance.

She majored in education at the University of Wisconsin. Romper Room, she says, gives her an opportunity "to combine my love and knowledge of children with dramatics."

"OPEN YOUR EYES, open your ears and here we go —" and "Miss Beverly's" Romper Room is on the air daily to entertain pre-school children. She will be at Woolworth's in Rolling Meadows shopping center today (Thursday) from 2 to 4 p.m. to meet her television students from throughout the northwest suburbs. Her appearance is in celebration of the opening of Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows. (KSS

Authentic Gypsy Will Read Palms

A fascinating vignette of the history of Europe is the story of the gypsy bands that still rove through the countryside, retaining their traditional customs and culture.

Fortunate indeed is the traveller who comes on a gypsy camp, hears the wild music of the fiddles and glimpses the flash of dark eyes as the young men and women dance about the camp fire.

Folk lore has it that these people, whose origins have been lost in antiquity, frequently have an occult power to foretell the future.

A REPUTEDLY genuine gypsy fortuneteller, "Madame Renee from Romany" has been engaged by Blanche Ninnemann to read palms at the Duchess Beauty Salon in the west annex of Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest, adding a new note of the Old World to the festival.

Mrs. Ninnemann says her gypsy friend has a "perfectly wierd" gift for predicting the future. Unlike most palmists, Madame Renee's palm won't have to be crossed with silver for the reading.

Beauticians in the shop will join the fun by wearing peasant headdresses during the three-day event. Imported cheese and crackers will he served customers along with the usual coffee or Coke. As an added attraction, an electrical appliance will be awarded to a customer who visits the shop during Septemberfest.

German Beetles to Give Two Concerts

The German Beetles, a swinging combo from Norridge that frequently is billed as the Eldorados, will appear in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest.

They will be on stage from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, and from 3:30 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

There is a good possibility their performance Friday night will develop into a hootenanny, as the combo is followed by folk-singer Louise Buntenbach.

THIS BEETLE troupe is long on music as well as personality. Ron Cierny, leader of the group which has been playing together for well over a year, plays lead guitar. He studied saxophone for six years and a year ago took up the string bass, playing bass in the Ridgewood High School orchestra, dance and concert bands. He has played both sax and guitar in contests.

Playing sax in the combo is Gary Cierny, who also has entered contests during his four-year study of the instrument, which he plays in the Ridgewood concert band.

Bob Coyne, bass guitarist, has been on the instrument over a year. He attends Holy Cross High School.

THE THIRD guitarist is Dennis Carlin, who played in a drum and twirling corps before taking up guitar several years ago.

Ralph Chor began drumming two years ago in a drum and twirling corps, participating in contests last year and still active in the corps, where he is assistant drum sergeant. He plays in the Holy Cross band.

"LADY BE GOOD" Gus Augspurg tells Mary Ann, one of his educated monkeys who is making monkey business out of what was intended to be a proper tea party. Judy, a rhesus monkey, abets her pal in the slapstick comedy that was called a "program stopper" in a "Variety" report of a 90-minute television show in Cleveland. The act comes to Crawford Department Store during Septemberfest from successful appearances on Ed Sullivan's Show and Bozo's Circus.

Crawford Entertains With Monkey Business

"Monkey business at its best" is Hilton Haney's description of the entertainment he has arranged at Crawford Department Store in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest.

Haney, advertising manager of the department store chain, is bringing Gus Augspurg and his educated monkeys back to the store this fall directly from an appearance on Ed Sullivan's TV program.

The "Jungle Wonders" made a big hit last Septemberfest, when kids of all ages were delighted with the monkey doodles as Judy, a rhesus monkey, and Mary Jane, a Queenie baboon, went through the paces of a day in the baboon school.

THE SHOW has been called comedy at its funniest. Those who saw the act last fall agree. The script is fresh and original, as Judy manages to get in and out of mischief so fast that her teacher, Augspurg, is left in the dust and audience in gales of laughter. When Mary Jane joins her for a tea party at recess, even kids agree it's something that shouldn't happen to any teacher.

Haney scooped the entertainment world when he was able to bring the troupe up from Kentucky to Rolling Meadows for the three-day stand.

Performances at 2, 4 and 7:30 Thursday and Friday and at 2 and 4:30 p.m. Saturday will be inside the store, near the children's section.

Crawford Entertains With Monkey Business

"Monkey business at its best" is Hilton Haney's description of the entertainment he has arranged at Crawford Department Store in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest.

Haney, advertising manager of the department store chain, is bringing Gus Augspurg and his educated monkeys back to the store this fall directly from an appearance on Ed Sullivan's TV program.

The "Jungle Wonders" made a big hit last Septemberfest, when kids of all ages were delighted with the monkey doodles as Judy, a rhesus monkey, and Mary Jane, a Queenie baboon, went through the paces of a day in the baboon school.

THE SHOW has been called comedy at its funniest. Those who saw the act last fall agree. The script is fresh and original, as Judy manages to get in and out of mischief so fast that her teacher, Augspurg, is left in the dust and audience in gales of laughter. When Mary Jane joins her for a tea party at recess, even kids agree it's something that shouldn't happen to any teacher.

Haney scooped the entertainment world when he was able to bring the troupe up from Kentucky to Rolling Meadows for the three-day stand.

Performances at 2, 4 and 7:30 Thursday and Friday and at 2 and 4:30 p.m. Saturday will be inside the store, near the children's section.

Illinois Beauty Queen Will Award Top Festival Prizes

Miss Illinois-Universe will award the prizes to winners in the contests being held in conjunction with Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center.

Fair visitors can compete to polka records in a dancing contest, for playing cards in a pinochle tournament, for a late edition of Webster's Collegiate dictionary in a word building contest.

The "best dressed hausfrau," wearing the most appropriate Bavarian outfit to the Saturday night dance which officially closes September, will be treated to a personality hair styling and finest permanent body wave offered by Duchess Beauty Salon.

MEIN HERR, chosen for his garb of lederhosen and hosentrager andthe rest of the German native dress, will receive a transistor radio.

Kids, too, will enter the costume competition. Their awards will be the distinctive Septemberfest T-shirts and alpine hats.

Everyone has an opportunity to play the word building game, and the longest list of correct English words compiled from "Das ist Septemberfest" will win the dictionary. Second prize will be a Lufthansa flight bag.

The word list must be deposited in one of the local stores before Saturday noon. All ages are eligible to compete.

TEEN AND pre-teen boys were the most numerous entries in last year's egg throwing contest, that proved so popular that it had to be run off in several heats to determine the winner.

An egg is tossed gently back and forth between two persons, taking a backward step between each toss. Loser is the one who misses catching the egg; winner the one who gets farthest from the starting line.

Merchants decided a suitable prize would be a new pair of "tennies," from Schiff Shoes, for the sure-footed egg thrower who backs off most successfully.

The egg throwing is scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday morning.

PICKING THE knobbiest-kneed male, old or young, in the shopping center was a natural event, considering that lederhosen are correct attire during the festival. Judging will be conducted in the biergarten at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, and winners will receive Lufthansa travel bags, to complete their Old World costume.

A trip to Duchess Beauty Salon will be the reward for the little girl who turns up in the shopping center at 11 a.m. Saturday with the longest pigtails. Judges will be Mrs. Blanche Ninnemann, proprietor of the Duchess, and Mrs. Gertrude Darnall, city clerk.

A card room will be set up in the mall at the west end of the biergarten at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon, where pinochle fans can hold a tournament. Double decks of cards will go to the winners.

The costumes will be judged during the dance which commences at 7 p.m. Saturday in the biergarten, with Karen Sue Weisbrook, one of the 15 finalists in the annual Miss Universe pageant in Miami Beach, present to make the awards.

A POLKA contest is scheduled during the dancing, and albums of polka music will be the prizes for the best dancers.

Entry blanks for any and all contests have been distributed in local stores during the past week; however, additional entries in all contests are urged.

"Just be there at the scheduled time of the event and you may compete," said Wally Kling, chairman of entertainment and contests.

MISS ILLINOIS-Universe will reign over the Saturday night dance that winds up the second annual Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center. Karen Sue Wiesbrook, one of the 15 finalists in the Miami Beach contest, was engaged by W. C. Clements of Brown's Fried Chicken shop, where her father is an assistant. The beauty queen will arrive at Septemberfest at 1 p.m. Saturday, and remain to award prizes to contest winners during the dance that night.

Masonic Dinner Monday

All Master Masons in good standing and living in this area are invited to a dinner and Masonic get together on Monday, Sept. 21, at Old Orchard Country Club, according to Matthew Cation, 206 S. Wheeling Road, Prospect Heights.

Cation, vice chairman of the fraternal relations committee of the Scottish Rite Bodies of the Valley of Chicago, says that several excellent speakers will be present. The event will also give local Master Masons a chance to become better acquainted.

Those who attend will not be obligated in any way however, in order that proper reservations may be made for the dinner, it will be necessary that men wishing to attend contact R. William Malcolmson, CL 5-5478, in advance. (B10

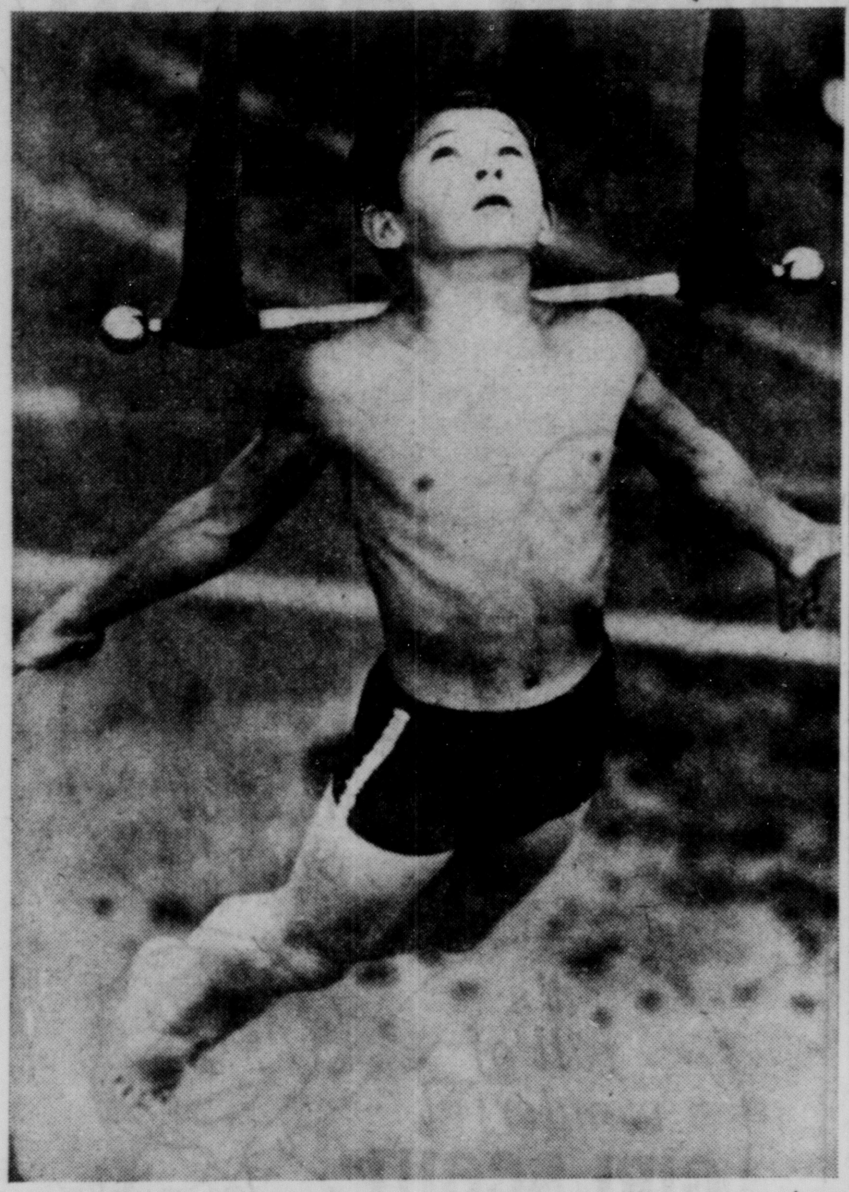
High Wire Troupe to Thrill Festival Crowds

Return Engagement For Arturo Family

"I want to be one of the great aerialists," says 12-year-old Cookie Arturo, member of the high-wire troupe that thrilled crowds gathered in Rolling Meadows Shopping Center last fall for the first annual Septemberfest.

The Great Arturos play a return engagement this weekend as the three-day festival is again in progress.



COOKIE ARTURO DOES a neck-hang on the trapeze in full flight. The youngster and his twin sister, Hedy, are starred in the Great Arturo aerialist troupe that returns to Septemberfest by popular demand. Arturo Trostl and his four children thrilled the crowds at last fall's festival in Rolling Meadows shopping center, and have returned this year from engagements in Maryland and Georgia. (KSS

Cookie and his twin sister, Hedy, were hits of the show last year. Later Cookie was featured in "Life" magazine.

He follows the family tradition. Five generations have been circus performers. Head of the troupe is the great Arturo Trostl himself, father of the twins and their brothers, Pepe and Nick, who walks across the high wire blindfolded, to awe spell-bound and earth-bound spectators.

NICK ASPIRES to ride a motorcycle on a wire across Niagara Falls; Pepe loves fast cars; Hedy is pretty as she sails through the air on her flying trapeze; but it is Cookie who is the darling of the show, who aspires to become one of the great aerialists.

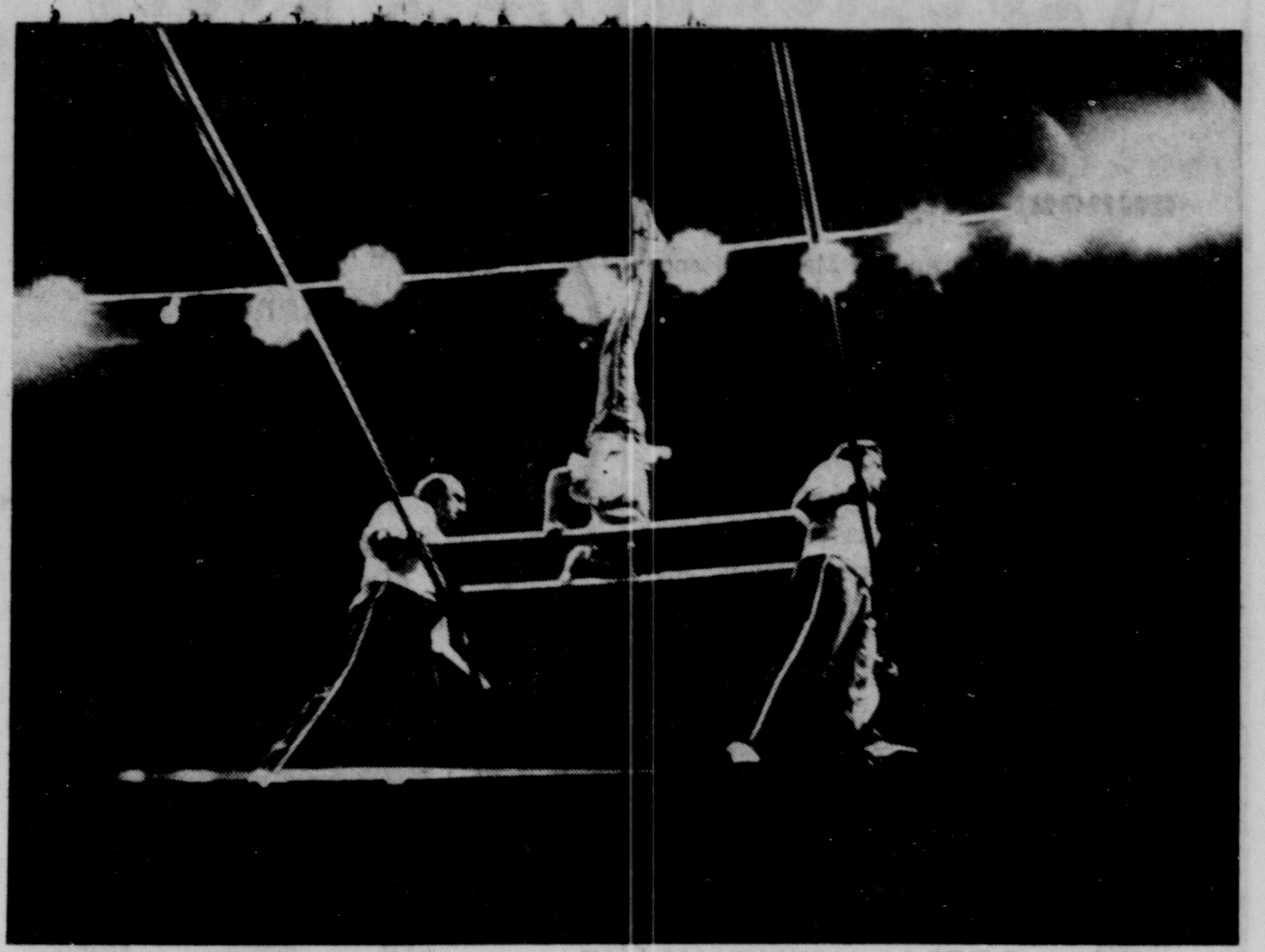
He is already adept at the neck-hang, the toe-hang, the one-foot-catch of a trapeze in full swing. His grace and agility as he walks across the high wire alone draws applause.

His most daring act is a headstand on a platform carried to mid-wire by his father and Nick.

COOKIE CLAIMS he cannot afford to spend four years in college. He will travel with the family troupe until he finishes high school (they retire to their Florida home in late fall, where the youngsters dig into their text books to catch up with their classes). Then, his father says, Cookie will get his own kit, his own blocks and cables, and "over he goes."

Circus is still king in Europe, and the young aerialist will be tutored by the world's best.

Meanwhile, he is being trained in his profession by his older brothers and his father so he will be ready to compete with the skilled European aerialists.



THE ENVY OF every boy who ever wanted to run away and join a circus is Arturo Trostl Jr., who does a headstand here on a platform carried by his father and brother, Nick, to the middle of the high wire on which the troupe performs. The Great Arturos are booked a year in advance for performances throughout the country. This is their second appearance at Rolling Meadows Septemberfest. (KSS

Same Day

Munich Also Has Festival

Septemberfest ends in Rolling Meadows Sept. 19, the same day that Munich's famed Oktoberfest commences in the Bavarian city.

Munich becomes a carnival of parades and pageantry, fun, festivity and feasting during the 16-day run of the noted folk festival, celebrated this year for the 131st time.

Oktoberfest is opened officially as a procession of gaily decked beer wagons arrives on the Theresienwiese fairgrounds with the festwirte (hosts of the fair).

IN A TRADITIONAL ceremony, the first barrel of "wies-'nbier" is tapped while guns placed at the Bavaria statue sound a crashing salute.

Mechanical organs, brass bands, gramophones and the voices of merry-makers join to make the air ring with the old folk tunes of Bavaria. Carnival attractions include merry-go-rounds and ferris wheels, booths and games.

The pageantry of national costumes and sports is traditional. Exhibitions of hunting, forestry and timber, and the Bavarian Central Agricultural Show are held during the Oktoberfest.

Munich is famed for its learning and culture, for its palaces and statue that delight sightseers, for its series of galas that wind up the season with Oktoberfest, which was originated to give thanks for the bountiful harvest.

During the annual Oktoberfest, the city entertains upwards of four million visitors.

High Wire Troupe to Thrill Festival Crowds

Return Engagement For Arturo Family

"I want to be one of the great aerialists," says 12-year-old Cookie Arturo, member of the high-wire troupe that thrilled crowds gathered in Rolling Meadows Shopping Center last fall for the first annual Septemberfest.

The Great Arturos play a return engagement this weekend as the three-day festival is again in progress.

COOKIE ARTURO DOES a neck-hang on the trapeze in full flight. The youngster and his twin sister, Hedy, are starred in the Great Arturo aerialist troupe that returns to Septemberfest by popular demand. Arturo Trostl and his four children thrilled the crowds at last fall's festival in Rolling Meadows shopping center, and have returned this year from engagements in Maryland and Georgia. (KSS

Cookie and his twin sister, Hedy, were hits of the show last year. Later Cookie was featured in "Life" magazine.

He follows the family tradition. Five generations have been circus performers. Head of the troupe is the great Arturo Trostl himself, father of the twins and their brothers, Pepe and Nick, who walks across the high wire blindfolded, to awe spell-bound and earth-bound spectators.

NICK ASPIRES to ride a motorcycle on a wire across Niagara Falls; Pepe loves fast cars; Hedy is pretty as she sails through the air on her flying trapeze; but it is Cookie who is the darling of the show, who aspires to become one of the great aerialists.

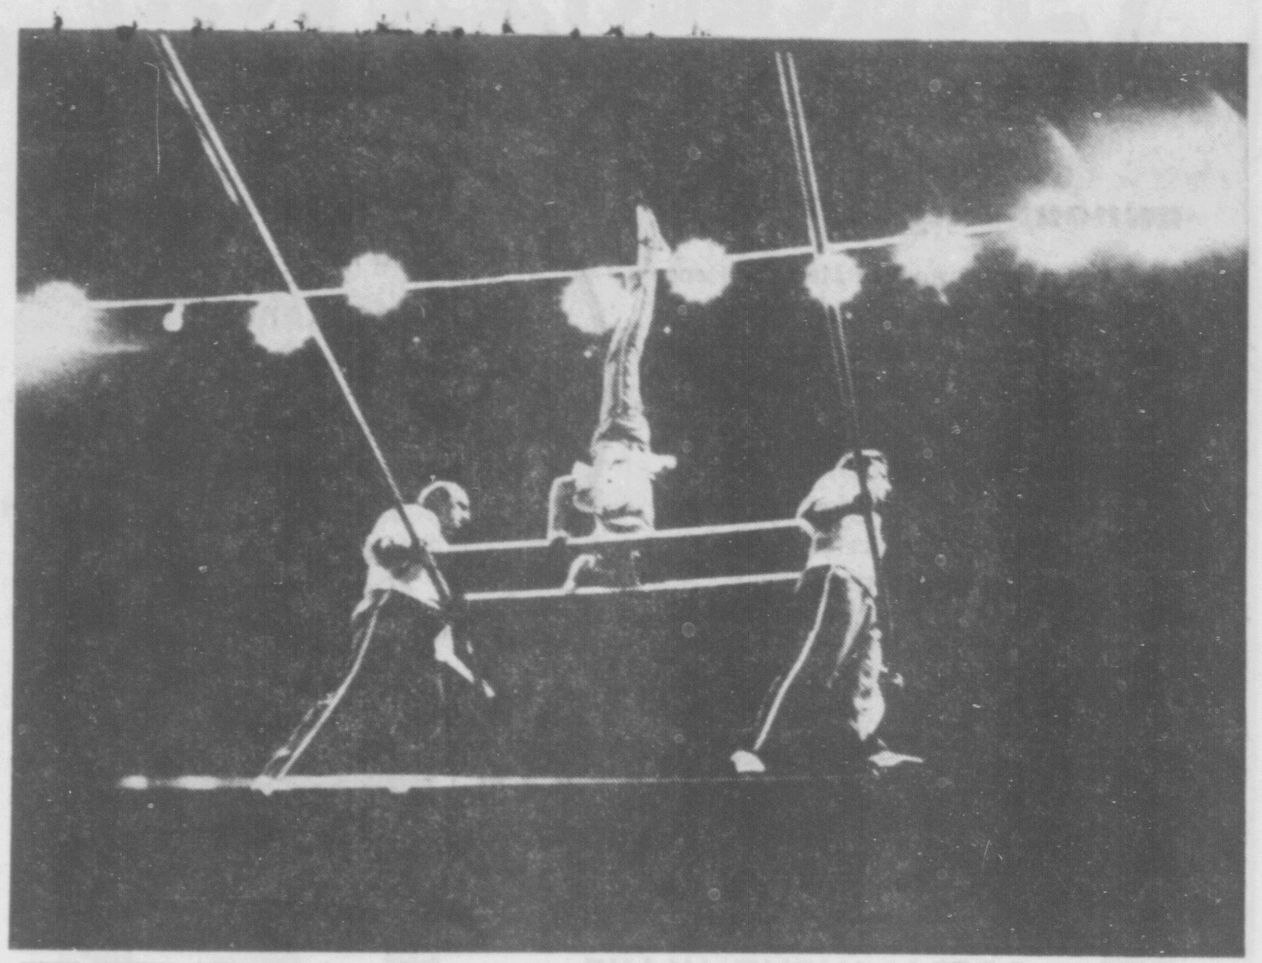
He is already adept at the neck-hang, the toe-hang, the one-foot-catch of a trapeze in full swing. His grace and agility as he walks across the high wire alone draws applause.

His most daring act is a headstand on a platform carried to mid-wire by his father and Nick.

COOKIE CLAIMS he cannot afford to spend four years in college. He will travel with the family troupe until he finishes high school (they retire to their Florida home in late fall, where the youngsters dig into their text books to catch up with their classes). Then, his father says, Cookie will get his own kit, his own blocks and cables, and "over he goes."

Circus is still king in Europe, and the young aerialist will be tutored by the world's best.

Meanwhile, he is being trained in his profession by his older brothers and his father so he will be ready to compete with the skilled European aerialists.



THE ENVY OF every boy who ever wanted to run away and join a circus is Arturo Trostl Jr., who does a headstand here on a platform carried by his father and brother, Nick, to the middle of the high wire on which the troupe performs. The Great Arturos are booked a year in advance for performances throughout the country. This is their second appearance at Rolling Meadows Septemberfest. (KSS

Munich Also Has Festival

Septemberfest ends in Rolling Meadows Sept. 19, the same day that Munich's famed Oktoberfest commences in the Bavarian city.

Munich becomes a carnival of parades and pageantry, fun, festivity and feasting during the 16-day run of the noted folk festival, celebrated this year for the 131st time.

Oktoberfest is opened officially as a procession of gaily decked beer wagons arrives on the Theresienwiese fairgrounds with the festwirte (hosts of the fair).

IN A TRADITIONAL ceremony, the first barrel of "wies'nbier" is tapped while guns placed at the Bavaria statue sound a crashing salute.

Mechanical organs, brass bands, gramophones and the voices of merry-makers join to make the air ring with the old folk tunes of Bavaria. Carnival attractions include merry-go-rounds and ferris wheels, booths and games.

The pageantry of national costumes and sports is traditional. Exhibitions of hunting, forestry and timber, and the Bavarian Central Agricultural Show are held during the Oktoberfest.

Munich is famed for its learning and culture, for its palaces and statue that delight sightseers, for its series of galas that wind up the season with Oktoberfest, which was originated to give thanks for the bountiful harvest.

During the annual Oktoberfest, the city entertains upwards of four million visitors.

Succulent Strudel Is Tasty Fest Feature

Delicately flaky strudels, filled with tangy cheese or spicy fruit, are a masterpiece of German cookery.

Strudel isn't exactly a recipe for beginners to try out. Instructions can be squeezed onto three pages of a cook book, but most don't bother to include the tempting pastry.

It's pretty tricky, like "add remainder of the water if necessary." Only a true hausfrau can tell, by instinct or heredity or something, if the rest of the water is necessary.

BUT MIXING the dough is relatively simple. The next step, after the dough has been kneaded and let rise under a warm bowl, is to cover a 30-inch or larger table with a cloth into which flour has been rubbed evenly. First the dough is rolled out on the cloth, then using the hands it is gently pulled and tugged until it drapes over the sides.

When the dough is paper thin—well, any cook who has gotten to that stage knows the rest, about filling with the fruit mixture or cheese, and rolling the dough end over end.

If this all sounds like a tedious way to cook up a delicious dessert, there is a simple answer. The mouth-watering pastry will be featured at Bugiel's Bakery in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest.

Apfel (apple) and kase (cheese) filled strudels will be baked crispy fresh daily, as well as cherry strudels and perhaps other fruits.

ANOTHER specialty during the three-day festival will be German sweet chocolate cake. "I don't know if it is really a traditional German cake," confesses Mrs. Bugiel, "but it is in keeping with the rich, hearty food so enjoyed by Europeans and Americans alike."

A gay person, Mrs. Bugiel delights in the annual carnival held in the shopping center.

She has set up a display of her collection of Hummel figurines, all imported from Germany by friends who learned of her interest in tiny but colorful figures designed by a German nun. Sister Hummel has died, and no new molds will be cast, but reproductions will continue to be made of the many that bear the Hummel stamp. the Hummel stamp.

The collection has been arranged in a glass case inside the bakery where it may be viewed, along with examples of Bavarian china cups and saucers. (KSS

Septemberfest Planned at Rolling Meadows

Plan Bavarian Folk Theme

"Sie sind herzlich Willkommen."

Translated, that means you are heartily invited to the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center's second annual Septemberfest.

It's that time of year when the merchants on the north side of Kirchoff Road recreate the atmosphere of a Bavarian village folk festival.

An open market, biergarten, sidewalk cafes and people in peasant costume transform the modern shopping center into a typical European scene. The fair will end with an outdoor dance Saturday night from 7 to 10 p.m.

SEPTEMBERFEST provides fun and frolic for the young at heart. There are activities to please and entertain all ages.

Old World music will ring through the air, setting feet to tapping out polkas on the street.

Old World food will satisfy hearty appetites.

The spirit of Septemberfest, patterned after Munich's famed Oktoberfest, can be best described as Lufthansa says of the original: "There is no need for the pursuit of happiness — because happiness is here in abundance and all around you."

The happiness is contagious, easily contracted from the merchants who have dedicated the festival to the well-being and bliss of their customers.

BALLOONS FLOAT in store windows, and flying high above the center are gigantic weather balloons, to lead carnival-seekers to Septemberfest.

Gaily colored flags flutter over the outdoor biergarten, where food and beverages are served. Bratwurst sandwiches are fast becoming one of the most popular foods of the festival.

No carnival is worthy of the name without rides, so there is a carousal, ferris wheel and tilt-a-whirl set up in the west parking lot.

FOCAL POINT of the outdoor marketplace will be the gingerbread-trimmed importhaus, where stores in the center will offer selected merchandise for sale. Besides the souvenirs, the merchants will have a display of higher priced goods and genuine imports that are available in the fine stores.

Festivities will wind up Saturday night, when there will be a street dance for employees of the shopping center and all their customers.

The biergarten will remain open during the evening, but sidewalk sales booths will be dismantled before the party begins at 7 p.m., when the Great Arturo aerialist troupe will stage their final performance.

A GERMAN BAND will play for the dancing, which will include a polka contest open to all. Miss Illinois-Universe will be present to award prizes to the polka champions as well as to winners of other contests held during the Septemberfest.

Women wearing dirndl skirts and men in lederhosen will add a colorful note to the dance, and all are encouraged to come in costume. However, casual dress will be appropriate attire.

Cheerful Oom-Pahs Add Fun to Center

It's a tosspup which is more fun—the old-fashioned German music that has been ringing out in Rolling Meadows shopping center for the past week, or the record covers.

One record title, "Happy Music," just about sums up the sounds that emanate from the public address system.

The repertoire includes marches played by the Berlin Guard Band; polkas and waltzes.

THERE IS "Music of the Alps;" and beer garden music of Germany, of Hungary, of Austria. And there is a recording of Ernst Moser and his Bohemian band.

There is the "Golden Barrel Organ" and German beer drinking songs.

There is the oom-pah of tubas and the plaintive air of zithers and the full brass band.

And finally, there is "The Ol Calliope Man Visits a German Hofbrau."

THE COLLECTION of records particularly appropriate for Septemberfest was gathered by local merchants to set the pace for the festival, during which a wide variety of musical entertainment will be offered.

Local artists Louise Buntenbach with her guitar and Bernell Ross at the organ, the German Beetles, the Rolling Meadows Municipal Band, Ludwig Kalbrunner and his zither, the Hungry Five, all are scheduled to make appearances during the three-day festivities.

Both Eye, Taste Are Pampered

A happy combination of delicious food and a beautiful girl is Brown's Fried Chicken Shop's contribution to Septemberfest fun.

"The best fried chicken to captivate your eye," says W. C. Clement.

Karen Sue Weisbrook, selected to represent Illinois in the Miss Universe contest, will be at the shop or the west mall from 1 p.m. Saturday until closing.

THE CRISPY fried chicken will be available throughout the three-day festival.

To make it handier for merrymakers, a Brown's Chicken Chalet will be set up in the beer garden, under the sign of the clown, where a piece of chicken and a cold drink will be sold at the combination price of 25 cents.

The full chicken dinner, either to eat at the carnival or to take home, will be sold at the store west of the arcade, where June Zimmer, one of the clerks, will entertain with her accordion. Del Weisbrook, the beauty queen's father, is one of the store managers.

OF MEMBER COUNTRIES OF THE UNITED NATIONS

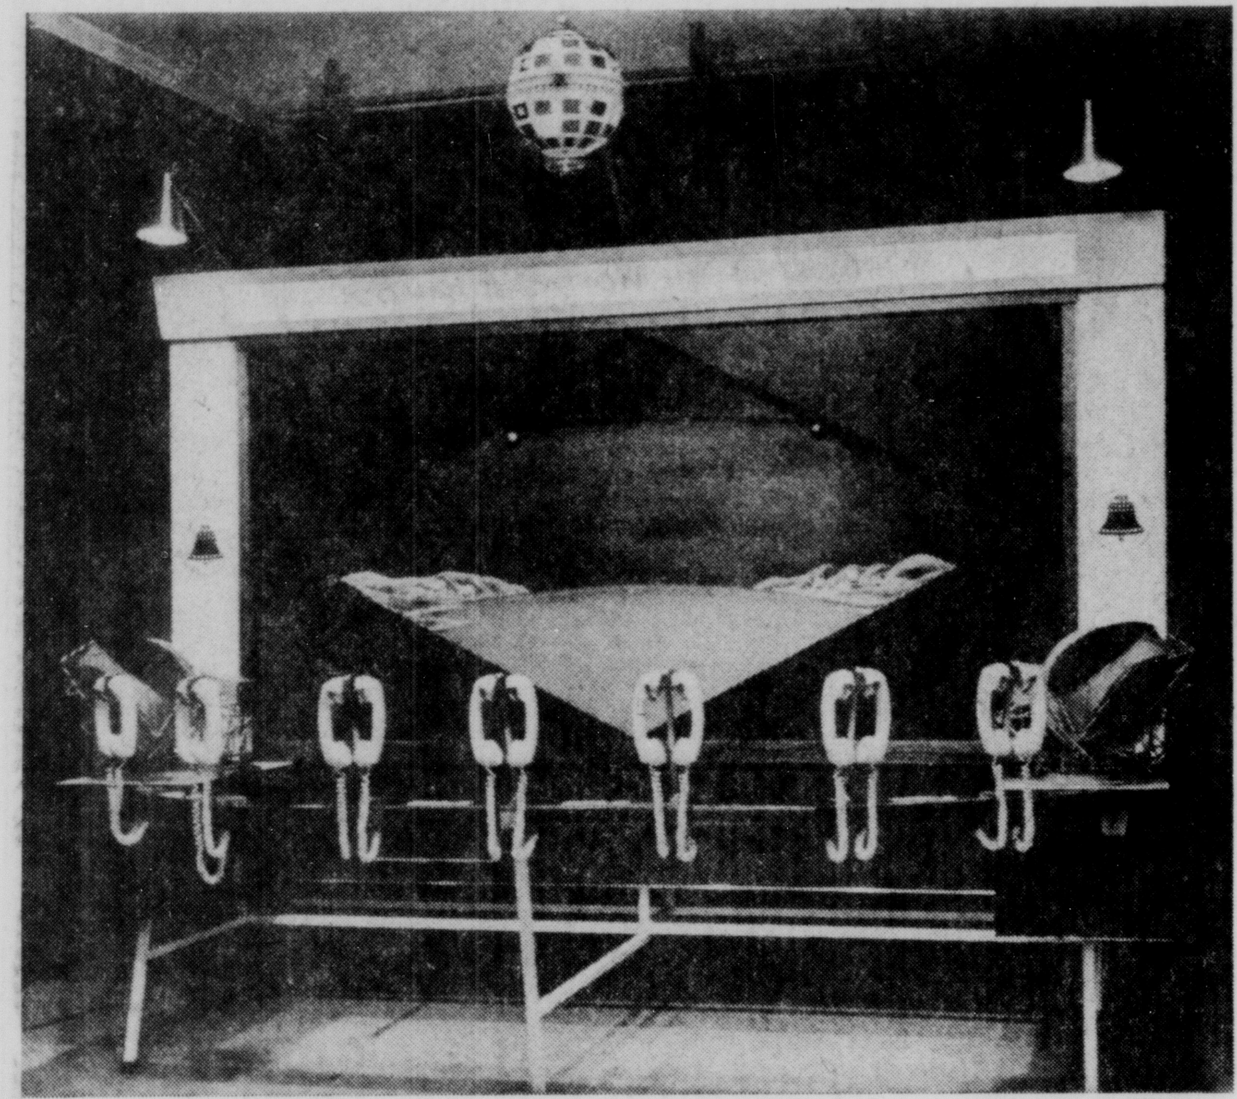
A CHALLENGING aspect of European travel is figuring money, American versus the currency of the country. A quick course in the coins of the United Nations countries will be on display during Septemberfest in the Bank of Rolling Meadows, where tellers will be garbed in native Bavarian costume to lend a cosmopolitan air to the local bank.



COMMUNICATION by satellites will be demonstrated in a special Illinois Bell Telephone Company exhibit set up in My Shop during Septemberfest. A model Telstar satellite as well as models of receiving and transmitting antennas demonstrate how signals can be "bounced" from satellite to earth. Moving beams of light pick up satellites as they move across the sky to present effective demonstration of how a multi-satellite program would be accomplished. The exhibit was arranged by Bill Behlke, who noted that industrial displays play a large role in the famed Munich Oktoberfest. (KSS

Zither Demonstration Set for Ace Hardware

The zither is to the Bavarian youth what the guitar is to local teenagers.

So says Ludwig Kalbrunner of Palatine.

He should know. He was one of 64 zither students in the little Bavarian Alpine town of Ruhtolding.

Dressed in the native peasant costume he brought with him to this country ten years ago, Ludwig will play his zither in the Ace Harware Store during the current Rolling Meadows Septemberfest.

AN ACCOMPLISHED artist on the typically German instrument, he plays old German songs, Viennese waltzes, American popular tunes. Like some people collect stamps, Ludwig has collected the folk music of the Continent, and entertains with Hungarian, Austrian, Norwegian and other national music.

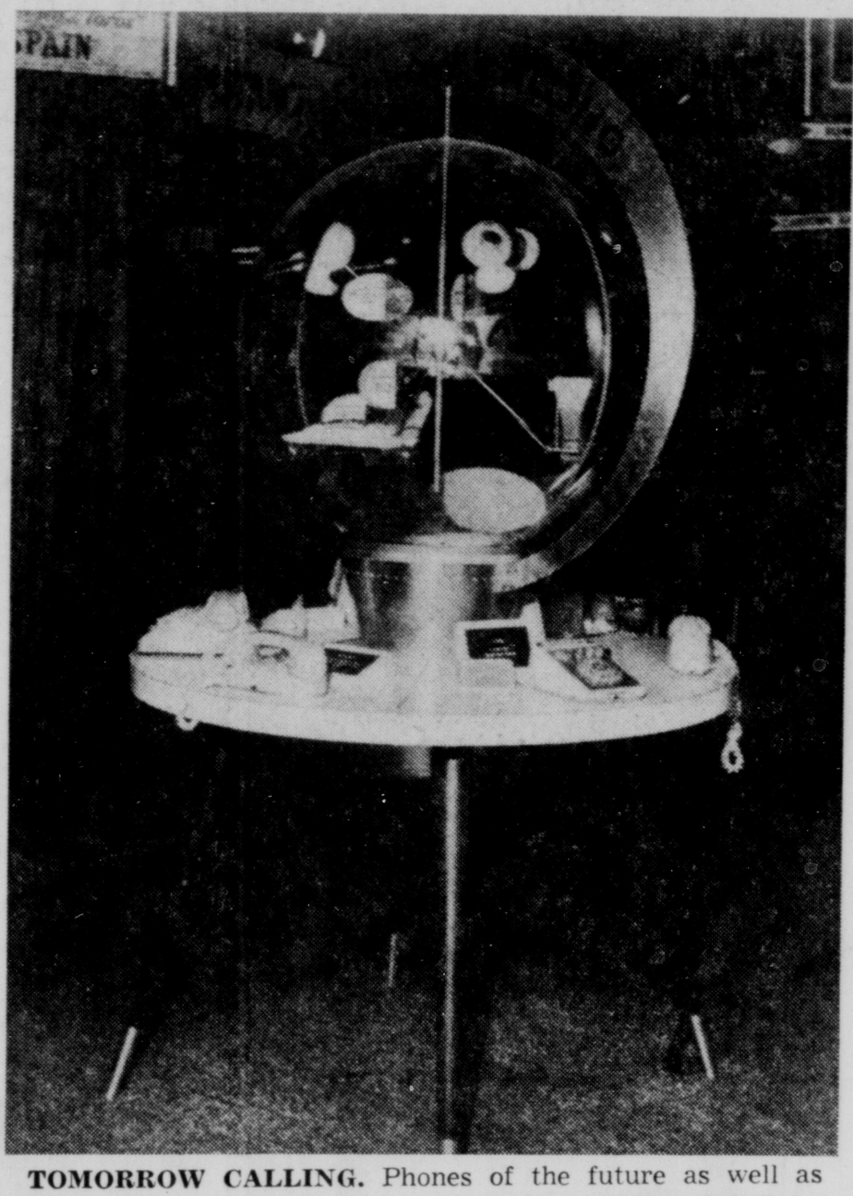
A zither is almost as versatile as a piano, according to Kalbrunner, who points out it is one of the few instruments that needs no accompanimant. The 42 strings allow four octaves for the melody and a range of three octaves on bass. "Even classical music can be played on a zither," he claims, but admits that he has little call for the long-hair variety by his listeners at Henry and Mary's Hofbrau Inn on Rand Road, where he can be heard each weekend.

Ludwig started lessons on the zither at the tender age of nine. "There is a great deal of tension on the strings," he says, "and I soon developed calluses on my fingers." As he grew up he played in the local wein stube, "a cozy little tavern, no bar," he describes it.

STRING instruments are popular in Bavaria, and his training included lessons on the harp, the guitar and the bow zither. He is finding an increasing interest in the zither in this country, and it is in demand as a teacher. His wife of three years is one of his prize students.

Does he miss the Alpine village where he grew up? Well, yes, and last year he returned for a visit. "When I'm playing," he confesses, "I fell I'm back in the mountains, and the I get a little homesick."

Ludwig is scheduled to play in Ace from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday, with an appearance on stage in the biergarten at 8:30 p.m.; from 4 to 7 p.m. Friday and from 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday.



TOMORROW CALLING. Phones of the future as well as modern instruments are being shown in an Illinois Bell Telephone Company exhibit at My Shop in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest. A plastic bubble surrounds future phones which are designers' concepts of what tomorrow's instruments may look like. All are appropriately named. On the counter are the call director, Princess phone, new-style Speakerphone and others. (KSS

Sidewalk Cafe to Serve Ice Cream

Stopping at a sidewalk cafe for an "ice" is one of the nicest of European customs.

It's grand chance to rest weary fet without wasting a minute as the traveller watches the passing throng.

Bresler's Wunder Bar, the new ice cream shop's tiny sidewalk cafe, will be open for business during the current Septemberfest. The shop itself has been renamed the "Gross Wunder Bar" for the three-day festival.

Noted for the infinite variety of ice cream flavors, Alice and Bob Rautenkranz have come up with some brand new ones for the three-day festival. Their waiters and waitresses, wearing peasant garb, will serve Bavarian ice, Black Forest Cooler, and Alpine Ale (ginger) ice cream, along with the regular 33 varieties.

THERE WILL be parfaits and fancy ice cream molds prepared in the best Old World tradition of fancy cookery.

The molds are a specialty of the Bresler chain. Most magnificent of the designs is the ice cream cake, which will be awarded to the person who gets the lucky carton when purchasing a quart of hand packed ice cream to take home.

There will be a number of specially marked "lucky" ice cream cups served during Septemberfest, good for a free pint of hand packed ice cream.

"Be sure to look on the bottom of the blue cup for a lucky number," advises Mrs. Rautenkranz.

Adding to the gaiety inside the Gross Wunder Bar, certain specialties will be priced according to the lucky number found inside balloons which will be given with these purchases.

Organist Performs Nightly

Bernell Ross will perform on the Lyon and Healy organ to entertain visitors to Septemberfest in Rolling Meadows shopping center today through Saturday.

Spotlighted in the large window of Murray's Store for Men, Ross is scheduled to play at 7 and 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday), and 8 p.m. Friday.

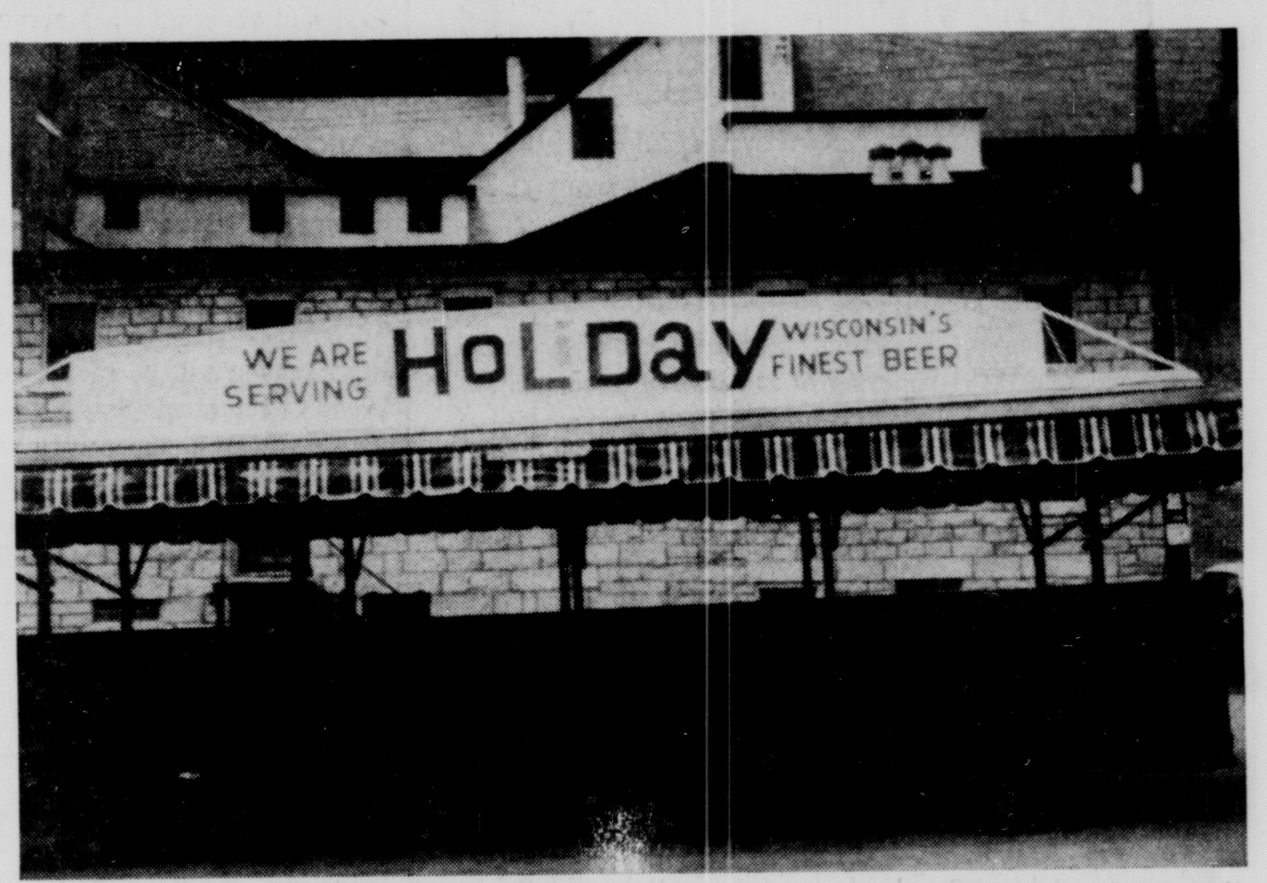
Ross has played professionally, both as an entertainer in a motel dining room and cocktail lounge and as a church organist. He earned both his bachelor's and master's degrees at Illinois Wesleyan University School of Music in Bloomington as an organ major, and now teaches general music in suburban Niles junior high school, besides teaching private organ pupils.

Both World War II and the Korean action interrupted Ross's music education, and after finishing his studies he remained in Bloomington until five years ago, when he moved to Rolling Meadows. Since coming to this area, he has been in demand to play for affairs such as Septemberfest, where he appeared last year and this week makes a return appearance.

THURS., SEPT. 17, 1964

MUSIC PLAYS a major role in creating the gala mood of Septemberfest, and Bernell Ross will add his talent as an organist to the varied program. The popular entertainer and teacher is shown here at the large organ which dominates the living room of his Rolling Meadows home. Contrary to the genera notion, Ross, who majored in organ at Illinois Wesleyan University, says it is easier to learn to play a regular organ then the chord version. (KSS

'I STARTED TO SING before I could talk," says Louise Buntenbach, talented young mother of four youngsters who divides her spare time between singing to her children and for the entertainment of her friends. A Rolling Meadows resident for the past seven years, she formerly appeared with her guitar at "Mr. Callahan's" in Chicago, and more recently at such local affairs as the summer concerts given by the Rolling Meadows Municipal Band, the Palatine Firemen's dance, and the annual shows given by St. Colette Catholic Woman's Club. Her repertoire includes ballads, folk songs and the old favorites. Louise will appear on stage in Rolling Meadows shopping center at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Thursday) and 8:30 p.m. Friday during Septemberfest. (KSS



A HOLIDAY atmosphere will prevail in Rol ing Meadows during Septemberfest, even t the brand of beer served in the outdoor bie garten. The mobile beer stand with its ga green and white striped awnings is show here in front of the Potosi, Wis., brewer where it was being readied for the trip t Rolling Meadows. The fine Wisconsin beer s brewed from an old German recipe to suit American tastes, according to Mike Sica, manager of Armanetti's in Rolling Meadows hopping center. Sica will be in charge of he biergarten, and has arranged for some ld-fashioned bartenders to draw the steins beer for merry-makers at the festival.

PRETTY MODELS parading in ski clothes will add color to Septemberfest, as well as provide extra entertainment for girl-watchers. Members of Crawford's Poise 'n Ivy Shop fashion board will give carnival visitors a preview of the attractive new styles that will be seen on the ski slopes as well as at football games, skating rinks and other outdoor events this winter. Here Cindy Wood, a Palatine North High School student, wears a Phil Rose sweater named "The Rug," over olive green Lycra spandex "flexie" stretch pants by Jack Winter, one of the outfits she has chosen to model. World's Largest Pretzel Displayed at Jewel Store

For at least 15 centuries bakers have been twisting long, thin rolls of dough into the distinctive shape that is known as the pretzel.

The long history of the crusty, nut-like snack food has always been associated with happy events and festive occasions; hence it is fitting that the world's largest pretzel is now on display at the Jewel Food Store in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest.

The giant "snack" weighing about 13 pounds and measuring approximately three feet wide and two feet high, contains enough dough to make over 1,000 regular size pretzels. It was especially baked for Septemberfest by Bachman Bakeries Corp. in Bluffton, Ind.

TRADITION has it that pretzels were created by an Italian monk about 610 A. D. to use up scraps left from baking bread. This imaginative monk twisted the rolled ends to represent children's arms folded in prayer, and he gave pretzels as a reward to youngsters for learning their prayers.

Either of two possible derivations of the word tend to support this legend. One is that it comes from "pretiola" which, in middle Latin, means "small gift." The other is that it derives from "bracciatello" or "little arms."

The pretzel found its way over the Alps where its popularity continues to this day.

References in art and literature show that the pretzel was widely known and well liked throughout the middle ages. At the end of that period, by influencing the outcome of an important siege, it won a permanent place in heraldry.

Early in the 16th century Turkish invaders swept into Europe, and it looked for a time as if the whole continent might fall before them. But they were stopped at Vienna in 1510. When the city held under siege, they tried to tunnel under the walls, working at night in order to avoid detection.

BUT VIENNESE pretzel bakers also worked at night. From their cellar bakeries they heard digging and led the assault which turned back the underground attack. The coat of arms bestowed on the bakers for their part in repulsing the Turks bears a pretzel in the midst of the shield. The emblem is still used to this day.

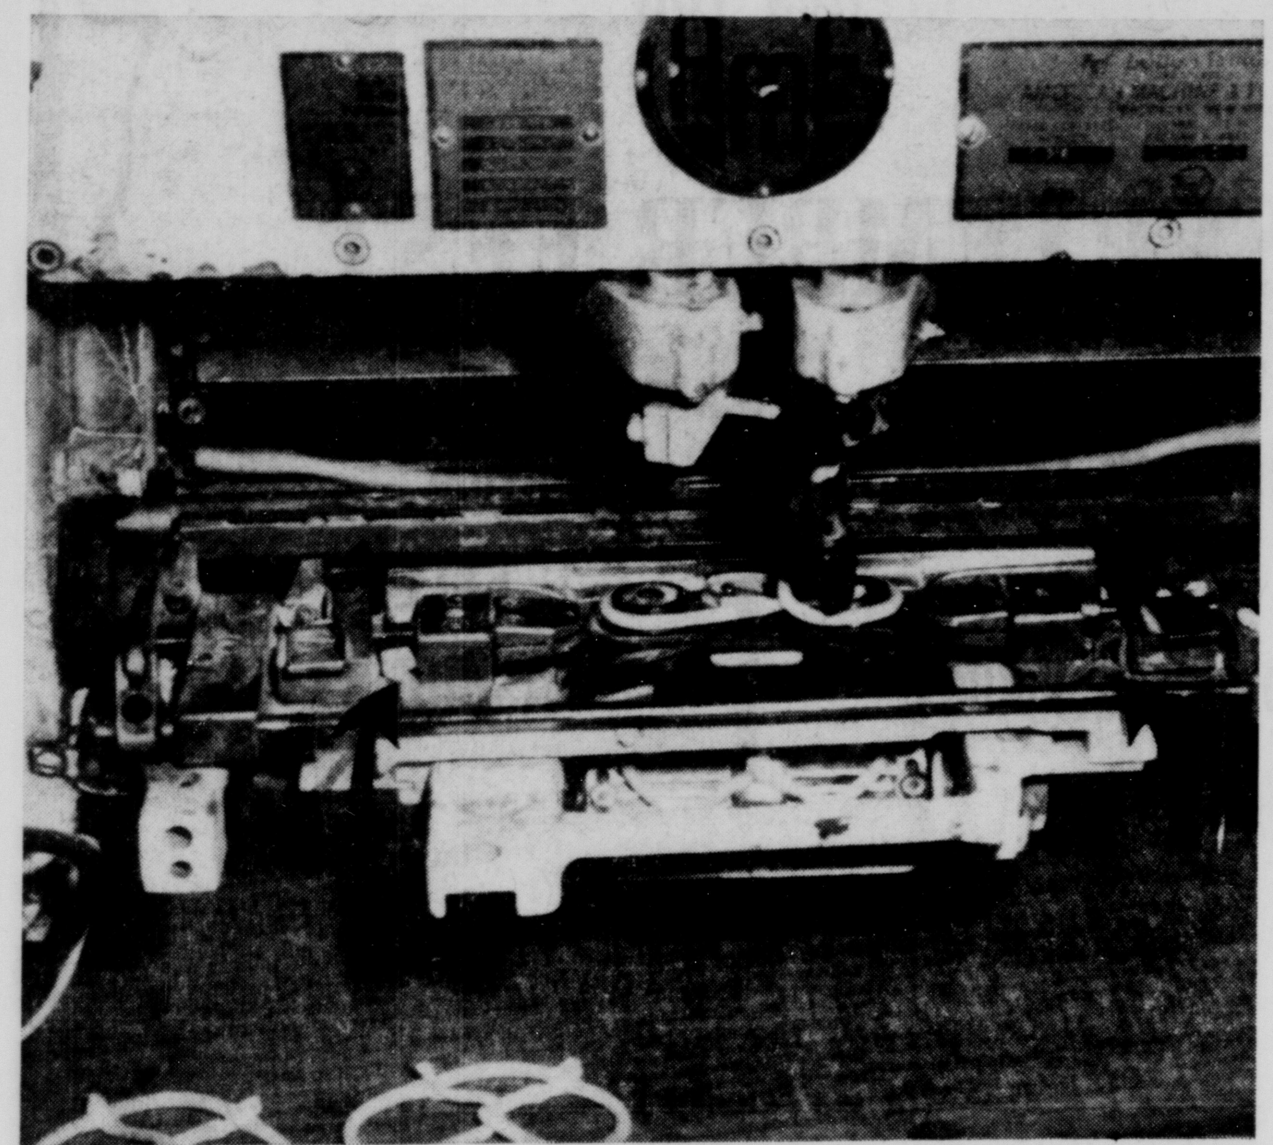
The pretzel figures, too, in the marriage ceremony of the period, when the bride and groom each linked a finger in a loop to break it apart on a wish. Since both probably wished for long happiness together, even the loser won.

The pretzel came to America with the earliest settlers. The first reference to it is in the record of a court case at Albany in 1652, when a complaint was lodged against one Jochem Wessels for selling pretzels made with fine flour to the Indians while he made bread for the settlers with bran.

PRETZEL baking has become a big business. About 80 bakeries in American produce more than 300 million pounds of pretzels a year. Pretzel baking has become an $80 million industry.

No longer do the baker's apprentices tediously but skillfully twist the loops of pencil-thin dough. All is done automatically, to turn out a perfect product every time.

To suit the different tastes of pretzel fans, there are some 20 varieties, adding to the popularity of the fun food.



FOR 15 CENTURIES pretzels were twisted by hand, but in 1933 Robert Ripley's "Believe It or Not" assertion that no one had been able to replace the skill and hand work of the old-time pretzel twister was challenged with success. Now the dough is extruded from a hopper, automatically twisted to shape and dropped onto a long belt that carries it to the cooker. But the tangy taste of the old-fashioned pretzel is now preserved better than ever with modern packaging. (KSS

A GERMAN FOLK festival wouldn't be complete without an accordionist, so June Zimmer will bring her accordion along when she comes to wait on trade at Brown's Fried Chicken shop and entertain customers as she prepares their orders.

THE HAUNTING twang of the zither is reminiscent of the Bavarian Alps, where it is the most popular musical instrument. Ludwig Kalbrunner, who will play his zither in Ace Hardware during Septemberfest, frequently plays at German celebrations, and in the twice yearly concerts of the Zither Club of Chicago. Sometimes, the music he plays makes him long for his native mountain village. (KSS

Climbing Boots Are Featured

Bavarian mountain climbing boots for little gents and big boys and their fathers, too, are the featured attraction at Schiff Shoes during Septemberfest.

Dennis Landgraf, recently named manager of the shoe store in Rolling Meadows shopping center, says all new fall styles will be on sale during the three-day event.

The Alpine shoes, tan with yellow laces and thick crepe rubber soles, come in both high-top and oxford styles.

TRI-COLOR flats and ankle boots for women will be shown by the peasant-costumed shoe clerks.

"Women's boots are going to be really wild this year," Landgraf predicted. "It's not time to think of snow around here quite yet, but now's the time to get a pair of the new boots and be ready for the first blizzard."

Feature Bratwurst At Fest Biergarten

You're either crazy about bratwurst—or you haven't eaten it.

The German specialty will be served in the Septemberfest biergarten in Rolling Meadows shopping center during the current three-day festival to please bratwurst fans whose appetites for the spicy sausage are never satisfied and to win new fans for the delicacy.

Veritable tons of bratwurst are consumed during Oktoberfest days in Munich.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Jaycees annually stage a bratwurst day in August, attracting thousands of fans from throughout the state and even farther away. In fact, ten tons of sausage were consumed at the 1964 event!

Downstate Columbia, near St. Louis, also features bratwurst during its annual festival.

Sheboygan, with its large German population, enjoys bratwurst all year round. The sausage is first grilled over charcoal, then treated to a dip in hot beer flavored with sliced onion, before it is served on Sheboygan buns. Charcoal grilling may be a summertime sport in suburbia, but Sheboyganers brave the mid-winter cold to tend the bratwurst cooking rather than wait for warm weather to enjoy their favorite food.

To follow the traditional recipe, Rolling Meadows Chamber of Commerce president, James Paroubek, arranged with his Ace Hardware supplier for three huge Webber cookers for use during Septemberfest.

TED SMALL was appointed in charge of the bratwurst counter, and guarantees a bevy of frauleins to serve as waitresses.

Bratwurst sandwiches were popular at last year's Septemberfest, and the merchants considered offering an imported brand. However, because of the expected demand a contract was arranged with Oscar Mayer to supply the brats, prepared and seasoned in the authentic Bavarian style.

Climbing Boots Are Featured

Bavarian mountain climbing boots for little gents and big boys and their fathers, too, are the featured attraction at Schiff Shoes during Septemberfest.

Dennis Landgraf, recently named manager of the shoe store in Rolling Meadows shopping center, says all new fall styles will be on sale during the three-day event.

The Alpine shoes, tan with yellow laces and thick crepe rubber soles, come in both high-top and oxford styles.

TRI-COLOR flats and ankle boots for women will be shown by the peasant-costumed shoe clerks.

"Women's boots are going to be really wild this year," Landgraf predicted. "It's not time to think of snow around here quite yet, but now's the time to get a pair of the new boots and be ready for the first blizzard."

Feature Bratwurst At Fest Biergarten

You're either crazy about bratwurst—or you haven't eaten it.

The German specialty will be served in the Septemberfest biergarten in Rolling Meadows shopping center during the current three-day festival to please bratwurst fans whose appetites for the spicy sausage are never satisfied and to win new fans for the delicacy.

Veritable tons of bratwurst are consumed during Oktoberfest days in Munich.

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., Jaycees annually stage a bratwurst day in August, attracting thousands of fans from throughout the state and even farther away. In fact, ten tons of sausage were consumed at the 1964 event!

Downstate Columbia, near St. Louis, also features bratwurst during its annual festival.

Broncho Unit Visits Cards

Sports Rivalry Revived With Football Opener

by BOB FRISK

They'll revive an athletic rivalry Friday evening at Arlington High School.

There was a day not so many years ago when Arlington and Barrington were common rivals.

Ask any area "old-timer" and he'll recall how the Cardinals and Bronchos staged some first-class donneybrooks in all sports.

That crowd-pleasing series, always a smash hit until dropped in the mid-1950's, adds a new chapter Friday when the Barrington eleven comes to town for the season football opener.

A NEAR-CAPACITY crowd is expected as the highly regarded North Suburban Conference entry tackles a West Suburban club striving to rebound from a winless campaign.

The varsity feature will be preceded by a frosh-soph contest at six o'clock.

Arlington and Barrington went in opposite directions in 1963. The Cards were winless in eight outings and had to settle for eighth place in the rugged West Suburban Conference. Barrington was 6-2, losing only one game in the North Suburban, and reigned as the loop champion.

ARLINGTON'S Al Allen, starting his second year as head man of the Cardinal football program, admits it's too early to give an accurate evaluation on the 1964 entry, but he's confident he'll put a "respectable and interesting" club on the field.

"Actually, the opener always serves as an experimental game," Allen says. "It has to be a partial practice in a sense in preparation for our conference opener the following week."

Al sent his charges through a lengthy intrasquad game last Friday evening with the varsity pulling out a 34-0 decision over the jayvees. "We're still rough in spots," he pointed out, "but the boys were hustling and gave us a good effort."

ALLEN PRAISED the running of lettermen backs Charley Hood (175) and co-captain Mike Frase (175) and promising newcomer Rich Hoppe (180).

Hoppe, a baseball letterman, is a senior who's out for football for the first time. He's backing up Frase at fullback and has "come along very fast" according to Allen.

Three offensive positions were still question-marks at the outset of the week as Allen pondered his starting alignment for the clash with Barrington.

BILL SWARTHOUT (220) or Mark Frase (215) will get the first call at left tackle, and letterman Scott Sulley (190) is battling promising sophomore Kurt Markshausen (220) for the right

ARLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL IS one of the first schools in Illinois to use the "Blaster," a multi-purpose football trainer, in its workouts, but sales are booming across the country.

Veteran sporting goods dealers claim coaches are more excited about this training item than any others in recent years. More than 100 have been shipped out at latest report and orders are still coming in.

The device, designed by Urbana High School football coach Warren Smith, is being used in 22 states by three professional, 30 college and scores of high school teams.

The "Blaster" has three pads on each side which can be adjusted at various tensions. There is ample room for the player to run through, and the pads, while simulating live contact, help develop leg drive, improve balance, and reduce fumbling. Both linemen and backs can make use of this unusal football trainer.

Urbana's Smith logged more than 35,000 miles during the summer visiting coaching clinics and demonstrating the "Blaster." Color films featuring college players from Illinois, Mississippi, and Arkansas were shown to illustrate the various uses of the multi-purpose trainer. Over 4,000 coaches registred for a clinic in Texas.

Smith reports that sales have surpassed his highest expectations despite the fact that most athletic budgets were closed by the time the "Blaster" received national exposure.

The Urbana mentor, a veteran in Illinois prep coaching circles, admits that a big break came when the Chicago Bears decided to use the device in their training program. Orders quickly came in from the Pittsburg Steelers and the 1961 and 1962 National Football League champion Green Bay Packers.

On the college level, Smith reports, six Big Ten schools are using the item plus seven of the 10 teams that played in the five major bowl games of a year ago. National champ Texas, Big 10 champ Illinois, Mississippi and Indiana have a pair. Eastern powers Navy and Pittsburgh also use the "Blaster."

You can be sure Johnny Vaught of Mississippi became extremely interested in Smith's item when the Rebels posted an amazing total of 10 fumbles in the Sugar Bowl game.

The big pay-off for Smith and his device admittedly will come later when teams cut down on fumbles and injuries and can attribute the improvement to the "Blaster."

Arlington's head coach Al Allen is hoping use of the "Blaster" will start paying off Friday evening when Barrington's Bronchos come to town for the season opener.

Wildcats Open Friday

by TOM TULLY

The veteran area football fan is used to being confused, but this one should really throw him. The first game to be played on ancient Maine East field this year pits the Wheeling Wildcats against Maine South Hawks.

If Wheeling Wildcats and Maine South Hawks aren't enough to stump him, what are they doing at Maine East?

One at a time. Wheeling and Maine South are two of the most recent results of the suburban population explosion. Wheeling is the fourth school in District 214 and the third to begin varsity play in the last five years. Maine South is the third school in the Maine school district and the second to begin competition in the last five seasons.

WHY MAINE EAST? They build schools faster than football stadiums in Maine Township. Maine East is the oldest school in the township and until this season, the site of the Maine West home games. The Warriors now have their own stadium and homeless Maine South moves in as the new tenant.

Perhaps the biggest question of all, is what can be expected of these two neophytes on the gridiron. Wheeling is attacking a varsity schedule without the benefit of a senior class and it has to hurt them. But Bill Daletski and his staff picked some plums from last year's sophomore teams at Arlington and Prospect High Schools and he did it following a season when the two sophomore elevens lost just one game between them. This can't hurt them and Daletski says his club is not entering the opener feeling like underdogs.

The situation is slightly different at Maine South where Marv Nyren has taken the reins after a five year apprenticeship under Ken Olson at Maine West. Nyren, like Daletski who was a Little All-American at St. Benedict's, has an impressive background. Nyren was an All-Stater at Maine East and a three year star at Michigan.

Nyren will have a senior class at his disposal and four of his offensive regulars were lettermen at Maine East last year. None, however, were starters for the Demons.

THE HAWK offense is geared by a pair of lettermen, Eric Zinsmeister at quarterback and Jim Yrigoyen at fullback. Nyren also has a pair of lettermen in his forward wall in tackle Jim VanSchoyck and Steve Richards. VanSchoyck is a fine kicker and a field goal threat.

Nyren reports just one injury in the Hawk camp. Regular linebacker, Ron Dell, a 175 pound letterman has a broken ankle and will be out about two more weeks.

Daletski has done some shuffling with the Wildcat personnel. Some of the moves were dictated by dislocated shoulders suffered by regular guard Mike Downar and first string fullback Bill Niemeyer. Downar probably won't play at all. Niemeyer won't start, but may see action.

DOWNAR'S injury has made a starting guard of Larry Knaack, a 175 pound former tackle. Niemeyer's sore shoulder gives former halfback Tom Mandersheid a starting job at fullback.

A third change finds maneuverable Doug Glaser (160) taking over at left end. Glaser had formerly worked at quarterback and wingback.

Glaser will join pass catching specialist Ken Traversone at end. Ted Armstrong (200) and Tony Stoik (219) will open at tackle, naack and Fred Sessions (167) at guard, and Jim Whittington (190) at center. Mark Newman (155) will start at quarterback, Dennis Francl (185) on the wing, Jim Bowker (140) at running back and Mandersheid at full. Bowker is a speedster who won a varsity letter in track as a sophomore at Prospect last year.

Traversone will handle the Wildcats punting game. He averaged 40 yards per kick for the Knight sophs a year ago.

Knights Face North Chicago

Key Word is 'Change' In Opposing Grid Camps

by MICHAEL HESS

Change!! Change in leagues, coaches, personnel and strategy.

This Saturday, when Prospect High School plays host to North Chicago in the 1964 football opened for both clubs, the victor will be the team which has made the most successful changes.

Prospect varsity coach, Don Williams, hopes change will be the key to improved performance while Bill Gourney, coach of North Chicago, sees change as a threat to a past performance he doesn't want to change.

THE MAJOR change in the Knights' team will be in the strategy employed on the field. "The team will be different this year," indicated Williams. "More stress will be placed on defense. We'll put the pressure on defensively and force the other team to make mistakes and beat themselves. We'll do less passing. Also, we'll do some kicking on third down and more kicking in general."

The team will run from a straight "T" formation, but will also move from the slot and wing "T" offenses. It is hoped these changes will enable Prospect to better last season's 3 and 5 mark. "Last year we were down in the league, but," prophesied Williams, "we should be improved this year."

The major change at North Chicago is its shift from the Tri-County to North Suburban League. Last year the Warhawks won seven while losing none and had but one tie to blemish their otherwise perfect record. They were perennial winners against their Tri-County rivals.

COACH GOURLEY wishes to maintain these winning ways, but, the Warhawks' head man said, "North Chicago will have a much tougher time dominating the North Suburban than we did the Tri-County." He classified his former opponents as "weak" and maintained that the NSC would offer "much stronger competition." "We'll have to improve to beat anyone," he concluded.

To meet the challenge of the new league, Gourley has altered the Warhawk offensive alignment from a wing "T" to a multiple offense using the "I," single wing and wing "T" formations.

To direct this varied offense Gourley spots senior quarterback Jerry Lewis, team co-captain, and right end Jim Spiggs, a senior defenseman moved into the offensive machine, as his most experienced players. Lewis and Spiggs are also the only two lettermen on the starting eleven.

WHEELING AT MAINE SOUTH — Assistant Sports Editor Tom Tully will cover Wheeling's first varsity football game Friday evening at the Maine East field.

NORTH CHICAGO AT PROSPECT — Mike Hess will report the action of Prospect's opener Saturday with the always-powerful Warhawks.

PALATINE AT FOREST VIEW — Marv Prellberg, Jr. will be on hand for this backyard battle between the Pirates of Palatine and Falcons of Forest View.

Falcons Dedicate New Field In Opener Against Palatine

by TOM TULLY

A new field, a new coach and a pair of teams of unknown quality are the attractions at Forest View when the Falcons entertain Palatine on the first football Saturday of the 1964 season.

Bob Scott's Birds, nomads a year ago when they used Arlington High Field as a home away from home, dedicate their own sod in this one. The Pirates will be displaying the directing abilities of John Ellis for the first time. Ellis, an assistant to Charley Feutz for a dozen years, moved up to the head job when Feutz took over as Athletic Director at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates.

This is just the second meeting between the two schools, but from the Pirate point of view it shapes up as a grudge match. A year ago the Pirates ranked as one of the favorites in the North Suburban Conference They caught a Forest View team playing its first varsity football game. The Falcons exploded for 20 points in the second period and shocked 'em, 27-7.

PALATINE never recovered. The Pirates finished with a disappointing 2-5-1 record and settled for seventh in the NSC. Forest View managed a victory the following week, then dropped six in a row and finished at 2-6.

Both teams fit into the 'who knows' category. The Pirates have a flock of lettermen. They'll have ten in the starting offensive lineup, but the figure is a deceiving one. Only quarterback John Warder and halfback Seth Norton were full-time offensive regulars last year and both played at different positions.

The multiple skills of Warder and Norton plus adequate size at every position but tackle would seem to be the Pirate strengths. Lack of depth is the most glaring weakness. An injury to Warder would probably sink the Jolly Roger.

On paper, the Falcons appear

Maine South is the third school in the Maine school district and the second to begin competition in the last five seasons.

WHY MAINE EAST? They build schools faster than football stadiums in Maine Township. Maine East is the oldest school in the township and until this season, the site of the Maine West home games. The Warriors now have their own stadium and homeless Maine South moves in as the new tenant.

Perhaps the biggest question of all, is what can be expected of these two neophytes on the gridiron. Wheeling is attacking a varsity schedule without the benefit of a senior class and it has to hurt them. But Bill Daletski and his staff picked some plums from last year's sophomore teams at Arlington and Prospect High Schools and he did it following a season when the two sophomore elevens lost just one game between them. This can't hurt them and Daletski says his club is not entering the opener feeling like underdogs.

The situation is slightly different at Maine South where Marv Nyren has taken the reins after a five year apprenticeship under Ken Olson at Maine West. Nyren, like Daletski who was a Little All-American at St. Benedict's, has an impressive background. Nyren was an All-Stater at Maine East and a three year star at Michigan.

Nyren will have a senior class at his disposal and four of his offensive regulars were lettermen at Maine East last year. None, however, were starters for the Demons.

THE HAWK offense is geared by a pair of lettermen, Eric Zinsmeister at quarterback and Jim Yrigoyen at fullback. Nyren also has a pair of lettermen in his forward wall in tackle Jim VanSchoyck and Steve Richards. VanSchoyck is a fine kicker and a field goal threat.

BILL DALETSKI
'Cats' Mentor

Nyren reports just one injury in the Hawk camp. Regular linebacker, Ron Dell, a 175 pound letterman has a broken ankle and will be out about two more weeks.

Daletski has done some shuffling with the Wildcat personnel. Some of the moves were dictated by dislocated shoulders suffered by regular guard Mike Downar and first string fullback Bill Niemeyer. Downar probably won't play at all. Niemeyer won't start, but may see action.

DOWNAR'S injury has made a starting guard of Larry Knaack, a 175 pound former tackle. Niemeyer's sore shoulder gives former halfback Tom Mandersheid a starting job at fullback.

A third change finds maneuverable Doug Glaser (160) taking over at left end. Glaser had formerly worked at quarterback and wingback.

Glaser will join pass catching specialist Ken Traversone at end. Ted Armstrong (200) and Tony Stoik (219) will open at tackle, naack and Fred Sessions (167) at guard, and Jim Whittington (190) at center. Mark Newman (155) will start at quarterback, Dennis Francl (185) on the wing, Jim Bowker (140) at running back and Mandersheid at full. Bowker is a speedster who won a varsity letter in track as a sophomore at Prospect last year.

Traversone will handle the Wildcats punting game. He averaged 40 yards per kick for the Knight sophs a year ago.

Knights Face North Chicago

Key Word is 'Change' In Opposing Grid Camps

by MICHAEL HESS

Change!! Change in leagues, coaches, personnel and strategy.

This Saturday, when Prospect High School plays host to North Chicago in the 1964 football opened for both clubs, the victor will be the team which has made the most successful changes.

Prospect varsity coach, Don Williams, hopes change will be the key to improved performance while Bill Gourney, coach of North Chicago, sees change as a threat to a past performance he doesn't want to change.

THE MAJOR change in the Knights' team will be in the strategy employed on the field. "The team will be different this year," indicated Williams. "More stress will be placed on defense. We'll put the pressure on defensively and force the other team to make mistakes and beat themselves. We'll do less passing. Also, we'll do some kicking on third down and more kicking in general."

The team will run from a straight "T" formation, but will also move from the slot and wing "T" offenses. It is hoped these changes will enable Prospect to better last season's 3 and 5 mark. "Last year we were down in the league, but," prophesied Williams, "we should be improved this year."

The major change at North Chicago is its shift from the Tri-County to North Suburban League. Last year the Warhawks won seven while losing none and had but one tie to blemish their otherwise perfect record. They were perennial winners against their Tri-County rivals.

COACH GOURLEY wishes to maintain these winning ways, but, the Warhawks' head man said, "North Chicago will have a much tougher time dominating the North Suburban than we did the Tri-County." He classified his former opponents as "weak" and maintained that the NSC would offer "much stronger competition." "We'll have to improve to beat anyone," he concluded.

To meet the challenge of the new league, Gourley has altered the Warhawk offensive alignment from a wing "T" to a multiple offense using the "I," single wing and wing "T" formations.

To direct this varied offense Gourley spots senior quarterback Jerry Lewis, team co-captain, and right end Jim Spiggs, a senior defenseman moved into the offensive machine, as his most experienced players. Lewis and Spiggs are also the only two lettermen on the starting eleven.

KICKIN' IT AROUND

ARLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL IS one of the first schools in Illinois to use the "Blaster," a multi-purpose football trainer, in its workouts, but sales are booming across the country.

Veteran sporting goods dealers claim coaches are more excited about this training item than any others in recent years. More than 100 have been shipped out at latest report and orders are still coming in.

The device, designed by Urbana High School football coach Warren Smith, is being used in 22 states by three professional, 30 college and scores of high school teams.

The "Blaster" has three pads on each side which can be adjusted at various tensions. There is ample room for the player to run through, and the pads, while simulating live contact, help develop leg drive, improve balance, and reduce fumbling. Both linemen and backs can make use of this unusal football trainer.

Urbana's Smith logged more than 35,000 miles during the summer visiting coaching clinics and demonstrating the "Blaster." Color films featuring college players from Illinois, Mississippi, and Arkansas were shown to illustrate the various uses of the multi-purpose trainer. Over 4,000 coaches registred for a clinic in Texas.

Smith reports that sales have surpassed his highest expectations despite the fact that most athletic budgets were closed by the time the "Blaster" received national exposure.

The Urbana mentor, a veteran in Illinois prep coaching circles, admits that a big break came when the Chicago Bears decided to use the device in their training program. Orders quickly came in from the Pittsburg Steelers and the 1961 and 1962 National Football League champion Green Bay Packers.

On the college level, Smith reports, six Big Ten schools are using the item plus seven of the 10 teams that played in the five major bowl games of a year ago. National champ Texas, Big 10 champ Illinois, Mississippi and Indiana have a pair. Eastern powers Navy and Pittsburgh also use the "Blaster."

You can be sure Johnny Vaught of Mississippi became extremely interested in Smith's item when the Rebels posted an amazing total of 10 fumbles in the Sugar Bowl game.

The big pay-off for Smith and his device admittedly will come later when teams cut down on fumbles and injuries and can attribute the improvement to the "Blaster."

Arlington's head coach Al Allen is hoping use of the "Blaster" will start paying off Friday evening when Barrington's Bronchos come to town for the season opener.

Falcons Dedicate New Field In Opener Against Palatine

by TOM TULLY

A new field, a new coach and a pair of teams of unknown quality are the attractions at Forest View when the Falcons entertain Palatine on the first football Saturday of the 1964 season.

Bob Scott's Birds, nomads a year ago when they used Arlington High Field as a home away from home, dedicate their own sod in this one. The Pirates will be displaying the directing abilities of John Ellis for the first time. Ellis, an assistant to Charley Feutz for a dozen years, moved up to the head job when Feutz took over as Athletic Director at Conant High School in Hoffman Estates.

This is just the second meeting between the two schools, but from the Pirate point of view it shapes up as a grudge match. A year ago the Pirates ranked as one of the favorites in the North Suburban Conference They caught a Forest View team playing its first varsity football game. The Falcons exploded for 20 points in the second period and shocked 'em, 27-7.

PALATINE never recovered. The Pirates finished with a disappointing 2-5-1 record and settled for seventh in the NSC. Forest View managed a victory the following week, then dropped six in a row and finished at 2 - 6.

Both teams fit into the 'who knows' category. The Pirates have a flock of lettermen. They'll have ten in the starting offensive lineup, but the figure is a deceiving one. Only quarterback John Warder and halfback Seth Norton were full-time offensive regulars last year and both played at different positions.

The multiple skills of Warder and Norton plus adequate size at every position but tackle would seem to be the Pirate strengths. Lack of depth is the most glaring weakness. An injury to Warder would probably sink the Jolly Roger.

On paper, the Falcons appear

Pirates, Cougars Open Season This Weekend

This coming Saturday both of the District 211 football teams, Palatine and Conant, open their season schedules in football. The Pirates travel to Forest View for the second year of a two game pre-league contract. A double bill with JV teams playing the prelim will be played in the afternoon. In the morning Conant's new team will tangle with the Barrington JV on the Palatine gridiron at the new Fremd School. This is a building year at both local schools. Numerous sophs and juniors hold key positions on the Palatine varsity and the same situation exists at Conant where no seniors are enrolled in the school in this first year of its existence.

Coach John Ellis has good material at Palatine but there seems to be a lack of depth due to the split in the schools this year and the boys are largely inexperienced. Even though this is the case we expect that Palatine will do better than last year when a highly touted Pirate team was trounced 26-6 in the Forest View opener. Conant's chances with the Barrington JV depend to a great extent on how many varsity players the Bronchos field as members of the JV team. We are told that Barrington has fine material this year.

Olympians Look Strong

The Olympic trials in track at the Coliseum in Los Angeles left little doubt that the squad to represent the United States this year is the finest ever assembled. This country has wisely changed the method and time of selecting the track team. Back in 1956 the team was selected in June with the Olympic games being held in Melbourne in December. In 1960 the team was selected too far ahead of the games in Rome to be an accurate indication of the best men for the meet though the authorities did make some substitutions which they had declined to do in preparation for earlier games. This year with preliminary eliminations in July followed by a meet in August with Russia and finals in September, the team will be made up of the best athletes and the chance of them being in good competitive condition is the best ever.

Inconsistent officiating will always be an athletic problem. It is not so much whether officiating is close or loose as that the same kind of violations be penalized consistently. One violation which is very much a matter of judgment is that of piling on and tackling after the whistle has been sounded to complete the play. The reason for the rule is to prevent injuries but the question of whether the tackler took off before the whistle or deliberately made his move after play had stopped is really hard to determine. Some officials ignore this type of violation until it becomes flagrant and then start calling it. That is what we mean by inconsistency.

We are told that this kind of violation is pretty much overlooked in some cities and certain sections of the country. The argument is used that it better prepares high school boys for the rougher type of play in college and that as a result some sections produce more successful college players. We feel that this is one violation which should be strictly called in high school games. There is no question that college ball is rougher but college players are also more mature and are usually better conditioned and equipped. Futhermore we should consider that relatively few high school football players will ever play on college teams and this is not the purpose of high school football.

This is the season when boosters clubs become most active. Such a club represents the collective interest of a large number of parents who want to help their sons to be successful in sports and as a group want to help the coach through their backing produce a successful team. The greatest good in a boosters club is in bringing about a mutual understanding by coach and parent of the role each must play to realize this goal. Parents need to know and understand squad training rules, diets, hours of sleep, etc., which make for a well conditioned team. The boosters group can be a real force in helping the boys live up to the rules and giving them encouragement.

There are many ways that boosters clubs increase interest and support the teams from distributing decals for auto windows and schedule cards to sitting as a group at games and planning awards dinners at the close of the season. In Palatine boosters clubs have allowed the coach to do the coaching and used their influence to support both the players and the coach.

Each parent has a vital interest in the success of the athlete son. It is a lot more interesting and effective if this interest is pooled in a constructive way through joining with other parents in a "Boosters Club." The Palatine boosters had a very interesting and effective meeting this week Tuesday when they heard the coaches discuss their plans and problems in developing strong football teams. Just as teacher and parent must cooperate and pool their knowledge of the child and understand the role each must play in the educational process, so do parents and coaches need to work together for an effective athletic program.

Prospect Varsity At Home

hopeful of seeing a complete change of form from last Saturday's scrimmage. "They just looked poor," said the Knight coach, "especially the offense. We should be coming along, but nothing has pulled together." However, Prospect will field a highly experienced, all senior squad.

"Most of the boys have had four years of football experience. They're a very hard working team. I'm well pleased with the squad as a whole." Consequently the coach has no doubts concerning the team's ability to reverse the form displayed in scrimmage and "get up" for the contest by game time Saturday.

An unwanted change in the Prospect outlook has been caused by a rash of crucial injuries. Probably most serious is the torn knee cartilege of Bill Henry who was counted on to be a backfield standout. Bill may be out for the entire season.

OUT FOR at least six weeks with his ankle in a cast is Ken Vomaka, a junior defenseman. Wally Leutz, senior guard, and senior Mike Spencer, the starting fullback, are also injured but will start.

Ken Johnson, scheduled to start at center, is still bothered by a leg cut and will probably be replaced by Steve Hestilow, transfer student from Virginia. Johnson might see limited action according to Coach Williams.

An unusual aspect surrounding these injuries is that all have occurred during drills and not during the normally rougher scrimmages when injuries might be expected.

TO HELP FILL the injury caused gaps, Williams is bringing up Nick Rutigliano and Fred Wesley from the J.V. squad. "Both are juniors," Don said. "Nick is a halfback and Wesley plays fullback. Last year both played on an undefeated sophomore team." These two additions will become potential replacements for Wayne Kuklinski, sole letterman on the opening offense, Rick Lytle, quarterback Bill Phillips and Spencer, the Knights' backfield quartet.

The opposing coaches also represent changes for both clubs. Last year the Warhawks' Gourley was assistant backfield coach at Loyola Academy in the Chicago Catholic League. With his assistance Loyola won all but one of their games, losing only to St. Rita, 15-14, in the final game of Catholic League play.

Williams moved up this year to become head varsity coach at Prospect, replacing former head man J. O. Jackson.

ON THEIR coming opponents the two coaches were brief. "I know them only through the movies I've seen of their team," commented Gourley. Williams seemed to know what his team was up against: "North Chicago's always tough. We've never beaten them. We certainly would like to win this one. A victory now would help us for the rest of the season."

A crowd of around 2,000 is expected for the Prospect home opener against North Chicago. There will be no soph or J.V. contest prior to the varsity battle.

At the bottom of the final week's Prospect practice schedule is the headline "PROSPECT HAS NEVER BEATEN NORTH CHICAGO." Should Prospect win, the victory would be the most important change in this series of changes.

How successful any of these changes will be cannot be known until the final results are in Saturday.

Hurdle Standout

Gene Washington, a sophomore and prospect on Michigan State's 1964 football team, was Texas state high school champion in both high and low hurdles for three years.

Major changes on defense will involve Tom Reid (180) at end, Ron Thompson (220), and Thad Woodard (165) at safety.

Sophomore halfbacks Steve Conley and Dave Lockwood, who have been working with the varsity since drills began three weeks ago, also should see extensive action Friday in the season lidlifter.

IN BARRINGTON'S camp Graham lists "an experienced backfield as his strongest suit."

"We've got the depth there if anyone gets hurt," Bill said, "but we don't have the needed depth in the line. If we get a couple of players hurt in key positions on the line, we could be in trouble."

When Graham talks about his backfield, he starts with slick quarterback Jimmy Johnson (160), a senior letterman who threw for eight touchdowns last fall. "He can really throw that ball," Graham says, "but I don't know if we have the good receivers we had last year."

RICK VOSS, a 5-foot-11, 175-pounder, was a unanimous choice for all-conference in 1963 and he returns at fullback. Voss is a two-way performer who was an iron-man on the '63 Broncho varsity.

Rounding out the backfield are halfbacks Paul Baker (180) and Terry List (160). Baker was the second leading scorer in the North Suburban as a junior although he wasn't a regular.

Key man in the forward wall for Barrington is 210-pound tackle Wally Wessel. "He's gained weight and strength and I definitely feel he is All-State material," Graham praised. "A definite college prospect."

Two regulars, tackle Jim Wangelin and center Chuck Mallon, are nursing injuries and are doubtful performers for Friday. Otherwise, Graham reports the Bronchos are healthy and anxious to get the 1964 season under way.

Arlington and Barrington may have gone in opposite directions in 1963, but this is 1964. The non-conference headliner Friday should answer some puzzling questions in both grid camps.

Travelers Defeat Sheboygan, 21-13; Score in 1st Half

The Elmhurst Travelers, led by Tom Beck former Northern Illinois University star, defeated the Sheboygan Redwings Sunday, 21-13, at Sheboygan, Wis. Elmhurst did all of its scoring in the first half. Their first score came on a long pass from Beck to Tom Nagle, Traveler flanker back. The pass coverd 45 yards, John Sheldrup converting.

Beck scored twice more on sneaks in the first half with Sheldrup kicking both extra points.

Enjoying a 21 point lead at halftime gave the Traveler coaches a good chance to use many of their new men. A charged up Sheboygan team gave the defending champions a real go of it by recovering a fumble on the Traveler 25 yard line. Here Tom Posewitz, a nifty running quarterback rolled out and carried to the five before being pulled down. Three plays later he went over for their first score. The try for the extra point was blocked. Late in the fourth quarter a pass interference penalty against Elmhurst gave Sheboygan the ball on the Traveler 27 line. Up to this point Posewitz had been able to complete but one pass against a very solid traveler defense but he managed to put two together, the last one going to Paul Testwuide in the endzone, for another score. The conversion was good, with the game ending shortly.

Nagle Scores Two

The Elmhurst Travelers pushed across two early scores and rolled to a 27-6 victory over the Chicago Panthers last Friday evening at Soldiers Field. The win was the second straight for the Travelers in the United Football League. The Panthers are 0-2.

Quarterback Tom Beck sneaked over for the Travelers first score from two yards out. Moments later all-league defensive end Abe Booker covered a Panther fumble on the Chicago 28 yard line. Two plays later Beck connected with Tommy Nagle on a 22 yard scoring aerial. John Sheldrup added his second conversion and the Travelers had an early 14-0 lead.

Another fumble recovery, this one by Bill Hall at the Panther 35, set up the third Elmhurst TD. After Beck moved the ball to the two with two passes and a 20 yard run, Pat Albanese carried in for the score.

The Panthers got on the scoreboard later in the period when quarterback Joe Gale rolled out and lugged it in from the 28. Nagle scored the last Traveler touchdown on a quick opener from the 24 in the final period.

The Travelers' first home game is slated for York Field, Sunday at 2 p.m. Manitowac, Wis., provides the opposition.

Help Wanted

Sports reporters are needed to cover varsity athletic contests at Elgin High School and Elgin Larkin for the Hanover-Streamwood edition of Paddock Publications, Inc.

Anyone interested should contact Tom Tully or Bob Frisk of Paddock's sports department, CLearbrook 3-1520.

SLATED TO OPEN AT quarterback Saturday afternoon for St. Viator High School is junior Denny Wilkinson. The 160-pounder, who worked at halfback with the varsity as a soph, is backed up by another junior, Mike Campana. The Lions of coach Joe Gliwa will host Glenbrook South at the Arlington High School field.

Falcons Meet Pirate Eleven

to be hurting. Scott has just two lettermen and the jayvees were no better than 3-4-1 in 1963. Again the figures fail to tell the story. Scott has a habit of playing seniors which accounts for the lack of lettermen and, while the jayvee record is not impressive, none of the losses was by more than a touchdown. The same group did not win a game as sophomores so they may be coming.

IMPROVED speed and nice size are the Falcons' biggest pluses. Lack of varsity experience figures to be their biggest shortcoming. Despite the lack of veterans, Scott is not pessimistic.

Both coaches employ a lot of their personnel. Ellis may make as many as eight changes on defense and has several other offensive players he is not afraid to go with. Scott has a reputation as a platoon coach and it is not likely to suffer this year.

It could be a wild one. Warder and Norton are potential game breakers and Ellis is going to open up the conservative Pirate offense of a year ago. Scott teams always show a flair for the offensive and his annual prediction sounds like a record called "We'll throw hell out of the ball."

If the game is a cose one, don't be surprised if a field goal wins it. Distance kickers are springing up all over the area this year and both of these squads have one. Norton booted one from 28 yards in a scrimmage two weeks ago. Quarterback Chuck Boesenberg split the uprights from 30 in a Falcon intersquad game last week.

BOESENBERG will split the passing assignments with another junior, Steve Mueller. They'll be throwing to ends Jim Baumgart, Gary DeBerge, Jim Rennhack and Gary Maxwell and a flock of backs. Scott says his running assignments will be split among half a dozen backs, but Pat Dunnigan may be the boy to watch. The 175 pound junior right halfback was a terror on the sophomore team last year.

Warder, a halfback last year, is an accomplished thrower. He played four games of varsity ball as a soph and did a fine job under center in one of them. He'll pitch to junior Bob Payne and vets Paul Weber, Larry Logan, Bill Scholl and Norton. Warder and Norton figure to carry the brunt of the running assignments.

The prelim is slated for noon, the varsity clubs will go at it at 2 p.m.

Ary Seeks Harriers At Conant

Jack Ary has the 'Help Wanted' sign out at Conant High School.

Ary is the cross country coach and his problem is basic. He doesn't have enough boys to coach. His squad reached a peak of sixteen, but as his squad prepared to open the season, only a dozen remained.

From this group Ary must find a varsity and a sophomore squad. Since seven men may be entered in a meet at each level, Ary finds himself a mite shy.

JACK TAKES OVER at Conant after serving as an assistant on the Palatine track staff last spring. He was a February graduate at Illinois State Normal where he earned three letters in cross country and three more in track.

'Ary's dozen' is working out at Golden Acres Country Club and the course will also be the scene of the Cougars home meets.

Ary is not only working with a small squad, but an extremely youthful one. Ten of the twelve boys are sophomores, including the three Jack considers to be his top boys.

LARRY ROBERTSON is currently the number one man on the squad, followed by Dave Troy and Bill Lee. Junior Bill Fischer is running number four, followed by Pete Fleming, a sophomore transfer from St. Viator.

John Ellithorpe, Frank DeMore, Bruce Scholler, Tom Borthwick, Paul Cornett and Dick Ledford round out the squad. Borthwick is a junior, the rest are sophs.

Raiders Rout Wood Dale

Dick Rech and Gary Goronson reeled off touchdown runs of 70 and 53 yards respectively to pace the Hoffman Raiders to a 53-7 win over the Wood Dale Panthers in the opening game of the Northwest Suburban Junior Football League.

The Raiders also got a pair of touchdowns from both Jim Farinosi and Scott Johnson and one from John Mayer and Larry Sitcher.

Next week the Raiders meet North Austin at Amundson Park in Chicago. The younger group, the Commandos, open their season in the preliminary the same day.

Pirates, Cougars Open Season This Weekend

This coming Saturday both of the District 211 football teams, Palatine and Conant, open their season schedules in football. The Pirates travel to Forest View for the second year of a two game pre-league contract. A double bill with JV teams playing the prelim will be played in the afternoon. In the morning Conant's new team will tangle with the Barrington JV on the Palatine gridiron at the new Fremd School. This is a building year at both local schools. Numerous sophs and juniors hold key positions on the Palatine varsity and the same situation exists at Conant where no seniors are enrolled in the school in this first year of its existence.

Coach John Ellis has good material at Palatine but there seems to be a lack of depth due to the split in the schools this year and the boys are largely inexperienced. Even though this is the case we expect that Palatine will do better than last year when a highly touted Pirate team was trounced 26-6 in the Forest View opener. Conant's chances with the Barrington JV depend to a great extent on how many varsity players the Bronchos field as members of the JV team. We are told that Barrington has fine material this year.

Olympians Look Strong

The Olympic trials in track at the Coliseum in Los Angeles left little doubt that the squad to represent the United States this year is the finest ever assembled. This country has wisely changed the method and time of selecting the track team. Back in 1956 the team was selected in June with the Olympic games being held in Melbourne in December. In 1960 the team was selected too far ahead of the games in Rome to be an accurate indication of the best men for the meet though the authorities did make some substitutions which they had declined to do in preparation for earlier games. This year with preliminary eliminations in July followed by a meet in August with Russia and finals in September, the team will be made up of the best athletes and the chance of them being in good competitive condition is the best ever.

Inconsistent officiating will always be an athletic problem. It is not so much whether officiating is close or loose as that the same kind of violations be penalized consistently. One violation which is very much a matter of judgment is that of piling on and tackling after the whistle has been sounded to complete the play. The reason for the rule is to prevent injuries but the question of whether the tackler took off before the whistle or deliberately made his move after play had stopped is really hard to determine. Some officials ignore this type of violation until it becomes flagrant and then start calling it. That is what we mean by inconsistency.

We are told that this kind of violation is pretty much overlooked in some cities and certain sections of the country. The argument is used that it better prepares high school boys for the rougher type of play in college and that as a result some sections produce more successful college players. We feel that this is one violation which should be strictly called in high school games. There is no question that college ball is rougher but college players are also more mature and are usually better conditioned and equipped. Futhermore we should consider that relatively few high school football players will ever play on college teams and this is not the purpose of high school football.

This is the season when boosters clubs become most active. Such a club represents the collective interest of a large number of parents who want to help their sons to be successful in sports and as a group want to help the coach through their backing produce a successful team. The greatest good in a boosters club is in bringing about a mutual understanding by coach and parent of the role each must play to realize this goal. Parents need to know and understand squad training rules, diets, hours of sleep, etc., which make for a well conditioned team. The boosters group can be a real force in helping the boys live up to the rules and giving them encouragement.

There are many ways that boosters clubs increase interest and support the teams from distributing decals for auto windows and schedule cards to sitting as a group at games and planning awards dinners at the close of the season. In Palatine boosters clubs have allowed the coach to do the coaching and used their influence to support both the players and the coach.

Each parent has a vital interest in the success of the athlete son. It is a lot more interesting and effective if this interest is pooled in a constructive way through joining with other parents in a "Boosters Club." The Palatine boosters had a very interesting and effective meeting this week Tuesday when they heard the coaches discuss their plans and problems in developing strong football teams. Just as teacher and parent must cooperate and pool their knowledge of the child and understand the role each must play in the educational process, so do parents and coaches need to work together for an effective athletic program.

hopeful of seeing a complete change of form from last Saturday's scrimmage. "They just looked poor," said the Knight coach, "especially the offense. We should be coming along, but nothing has pulled together." However, Prospect will field a highly experienced, all senior squad.

"Most of the boys have had four years of football experience. They're a very hard working team. I'm well pleased with the squad as a whole." Consequently the coach has no doubts concerning the team's ability to reverse the form displayed in scrimmage and "get up" for the contest by game time Saturday.

An unwanted change in the Prospect outlook has been caused by a rash of crucial injuries. Probably most serious is the torn knee cartilege of Bill Henry who was counted on to be a backfield standout. Bill may be out for the entire season.

OUT FOR at least six weeks with his ankle in a cast is Ken Vomaka, a junior defenseman. Wally Leutz, senior guard, and senior Mike Spencer, the starting fullback, are also injured but will start.

Ken Johnson, scheduled to start at center, is still bothered by a leg cut and will probably be replaced by Steve Hestilow, transfer student from Virginia. Johnson might see limited action according to Coach Williams.

An unusual aspect surrounding these injuries is that all have occurred during drills and not during the normally rougher scrimmages when injuries might be expected.

TO HELP FILL the injury caused gaps, Williams is bringing up Nick Rutigliano and Fred Wesley from the J.V. squad. "Both are juniors," Don said. "Nick is a halfback and Wesley plays fullback. Last year both played on an undefeated sophomore team." These two additions will become potential replacements for Wayne Kuklinski, sole letterman on the opening offense, Rick Lytle, quarterback Bill Phillips and Spencer, the Knights' backfield quartet.

The opposing coaches also represent changes for both clubs. Last year the Warhawks' Gourley was assistant backfield coach at Loyola Academy in the Chicago Catholic League. With his assistance Loyola won all but one of their games, losing only to St. Rita, 15-14, in the final game of Catholic League play.

Williams moved up this year to become head varsity coach at Prospect, replacing former head man J. O. Jackson.

ON THEIR coming opponents the two coaches were brief. "I know them only through the movies I've seen of their team," commented Gourley. Williams seemed to know what his team was up against: "North Chicago's always tough. We've never beaten them. We certainly would like to win this one. A victory now would help us for the rest of the season."

A crowd of around 2,000 is expected for the Prospect home opener against North Chicago. There will be no soph or J.V. contest prior to the varsity battle.

At the bottom of the final week's Prospect practice schedule is the headline "PROSPECT HAS NEVER BEATEN NORTH CHICAGO." Should Prospect win, the victory would be the most important change in this series of changes.

How successful any of these changes will be cannot be known until the final results are in Saturday.

Major changes on defense will involve Tom Reid (180) at end, Ron Thompson (220), and Thad Woodard (165) at safety.

Sophomore halfbacks Steve Conley and Dave Lockwood, who have been working with the varsity since drills began three weeks ago, also should see extensive action Friday in the season lidlifter.

IN BARRINGTON'S camp Graham lists "an experienced backfield as his strongest suit."

"We've got the depth there if anyone gets hurt," Bill said, "but we don't have the needed depth in the line. If we get a couple of players hurt in key positions on the line, we could be in trouble."

When Graham talks about his backfield, he starts with slick quarterback Jimmy Johnson (160), a senior letterman who threw for eight touchdowns last fall. "He can really throw that ball," Graham says, "but I don't know if we have the good receivers we had last year."

RICK VOSS, a 5-foot-11, 175-pounder, was a unanimous choice for all-conference in 1963 and he returns at fullback. Voss is a two-way performer who was an iron-man on the '63 Broncho varsity.

Rounding out the backfield are halfbacks Paul Baker (180) and Terry List (160). Baker was the second leading scorer in the North Suburban as a junior although he wasn't a regular.

Key man in the forward wall for Barrington is 210-pound tackle Wally Wessel. "He's gained weight and strength and I definitely feel he is All-State material," Graham praised. "A definite college prospect."

Two regulars, tackle Jim Wangelin and center Chuck Mallon, are nursing injuries and are doubtful performers for Friday. Otherwise, Graham reports the Bronchos are healthy and anxious to get the 1964 season under way.

Arlington and Barrington may have gone in opposite directions in 1963, but this is 1964. The non-conference headliner Friday should answer some puzzling questions in both grid camps.

Travelers Defeat Sheboygan, 21-13; Score in 1st Half

The Elmhurst Travelers, led by Tom Beck former Northern Illinois University star, defeated the Sheboygan Redwings Sunday, 21-13, at Sheboygan, Wis. Elmhurst did all of its scoring in the first half. Their first score came on a long pass from Beck to Tom Nagle, Traveler flanker back. The pass coverd 45 yards, John Sheldrup converting.

Beck scored twice more on sneaks in the first half with Sheldrup kicking both extra points.

Enjoying a 21 point lead at halftime gave the Traveler coaches a good chance to use many of their new men. A charged up Sheboygan team gave the defending champions a real go of it by recovering a fumble on the Traveler 25 yard line. Here Tom Posewitz, a nifty running quarterback rolled out and carried to the five before being pulled down. Three plays later he went over for their first score. The try for the extra point was blocked. Late in the fourth quarter a pass interference penalty against Elmhurst gave Sheboygan the ball on the Traveler 27 line. Up to this point Posewitz had been able to complete but one pass against a very solid traveler defense but he managed to put two together, the last one going to Paul Testwuide in the endzone, for ancther score. The conversion was good, with the game ending shortly.

Nagle Scores Two

The Elmhurst Travelers pushed across two early scores and rolled to a 27-6 victory over the Chicago Panthers last Friday evening at Soldiers Field. The win was the second straight for the Travelers in the United Football League. The Panthers are 0-2.

Quarterback Tom Beck sneaked over for the Travelers first score from two yards out. Moments later all-league defensive end Abe Booker covered a Panther fumble on the Chicago 28 yard line. Two plays later Beck connected with Tommy Nagle on a 22 yard scoring aerial. John Sheldrup added his second conversion and the Travelers had an early 14-0 lead.

Another fumble recovery, this one by Bill Hall at the Panther 35, set up the third Elmhurst TD. After Beck moved the ball to the two with two passes and a 20 yard run, Pat Albanese carried in for the score.

The Panthers got on the scoreboard later in the period when quarterback Joe Gale rolled out and lugged it in from the 28. Nagle scored the last Traveler touchdown on a quick opener from the 24 in the final period.

The Travelers' first home game is slated for York Field, Sunday at 2 p.m. Manitowac, Wis., provides the opposition.

Help Wanted

Sports reporters are needed to cover varsity athletic contests at Elgin High School and Elgin Larkin for the Hanover-Streamwood edition of Paddock Publications, Inc.

Anyone interested should contact Tom Tully or Bob Frisk of Paddock's sports department, CLearbrook 3-1520.

SLATED TO OPEN AT quarterback Saturday afternoon for St. Viator High School is junior Denny Wilkinson. The 160-pounder, who worked at halfback with the varsity as a soph, is backed up by another junior, Mike Campana. The Lions of coach Joe Gliwa will host Glenbrook South at the Arlington High School field.

to be hurting. Scott has just two lettermen and the jayvees were no better than 3-4-1 in 1963. Again the figures fail to tell the story. Scott has a habit of playing seniors which accounts for the lack of lettermen and, while the jayvee record is not impressive, none of the losses was by more than a touchdown. The same group did not win a game as sophomores so they may be coming.

IMPROVED speed and nice size are the Falcons' biggest pluses. Lack of varsity experience figures to be their biggest shortcoming. Despite the lack of veterans, Scott is not pessimistic.

Both coaches employ a lot of their personnel. Ellis may make as many as eight changes on defense and has several other offensive players he is not afraid to go with. Scott has a reputation as a platoon coach and it is not likely to suffer this year.

It could be a wild one. Warder and Norton are potential game breakers and Ellis is going to open up the conservative Pirate offense of a year ago. Scott teams always show a flair for the offensive and his annual prediction sounds like a record called "We'll throw hell out of the ball."

If the game is a cose one, don't be surprised if a field goal wins it. Distance kickers are springing up all over the area this year and both of these squads have one. Norton booted one from 28 yards in a scrimmage two weeks ago. Quarterback Chuck Boesenberg split the uprights from 30 in a Falcon intersquad game last week.

BOESENBERG will split the passing assignments with another junior, Steve Mueller. They'll be throwing to ends Jim Baumgart, Gary DeBerge, Jim Rennhack and Gary Maxwell and a flock of backs. Scott says his running assignments will be split among half a dozen backs, but Pat Dunnigan may be the boy to watch. The 175 pound junior right halfback was a terror on the sophomore team last year.

Warder, a halfback last year, is an accomplished thrower. He played four games of varsity ball as a soph and did a fine job under center in one of them. He'll pitch to junior Bob Payne and vets Paul Weber, Larry Logan, Bill Scholl and Norton. Warder and Norton figure to carry the brunt of the running assignments.

The prelim is slated for noon, the varsity clubs will go at it at 2 p.m.

Ary Seeks Harriers At Conant

Jack Ary has the 'Help Wanted' sign out at Conant High School.

Ary is the cross country coach and his problem is basic. He doesn't have enough boys to coach. His squad reached a peak of sixteen, but as his squad prepared to open the season, only a dozen remained.

From this group Ary must find a varsity and a sophomore squad. Since seven men may be entered in a meet at each level, Ary finds himself a mite shy.

JACK TAKES OVER at Conant after serving as an assistant on the Palatine track staff last spring. He was a February graduate at Illinois State Normal where he earned three letters in cross country and three more in track.

'Ary's dozen' is working out at Golden Acres Country Club and the course will also be the scene of the Cougars home meets.

Ary is not only working with a small squad, but an extremely youthful one. Ten of the twelve boys are sophomores, including the three Jack considers to be his top boys.

LARRY ROBERTSON is currently the number one man on the squad, followed by Dave Troy and Bill Lee. Junior Bill Fischer is running number four, followed by Pete Fleming, a sophomore transfer from St. Viator.

John Ellithorpe, Frank DeMore, Bruce Scholler, Tom Borthwick, Paul Cornett and Dick Ledford round out the squad. Borthwick is a junior, the rest are sophs.

Raiders Rout Wood Dale

Dick Rech and Gary Goronson reeled off touchdown runs of 70 and 53 yards respectively to pace the Hoffman Raiders to a 53-7 win over the Wood Dale Panthers in the opening game of the Northwest Suburban Junior Football League.

The Raiders also got a pair of touchdowns from both Jim Farinosi and Scott Johnson and one from John Mayer and Larry Sitcher.

Next week the Raiders meet North Austin at Amundson Park in Chicago. The younger group, the Commandos, open their season in the preliminary the same day.

St. Viator Meets Glenbrook South Saturday

Lion Opener at Arlington Field

by BOB FRISK

When they were passing out nicknames, they arrived at an appropriate one for the Glenbrook South varsity football team.

The Glenview school carries the tag of Titans. In Greek mythology, a Titan was one of a race of giants.

Coach Dick Walker has a crew of teenage giants at Glenbrook South, and they'll invade Arlington Heights Saturday afternoon for the season opener with St. Viator.

WHAT'S STRIKING about Walker's starting alignment is not the presence of a mammoth lineman in the 250-pound category. Dick's biggest boy up front is a "modest" 215-pounder.

But the seven youngsters in the Titan forward wall range from 185 to 215 and average an even 200 pounds per man. There are no lightweights in the bunch—even at guard—and seven members of the starting eleven stand 6-foot-1 or better.

Walker, an Arlington Heights resident who is in his second year as head man at the new Glenbrook South school, admits that what size he has is on that starting team. "We're thin on the bench," he says, "both in size and over-all ability."

DEPTH ALSO is one of the bit question-marks facing St. Viator's Joe Gliwa, but the Lions' head man still surveys the forthcoming campaign with cautious optimism.

"We'll know a lot more when we get that first game behind us," Joe points out. "The kids have good spirit and are anxious for the opener."

Size isn't a distinguishing factor at St. Viator this fall (the starting line Saturday averages only 184), but Gliwa's charges boast good speed.

"We don't have those overpowering backs," Gliwa has said, "but we've got a lot of kids who can run."

GLIWA, starting his second year as the St. Viator grid boss after a fine 6-3 mark last fall, plans to go with seven seniors and four juniors in his offensive lineup Saturday.

Denny Wilkinson, a promising junior who played halfback with the varsity as a soph, will get the first call at the important quarterback slot. He's been alternating with junior Mike Campana and Mike should also see action Saturday.

SENIORS Steve McNamara (180) and Tim Walinski (160) will open at halfbacks with junior Bob Rogowski (150) at full. Tim Beck, a soph fullback, and Larry Snyder, a second-year halfback. are top reserves in the backfield.

Over in the Glenbrook South camp Walker has developed a "wait and see" attitude and with good reason. He's coaching a squad that has never engaged in varsity competition.

The Titans played a jayvee schedule last fall and posted six wins and two ties in eight outings. "It's hard to tell what will develop on a varsity basis," Walker says. "We'll certainly know more Saturday."

WALKER has two transfers who are exciting prospects. Engineering the attack will be 6-foot-1, 185-pound "Chip" Ruth who comes from London, England. "His dad is in the Navy and Ruth did play some football in the London schools," Walker said. "He's looked good in practice."

Bruce Erb, a 6-foot-1, 215-pounder, transferred from Rockford East where he started as a sophomore. Erb, a junior, is also an outstanding wrestling prospect and a prize acquisition for the Glenbrook school.

Joining Ruth in the backfield will be Rick Bentley (5-8, 160) and Johnny Allison (6-1, 175) at the halfbacks and Jim Stach (5-10, 190) at full.

JERRY GRAHAM (5-9, 167) was the quarterback on Glenbrook's jayvee squad in 1963 but has been switched to halfback. Dick Johnson (5-8, 146) is backing up Ruth in the signal-calling position.

St. Viator boasts the speed and varsity experience. Glenbrook South boasts the size.

An interesting battle is shaping up at the Arlington High School field Saturday afternoon The varsity headliner will be preceded by a sophomore contest at 12 noon.

WHEELING HIGH SCHOOL football coach Bill Daletski watches the action unfold at a recent scrimmage. The varsity Wildcats, newest District 214 school, will launch their 1964 schedule Friday evening against Maine South, another new school, at the Maine East Field. The Wildcats' home opener is set for Saturday, Sept. 26, against Niles North.

Midget Grid Play Opens in Junior, Bantam Divisions

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Association opened its 1964 season on Sunday with four games in both the Junior and Bantam Divisions.

Approximately 340 boys saw action in these games. Next Sunday another 120 boys will take the field to play in the Senior Division openers.

The Junior Division had three teams score in excess of 30 points over their opponents. The other team shut out its opposition.

The Redskins romped to a 33-14 victory over the Vikings. Marshall contributed three touchdowns to the cause. One came via a 40 yard run after a pass interception. Lang and Kinneman also scored touchdowns. Outstanding linemen were Spielman, Gaffney and Bersted. Bill Grady and John Griffen were the outstanding players for the Vikings. Grady scored on an end sweep. Boyle scored a touchdown for the losers also.

THE BROWNS shut out the 49ers 14-0. Tom Tagney intercepted a pass and ran for one touchdown. Mike Morgan ran up the middle for a 46-yard score. Line play was superb for Grenning, Herman, Ennis and McDonough. The 49ers were pleased with the play of Remsen, Sennett, Frantell, Parluzzi, Schultz, O'Donnell, and McKay.

The Rams scored 34 points while holding the Eagles scoreless. Bill Bley made three touchdowns while Bob Kotowski and Bill Tindall scored one each. Defensive line play by Gary Ball, Ted Roth and Gary Rizzo was top notch. Pat Packer's play as blocking back was outstanding. The opposition, Eagles, had fine performances from Rick Barnes and Mark Rossi on offense and defense.

The Cowboys rolled to a 36-6 win over the Steelers, Mickie Gebert scored two on quarterback sneaks and two on reverses. Scott Szala scored two on end runs. Great play from Grimm, Koehler, O'Malley, O'Connell and Brerton stymied the Steeler attack. Rick Schachner scored for the Steelers after a 15 yard gain by Scott Teuber. Anthony Mincini sparkled in line play for the losers.

THE BANTAM Division had comparatively low scoring games with two ending in ties. The other two games were won by one touchdown margins.

The Wildcats and Buckeyes battled to a 6-6 tie. Mike Kenny ran around right end for the Buckeyes' score. Randy Jesperson returned their kickoff 55 yards for the tying points. Jim Robb, Mark Passarella, Gary Chuipek, Tom Gattas, Clint Van Schaick, and Allan Reed were outstanding for the Buckeyes. The Wildcats had Tom Trandell, Jim Hamann, Kurt Krouz, Kevin White, and Terry Cherwin to counter the opposition's forces.

The other tie was scoreless between the Hawkeyes and Wolverines. Luciani and Smith shined for the Hawkeyes. Peterson was their best in the line.

THE PANTHERS toppled the Spartans in a 13-7 victory. Jim Packer and Tom Freyman scored the winning team touchdowns. Terry Sramek intercepted a pass which stopped the Spartans' final drive. McGaskill and Fitzsimmons were their top linemen. The Spartans' Don Divito scored from a few yards out. Mark Hempel and John Forssander were the top defensive men. Brad Ullrich, Phil Leone and Tom Hughes also played hard for the losers.

The Badgers won 6-0 over the Lions. John Glasgow scored the lone tally. Deringer, Kidd, Eilbracht and Robinson played halfback for the winners. The Cherwin boys at end contained the Lions backfield. Jeff Pollard and Al Hening gave good runs for the Lions. Mel Graham, Jack Youle and John Layer played top notch defensive

West Leyden Edges 'Cat Harriers

The Wheeling Wildcats dropped a pair of close decisions in their cross country openers against West Leyden last week.

The Knights copped the varsity match by a 32-27 score despite a 2-3-4 finish by Doug Steinman, Paul Fiegan and Bill Lytle of Wheeling.

The Knights took the first three places in the sophomore event yet won only 30-29 as the Wildcats grabbed the next six spots. Gary Shornden led Wheeling.

Judging by the view from my kitchen window out onto Lake Zurich, this is the time of year that most fishermen — or at least half of them — give up the ghost. Another couple of weeks and it will all be over.

Perhaps the main reason for this sudden slack is the beginning of hunting season. Rumor has it that many hearty outdoorsmen are able to alternate rod and gun according to season.

BUT I SUSPECT that a great many others, some of whom don't even own a gun, just associate fishing with spring and summer, or (and I shudder at the thought) sunshine and warmth.

Probably the majority of this latter species have been influenced by advertising campaigns for menthol cigarettes, beer and pipe tobacco which deny the existence of the thermometer's lower register.

After all, it's difficult to reach inside storm gear, through insulated underwear and into a shirt pocket for a green-tinted pack of butts all in a 30-second spot announcement.

But where is the logic of stopping in September? There are two things which make a fisherman a hero in his household — the endurance of great gain, and the catching of fish. Fall is the season for both.

THE FIRST IS easy, and may be achieved almost every weekend you're out, because the sun and warmth have almost always been used up outside the office window on weekdays.

Coming home cold and wet is an age-old method of increasing prestige.

The second method — bringing home fish — has a couple of drawbacks, but it is equally old and steeped in tradition. For instance, there was a time when it was cheaper to fish than to visit the neighborhood market. My memory doesn't reach back to the bone hook era, but it's in the book.

As for the drawbacks, I have it on good authority (my wife) that one may best be avoided by cleaning or filleting the fish before they are brought into the house.

The other drawback is simply unavoidable. This method of bringing home fish is only as dependable as a good combination of weather, water, bait, tackle, patience and skill — in other words much less dependable than foul weather and the consequent appearance of suffering.

FACTORS WORKING in favor of the late-season fisherman include increased activity of almost every species of fish, concentration in certain select feeding areas, and the frost kill on most aquatic weed growth.

The big pike and bass move back into shallow water from their deep retreats, and the shallow water may be fished with even the most hook bestudded lures. Surface action is good, and the strikes are harder.

But perhaps the biggest factor in the sportsman's favor is that he is forced by the setting sun into the local inn a few minutes earlier every day, and may devote a great deal more time to making plans for waterfowl hunting.

St. Viator Meets Glenbrook South Saturday

Lion Opener at Arlington Field

by BOB FRISK

When they were passing out nicknames, they arrived at an appropriate one for the Glenbrook South varsity football team.

The Glenview school carries the tag of Titans. In Greek mythology, a Titan was one of a race of giants.

Coach Dick Walker has a crew of teenage giants at Glenbrook South, and they'll invade Arlington Heights Saturday afternoon for the season opener with St. Viator.

WHAT'S STRIKING about Walker's starting alignment is not the presence of a mammoth lineman in the 250-pound category. Dick's biggest boy up front is a "modest" 215-pounder.

But the seven youngsters in the Titan forward wall range from 185 to 215 and average an even 200 pounds per man. There are no lightweights in the bunch—even at guard—and seven members of the starting eleven stand 6-foot-1 or better.

Walker, an Arlington Heights resident who is in his second year as head man at the new Glenbrook South school, admits that what size he has is on that starting team. "We're thin on the bench," he says, "both in size and over-all ability."

DEPTH ALSO is one of the bit question-marks facing St. Viator's Joe Gliwa, but the Lions' head man still surveys the forthcoming campaign with cautious optimism.

"We'll know a lot more when we get that first game behind us," Joe points out. "The kids have good spirit and are anxious for the opener."

Size isn't a distinguishing factor at St. Viator this fall (the starting line Saturday averages only 184), but Gliwa's charges boast good speed.

"We don't have those overpowering backs," Gliwa has said, "but we've got a lot of kids who can run."

GLIWA, starting his second year as the St. Viator grid boss after a fine 6-3 mark last fall, plans to go with seven seniors and four juniors in his offensive lineup Saturday.

Denny Wilkinson, a promising junior who played halfback with the varsity as a soph, will get the first call at the important quarterback slot. He's been alternating with junior Mike Campana and Mike should also see action Saturday.

SENIORS Steve McNamara (180) and Tim Walinski (160) will open at halfbacks with junior Bob Rogowski (150) at full. Tim Beck, a soph fullback, and Larry Snyder, a second-year halfback. are top reserves in the backfield.

Over in the Glenbrook South camp Walker has developed a "wait and see" attitude and with good reason. He's coaching a squad that has never engaged in varsity competition.

The Titans played a jayvee schedule last fall and posted six wins and two ties in eight outings. "It's hard to tell what will develop on a varsity basis," Walker says. "We'll certainly know more Saturday."

WALKER has two transfers who are exciting prospects. Engineering the attack will be 6-foot-1, 185-pound "Chip" Ruth who comes from London, England. "His dad is in the Navy and Ruth did play some football in the London schools," Walker said. "He's looked good in practice."

Bruce Erb, a 6-foot-1, 215-pounder, transferred from Rockford East where he started as a sophomore. Erb, a junior, is also an outstanding wrestling prospect and a prize acquisition for the Glenbrook school.

Joining Ruth in the backfield will be Rick Bentley (5-8, 160) and Johnny Allison (6-1, 175) at the halfbacks and Jim Stach (5-10, 190) at full.

JERRY GRAHAM (5-9, 167) was the quarterback on Glenbrook's jayvee squad in 1963 but has been switched to halfback. Dick Johnson (5-8, 146) is backing up Ruth in the signal-calling position.

St. Viator boasts the speed and varsity experience. Glenbrook South boasts the size.

An interesting battle is shaping up at the Arlington High School field Saturday afternoon The varsity headliner will be preceded by a sophomore contest at 12 noon.

WHEELING HIGH SCHOOL football coach Bill Daletski watches the action unfold at a recent scrimmage. The varsity Wildcats, newest District 214 school, will launch their 1964 schedule Friday evening against Maine South, another new school, at the Maine East Field. The Wildcats' home opener is set for Saturday, Sept. 26, against Niles North.

Midget Grid Play Opens in Junior, Bantam Divisions

The Mount Prospect Midget Football Association opened its 1964 season on Sunday with four games in both the Junior and Bantam Divisions.

Approximately 340 boys saw action in these games. Next Sunday another 120 boys will take the field to play in the Senior Division openers.

The Junior Division had three teams score in excess of 30 points over their opponents. The other team shut out its opposition.

The Redskins romped to a 33-14 victory over the Vikings. Marshall contributed three touchdowns to the cause. One came via a 40 yard run after a pass interception. Lang and Kinneman also scored touchdowns. Outstanding linemen were Spielman, Gaffney and Bersted. Bill Grady and John Griffen were the outstanding players for the Vikings. Grady scored on an end sweep. Boyle scored a touchdown for the losers also.

THE BROWNS shut out the 49ers 14-0. Tom Tagney intercepted a pass and ran for one touchdown. Mike Morgan ran up the middle for a 46-yard score. Line play was superb for Grenning, Herman, Ennis and McDonough. The 49ers were pleased with the play of Remsen, Sennett, Frantell, Parluzzi, Schultz, O'Donnell, and McKay.

The Rams scored 34 points while holding the Eagles scoreless. Bill Bley made three touchdowns while Bob Kotowski and Bill Tindall scored one each. Defensive line play by Gary Ball, Ted Roth and Gary Rizzo was top notch. Pat Packer's play as blocking back was outstanding. The opposition, Eagles, had fine performances from Rick Barnes and Mark Rossi on offense and defense.

The Cowboys rolled to a 36-6 win over the Steelers, Mickie Gebert scored two on quarterback sneaks and two on reverses. Scott Szala scored two on end runs. Great play from Grimm, Koehler, O'Malley, O'-Connell and Brerton stymied the Steeler attack. Rick Schachner scored for the Steelers after a 15 yard gain by Scott Teuber. Anthony Mincini sparkled in line play for the losers.

THE BANTAM Division had comparatively low scoring games with two ending in ties. The other two games were won by one touchdown margins.

The Wildcats and Buckeyes battled to a 6-6 tie. Mike Kenny ran around right end for the Buckeyes' score. Randy Jesperson returned their kickoff 55 yards for the tying points. Jim Robb, Mark Passarella, Gary Chuipek, Tom Gattas, Clint Van Schaick, and Allan Reed were outstanding for the Buckeyes. The Wildcats had Tom Trandell, Jim Hamann, Kurt Krouz, Kevin White, and Terry Cherwin to counter the opposition's forces.

The other tie was scoreless between the Hawkeyes and Wolverines. Luciani and Smith shined for the Hawkeyes. Peterson was their best in the line.

THE PANTHERS toppled the Spartans in a 13-7 victory. Jim Packer and Tom Freyman scored the winning team touchdowns. Terry Sramek intercepted a pass which stopped the Spartans' final drive. McGaskill and Fitzsimmons were their top linemen. The Spartans' Don Divito scored from a few yards out. Mark Hempel and John Forssander were the top defensive men. Brad Ullrich, Phil Leone and Tom Hughes also played hard for the losers.

The Badgers won 6-0 over the Lions. John Glasgow scored the lone tally. Deringer, Kidd, Eilbracht and Robinson played halfback for the winners. The Cherwin boys at end contained the Lions backfield. Jeff Pollard and Al Hening gave good runs for the Lions. Mel Graham, Jack Youle and John Layer played top notch defensive

West Leyden Edges 'Cat Harriers

The Wheeling Wildcats dropped a pair of close decisions in their cross country openers against West Leyden last week.

The Knights copped the varsity match by a 32-27 score despite a 2-3-4 finish by Doug Steinman, Paul Fiegan and Bill Lytle of Wheeling.

The Knights took the first three places in the sophomore event yet won only 30-29 as the Wildcats grabbed the next six spots. Gary Shornden led Wheeling.

Top Golfer

Doug Hankey, a member of the Michigan State golf team, won the 1964 Michigan Amateur Golf championship.

"This is a real chance to show how well we amateurs can do in this wonderful game of golf! We're expecting some surprising scores."

Following the tournament, the wives of all the players will join them at the Club for cocktails, dinner and presentation of the prizes.

Area professionals participating are Chuck Pedersen of the host club, Chuck Malchaski of Brookwood Country Club in Addison, Jack Bell of Medinah Country Club, and George Capoun of Inverness Country Club.

Knights Win Triangular in Harrier Debut

Prospect's varsity cross country team nipped host Grant by two points Tuesday afternoon in racking up an impressive victory on the Grant course in the season opener.

Dick Calisch's varsity Knights totaled 29 markers to Grant's 31 in the triangular. Notre Dame was a distant third with 73.

Grant headed the field in frosh - soph competition with a three-point (26 to 29) bulge over runnerup Notre Dame. Prospect was third at 72.

GRANT'S PAUL LINDAHL, one of the area's top milers last spring, was an easy victor on a varsity level Tuesday with a snappy 11:11 clocking.

Prospect's Gary York finished second and was 22 seconds behind Lindahl. Also scoring for Calisch's outfit were Jack Pollard in third, Gust Filantres in seventh, Ed Schneider in eighth, and Dennis Breen in ninth.

Pat Luken was the young Knights' top finisher with an 11th.

Prospect will run Maine South and the talented Larry Kelly (national record holder in the 880 yard run) Saturday afternoon between football games at the Knight field. The frosh-sophs will meet Maine between halves of the first game Saturday.

PROSPECT IS scheduled to journey to Palatine next Tuesday afternoon to meet the always powerful Pirates.

Calisch is encouraged over the prospects for the 1964 season, pointing to more depth on the varsity squad. "Our juniors have been running very hard and should add to the team," Dick said.

George Schneider, one of five returning lettermen at Prospect, has been sidelined with a leg injury but should be back in action shortly. Other monogram winners at Prosepct are York, Ed Schneider, Filantres, and Pollard.

Mid-America Road Racing Feature at Meadowdale Plant

With more than 100 production and modified cars eligible, the third annual Mid-America road racing championships at Meadowdale International Raceway on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 19 and 20, figures to furnish a rousing finale to the season at the Carpentersville sped way.

Two drivers with a score to settle in Sunday's feature will be Ralph Webb and Pat Manning, each with a victory this season at Meadowdale, Webb taking the flag in May and Manning on July 4.

The fact that Webb drives a Corvette and Manning a Cobra gives the fans an opportunity to witness another chapter in the season-long Chevy vs. Ford battle.

ATTRACTING much interest is the Handicap race to be run on Saturday afternoon. In this special feature, cars are lined up on the starting grid in accordance with times turned in during practice laps, but with the slower smaller cars in front.

This means that the potent big-bore speedsters may have as much as two laps to make up in the 15-lap race, and on Meadowdale's tricky 2½-mile course this will call for some expert driving.

Sanctioned by the Midwestern Council of Sports Car Clubs, the Mid America Championships, last major meet of the season in the midwest, traditionally draws an outstanding field of Council members and guest drivers of the Sports Car Club of America. Winner of the feature event in 1962 and 1963 was Harry Heuer in the Meister Brauser Chaparral, four times national champion of the SCCA.

Cowdrey Captures Tourney

Roy Cowdrey won the 36-hole Medal Handicap event in the Village Green Golf Club tournament with a net score of 130 over the Mount Prospect Country Club layout.

Cowdrey was presented with a Weber Bar-B-Q by the Club.

Putters were given to Dudley Hartman, Bernie McNichols and Bruno Pinkos, who tied for second place at 132 net.

Bob Bjorn directed the Medal Handicap tourney.

The final event of the season will be the annual Village Green Golf Club "Hookey Day" and banquet on Sept. 24. For tickets contact Herb Scott at Clearbrook 5-2285.

Football Films Each Wednesday

Films of all Arlington High varsity football games will be shown on the Wednesday following each contest in the Little Theater at the school, head coach Al Allen announced this week.

Allen introduced this Wednesday session last fall. The public is invited to view the films each week at 7:30 p.m.

Brand X Loses Again

TULLY

by TOM TULLY

Had they been so inclined at the end of the 1963 football season the members of the Lake Park football team could have raced home to their mothers and screamed "Hey Mom, our group had 90 per cent fewer cavities than the group using brand X."

This statement not only sent brand X to another crushing defeat, it also brought smiles to the faces of five Medinah dentists, the Lancer coaching staff and a couple hundred parents. The cavities, in this instance, are the permanent holes that result from a well aimed forearm.

Brand X is the universally fitted mouthguard that began showing up on football fields 15 years ago and became mandatory by state rule three years ago.

Dissatisfied with universal mouthguards, the Lake Park coaching staff sought help from a group of Medinah dentists. The Ethics Committee of the Chicago Dental Society frowns on the use of their names in what may be construed as advertising, but suffice to say that there are five of them and they donate their services.

The dentists went to work on the problems (it is not a unique one and dentists in many communities chip in in a like manner) of individual fitting.

Mouthguards can be purchased in wax, plastic or rubber. For their individually fitted guards, the Medinah dentists settled on a soft silicone substance. The substance is poured into a preformed rubber guard and as the boy bites down on it, an individually fitted guard solidifies within the form.

The fitting takes about ten minutes per boy, but at Lake Park the results have been worth the effort. In the three seasons prior to the use of the individual mouthguards, the team suffered six to ten mouth injuries per year. In the two years since, there have been two injuries, one each year. In neither case were the teeth damaged beyond repair.

The dentists have made two changes from the original guard. Most significant is the change from a lower guard to an upper guard. This resulted in a shift of opinion regarding the comparative safety of the two guards. The players also prefer the upper guard because it is more comfortable. The other change in the kit makes it easier for the dentist to manipulate.

One of the dentists admitted that the guard is still not the protector it could be. There is a problem of communication, however, and additional protection would impede speaking.

Why, other than the fact that they are doing it for nothing, is a dentist needed to fit these mouthguards? For one thing, the dentist is much faster. For another, his experienced hand is more likely to come up with a consistant guard, one without lumps and thin, spots, one that offers uniform protection.

More important, the dentist's hands are needed to insure protection for the boy with the imperfect 'bite' or the one with braces on his teeth.

At best, the guards last one season. The silicone has a tendency to dry out. At worst, the boys chew holes in them or lose them. In either case, they must be replaced. Others have trouble adjusting to them and find them a nuisance. But one thing makes them worthwhile. You can't spot a Lake Park football payer by the hole in his smile.

Top Elgin Larkin

Forest View Harriers Win

With its opening 17-44 victory over Elgin Larkin, Forest View's cross country team ushered in what could be its most successful year.

Building around a strong nucleus of six returning lettermen, Coach Bob Rees stated that, "This could be the strongest team we have had in three years competition."

Paced by winning sophomore, Ted Lambert, the Forest View squad placed five runners among the first six finishers in the varsity match held at the Elgin Larkin course. Lambert's winning time over the two mile course was 10:35.

Finishing second was junior, Gary Brown (10:39), who was followed by seniors Jerry Potter (10:47), Terry Haydon (10:54) and Bob Prucha (10:55) in third, fifth and sixth places.

LAST YEAR the Forest View runners captured third place in the Mid-Suburban League with a 9 and 5 record. Coach Rees feels that this year's running times will be improved considerably over last year though he questions whether the third place finish can be bettered.

The outlook for future seasons seems bright as the Frosh-Soph team also legged its way to victory over Elgin Larkin, 25 to 32. The frosh-soph team was paced by Mike Ancona's second place finish in 9:27 over the 1.65 mile course. Others placing for the junior team were Dick Appleton, Bill Gravitt, Bucky Jones and Dave Virta.

Both varsity and frosh-soph teams can make their records 2 and 0 with victories in their second matches. Both teams meet East Leyden, at home, today.

Indy Stars Set For Action in 'Mighty Midgets'

Numerous greats from the Indianapolis 500-mile classic will be in action this Saturday night, September 19, when the mighty "110" midgets of the United States Auto Club race for the last time this year in the Chicago area at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds. First race is 8:30 p.m.

The giant National Championship show will be highlighted by a 100-lap feature race starting the 18 fastest qualifiers. There will also be time trials, heat races, a semi-final event and a special "Dash for the Roses," announce Promoters Bill Cherney and Tex Wooten.

Some 40 cars are entered with such driving stars as Parnelli Jones, the 1963 winner at Indianapolis; Bob Wente of St. Louis, defending National midget champion; Chicago's Jimmy Knight, who put on a driving finish to wind up a close second in the O'Hare '100' August 19, and the winner of that event, Tommy Copp of Milbrae, Calif.

Other Indianapolis greats expected to compete include Don Branson of Springfield, Ill.; Bobby Grim of Indianapolis; Chuck Arnold of Indianapolis; Chuck Rodee of Speedway, Ind.; Mike McGreevy of Hayward, Calif.; Ronnie Duman of Dearborn, Mich., and Jimmie Davies of Pacoima, Calif.

Boosters Seeking Members

"Be a Booster" is the slogan of the Cardinals Booster Club which supports the atheltic program at Arlington High School.

Tomorrow night (Friday) the club members will be on hand to take membership applications at the gate and in the stands when the Cards open their season with Barrington.

The Booster Club has supported the various teams in many ways over the past few years, providing telephone service in the locker room, bus transportation for away from home games and most recently with some professional camera and projector equipment for the coaching staff.

The club hopes to bring in a record number of parents and friends of the local high school and is urging all parents and interested friends to join.

In addition to the applications at the game memberships may be obtained from John Kehe at 1-3 North State Road (Kehe, Foy and Snelten) for the next few weks.

Opener Friday

Brunner Tops Card Harriers

Arlington's varsity cross country team, paced by senior standout John Brunner, will launch its 1964 schedule Friday afternoon at Pioneer Park against West Suburban Conference opponent Glenbard West.

The meet with Glenbard had originally been set for Wednesday, Nov. 4, on the Cards' schedule but was switched to this Friday.

Head coach Russ Attis is working with three lettermen from a squad that racked up three victories in 11 duals last fall.

JOHN BRUNNER

IN ADDITION to Brunner, who finished fourth in the state harrier finals, other returning monogram winners are junior Bob Yeazel and senior Tom Taylor.

Paul Fiegen and Doug Steinman, who lettered with the Cardinal varsity as sophs, transferred to Wheeling.

Joining the three lettermen on the Arlington varsity are juniors John Blomquist, David Schimpf, Tom Thornton, Brian Anderson, and Mark Saylor. They all earned numerals last year on a squad that won seven and dropped four. Greg Busch, a soph transfer from Palatine, has also shown some promise.

BRUNNER IS the big name at Arlington and with good reason. The slendor senior was fourth in the state harrier finals after finishing fourth in the district competition. He went on to gain sixth in the state mile run and establish himself as one of Illinois' leading distance runners.

Brunner collected eight firsts, one second, and one third in the 10 cross country duals he entered in 1963. He was whipped on only one occasion in the mile run last spring in earning All-State honors.

Yeazel promises to be another stickout in the tradition of outstanding Arlington distance men. He sparkled on a soph level in the mile run and placed second in the frosh-soph division of the West Suburban Conference cross country meet.

The 1964 schedule:

Friday, Sept. 18, Glenbard West (H)
Wednesday, Sept. 23, at Notre Dame.
Saturday, Sept. 26, at Riverside-Brookfield.
Tuesday, Sept. 29, at Prospect.

Illini Grid Star Dodged Trees in Summer Workouts

If you saw a big guy in a sweatsuit running at trees and dodging them in parks or schoolgrounds late this summer, it may not have been an escapee from a mental institution—it may have been Illinois' All-American center Dick Butkus. Probably it was a good thing for the trees that he was dodging!

Knights Win Triangular in Harrier Debut

Prospect's varsity cross country team nipped host Grant by two points Tuesday afternoon in racking up an impressive victory on the Grant course in the season opener.

Dick Calisch's varsity Knights totaled 29 markers to Grant's 31 in the triangular. Notre Dame was a distant third with 73.

Grant headed the field in frosh-soph competition with a three-point (26 to 29) bulge over runnerup Notre Dame. Prospect was third at 72.

GRANT'S PAUL LINDAHL, one of the area's top milers last spring, was an easy victor on a varsity level Tuesday with a snappy 11:11 clocking.

Prospect's Gary York finished second and was 22 seconds behind Lindahl. Also scoring for Calisch's outfit were Jack Pollard in third, Gust Filantres in seventh, Ed Schneider in eighth, and Dennis Breen in ninth.

Pat Luken was the young Knights' top finisher with an 11th.

Prospect will run Maine South and the talented Larry Kelly (national record holder in the 880 yard run) Saturday afternoon between football games at the Knight field. The frosh-sophs will meet Maine between halves of the first game Saturday.

PROSPECT IS scheduled to journey to Palatine next Tuesday afternoon to meet the always powerful Pirates.

Calisch is encouraged over the prospects for the 1964 season, pointing to more depth on the varsity squad. "Our juniors have been running very hard and should add to the team," Dick said.

George Schneider, one of five returning lettermen at Prospect, has been sidelined with a leg injury but should be back in action shortly. Other monogram winners at Prosepct are York, Ed Schneider, Filantres, and Pollard.

Mid-America Road Racing Feature at Meadowdale Plant

With more than 100 production and modified cars eligible, the third annual Mid-America road racing championships at Meadowdale International Raceway on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 19 and 20, figures to furnish a rousing finale to the season at the Carpentersville sped way.

Two drivers with a score to settle in Sunday's feature will be Ralph Webb and Pat Manning, each with a victory this season at Meadowdale, Webb taking the flag in May and Manning on July 4.

The fact that Webb drives a Corvette and Manning a Cobra gives the fans an opportunity to witness another chapter in the season-long Chevy vs. Ford battle.

ATTRACTING much interest is the Handicap race to be run on Saturday afternoon. In this special feature, cars are lined up on the starting grid in accordance with times turned in during practice laps, but with the slower smaller cars in front.

This means that the potent big-bore speedsters may have as much as two laps to make up in the 15-lap race, and on Meadowdale's tricky 2½-mile course this will call for some expert driving.

Sanctioned by the Midwestern Council of Sports Car Clubs, the Mid America Championships, last major meet of the season in the midwest, traditionally draws an outstanding field of Council members and guest drivers of the Sports Car Club of America. Winner of the feature event in 1962 and 1963 was Harry Heuer in the Meister Brauser Chaparral, four times national champion of the SCCA.

Cowdrey Captures Tourney

Roy Cowdrey won the 36-hole Medal Handicap event in the Village Green Golf Club tournament with a net score of 130 over the Mount Prospect Country Club layout.

Cowdrey was presented with a Weber Bar-B-Q by the Club.

Putters were given to Dudley Hartman, Bernie McNichols and Bruno Pinkos, who tied for second place at 132 net.

Bob Bjorn directed the Medal Handicap tourney.

The final event of the season will be the annual Village Green Golf Club "Hookey Day" and banquet on Sept. 24. For tickets contact Herb Scott at Clearbrook 5-2285.

Football Films Each Wednesday

Films of all Arlington High varsity football games will be shown on the Wednesday following each contest in the Little Theater at the school, head coach Al Allen announced this week.

Allen introduced this Wednesday session last fall. The public is invited to view the films each week at 7:30 p.m.

DID HE OR DIDN'T HE? Our photographer says this punt attempt was blocked by the unidentified lineman in action during last Friday's scrimmage at Wheeling High School. The Wildcats of coach Bill Daletski have only one day remaining before they kick off their 1964 schedule against Maine South. Brand X Loses Again

by TOM TULLY

Had they been so inclined at the end of the 1963 football season the members of the Lake Park football team could have raced home to their mothers and screamed "Hey Mom, our group had 90 per cent fewer cavities than the group using brand X."

This statement not only sent brand X to another crushing defeat, it also brought smiles to the faces of five Medinah dentists, the Lancer coaching staff and a couple hundred parents. The cavities, in this instance, are the permanent holes that result from a well aimed forearm.

Brand X is the universally fitted mouthguard that began showing up on football fields 15 years ago and became mandatory by state rule three years ago.

Dissatisfied with universal mouthguards, the Lake Park coaching staff sought help from a group of Medinah dentists. The Ethics Committee of the Chicago Dental Society frowns on the use of their names in what may be construed as advertising, but suffice to say that there are five of them and they donate their services.

The dentists went to work on the problems (it is not a unique one and dentists in many communities chip in in a like manner) of individual fitting.

Mouthguards can be purchased in wax, plastic or rubber. For their individually fitted guards, the Medinah dentists settled on a soft silicone substance. The substance is poured into a preformed rubber guard and as the boy bites down on it, an individually fitted guard solidifies within the form.

The fitting takes about ten minutes per boy, but at Lake Park the results have been worth the effort. In the three seasons prior to the use of the individual mouthguards, the team suffered six to ten mouth injuries per year. In the two years since, there have been two injuries, one each year. In neither case were the teeth damaged beyond repair.

The dentists have made two changes from the original guard. Most significant is the change from a lower guard to an upper guard. This resulted in a shift of opinion regarding the comparative safety of the two guards. The players also prefer the upper guard because it is more comfortable. The other change in the kit makes it easier for the dentist to manipulate.

One of the dentists admitted that the guard is still not the protector it could be. There is a problem of communication, however, and additional protection would impede speaking.

Why, other than the fact that they are doing it for nothing, is a dentist needed to fit these mouthguards? For one thing, the dentist is much faster. For another, his experienced hand is more likely to come up with a consistant guard, one without lumps and thin, spots, one that offers uniform protection.

More important, the dentist's hands are needed to insure protection for the boy with the imperfect 'bite' or the one with braces on his teeth.

At best, the guards last one season. The silicone has a tendency to dry out. At worst, the boys chew holes in them or lose them. In either case, they must be replaced. Others have trouble adjusting to them and find them a nuisance. But one thing makes them worthwhile. You can't spot a Lake Park football payer by the hole in his smile.

Top Elgin Larkin

Forest View Harriers Win

With its opening 17-44 victory over Elgin Larkin, Forest View's cross country team ushered in what could be its most successful year.

Building around a strong nucleus of six returning lettermen, Coach Bob Rees stated that, "This could be the strongest team we have had in three years competition."

Paced by winning sophomore, Ted Lambert, the Forest View squad placed five runners among the first six finishers in the varsity match held at the Elgin Larkin course. Lambert's winning time over the two mile course was 10:35.

Finishing second was junior, Gary Brown (10:39), who was followed by seniors Jerry Potter (10:47), Terry Haydon (10:54) and Bob Prucha (10:55) in third, fifth and sixth places.

LAST YEAR the Forest View runners captured third place in the Mid-Suburban League with a 9 and 5 record. Coach Rees feels that this year's running times will be improved considerably over last year though he questions whether the third place finish can be bettered.

The outlook for future seasons seems bright as the Frosh-Soph team also legged its way to victory over Elgin Larkin, 25 to 32. The frosh-soph team was paced by Mike Ancona's second place finish in 9:27 over the 1.65 mile course. Others placing for the junior team were Dick Appleton, Bill Gravitt, Bucky Jones and Dave Virta.

Both varsity and frosh-soph teams can make their records 2 and 0 with victories in their second matches. Both teams meet East Leyden, at home, today.

Indy Stars Set For Action in 'Mighty Midgets'

Numerous greats from the Indianapolis 500-mile classic will be in action this Saturday night, September 19, when the mighty "110" midgets of the United States Auto Club race for the last time this year in the Chicago area at O'Hare Stadium, Mannheim and Irving Park rds. First race is 8:30 p.m.

The giant National Championship show will be highlighted by a 100-lap feature race starting the 18 fastest qualifiers. There will also be time trials, heat races, a semi-final event and a special "Dash for the Roses," announce Promoters Bill Cherney and Tex Wooten.

Some 40 cars are entered with such driving stars as Parnelli Jones, the 1963 winner at Indianapolis; Bob Wente of St. Louis, defending National midget champion; Chicago's Jimmy Knight, who put on a driving finish to wind up a close second in the O'Hare '100' August 19, and the winner of that event, Tommy Copp of Milbrae, Calif.

Other Indianapolis greats expected to compete include Don Branson of Springfield, Ill.; Bob by Grim of Indianapolis; Chuck Arnold of Indianapolis; Chuck Rodee of Speedway, Ind.; Mike McGreevy of Hayward, Calif.; Ronnie Duman of Dearborn, Mich., and Jimmie Davies of Pacoima, Calif.

Boosters Seeking Members

"Be a Booster" is the slogan of the Cardinals Booster Club which supports the atheltic program at Arlington High School.

Tomorrow night (Friday) the club members will be on hand to take membership applications at the gate and in the stands when the Cards open their season with Barrington.

The Booster Club has supported the various teams in many ways over the past few years, providing telephone service in the locker room, bus transportation for away from home games and most recently with some professional camera and projector equipment for the coaching staff.

The club hopes to bring in a record number of parents and friends of the local high school and is urging all parents and interested friends to join.

In addition to the applications at the game memberships may be obtained from John Kehe at 1-3 North State Road (Kehe, Foy and Snelten) for the next few weks.

Opener Friday

Brunner Tops Card Harriers

Arlington's varsity cross country team, paced by senior standout John Brunner, will launch its 1964 schedule Friday afternoon at Pioneer Park against West Suburban Conference opponent Glenbard West.

The meet with Glenbard had originally been set for Wednesday, Nov. 4, on the Cards' schedule but was switched to this Friday.

Head coach Russ Attis is working with three lettermen from a squad that racked up three victories in 11 duals last fall.

IN ADDITION to Brunner, who finished fourth in the state harrier finals, other returning monogram winners are junior Bob Yeazel and senior Tom Taylor.

Paul Fiegen and Doug Steinman, who lettered with the Cardinal varsity as sophs, transferred to Wheeling.

Joining the three lettermen on the Arlington varsity are juniors John Blomquist, David Schimpf, Tom Thornton, Brian Anderson, and Mark Saylor. They all earned numerals last year on a squad that won seven and dropped four. Greg Busch, a soph transfer from Palatine, has also shown some promise.

BRUNNER IS the big name at Arlington and with good reason. The slendor senior was fourth in the state harrier finals after finishing fourth in the district competition. He went on to gain sixth in the state mile run and establish himself as one of Illinois' leading distance runners.

Brunner collected eight firsts, one second, and one third in the 10 cross country duals he entered in 1963. He was whipped on only one occasion in the mile run last spring in earning All-State honors.

JOHN BRUNNER

Yeazel promises to be another stickout in the tradition of outstanding Arlington distance men. He sparkled on a soph level in the mile run and placed second in the frosh-soph division of the West Suburban Conference cross country meet.

Jeffery Lanes Hosts Gals; Classic Heads Into Fifth Campaign

The Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League will launch its fifth season of competition Saturday evening at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling.

Six teams, featuring the top women bowlers in the Northwest Suburban area, will be in action as the race begins to capture the coveted grand championship claimed by Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile last spring.

Competition will get under way at 6:30 p.m. at Jeffery Lanes, 125 N. Wolf Road in Wheeling.

THE PADDOCK Women's division began in 1960 with Vernon Hills Restaurant of Lake Zurich the big winner.

Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein fashioned a 677 series in the final roll-off as Vernon Hills took two of three games from Steve's Restaurant. Bonnie had games of 247, 212, and 218 in one of the top pressure performances in the history of the division.

In the roll-off for the grand championship in 1961-62 Joan Lindahl paced Morton Pontiac to a victory over Steve's Restaurant. Joan had three game sets of 563 and 572 in leading Morton to a 4-2 victory.

STEVE'S CAST aside its "always the bridesmaid" role in the 1962-63 season with an impressive victory over Moyle Construction for the grand championship.

The Jeffery Lanes-based entry took four of five games in the roll-off with Moyle. Sis Jennings, with a 593 series in the first three games, and Dolores Harris, with 568, were the key figures in Steve's impressive triumph.

Last spring Martin J. Kelly Olds toppled Charlotte's Pizza, 4-2, in a best-of-seven roll-off. Bouncing back from a setback in the opening game, Kelly came through with four victories in the next five sigments.

Here's the way the teams line up with individual averages for the 1964-65 season:

GUNNELL'S LANES— Janie Heise (162); Donna Garchie (160), Rose Kraft (163), Helen Kaijak (160), and Peggy Harris (175). Team 820.

'Cats Battle Oregon State

Platoon football returns to Northwestern this fall, and much of the responsibility for its success will belong to sophomores and to upperclassmen who saw little action last season. The platoon system will get its first test when the Wildcats open against Oregon State at Dyche Stadium Saturday.

New head coach Alex Agase, hoping to capitalize on the liberalized substitution rule, has divided his squad into offensive and defensive platoons. He feels the platoon system will enable him to get more mileage out of players with specialized abilities who are unable to make the grade going both ways.

"There's no doubt but what there'll be quite a few more boys seeing action for us this fall," said Agase. "The more liberal substitution rule has given a new lease on life to some of our players who spent most of the time on the bench last year. They could make the difference for us."

TWO OF THE key figures in the platoon arrangement are junior tackles Mike Beinor and Jerry Oberdorf. They had a combined total of only 36 minutes playing time in a disappointing sophomore season after ranking among the most highly regarded prospects on the 1962 freshman team. This year they'll be played back-to-back at the left tackle position, Oberdorf playing offense and Beinor defense.

Likewise, at the other tackle two well-established veterans will split the platoon assignments, with Mike Schwager starting on offense and Joe Szczecko on defense. Another key position in the platoon picture is left guard, where two seniors who missed last season because of injuries shared the No. 1 assignment after the first week of practice. Rich Olson was listed on offense and Larry Zeno on defense.

THE WILDCATS will continue a long established pattern of platooning the quarterback and center positions. Field general Tom Myers will be spelled by the veteran Jim Dau on defense, while Joe Cerne, last year's starting center on offense, will turn over his position on defense to letterman Jim Haugsness, the No. 1 middle linebacker.

An important backfield adjustment finds two-way standout Dick McCauley listed at defensive halfback along with an outstanding sophomore prospect, Woody Campbell. Their alter egos on offense at this stage are Ron Rector and Jim Proffitt.

Despite the emphasis on platoon football, several key Wildcats will continue to see their share of action on offense and defense. Foremost among them are McCauley and Campbell at the halfbacks, fullback Steve Murphy, Schwager at tackle and highly-regarded sophomore end, Cas Banaszek.

Bowling Coverage Changed

Changing readership habits of bowlers have brought about a change in coverage of bowling within the area. Paddock Publications will no longer print team standings other than for the two Paddock Classic leagues.

In place of these standings, the publishers will run bowling highlights each week, incorporating items of bowling interest from each league, in addition to the regular 600 Club.

These highlights, which will be found under the names of each bowling establishment, give all league secretaries the opportunity to focus the limelight on bowlers who normally do not make the headlines.

Items will be picked up Saturday mornings at the counter of most bowling establishments within the area served by Paddock Publications; or they can be delivered directly to the news slot of the Paddock office, 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, or they can be mailed.

Deadline for all bowling items and 600 Club is 9 a.m. each Monday for publication that week.

Six Arlington Golfers Bid For Old Smuggler's Prize After Firing Holes-in-One

Six Arlington Heights golfers can boast of a links accomplishment that has eluded, among others, such illustrious divot specialists as Bobby Jones, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, and Walter Hagen.

They are among the some 11,000 Americans who scored holes-in-one this year and are Max Ullrich, Anton Sadler, Dr. Roger Eggert, H. R. Haugen, Gene Doyle, and Warren Romme.

These half dozen golfers are trying to emulate John D. Van Veen Jr. or Arlington, who was last year's winner. He has just returned from Scotland where he was a guest at the Old Smuggler's Distillery in Dumbarton, and played at the historic Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrsws, most famous course in the world.

THE RCA Electronic Data Processing people have put a lot of figures into one of their machines and have come up with some startling statistics that place the odds against an ace at something a little less than 2,000,000 to one!

It is estimated that there are approximately 10,000,000 golfers in the United States. If each plays 20 rounds a season and the average score is an even 100, this is a total of 200,000,000 rounds or 18,000,000,000 strokes. Assuming that there will be 11,000 acres the odds are that one shot out of 1,818,000 strokes will go from tee to cup!

Early this month, four members of America's greatest golfing family, the Turnesas of Westchester County N. Y., tried to get a deliberate ace before a battery of motion picture cameras to highlight the annual Old Smuggler Hole-In-One Sweepstakes.

DESPITE THE fact that all four are well-known professionals who hold many championship records among them, they failed. Brothers Mike, Jim, Joe and Doug swung mightily 518 times on the 150-yard 17th hole at Briar Hall Country Club but to on avail.

However, one Toney Tiso, a pro at Vernon Hills in Eastchester, N.Y., did get one on purpose several years ago after 441 shots. At that, he might have stayed on the tee for a fortnight without success.

Aces occurred so rarely before the fifties that no actual records were kept. However, in 1952 some 1,421 were reported. By 1956 2,802 were scored and the total has increased each year until the peak of 12,888 in 1961. Last year there were exactly 11,413.

BECAUSE A "hole-in-oner" usually has to stand for drinks at the 19th hole, Lloyds of London did for many years provide insurance against this sort of thing. But the British underwriters discontinued it when aces became more abundant.

Many concerns award golfers prizes for an ace. One company will mount the memorable golf ball which brought about a "1" on the scoreboard; others give away pins, scrolls, certificates and even golf hats. Old Smuggler gives away a free round trip flight for two to Scotland and an invitation to play at the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrews, $1,000 in spending money and $1,000 to the pro who sends in the winning entry.

In addition, every entrant gets an ace card for his or her golf bag and some 15,000 linksmen now sport this badge of honor.

Tody's Lounge Tops Black's For Loop Title

Tody's Lounge became the 1964 Sportsman's Softball league champions by defeating Black's Memorial in a post-season playoff game.

Tody's completed their season domination of Black's Memorial by defeating the latter for the third consecutive time.

The new champs had things pretty much their way as they scored their 8-1 victory. In the top of the seventh inning, Ken Neibuhr put the icing on the cake by blasting a three run homer. Tody's picked up 12 hits to only nine for Black's.

In the previous two seasons, Tody's had taken second place while Black's Memorial reigned as the champions.

Loose ball handling by Michigan State soph back John Grogan, son of the chief of police in Athens, Ohio, brought this admonishment from Coach Duffy Daugherty: "Grogan, if you don't cover that ball somebody'll steal it from you even if you are the chief's son."

Cook Buick Grabs Lead In Classic

They are masquerading under a new name, but don't let the handle fool you. The champions are at it again.

They call themselves Bill Cook Buick this year, but the cast looks suspiciously like the Rolling Meadows gang that won all the marbles in the Paddock Classic Traveling League last spring.

The Buicks got off to a fast start on opening night of the eighth PCTL season last Saturday when they blitzed Country Lanes 7-0. The sweep (two points for game and one for series under the new scoring system) gives the champs a two point lead over the Brass Rail Restaurant, Gunnell Lanes and Morton Pontiac. All three teams registered 5-2 victories in their openers.

BUT IF THE team lead rests in experienced hands, it was a newcomer who grabbed the individual honors. Rookie John Kmety of Jeffery Lanes whipped off a nifty 181-218-254 — 653 to post game and series highs.

The Cook entry wasn't brilliant, its 2801 total was no better than fifth in the league for the evening, but it was easily enough to top Country Lanes which suffered through a chilly 2667. A 925-912 verdict in the third game was the only close call for the leaders. Ernie Koshinski paced the winners with a 628 while Herm Simonis dialed a 568 to lead Country Lanes.

The top scoring of the evening came in the Brass Rail's 5-2 win over Jeffery Lanes. In addition to Kmety's 653, the match produced a 651 series from Roy Papineau and a 609 from Paul Zubak of the Brass Rail. Hec Healey had a 246 game for Jeffery. Jeffery's total count of 2908 topped the team's top effort of last season, yet reflected just two points on the score sheet.

Morton Pontiac topped Casares Pro Bowl 5-2 in a match closer than the score indicates. The total pin spread was only 15 pins and the Pontiacs won it by coming off an 80 setback in the first game. Don Oberg of Casares topped both squads with a 603.

Gunnell Lanes used the same formula to whip Pioneer Lanes 5-2. After spotting the Pioneers a 60 pin lead in game one, Gunnell's rolled to a 2897-2806 victory. Warren Walter of Gunnell's dropped 606 pins to top the match. Included was a 247 in the third game.

Jeffery Lanes Hosts Gals; Classic Heads Into Fifth Campaign

The Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League will launch its fifth season of competition Saturday evening at Jeffery Lanes in Wheeling.

Six teams, featuring the top women bowlers in the Northwest Suburban area, will be in action as the race begins to capture the coveted grand championship claimed by Martin J. Kelly Oldsmobile last spring.

Competition will get under way at 6:30 p.m. at Jeffery Lanes, 125 N. Wolf Road in Wheeling.

THE PADDOCK Women's division began in 1960 with Vernon Hills Restaurant of Lake Zurich the big winner.

Bonnie Kuhn of Mundelein fashioned a 677 series in the final roll-off as Vernon Hills took two of three games from Steve's Restaurant. Bonnie had games of 247, 212, and 218 in one of the top pressure performances in the history of the division.

In the roll-off for the grand championship in 1961-62 Joan Lindahl paced Morton Pontiac to a victory over Steve's Restaurant. Joan had three game sets of 563 and 572 in leading Morton to a 4-2 victory.

STEVE'S CAST aside its "always the bridesmaid" role in the 1962-63 season with an impressive victory over Moyle Construction for the grand championship.

The Jeffery Lanes-based entry took four of five games in the roll-off with Moyle. Sis Jennings, with a 593 series in the first three games, and Dolores Harris, with 568, were the key figures in Steve's impressive triumph.

Last spring Martin J. Kelly Olds toppled Charlotte's Pizza, 4-2, in a best-of-seven roll-off. Bouncing back from a setback in the opening game, Kelly came through with four victories in the next five sigments.

Here's the way the teams line up with individual averages for the 1964-65 season:

GUNNELL'S LANES— Janie Heise (162); Donna Garchie (160), Rose Kraft (163), Helen Kaijak (160), and Peggy Harris (175). Team 820.

MORTON PONTIAC — Joan Lindahl (177), Judy Reed (162), Maxine Moehling (169), Ruthmary Baurhyte (168), and Penny Smith (169). Team 845.

STEVE'S RESTAURANT—Delores Harris (171), Louise Lass (169), Ann Neumann (170), LaVerne Rosset (176), and Bonnie Kuhn (176). Team 862.

RIVER RAND — Marge Lindenburg (170), Gloria Lucchesi (168), Hazel Steiger (162), and Ethel Juenger (171). Roster is incomplete.

'Cats Battle Oregon State

Platoon football returns to Northwestern this fall, and much of the responsibility for its success will belong to sophomores and to upperclassmen who saw little action last season. The platoon system will get its first test when the Wildcats open against Oregon State at Dyche Stadium Saturday.

New head coach Alex Agase, hoping to capitalize on the liberalized substitution rule, has divided his squad into offensive and defensive platoons. He feels the platoon system will enable him to get more mileage out of players with specialized abilities who are unable to make the grade going both ways.

"There's no doubt but what there'll be quite a few more boys seeing action for us this fall," said Agase. "The more liberal substitution rule has given a new lease on life to some of our players who spent most of the time on the bench last year. They could make the difference for us."

TWO OF THE key figures in the platoon arrangement are junior tackles Mike Beinor and Jerry Oberdorf. They had a combined total of only 36 minutes playing time in a disappointing sophomore season after ranking among the most highly regarded prospects on the 1962 freshman team. This year they'll be played back-to-back at the left tackle position, Oberdorf playing offense and Beinor defense.

Likewise, at the other tackle two well-established veterans will split the platoon assignments, with Mike Schwager starting on offense and Joe Szczecko on defense. Another key position in the platoon picture is left guard, where two seniors who missed last season because of injuries shared the No. 1 assignment after the first week of practice. Rich Olson was listed on offense and Larry Zeno on defense.

THE WILDCATS will continue a long established pattern of platooning the quarterback and center positions. Field general Tom Myers will be spelled by the veteran Jim Dau on defense, while Joe Cerne, last year's starting center on offense, will turn over his position on defense to letterman Jim Haugsness, the No. 1 middle linebacker.

An important backfield adjustment finds two-way standout Dick McCauley listed at defensive halfback along with an outstanding sophomore prospect, Woody Campbell. Their alter egos on offense at this stage are Ron Rector and Jim Proffitt.

Despite the emphasis on platoon football, several key Wildcats will continue to see their share of action on offense and defense. Foremost among them are McCauley and Campbell at the halfbacks, fullback Steve Murphy, Schwager at tackle and highly-regarded sophomore end, Cas Banaszek.

Bowling Coverage Changed

Changing readership habits of bowlers have brought about a change in coverage of bowling within the area. Paddock Publications will no longer print team standings other than for the two Paddock Classic leagues.

In place of these standings, the publishers will run bowling highlights each week, incorporating items of bowling interest from each league, in addition to the regular 600 Club.

These highlights, which will be found under the names of each bowling establishment, give all league secretaries the opportunity to focus the limelight on bowlers who normally do not make the headlines.

Items will be picked up Saturday mornings at the counter of most bowling establishments within the area served by Paddock Publications; or they can be delivered directly to the news slot of the Paddock office, 217 W. Campbell, Arlington Heights, or they can be mailed.

Deadline for all bowling items and 600 Club is 9 a.m. each Monday for publication that week.

Six Arlington Golfers Bid For Old Smuggler's Prize After Firing Holes-in-One

Six Arlington Heights golfers can boast of a links accomplishment that has eluded, among others, such illustrious divot specialists as Bobby Jones, Sam Snead, Ben Hogan, and Walter Hagen.

They are among the some 11,000 Americans who scored holes-in-one this year and are Max Ullrich, Anton Sadler, Dr. Roger Eggert, H. R. Haugen, Gene Doyle, and Warren Romme.

These half dozen golfers are trying to emulate John D. Van Veen Jr. or Arlington, who was last year's winner. He has just returned from Scotland where he was a guest at the Old Smuggler's Distillery in Dumbarton, and played at the historic Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrsws, most famous course in the world.

THE RCA Electronic Data Processing people have put a lot of figures into one of their machines and have come up with some startling statistics that place the odds against an ace at something a little less than 2,000,000 to one!

It is estimated that there are approximately 10,000,000 golfers in the United States. If each plays 20 rounds a season and the average score is an even 100, this is a total of 200,000,000 rounds or 18,000,000,000 strokes. Assuming that there will be 11,000 acres the odds are that one shot out of 1,818,000 strokes will go from tee to cup!

Early this month, four members of America's greatest golfing family, the Turnesas of Westchester County N. Y., tried to get a deliberate ace before a battery of motion picture cameras to highlight the annual Old Smuggler Hole-In-One Sweepstakes.

DESPITE THE fact that all four are well-known professionals who hold many championship records among them, they failed. Brothers Mike, Jim, Joe and Doug swung mightily 518 times on the 150-yard 17th hole at Briar Hall Country Club but to on avail.

However, one Toney Tiso, a pro at Vernon Hills in Eastchester, N.Y., did get one on purpose several years ago after 441 shots. At that, he might have stayed on the tee for a fortnight without success.

Aces occurred so rarely before the fifties that no actual records were kept. However, in 1952 some 1,421 were reported. By 1956 2,802 were scored and the total has increased each year until the peak of 12,888 in 1961. Last year there were exactly 11,413.

BECAUSE A "hole-in-oner" usually has to stand for drinks at the 19th hole, Lloyds of London did for many years provide insurance against this sort of thing. But the British underwriters discontinued it when aces became more abundant.

Many concerns award golfers prizes for an ace. One company will mount the memorable golf ball which brought about a "1" on the scoreboard; others give away pins, scrolls, certificates and even golf hats. Old Smuggler gives away a free round trip flight for two to Scotland and an invitation to play at the Royal and Ancient Club at St. Andrews, $1,000 in spending money and $1,000 to the pro who sends in the winning entry.

In addition, every entrant gets an ace card for his or her golf bag and some 15,000 linksmen now sport this badge of honor.

Tody's Lounge Tops Black's For Loop Title

Tody's Lounge became the 1964 Sportsman's Softball league champions by defeating Black's Memorial in a post-season playoff game.

Tody's completed their season domination of Black's Memorial by defeating the latter for the third consecutive time.

The new champs had things pretty much their way as they scored their 8-1 victory. In the top of the seventh inning, Ken Neibuhr put the icing on the cake by blasting a three run homer. Tody's picked up 12 hits to only nine for Black's.

In the previous two seasons, Tody's had taken second place while Black's Memorial reigned as the champions.

Village Green Crowns Four Golf Champs

Glen Adams defeated Roy Cowdrey for the A Flight championship in the Village Green Golf Club tournament.

Adams was one of four champs crowned in recent action at Mount Prospect Country Club.

Dan Johnson bumped Don Bertrand in B. Flight play, Ted Banka whipped Joe Kubik in C Flight, and Ed Pool stopped Stanley Peterson in D Flight.

In the semi-finals of the E Flight Bruno Pinkos beat Joe Szostek and Frank Poczatek handled Bob Gits to set up a championship match.

At Elk Grove Bowl

Second Federal Savings and Loan of Chicago is off to a fast start in the Lane Brains league at Elk Grove Bowl . . . The leaders have rolled to six straight victories and hold a game lead over Long Ford and Lake St. Auto Mart . . . Jeanne's Bunny Hugs, Dot's Dipsy Doodles, and Johnny's Strippers are tied for the lead in the Elkettes division with 4-2 marks.

At Casares Pro Bowl

Grass's Four is the early leader (3-0) in the St. Joseph The Worker men's league . . . Ed Wojtas had a hot night with high series of 556 and high game of 246.

Duffyism of Week

Loose ball handling by Michigan State soph back John Grogan, son of the chief of police in Athens, Ohio, brought this admonishment from Coach Duffy Daugherty: "Grogan, if you don't cover that ball somebody'll steal it from you even if you are the chief's son."

Cook Buick Grabs Lead In Classic

They are masquerading under a new name, but don't let the handle fool you. The champions are at it again.

They call themselves Bill Cook Buick this year, but the cast looks suspiciously like the Rolling Meadows gang that won all the marbles in the Paddock Classic Traveling League last spring.

The Buicks got off to a fast start on opening night of the eighth PCTL season last Saturday when they blitzed Country Lanes 7-0. The sweep (two points for game and one for series under the new scoring system) gives the champs a two point lead over the Brass Rail Restaurant, Gunnell Lanes and Morton Pontiac. All three teams registered 5-2 victories in their openers.

BUT IF THE team lead rests in experienced hands, it was a newcomer who grabbed the individual honors. Rookie John Kmety of Jeffery Lanes whipped off a nifty 181-218-254 — 653 to post game and series highs.

The Cook entry wasn't brilliant, its 2801 total was no better than fifth in the league for the evening, but it was easily enough to top Country Lanes which suffered through a chilly 2667. A 925-912 verdict in the third game was the only close call for the leaders. Ernie Koshinski paced the winners with a 628 while Herm Simonis dialed a 568 to lead Country Lanes.

The top scoring of the evening came in the Brass Rail's 5-2 win over Jeffery Lanes. In addition to Kmety's 653, the match produced a 651 series from Roy Papineau and a 609 from Paul Zubak of the Brass Rail. Hec Healey had a 246 game for Jeffery. Jeffery's total count of 2908 topped the team's top effort of last season, yet reflected just two points on the score sheet.

Morton Pontiac topped Casares Pro Bowl 5-2 in a match closer than the score indicates. The total pin spread was only 15 pins and the Pontiacs won it by coming off an 80 setback in the first game. Don Oberg of Casares topped both squads with a 603.

Gunnell Lanes used the same formula to whip Pioneer Lanes 5-2. After spotting the Pioneers a 60 pin lead in game one, Gunnell's rolled to a 2897-2806 victory. Warren Walter of Gunnell's dropped 606 pins to top the match. Included was a 247 in the third game.

Warren Karlsen topped a field of six Mount Prospect Rotary Club members who participated in the second annual golf tournament at Old Orchard last Monday with a gross score of 76. Stan Amren, president of the club, was second with 85, Ed Bush, a guest, scored a 90.

Architect Jerry Thelander came through with a 92. L. R. Murphy, Mount Prospect School Superintendent, playing the first time in 15 years, scored 64 in nine holes. The high gross was 152, for 18, brought in by Harold Ricklefs.

Because a number of members were not able to take part in this week's tourney, Karlsen, golf committee chairman, announced they would be allowed to play next Monday and the scores will be eligible for the prizes.

Plans Drawn for Northwest Hospital Addition

Expect Contract Awards This Year

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

The $4 million addition to the Northwest Community Hospital is "basically ready to go," according to Alan Campbell, administrator.

Campbell said the final plans for the hospital addition of 100 beds plus a laboratory, enlarged emergency room facilities and other necessities, are being studied by the United States Public Health Service.

He said contractors will be asked to bid about the middle of October or the first of November and hopes to let the contracts by the middle of December at the latest.

The addition, complete with air conditioning in the old and new sections, should be ready for total occupancy in 15 to 18 months after excavating begins.

If the weather will allow immediate work following the letting of contracts, Campbell said, the entire addition should be ready for occupancy by the middle of 1966.

At that time, Campbell pointed out, about 600 beds will be opening to the public in this area. He pointed to the Alexian Brothers Hospital planned for Elk Grove Village and additions at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, in addition to the building here, as the increase in beds.

THE ADMINISTRATOR said the additional 600 beds should handle the hospital needs of the Northwest Suburbs until about 1970.

At that time, Campbell indicated, another 100-bed unit will be added to the Northwest Community Hospital for a total of 321 beds.

Presently the hospital has 121 beds in rooms including the recently opened intensive care unit.

Where is the $4 million coming from?

About $900,000 will be provided from Hill-Burdon federal funds, a large portion will come from the fund drive and the remainder will be financed through mortage bonds which will be paid from hospital revenue.

CAMPBELL said the hospital has a committent for the federal funds. The federal government is providing about 22.5 per cent of the total cost.

Campbell said the Hill-Burton plan will furnish up to 30 per cent of the funds to $3 million. Northwest Community Hospital will receive the maximum allowed.

The administrator said one of the biggest problems facing the hospital when the addition is completed is staffing. He said normally the increase in population furnishes enough registered nurses and other help needed for increased facilities. However, he said, an increase of 600 beds at about the same time will not be taken care of in increased population.

The possibility of a ccoperative effort between the existing hospitals in setting up a licensed practical nurse school will probably be explored soon.

CAMPBELL said that if a junior college is ever built in this area, it will be possible to work out an associate degree in nursing through the school.

Said Campbell about the plans: "We feel we have a real good plan for a good physical plant. It will be tailored to our own needs.

"The trend seems to be toward more and more emergency room use and out-patient service. For example we handled 10,000 emergencies last year in facilities designed to handle three cases at once.

"We are most anxious to get started on the building now and, of course, wish it could be completed overnight."

THE EMERGENCY section will have facilities for eight patients when completed and the out-patient section will be separate from the emergency section.

The hospital will also add two operating theatres and will construct two security rooms for psychotic patients. (B10

New Sweeper To Be Shown

Good German hausfraus take pride in keeping their homes sparkling clean.

Spring cleaning used to mean a complete upheaval to make sure not a speck of winter's dust hid away in a corner.

The Brussels carpet was lugged from the front room to a clothes line stretched across the back yard. There the good woman, dust cap on her head, would vigorously wield a rug beater, a wire device for disturbing the dust from the wool nap of the carpet.

But along in 1908 a better way was found. The Hoover Company of Canton, Ohio, developed the first vacuum cleaner, and the famous slogan, "It beats as it sweeps as it cleans," was adopted.

THROUGHOUT the years Hoover has remained popular with American housewives — and with industrial cleaners too.

As a special attraction during Septemberfest, Bill Behlke has arranged for a demonstration of Hoover's super-colossal sweeper at his appliance shop in the west annex of the Rolling Meadows shopping center. The giant Constellation model isn't apt to appeal to the ordinary housewife —in fact, it's about as long as an ordinary room. So Behlke has arranged a full display of the latest models of home type vacuums. (KSS

AN EAGER YOUNG pupil eyes her new teacher, Mrs. Lynn Warder, on opening day of the Montessori School being conducted for north and northwest suburban youngsters at the Church of the Master, Central and Rand Roads, Des Plaines. Montessori School Holds First Class

First pupils of a unique school in this area were recently welcomed by Mrs. Lynn Warder, directress.

The Northwest Suburban Montessori School opened its doors for the first time Tuesday. The school, which will have an enrollment of 40 children from two years nine months to five years of age, is located in rented facilities at 259 E. Central Road, Des Plaines. It was founded by members of the Mount Prospect Montessori Study Group to allow children of all north and northwest suburbs an opportunity to benefit from the Montessori method of educating the young.

THE MONTESSORI approach is based on the belief that children of pre-school age experience sensitive periods during which they learn more easily than at any other time in their lives, Mrs. Warder explained. What she termed the "prepared environment" allows children to develop through the specially designed self-correcting materials used, self- sufficiency, a sense of order, a sharpening of the senses, a thirst for knowledge and the capability of accomplishing and completing tasks begun.

Bickley TV Rally For Women Slated

Plans Drawn for Northwest Hospital Addition

Expect Contract Awards This Year

by T. WILLIAM SWINFORD
Staff Writer

The $4 million addition to the Northwest Community Hospital is "basically ready to go," according to Alan Campbell, administrator.

Campbell said the final plans for the hospital addition of 100 beds plus a laboratory, enlarged emergency room faciilties and other necessities, are being studied by the United States Public Health Service.

He said contractors will be asked to bid about the middle of October or the first of November and hopes to let the contracts by the middle of December at the latest.

The addition, complete with air conditioning in the old and new sections, should be ready for total occupancy in 15 to 18 months after excavating begins.

If the weather will allow immediate work following the letting of contracts, Campbell said, the entire addition should be ready for occupancy by the middle of 1966.

At that time, Campbell pointed out, about 600 beds will be opening to the public in this area. He pointed to the Alexian Brothers Hospital planned for Elk Grove Village and additions at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines and Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge, in addition to the building here, as the increase in beds.

THE ADMINISTRATOR said the additional 600 beds should handle the hospital needs of the Northwest Suburbs until about 1970.

At that time, Campbell indicated, another 100-bed unit will be added to the Northwest Community Hospital for a total of 321 beds.

Presently the hospital has 121 beds in rooms including the recently opened intensive care unit.

Where is the $4 million coming from?

About $900,000 will be provided from Hill-Burdon federal funds, a large portion will come from the fund drive and the remainder will be financed through mortage bonds which will be paid from hospital revenue.

CAMPBELL said the hospital has a committent for the federal funds. The federal government is providing about 22.5 per cent of the total cost.

Campbell said the Hill-Burton plan will furnish up to 30 per cent of the funds to $3 million. Northwest Community Hospital will receive the maximum allowed.

The administrator said one of the biggest problems facing the hospital when the addition is completed is staffing. He said normally the increase in population furnishes enough registered nurses and other help needed for increased facilities. However, he said, an increase of 600 beds at about the same time will not be taken care of in increased population.

The possibility of a ccoperative effort between the existing hospitals in setting up a licensed practical nurse school will probably be explored soon.

CAMPBELL said that if a junior college is ever built in this area, it will be possible to work out an associate degree in nursing through the school.

Said Campbell about the plans: "We feel we have a real good plan for a good physical plant. It will be tailored to our own needs.

"The trend seems to be toward more and more emergency room use and out-patient service. For example we handled 10,000 emergencies last year in facilities designed to handle three cases at once.

"We are most anxious to get started on the building now and, of course, wish it could be completed overnight."

THE EMERGENCY section will have facilities for eight patients when completed and the out-patient section will be separate from the emergency section.

The hospital will also add two operating theatres and will construct two security rooms for psychotic patients. (B10

SUCCESSOR TO THE rug beater is the vacuum cleaner. Bill Behlke will have this giant Hoover model on display at his appliance store in Rolling Meadows shopping center during Septemberfest. (KSS

New Sweeper To Be Shown

Good German hausfraus take pride in keeping their homes sparkling clean.

Spring cleaning used to mean a complete upheaval to make sure not a speck of winter's dust hid away in a corner.

The Brussels carpet was lugged from the front room to a clothes line stretched across the back yard. There the good woman, dust cap on her head, would vigorously wield a rug beater, a wire device for disturbing the dust from the wool nap of the carpet.

But along in 1908 a better way was found. The Hoover Company of Canton, Ohio, developed the first vacuum cleaner, and the famous slogan, "It beats as it sweeps as it cleans," was adopted.

THROUGHOUT the years Hoover has remained popular with American housewives — and with industrial cleaners too.

As a special attraction during Septemberfest, Bill Behlke has arranged for a demonstration of Hoover's super-colossal sweeper at his appliance shop in the west annex of the Rolling Meadows shopping center. The giant Constellation model isn't apt to appeal to the ordinary housewife —in fact, it's about as long as an ordinary room. So Behlke has arranged a full display of the latest models of home type vacuums.

Montessori School Holds First Class

First pupils of a unique school in this area were recently welcomed by Mrs. Lynn Warder, directress.

The Northwest Suburban Montessori School opened its doors for the first time Tuesday. Convention Report Is Set for Press Parley

Suburban newspaper editors will hear a special report next week on Paddock Publications unique exchange agreement with Dardanell Press of Pittsburgh for coverage of the 1964 national political conventions.

The report will be made by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor, and Larry H. Cameron, photo editor of Paddock Publications, and Robert V. McCarthy, editor-in-chief of Dardanell Press.

Hayes and Cameron reported the Republican National Convention in San Francisco for both newspaper chains with McCarthy performing similar duties at the Democratic conclave in Atlantic City.

THIS MARKED the first time that two suburban newspaper publishing groups joined forces to provide direct, on-the-spot coverage of the national conventions with emphasis on news events and developments of particular significance to suburbanites.

The report will be made at the fall national conference of the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc. to be held Thursday and Friday, Sept. 24-25, at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

Attending the conference will be foundation member publishers and editorial staffs from coast to coast, invited non-member publishers, and journalism school deans and professors.

CONFERENCE highlight will be a luncheon speech by U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate Minority leader and an important figure in the recent civil rights legislation.

His topic will be "The Civil Rights Law Examined for the Suburban Press."

"No legislation in recent years has been surrounded by so many rumors, misstatements of facts and misconceptions as has the Civil Rights Bill," said Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights, executive director of the foundation. "Because this is a national issue which is also very much a matter of local interest, foundation member publishers and editors of suburban papers need to have exact data on the civil rights law as it applies to their readership. The foundation feels privileged to present at its conference Sen. Dirksen who, perhaps more than any other Senate member, was responsible for the law's final form."

THE CONFERENCE will be devoted entirely to editorial subjects with workshop sessions moderated by Prof. William L. Dulaney, journalism instructor at Pennsylvania State University and former managing editor of Paddock Publications newspapers.

Paul Neal Averill, president of the Suburban Press Foundation and publisher of the Birmingham, Mich., Eccentric, will be chairman of the two-day conference.

Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, is treasurer and past president of the foundation.

Issues Ruling on Radiation Exposure

The Illinois Department of Public Health may require any employer of persons using radioactive materials in Illinois to provide film badge service for such employes and make regular reports to the department, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held recently.

The Radiation Monitoring Service and the Radiation Protection Acts, Clark's opinion advised Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, director of the Department of Public Health, is not limited to regulation of Illinois residents or Illinois corporations in this field but instead its authority applies to all "owners or users" without restriction as to origin.

"It appears that the department has attempted to regulate all radioactive installations in this state which it may constitutionally reach, "Clark's opinion said, adding that a Supreme Court case has "established the principle that reasonable public health regulations will be sustained without question and that the power of the State in public health matters is pervasive."

In asking the opinion, Dr. Yoder informed Clark that his department has initiated an active program under authority of the statutes requiring employers to report radiation exposures of their employees to the department.

Ground Water Levels Falling, State Reports

Ground water levels throughout Illinois at the beginning of September were generally below levels reached at this time in 1963 and in most cases are considerably lower than levels reached in 1962, according to a report released by T. E. Larson, acting chief of the Illinois State Water Survey, Urbana.

In the north and northeast sections of the state water levels were about one half foot below average at the end of August. In east central Illinois levels dropped back below normal after being above average for a month, and in other areas the water table continued to drop.

The greatest decline was in the extreme southern tip of the state, where changes in the water table of three to four feet were not uncommon.

Number of Vets Living Now Below 22 Million

For the first time since World War II the estimated number of veterans in civilian life has dropped below 22 million, John S. Gleason, administrator of Veterans Affairs, reported this week.

There were an estimated 21,999,000 veterans in civilian life on July 31, the latest date for which statistics are now available.

In Illinois, the living veteran population on July 31 was estimated as 1,228,000 against 1,254,000 a year ago. John B. Nasser, VA's regional manager for Illinois, stated that records of his office indicate nearly 1,200 veterans a month are dying in Illinois. From March, 1963, through February, 1964, the Chicago Regional Office of VA approved burial payments for an average of 1,167 veterans a month. VA is authorized to pay $250 toward any honorably discharged veteran's burial expenses.

Greatest number of veterans living at one time in the United States were 22,735,000 in March, 1958.

Although it took from March, 1958, to July, 1964, or slightly more than six years, for the veteran population to drop from 22,735,000 to just under 22,000,000, estimates indicate it will take only until 1969 for the total to drop under 21 million.

The July 31, 1964, breakdown of veterans shows that 4,573,000 were veterans of the Korean Conflict alone; 15,042,000 were World War II veterans; 2,218,000 were World War I veterans, and 166,000 were veterans of all other wars or former regular military establishment members now on VA compensation rolls.

Included in the latter figure are about 18,000 Spanish-American War veterans and 18 veterans of the Indian Wars.

Ages of America's veterans in civilian life range from over the 100-year mark for some of the Indian War or Spanish-American War veterans to an average of 32.9 for Korean Conflict veterans. The average age for Spanish-American War veterans is 86.1; for World War I veterans, 70, and for World War II veterans, 45.

Projections into the future indicate that there will be 19,522,000 veterans remaining by 1975; about 15,886,000 by 1985; 11,274,000 in 1995; and 8,657,000 at the turn of the century.

A drop to the Dec. 7, 1941, veterans population level of 4,400,000 is expected by the year 2008.

Rules Money Belongs In State Treasury

The practice of crediting receipts from parking fines and vending machines at Western Illinois University to the account of the Western Illinois University Foundation is unauthorized, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark has held.

Such money, Clark's opinion advised Dick Viar, executive director of the Legislative Audit Commission, should be deposited in the State's General Revenue Fund or the Teachers College Income Fund as provided in the State Finance Act.

"EXCESS INCOME from auxiliary enterprises is to be paid into the State Treasury," Clark's opinion said. "The University is authorized to retain in its own treasury certain funds, including funds received from the operation of student or staff residence facilities and other auxiliary enterprises or activities which are self-supporting in whole or in part. Any income derived from such auxiliary enterprises or activities which is not necessary to its support, maintenance or development shall be paid into the State Treasury."

"There is nothing in Section 6a of the State Finance Act which authorizes Western Illinois University to divert or transfer any moneys or receipts of any kind to the Western Illinois University Foundation," Clark's opinion said.

Convention Report Is Set for Press Parley

Suburban newspaper editors will hear a special report next week on Paddock Publications unique exchange agreement with Dardanell Press of Pittsburgh for coverage of the 1964 national political conventions.

The report will be made by Charles E. Hayes, executive editor, and Larry H. Cameron, photo editor of Paddock Publications, and Robert V. McCarthy, editor-in-chief of Dardanell Press.

Hayes and Cameron reported the Republican National Convention in San Francisco for both newspaper chains with McCarthy performing similar duties at the Democratic conclave in Atlantic City.

THIS MARKED the first time that two suburban newspaper publishing groups joined forces to provide direct, on-the-spot coverage of the national conventions with emphasis on news events and developments of particular significance to suburbanites.

The report will be made at the fall national conference of the Suburban Press Foundation, Inc. to be held Thursday and Friday, Sept. 24-25, at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

Attending the conference will be foundation member publishers and editorial staffs from coast to coast, invited nonmember publishers, and journalism school deans and professors.

CONFERENCE highlight will be a luncheon speech by U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., Senate Minority leader and an important figure in the recent civil rights legislation.

His topic will be "The Civil Rights Law Examined for the Suburban Press."

"No legislation in recent years has been surrounded by so many rumors, misstatements of facts and misconceptions as has the Civil Rights Bill," said Chester K. Hayes, 605 N. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights, executive director of the foundation. "Because this is a national issue which is also very much a matter of local interest, foundation member publishers and editors of suburban papers need to have exact data on the civil rights law as it applies to their readership. The foundation feels privileged to present at its conference Sen. Dirksen who, perhaps more than any other Senate member, was responsible for the law's final form."

THE CONFERENCE will be devoted entirely to editorial subjects with workshop sessions moderated by Prof. William L. Dulaney, journalism instructor at Pennsylvania State University and former managing editor of Paddock Publications newspapers.

Paul Neal Averill, president of the Suburban Press Foundation and publisher of the Birmingham, Mich., Eccentric, will be chairman of the two-day conference.

Robert Y. Paddock, vice president of Paddock Publications, is treasurer and past president of the foundation.

Issues Ruling on Radiation Exposure

The Illinois Department of Public Health may require any employer of persons using radioactive materials in Illinois to provide film badge service for such employes and make regular reports to the department, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark held recently.

The Radiation Monitoring Service and the Radiation Protection Acts, Clark's opinion advised Dr. Franklin D. Yoder, director of the Department of Public Health, is not limited to regulation of Illinois residents or Illinois corporations in this field but instead its authority applies to all "owners or users" without restriction as to origin.

"It appears that the department has attempted to regulate all radioactive installations in this state which it may constitutionally reach, "Clark's opinion said, adding that a Supreme Court case has "established the principle that reasonable public health regulations will be sustained without question and that the power of the State in public health matters is pervasive."

In asking the opinion, Dr. Yoder informed Clark that his department has initiated an active program under authority of the statutes requiring employers to report radiation exposures of their employees to the department. (A15

Ground Water Levels Falling, State Reports

Ground water levels throughout Illinois at the beginning of September were generally below levels reached at this time in 1963 and in most cases are considerably lower than levels reached in 1962, according to a report released by T. E. Larson, acting chief of the Illinois State Water Survey, Urbana.

In the north and northeast sections of the state water levels were about one half foot below average at the end of August. In east central Illinois levels dropped back below normal after being above average for a month, and in other areas the water table continued to drop.

The greatest decline was in the extreme southern tip of the state, where changes in the water table of three to four feet were not uncommon. (A15

Number of Vets Living Now Below 22 Million

For the first time since World War II the estimated number of veterans in civilian life has dropped below 22 million, John S. Gleason, administrator of Veterans Affairs, reported this week.

There were an estimated 21,999,000 veterans in civilian life on July 31, the latest date for which statistics are now available.

In Illinois, the living veteran population on July 31 was estimated as 1,228,000 against 1,254,000 a year ago. John B. Naser, VA's regional manager for Illinois, stated that records of his office indicate nearly 1,200 veterans a month are dying in Illinois. From March, 1963, through February, 1964, the Chicago Regional Office of VA approved burial payments for an average of 1,167 veterans a month. VA is authorized to pay $250 toward any honorably discharged veteran's burial expenses.

Greatest number of veterans living at one time in the United States were 22,735,000 in March, 1958.

Although it took from March, 1958, to July, 1964, or slightly more than six years, for the veteran population to drop from 22,735,000 to just under 22,000,000, estimates indicate it will take only until 1969 for the total to drop under 21 million.

The July 31, 1964, breakdown of veterans shows that 4,573,000 were veterans of the Korean Conflict alone; 15,042,000 were World War II veterans; 2,218,000 were World War I veterans, and 166,000 were veterans of all other wars or former regular military establishment members now on VA compensation rolls.

Included in the latter figure are about 18,000 Spanish-American War veterans and 18 veterans of the Indian Wars.

Ages of America's veterans in civilian life range from over the 100-year mark for some of the Indian War or Spanish-American War veterans to an average of 32.9 for Korean Conflict veterans. The average age for Spanish-American War veterans is 86.1; for World War I veterans, 70, and for World War II veterans, 45.

Projections into the future indicate that there will be 19,522,000 veterans remaining by 1975; about 15,886,000 by 1985; 11,274,000 in 1995; and 8,657,000 at the turn of the century.

A drop to the Dec. 7, 1941, veterans population level of 4,400,000 is expected by the year 2008.

Rules Money Belongs In State Treasury

The practice of crediting receipts from parking fines and vending machines at Western Illinois University to the account of the Western Illinois University Foundation is unauthorized, Atty. Gen. William G. Clark has held.

Such money, Clark's opinion advised Dick Viar, executive director of the Legislative Audit Commission, should be deposited in the State's General Revenue Fund or the Teachers College Income Fund as provided in the State Finance Act.

"EXCESS INCOME from auxiliary enterprises is to be paid into the State Treasury," Clark's opinion said. "The University is authorized to retain in its own treasury certain funds, including funds received from the operation of student or staff residence facilities and other auxiliary enterprises or activities which are self-supporting in whole or in part. Any income derived from such auxiliary enterprises or activities which is not necessary to its support, maintenance or development shall be paid into the State Treasury."

"There is nothing in Section 6a of the State Finance Act which authorizes Western Illinois University to divert or transfer any moneys or receipts of any kind to the Western Illinois University Foundation," Clark's opinion said. (A15

New Treatment

Gastric Freezing May Relieve Ulcer

Can ulcers be put in cold storage for good?

This is the hopeful anticipation of many of America's 12 million ulcer sufferers who recently heard of a new treatment for ulcers called "gastric freezing." Like most medical innovations, gastric freezing has been received enthusiastically by the public, reports the Illinois State Medical Society. Many ulcer patients have exerted pressure on their physician to use this treatment on them, convinced that it is a permanent miracle cure for their condition.

Exactly how does this new treatment work?

AFTER THE throat has been anesthetized, a rubber balloon is passed through the mouth into the stomach. Cold alcohol is then circulated through the balloon for a period of 45-60 minutes. The stomach becomes very cold—so cold, in fact, that it is solid to the touch.

This "deep freeze" treatment temporarily decreases the flow of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which usually is produced in excessive amounts in the ulcer patient. With this treatment, about 70 per cent of patients will have temporary relief of symptoms and healing of the ulcer crater when present. In about 90 per cent of cases, the acid level returns to normal within six months and shortly thereafter another gastric freeze must be repeated.

Although the technique has been used in patients with gastric ulcers, it is more commonly and successfully used in the treatment of duodenal ulcers.

THE TECHNIQUE of gastric freezing is a development of gastric cooling, a fairly well established procedure for controlling severe bleeding ulcers in the upper gastrointestinal tract. The major differences between the two techniques are the temperatures employed and the fact that gastric freezing is not used to control gastrointestinal bleeding.

Although gastric freezing has been employed in hundreds of patients without ill effect, it is still considered an experimental technique not recommended for general use. In some cases it apparently causes direct damage to the stomach wall and has been responsible for gross hemorrhage.

Generally speaking, the physician reserves this new technique for selected patients in whom he considers it to be beneficial. For this reason, don't pressure your physician into using gastric freezing to treat your ulcer. It could do more harm than good.

From Fjord to Suburb

Teen Describes Life in Norway

Returns From AFS Program

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

In one day on Arlington Heights teenager made the abrupt shift from fjord living in Flekkefjord, Norway, to suburban living in Arlington Heights.

Nancy Staadt, 17, daughter of Charles Staadt, 314 S. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, last Thursday showed remnants of her summer stay in Norway as an American Field Service exchange student.

She wore a handmade national costume that is considered proper for any occasion in Norway. And she glissaded with finesse over Norwegian vowels.

THE ARLINGTON High School senior found Norwegian days relaxed with sewing, sunning and talking. The evening schedules were more strenuous; Saturday night was party night and included such unique group activity as crab hunting.

A group of teenagers often left about 6 p.m. for their crab hunting, boating about two hours to the ocean at the end of their fjord. At a cabin the group danced, sang folk tunes and roasted hot dogs. Since Norway is in the "land of the midnight sun," it was midnight before the crab hunting could begin. The crabs were found with a flashlight when they came out to eat moss and lichen.

On a good night the group caught about 80 crabs that were cooked and eaten on buttered bread. After more dancing, the teenagers returned home. Sundays were especially "lazy days."

Other evenings might be spent seeing American movies with Norwegian subtitles or visiting friends.

NANCY FOUND that although Norwegians were "religious people," they did not attend Sunday church. It was the older people "who didn't have anything else to do" who attended the state-subsidized Lutheran Church.

When they got to know her, said Nancy, Norwegians were friendly. At first they were reluctant to try speaking English with her. She had learned elementary Norwegian phrases on the AFS boat going to Norway. Nancy also had had three years of high school French that helped her with some pronunciation and word arrangement.

Nancy recalls one "faux pas" she made with the language. "Jeg er full," she commented after a meal, meaning "I am full." In Norwegian, however, she had said "I am drunk." Since beer had been served as the beverage for the meal, everyone laughed.

AT ANOTHER time she prompted stares when she applauded her hostess' serving of cookies with "Oh, cookies!" She found "cookies" meant "flirts" in Norwegian.

Nancy, a blonde, expected to see many Norwegian blondes with fresh-faced ruddy complexions. She found few. The girls often ratted their hair and wore heavy make-up. She never saw a boy with a crew-cut.

Boys especially were inclined to smoke. Teenagers also drank liquor readily when it was available. Liquor is sold only in the major five Norwegian cities.

ANOTHER characteristic, Nancy noted, was that teenagers talked more freely with the adults. If her sister, Margaret, 19 years old, were not home when a friend came to visit, the friend might readily sit and sew or knit, chatting with her mother. Nancy's family included a "brother," Karl-Eric, 15 years old.

The main meal in the Norwegian household was dinner at noon, Nancy said. Invariably the meal would consist of boiled potatoes and beef or fish. Variety in Norwegian food came in the cakes, cookies and waffles.

The men in the family came home about 3:30 p.m. so they could have coffee at 4 p.m. The meal at night was a light snack.

SKILLED IN sewing since she was 14 years old, Nancy fit in her Norwegian home where mornings were spent sewing or embroidering. She learned to knit well enough to bring home a stocking cap for her father.

Nancy's family showed her some Norwegian countryside when they went on a camping trip. This took them over very hilly and rutted roads to Bergen then by way of the west coast to Trondheim. From Trondheim the family went to Oslo.

Before she arrived in Norway, Nancy had seen some of the countryside. She had to ride a train from Rotterdam to the fjord town.

A stop at her family's relatives gave Nancy a taste of rural living. This meant living for four days in a farm built in 1805. Completely unmechanized, plumbing facilities were at the back of the cow barn. Water had to be pumped and some of the rooms were not equipped with electricity.

NANCY'S FAMILY was well known and her father a man of some affluence in the village. He was an electrical engineer. Nancy was matched with the family on the basis of hers and their interest.

Living in a fjord meant a more sporty life, Nancy explained. Nancy's family had a motor boat and water skis. Everyone in the town seemed to have a boat of some kind, she said. Hiking, swimming and camping were part of life. She and her friends bicycled or walked where they went.

Though she was accepted, Nancy found the Norwegians did not view Americans with much love. Their view of American tourists was that they were loud, rather impolite and often dressed in too bright clothes.

"You really understand the way people live," Nancy said in describing her seven-week experience. "You find they live not so differently from you."

She was one of about 10,000 students chosen to live with a family in the AFS program.

Such are all handmade and done without a pattern. (Staff photo)

The ball is scheduled to appear before the TV cameras soon on the Lee Phillip and Jim Conway shows in addition to a number of radio programs. This object of attention will be illuminated from within and will rest upon a pedestal draped in velvet.

French Theme for Bethel 103 Party

A capacity crowd of 450 attended a reception of Bethel 103, Job's Daughters, Arlington Heights, Saturday evening at Flick-Reedy Auditorium, Bensenville.

The festivities honored Mrs. Carol Schaetzlein, vice grand guardian of Illinois, and Linda Hawkins, grand representative to Virginia, in Illinois, both Arlington Heights residents.

A French theme was carried out for the entire program, the stage decorated like a sidewalk cafe in Paris.

Sue Livingston of Arlington Heights, honored queen of Bethel 103, was introduced as a French gendarme and served as mistress of ceremonies. She in turn introduced Mrs. Richard Heilig of Arlington Heights, Guardian of the bethel.

Gala Brunch To Benefit Clearbrook

Friends of Clearbrook School under the co-chairmanship of Mrs. William H. Ball and Mrs. Harris L. Lyon, has completed plans for its Oct. 4 brunch. "The menu promises to be a true gourmets delight and a most festive occasion," according to the chairmen.

Arlington Park Golf Club will be the setting, from noon to 3 p.m., for this brunch, proceeds of which will go the Clearbrook School for Retarded Children. "At present there are 25 children attending the school, which is now being held in the Sunday school rooms of the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington Heights. The children range in age from 3 to 14 years, and there is a waiting list of youngsters who are unable to attend due to lack of sufficient facilities," commented Mrs. Ball.

"The Clearbrook School was started in May, 1956 by parents of retarded children and approximately 60 pupils have attended over the years. Purpose and aim of Friends of Clearbrook School is to raise funds for the construction and furnishing of a permanent school building on a site located at Campbell and School Streets in Rolling Meadows, a 3-acre site donated to the school in 1960 by Kimball Hill and Associates.

"Statistics now show that one out of every 33 births will be a retarded child. These children must be helped for as each star differs in brightness so do the children of man," said Mrs. Ball. (S

It's All Over-Betty's A Mother-in-Law Now

By BETTY AINSLIE

It's all over — the wedding I mean. That special day that made me a mother-in-law finally arrived. It was sunny and beautiful, a golden day and the mother of the bride spent the day in a hurried haze.

The flower girl did walk down the aisle without too much urging. She looked sweet and cute even though she dropped her basket and stoutly declared she wasn't going to be any old flower girl and "frow petals." She was and she did and she stole the show.

The bride looked young and beautiful and Pop proud and handsome as he turned daughter over to his future son-in-law while I cried spots on my lavendar ensemble.

THE WEDDING cake was either consumed at the reception or carried home in its' napkin covering to be placed under the pillow and be dreamed upon. The crepe paper streamers which took hours to anchor in place have all been pulled down. The big, white bells have been removed from their spot in the center of the hall.

The food is gone and the leftovers handed to me. The caterer has packed his truck with tables and table trimmings and disappeared into the night. The guests have all gone except for the mother and father of the groom who stand up staunchly to help in the cleaning up.

There's a pile of presents stacked near the door for the trip back to the house. We've folded chairs, stacked tables, and brush broomed the floor.

I've removed my shoes from feet that have walked miles, stood hours nad whipped gaily a few times over the dance floor. I've folded the long white gloves and stowed them away in the dyed-to-match-the-dress purse wondering when I'll ever use them again, removed the now limp corsage and rounded up the guests who will spend the night at our house.

IT'S SUDDENLY all over. That big day planned and dreamed about by every girl and dreaded by every set of parents.

There was enough food and it seemed to please all appetites. The orchestra didn't blow too loudly through too many sour notes. His relatives and friends met her relatives and friends and all was jovial and fun.

The bride and groom, who planned to sneak away quietly, left in a blast of auto horns and showers of more rice.

Now all of a sudden the living at home family has shrunk, and will shrivel even more when Son No. 1 takes off for college. Now all of a sudden I'm going to be faced with empty places at the table and extra made beds.

EVERY PARENT faces this situation sooner or later I suppose. Pop still has his job, busier than ever. Life doesn't change much for him. But what does Mom do now? Do I whip around joining clubs, being the eager recipient of telephone calls that will put me on the collecting end of fund drives and ready for all the volunteer jobs available? How do I fill the hours that have previously been vanishing faster than the minutes on the clock?

So I should take up a hobby maybe? Make my own clothes, take an adult evening course, get a job. The choices are endless for me but unless my selection is something I enjoy doing— something I want, not just a chore to fill in time, it will be a useless time filler. What may be the answer for me might not be the answer for you, but books are bulging with suggestions for the suddenly empty handed parents.

For instance, there's golf—if you've never taken up this game, now might be the time to try a few lessons.

TOO STRENUOUS? Well how about knitting? There are whole racks of luscious colored wools waiting to be woven into sweaters and jackets by your eager hands.

There's bridge, too. You might surprise yourself and really enjoy the game It's a fine pastime and your own bridge cub meeting once a month can be an aid in filling in empty time.

Read more and enjoy it more. In other words get a littlevariety and system in your reading—something educational as well as entertaining and shake out a few of the brain cobwebs.

Maybe you've a talent for sketching or painting. Now may be the time to get going. You may not be a second Grandma Moses but you might be amazed at your ability — besides it's a wonderful way to relax — just look at Churchill.

SEWING MIGHT be your cup of tea. The materials are enough to tempt even an amateur like me. There's gardening, needlepoint, fancy baking, antiquing, dog raising or ceramics.

But I've read about enough from these do it yourself and stay young books. Those books of hobby suggestions. I don't feel like collecting spoons or making my own jewelry or getting a job. Personally it's just plain lonesome around here. No matter how fast and full I fill the hours, daughter's place can't ever be filled by books or advice. I reckon these are only straws on which to hang for awhile until time takes care of that lonely spot left when your daughter marries. (S

Here's HAUGH to Plan a Party

Carta Casserole Cookout Is End of Season Fun for All

by Dolores Haugh

The weather is slowly but surely getting to the place where it is evident that the cook-out season has had its last flourish, at least for this year and now is the time for all good die-hards to have one more.

INVITATIONS

Cut bright orange construction paper casseroles and make the lid separately so that it has a long piece of paper attached to it. This paper is folded horizontally so that it fits through a slot in the top of the casserole's base. On this strip write the following:

Summer time is over,

Cook outs drawing to a close
But hale and hearty folks like us
Enjoy a bright red nose.
So put on your bulky sweaters

Your lined jeans and such-
Cause we're carting casseroles

And we'd like to share them with you much.

State time, place and if you plan on a pitch-in type cook out, which is a nice affair to have before the winter comes and the neighbors hibernate, write what type of casserole each person is to bring. Keep the menu simple, as well as the instructions, but be sure you think of chairs, tables, table flatware and dishes as well as beverages and dessert.

Decorate the orange paper casserole with brown leaves and a few acorns just for fall.

MENU

You may wish to keep all the casseroles in the fall colors so you may include many corn dishes, green bean, tossed salads, squash, baked beans, and, as the hostess, plan on the main meat dish, which could be cooked outside, or one to cart with the casseroles. You may wish to include meat casseroles in your guest instructions and in this way you will be free to provide the dessert of home-made pumpkin pie or a simpler one of apple cider and doughnuts.

Have plenty of coffee and keep it hot. On cold nights it is a good hand warmer.

DECORATIONS

Again, simplicity is the keyword. Choose a bright colored tablecloth in the orange family or gold color or even combine them in a stripe or print. If you use a print, however, choose solid colored napkins and a centerpiece of large round objects such as a pumpkin, gourds and grapes. Tuck in a few shafts of wheat beneath the centerpiece.

Another beautiful centerpiece is created by one large sheaf of what tied with brown velvet ribbon and surrounded by bright oranges, apples and heaps of grapes, real or artificial. If you use fresh fruit include it in your menu as part of the dessert and serve cheese tray and crackers wtih it. Plates of deep brown and large coffee mugs set off the autumn colors to advantage.

ENTERTAINMENT

After the leisurely cook-out and the fun of talking over vacations, plan on a scavenger hunt or if you are really smart and know where your guests have visited this past summer, have a may and souvenir hunt using the places the guests have been as part of the list of items to collect.

Award prizes of pumpkins, casserole hotpads and rests and as favors give each lady a large wooden spoon for stirring up her next casserole. So get busy and cart a casserole out, stir in a few friends, a lot of laughs and you will cook up a real savory last cook-out of the season. (S

WELCOME WAGON

While constuction is in progres on the new $7 million Alexian Brothers Hospital in Elk Grove Village, friends of the brothers are busy with benefit projects. Highlighting the autumn calendar of events is the forthcoming Alexian Brothers Auxiliary Annual Ball to be held Saturday evening, Sept. 26, in the ballroom of Itasca Country Club.

Ball chairman, Mrs. Percy Hallier, reports that plans for the evening include dancing to the music of Chuck Cavello and his orchestra and a hot midnight buffet. Tables for groups of any size may be reserved by calling HE 7-0121.

DRESS FOR THE Alexian Brothers Hospital Auxiliary Annual Ball will be optional and Mrs. Donald Kerstin, Mrs. Roy Caviale and Mrs. George Coney show their preferences in dress lengths. Their escorts will be in dark suits or tuxedos.

ASSISTING Mrs. Hallier with plans are: Mrs. Robert Fleming, Mrs. John Petrie, Mrs. Forrest Hanson, Mrs. Alan Hindmarch, Mrs. Arthur Kling, Mrs. Joseph Finkler, Mrs. Edward Butler of Elk Grove Village; Mrs. Thomas La Vezzi, Mrs. Thomas Aiani of Itasca; Mrs. Edwin Plaza and Mrs. Donald Pallitz of Arlington Heights.

Guests will have an opportunity to view the already famous Auxiliary "Ball" a 2-foot diameter gold sphere which has been signed by numerous celebrities and dignitaries.

Mayor Richard J. Daley's signature "started the ball rolling" and since then it has traveled many miles and has accumulated on its surface a large display of names. The ball is scheduled to appear before the TV cameras soon on the Lee Phillip and Jim Conway shows in addition to a number of radio programs. This object of attention will be illuminated from within and will rest upon a pedestal draped in velvet.

The Auxiliary is a group of Volunteers organized to render service and assistance to the Alexian Brothers Hospital. Proceeds from the Ball will be used in augmenting the Auxiliary's $50,000 pledge to the 220-bed general hospital which will serve residents in the townships of Barrington, Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg, Wheeling, Bloomingdale and Addison.

French Theme for Bethel 103 Party

A capacity crowd of 450 attended a reception of Bethel 103, Job's Daughters, Arlington Heights, Saturday evening at Flick-Reedy Auditorium, Bensenville.

The festivities honored Mrs. Carol Schaetzlein, vice grand guardian of Illinois, and Linda Hawkins, grand representative to Virginia, in Illinois, both Arlington Heights residents.

A French theme was carried out for the entire program, the stage decorated like a sidewalk cafe in Paris.

Sue Livingston of Arlington Heights, honored queen of Bethel 103, was introduced as a French gendarme and served as mistress of ceremonies. She in turn introduced Mrs. Richard Heilig of Arlington Heights, Guardian of the bethel.

Bethel members then marched in, garbed in French costumes, to escort the honored guests. In addition to Mrs. Schaetzlein and Miss Hawkins, they included Mrs. Betty Jacobs, grand guardian of Illinois; Ernest Butler, grand associate guardian; Lou Miller, vice grand associate guardian.

OLAV LARSEN, associate guardian of Bethel 103, was the musician for the evening's entertainment.

The next function planned by the bethel is a hayride party for Friday evening, Sept. 18. Details are available from Diane Sharp, CL 3-3519. (S

Sandra Huntley's Wedding Held on her 19th Birthday

Aug. 22 was a big day in the life of Sandra Jo Huntley, daughter of the Lyle E. Huntleys, 421 N. Wilshire, Arlington Heights. The date not only marked her 19th birthday, but also her wedding day, for at 2 p.m., in First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, she became the bride of Don E. Vickery, son of former Arlington Heights residents, the A. J. Vickerys, now of Blytheville, Ark.

Dr. Hughes B. Morris officiated at the double ring, candlelight service in a setting of glads and carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a satin peau de soie gown with lace appliques and pearl beading. The lace bodice featured long sleeves and the skirt featured a chapel train. Her illusion veil was held in place with a pearl headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations and stephanotis. For "something new" she wore a pearl and diamond pendant necklace, a gift from her bridegroom.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Mrs. Lee C. Magnuson of Palatine, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were high school classmates of the bride, Marcia Gerstung of Mount Prospect, Carol Jameson of Seattle and Sue Loeffel of Arlington Heights. All wore identical floor - length gowns of pastel blue organza over taffeta. The gowns were fashioned with boat necklines, short sleeves and A-line skirts with overskirts. Their flowers were white carnations with blue stephanotis.

Also in the wedding party was the bride's 7-year-old sister, Tracey Lu Huntley, who as flower girl, wore a gown matching the gowns of the other attendants. Tracey carried a basket with white carnations and blue stephanotis.

Jack G. Flick of Arlington Heights served as the groom's bestman and ushers were Jim Winarski and Terry Seelbinder of Arlington Heights and Tom Bischoffer of Rolling Meadows.

AT THE BUFFET reception, which was held in Arlington Park Golf Club, Mrs. Huntley received the 100 guests in matching accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium. Mrs. Vickery chose navy blue with matching accessoires and a corsage of pink cymbidium. Besides the groom's parents, other out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, the H. D. Huntleys of Eldora, Iowa, and the groom's sister and family, the T. Gurleys of Blytheville.

The new Mrs. Vickery was graduated from Prospect High School and is now employed by Spiegel, Inc. in Arlington Market. Mr. Vickery, a graduate of Arlington High School, is a photographer with Paddock Publications. (S

Millinerist Mrs. Edmonde Baldini, a native of La Rochelle, France, will model and describe hats beginning with the 12th Century through the present day and relate the history of the headgear, telling who the queens and ladies-in-waiting were who started the period.

HER COLLECTION is made from materials and jewels from Europe as well as from America. Mrs. Baldini tells us she has never had her collection valued. Many years of accumulation of materials, study and research preceded her formal hat designing program in the fifties.

Mrs. Baldini designed hats in millinery shops in France before coming to the United State then continued her career in smart shops in Chicago. She speaks two languages and was recently associated with the Adult Education Program at Purdue University Center.

Sandra Huntley's Wedding Held on her 19th Birthday

Aug. 22 was a big day in the life of Sandra Jo Huntley, daughter of the Lyle E. Huntleys, 421 N. Wilshire, Arlington Heights. The date not only marked her 19th birthday, but also her wedding day, for at 2 p.m., in First Methodist Church of Arlington Heights, she became the bride of Don E. Vickery, son of former Arlington Heights residents, the A. J. Vickerys, now of Blytheville, Ark.

Dr. Hughes B. Morris officiated at the double ring, candlelight service in a setting of glads and carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a satin peau de soie gown with lace appliques and pearl beading. The lace bodice featured long sleeves and the skirt featured a chapel train. Her illusion veil was held in place with a pearl headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white roses, carnations and stephanotis. For "something new" she wore a pearl and diamond pendant necklace, a gift from her bridegroom.

THE BRIDE'S sister, Mrs. Lee C. Magnuson of Palatine, was matron of honor and bridesmaids were high school classmates of the bride, Marcia Gerstung of Mount Prospect, Carol Jameson of Seattle and Sue Loeffel of Arlington Heights. All wore identical floor - length gowns of pastel blue organza over taffeta. The gowns were fashioned with boat necklines, short sleeves and A-line skirts with overskirts. Their flowers were white carnations with blue stephanotis.

Also in the wedding party was the bride's 7-year-old sister, Tracey Lu Huntley, who as flower girl, wore a gown matching the gowns of the other attendants. Tracey carried a basket with white carnations and blue stephanotis.

Jack G. Flick of Arlington Heights served as the groom's bestman and ushers were Jim Winarski and Terry Seelbinder of Arlington Heights and Tom Bischoffer of Rolling Meadows.

AT THE BUFFET reception, which was held in Arlington Park Golf Club, Mrs. Huntley received the 100 guests in matching accessories and a corsage of pink cymbidium. Mrs. Vickery chose navy blue with matching accessoires and a corsage of pink cymbidium. Besides the groom's parents, other out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, the H. D. Huntleys of Eldora, Iowa, and the groom's sister and family, the T. Gurleys of Blytheville.

The new Mrs. Vickery was graduated from Prospect High School and is now employed by Spiegel, Inc. in Arlington Market. Mr. Vickery, a graduate of Arlington High School, is a photographer with Paddock Publications. (S

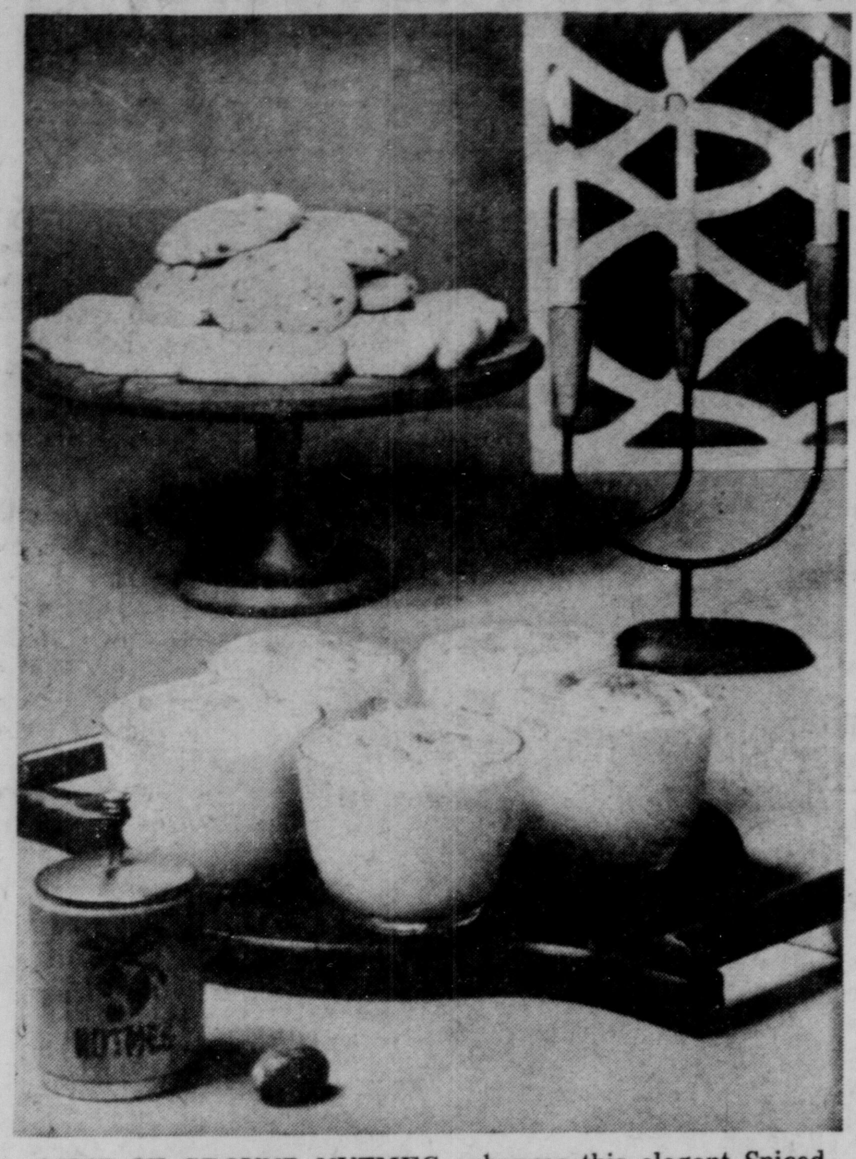
Sweet 'n Spicy Nutmeg Flavors Cake, Mousse



A BIT OF GROUND NUTMEG enhances this elegant Spiced Pineapple Mousse. It couldn't be easier; whip it up in minutes the day before serving.

"There is nothing arcane about cooking with herbs and spices," writes gastronomer Craig Claiborne in the foreword of his imaginative and very well-written "An Herb and Spice Cook Book." "It is an art and an act as universal and almost as ancient as fire."

To help the cook discover the delights of each of the 54 herbs and spices Mr. Claiborne describes, he has grouped his recipes together according to the seasoning used. Nutmeg would appear to be one of his favorite spices for he writes, "Nutmeg is one of the slyest and, used ginerly, most seducive of flavors.

"It can give stature to such a naive item as a glass of cold, sweetened milk; yet it is an essential in some of the most glorious custards, pies and cheese lishes."

NUTMEG CAKE, given below with the permission of the author, is rich, fragrantly good with a hint of nutmeg, and topped, before baking, with a shower of chopped nutmeats. It couldn't be easier and, of course, needs no frosting. It's the kind of cake you can whip up in minutes and take to a picnic—right in its pan.

The American Spice Trade Association points out that millions of Americans share Craig Claiborne's esteem for nutmeg, since it is to be found on the spice shelf of every good cook. Nutmeg flavor is sweet with a warm and spicy undertone.

It is not only delicately good in many kinds of sweet dishes and beverages, but it heightens the flavor of certain vegetables such as sweet corn, potatoes and spinach and, "used gingerly" as Mr. Claiborne recommends, gives wonderfully fine aroma to chicken, veal and meat concoctions generally.

SPICED PINEAPPLE MOUSSE

1 can (6 ounces) frozen pineapple drink
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
½ cup sugar
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 egg whites
Ground nutmeg

Let pineapple drink stand at room temperature to soften enough to stir. Open can and turn into a mixing bowl. Add nutmeg, vanilla extract and sugar; mix well and fold in whipped cream. Beat egg whites until they stand in soft, stiff peaks and fold into pineapple mixture.

Pile into punch cups, individual souffle dishes or sherbet glasses. Freeze until firm and ready to serve; garnish with grated nutmeg and a mint leaf.

Yield: 6 servings.

NUTMEG CAKE

2 cups brown sugar
2 cups sifted flour
½ cup shortening
1 egg
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ cup chopped walnuts, pecans or almonds

Add egg to the remaining crumbs along with the nutmeg and sour cream mixed with the soda. Pour this batter into the pan and sprinkle with nuts. Bake 35 to 40 minutes; serve hot or cold.

Yield: 10 to 12 servings. (SH

Picnic Pleasure

Not the least of the pleasures of a picnic is dessert. Chilled watermelon, big old-fashioned cookies or a generous loaf cake is the perfect finish for a repast of hamburgers or franks cooked on the outdoor grill.

Here's a versatile picnic cake that can be toted along to your next barbecue. Honey-Top Date Cake. Made with good-tasting All-Bran (whole bran cereal), the cake is richly accented with chopped dates and nuts. A tart orange glaze poured over the cake while it is still warm is the non-sticky frosting that makes this dessert easy to eat, even without a fork.

HONEY-TOP DATE CAKE

¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup chopped nutmeats
½ cup finely cut pitted dates
½ cup soft butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
3 eggs, separated
½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
½ cup All-Bran
3 tablespoons milk

* * *

½ teaspoon cornstarch
3 tablespoons orange juice
1½ tablespoons honey

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; combine with nutmeats and dates. Blend butter and sugar. Add egg yolks, vanilla and All-Bran; beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing well after each addition.

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into batter. Spread in greased and lightly floured 8x8-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) about 40 minutes.

Combine cornstarch, orange Juice and honey. Pour over warm cake. Let stand until cold. Yield: 9 servings.

Blackberry Jelly Made Modern Way

IROQUOIS INDIANS were the first to appreciate blackberries in this country. They soaked them in honey and water and served them as ceremonial food. Blackberries maintain their fine reputation today in homemade jellies and jams made the modern way with pectin, water, sugar, and no cooking of the fruit juice.

Here are exact directions for this easy-to-make, especially flavorful, blackberry jelly:

BLACKBERRY JELLY

Yield: about 8 medium (8 oz.) glasses.

3 cups prepared juice (2 qt. ripe blackberries)
6 cups sugar
¾ cup water
1 box Sure-Jell Fruit Pectin

First, prepare the juice. Thoroughly crush about 2 quarts fully ripe blackberries. Place crushed fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 3 cups into a large bowl or pan.

Then make the jelly. Measure sugar, add to juice, and mix well. Mix water and fruit pectin in small saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit juice. Continue stirring about 3 minutes. (There will be a few remaining sugar crystals.) Quickly pour into glasses. Cover at once with tight lids. When jelly is set (may take up to 24 hours), store in freezer.

If jelly will be used within two weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator.

Party Pecans

To glamorize nuts for your next party, season melted butter with Worchestershire sauce and garlic powder.

Pour the mixture over salted pecans in a cake pan, and bake at 325 degrees until the nuts are crisp.

Stir often to uniformly coat the nuts with seasoned butter.

Blackberry Jelly Made Modern Way

ANS

IROQUOIS INDIANS were the first to appreciate blackberries in this country. They soaked them in honey and water and served them as ceremonial food. Blackberries maintain their fine reputation today in homemade jellies and jams made the modern way with pectin, water, sugar, and no cooking of the fruit juice.

Here are exact directions for this easy-to-make, especially flavorful, blackberry jelly:

BLACKBERRY JELLY

Yield: about 8 medium (8 oz.) glasses.

3 cups prepared juice (2 qt. ripe blackberries)
6 cups sugar
¾ cup water
1 box Sure-Jell Fruit Pectin

First, prepare the juice. Thoroughly crush about 2 quarts fully ripe blackberries. Place crushed fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 3 cups into a large bowl or pan.

Then make the jelly. Measure sugar, add to juice, and mix well. Mix water and fruit pectin in small saucepan. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit juice. Continue stirring about 3 minutes. (There will be a few remaining sugar crystals.) Quickly pour into glasses. Cover at once with tight lids. When jelly is set (may take up to 24 hours), store in freezer.

If jelly will be used within two weeks, it may be stored in the refrigerator.

Party Pecans

To glamorize nuts for your next party, season melted butter with Worchestershire sauce and garlic powder.

Pour the mixture over salted pecans in a cake pan, and bake at 325 degrees until the nuts are crisp.

Stir often to uniformly coat the nuts with seasoned butter.

Molly Musser, Bride In MSU Chapel Rites

Alumni Memorial Chapel at Michigan State University, East Lansing, was the scene of a recent wedding in which Molly Musser of Arlington Heights became the bride of John Stephen Kent of Kinde, Mich. The couple have both been Michigan State students, the groom having graduated in March and is now teaching nearby at Webberville High School. The bride is a junior at MSU.

The groom's father, Rev. Maynard Kent, performed the 11:30 a.m. rites on Aug. 8 before the couple's relatives and friends, after which 75 guests feted the newlyweds at a luncheon at the Albert Pick in East Lansing.

THE BRIDE, daughter of the W. D. Mussers, 28 S. State Road, chose a yellow and green color scheme for her wedding. The candlelit altar of the chapel was decked with two vases of yellow and white glads and the yellow and green composed the attire of the bridal party.

Even the bride's bouquet had a touch of yellow, the cascade shaped arrangements containing white roses, yellow glads and springeri. Her dress was of white peau de soie and chantilly lace, styled with a batteau neckline, long sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her veil was elbow length with lace flowers appliqued on the four tiers of silk illusion.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Kent of Kinde, Mich., met the bride at the altar as Dr. Corliss Arnold played appropriately on the organ. The groom's best man was Charles Beals of East Lansing. His brother, Ed Kent of Howell, Mich.; the bride's brother, Philip Musser, and Dean Scott of Midland, Mich. seated the guests.

Three Michigan State roommates attended the bride as well as one of her hometown friends. Maid of honor was Pamela Johnson of Holt, Mich., one of the roommates. Kathy and Elaine wore apple green dresses, styled exactly as the maid of honor's, and had matching headpieces.

Greeting the guests after the wedding and at the luncheon reception, the bride's mother wore a white linen sheath with a yellow and white full-length lace coat, matching accessories and a yellow rose corsage. Mrs. Kent chose pink lace with matching accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

After a 5-day honeymoon in northern Michigan, the newlyweds are living at 1519 J, Spartan Village, on the university campus. (S

The groom is the son of the John Winstanleys of Seven Hills. Mrs. Winstanley chose a pale aqua silk 2-piece ensemble for the day's festivities, and her corsage was of white roses.

ROSES ALSO dominated the bride's attire, a circlet of white roses holding her short veil in place and her bouquet fashioned into a nosegay of white roses. The bride's gown was of white organdy with French lace trim, ankle-length with a lace ruffle at the hemline and lace also accenting the neckline and waist.

The bride's three attendants were gowned alike in pink silk floor-length dresses with empire waistline and white lace trim at the hemline. They wore pink silk Dior bow headpieces and carried pink daisies and white roses in a nosegay bouquet.

The couple have both been Michigan State students, the groom having graduated in March and is now teaching nearby at Webberville High School. The bride is a junior at MSU.

The groom's father, Rev. Maynard Kent, performed the 11:30 a.m. rites on Aug. 8 before the couple's relatives and friends, after which 75 guests feted the newlyweds at a luncheon at the Albert Pick in East Lansing.

THE BRIDE, daughter of the W. D. Mussers, 28 S. State Road, chose a yellow and green color scheme for her wedding. The candlelit altar of the chapel was decked with two vases of yellow and white glads and the yellow and green composed the attire of the bridal party.

Even the bride's bouquet had a touch of yellow, the cascade shaped arrangements containing white roses, yellow glads and springeri. Her dress was of white peau de soie and chantilly lace, styled with a batteau neckline, long sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her veil was elbow length with lace flowers appliqued on the four tiers of silk illusion.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Kent of Kinde, Mich., met the bride at the altar as Dr. Corliss Arnold played appropriately on the organ. The groom's best man was Charles Beals of East Lansing. His brother, Ed Kent of Howell, Mich.; the bride's brother, Philip Musser, and Dean Scott of Midland, Mich. seated the guests.

Three Michigan State roommates attended the bride as well as one of her hometown friends. Maid of honor was Pamela Johnson of Holt, Mich., one of the roommates. The bridesaids were the other two roommates, Kathy Kelly and Linda Haack, both of Birmingham, Mich., and Elaine Schiel of Arlington Heights.

PAMELA AND Linda were dressed in yellow shantung street - length dresses with matching circle headpieces and short face veils. Pamela's bouquet was composed of yellow daisies, and Linda's had yellow and green daisies mixed, as did the other two bridesmaids. Kathy and Elaine wore apple green dresses, styled exactly as the maid of honor's, and had matching headpieces.

Greeting the guests after the wedding and at the luncheon reception, the bride's mother wore a white linen sheath with a yellow and white full-length lace coat, matching accessories and a yellow rose corsage. Mrs. Kent chose pink lace with matching accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

After a 5-day honeymoon in northern Michigan, the newlyweds are living at 1519 J, Spartan Village, on the university campus. (S

Arlington Girl Is Bride Of University Classmate

A luncheon at Long Grove Country Club followed the noon ceremony which united the former Barbara A. Bradle of Arlington Heights and David J. Winstanley of Seven Hills, Ohio. They were married Aug. 15 in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights, by Rev. Harold T. O'Hara.

The couple both graduated from Bowling Green State University in Ohio and will make their future home in Boston. The groom will be employed there by Nalco Chemical Corp.

THE BRIDE'S parents are the Robert Bradles of 606 S. Dryden. Mrs. Bradle witnessed her daughter's marriage in a pale green silk sheath dress with lace accents and had a white rose corsage.

The groom is the son of the John Winstanleys of Seven Hills. Mrs. Winstanley chose a pale aqua silk 2-piece ensemble for the day's festivities, and her corsage was of white roses.

ROSES ALSO dominated the bride's attire, a circlet of white roses holding her short veil in place and her bouquet fashioned into a nosegay of white roses. The bride's gown was of white organdy with French lace trim, ankle-length with a lace ruffle at the hemline and lace also accenting the neckline and waist.

The bride's three attendants were gowned alike in pink silk floor-length dresses with empire waistline and white lace trim at the hemline. They wore pink silk Dior bow headpieces and carried pink daisies and white roses in a nosegay bouquet.

SHARON L. BIZEK of Cleveland, a Chi Omega sorority sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Lynn Bradle, her sister, and Anita Ervin of Chicago.

A Phi Delta Theta fraternity brother of the groom, Edward Owen of Ann Arbor, was best man, while Edward Bradle, the bride's brother, and Dave Stebner of Chicago seated the guests.

The couple spent their honeymoon at a summer home on Lake Ontario. (Jenart (S

Cranberry Melon Desserts Fitting Fare for Summer

Looking for a cool finish for a hot summer's night meal? Can you imagine anything that sounds better (and looks better) . . . and is better, than a cranberry melon combo? Crispy melon, combined with the tart flavor of cranberry juice, makes delightfully refreshing desserts.

And there's any number of combinations you can create all on your own. Here you see a Cranberry-Melon Mold, a tempting dark red in color and garnished with bright fresh cantaloupe melon balls. A honeydew melon medley, with melon balls mixed with jellied cranberry sauce, makes another excellent taste and color combination.

Or as easy as possible to make and very good to taste—watermelon fingers with pure cranberry juice poured over them—great!

CRANBERRY MELON MOLD
(Makes about 6 servings)

1 tablespoons (2 envelopes) unflavored gelatin
3 cups cranberry juice cocktail
1 can (6 ounces) frozen concentrated grape juice, thawed
3 cups fresh cantaloupe balls

Soften gelatine in 1 cup cranberry juice. Stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Add grape juice concentrate and remaining cranberry juice; mix well. Chill until thickened. Fold in cantaloupe balls and pour into 1½ quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with additional melon balls, if desired.

CRANBERRY HONEYDEW DELIGHT
(Makes about 4 servings)

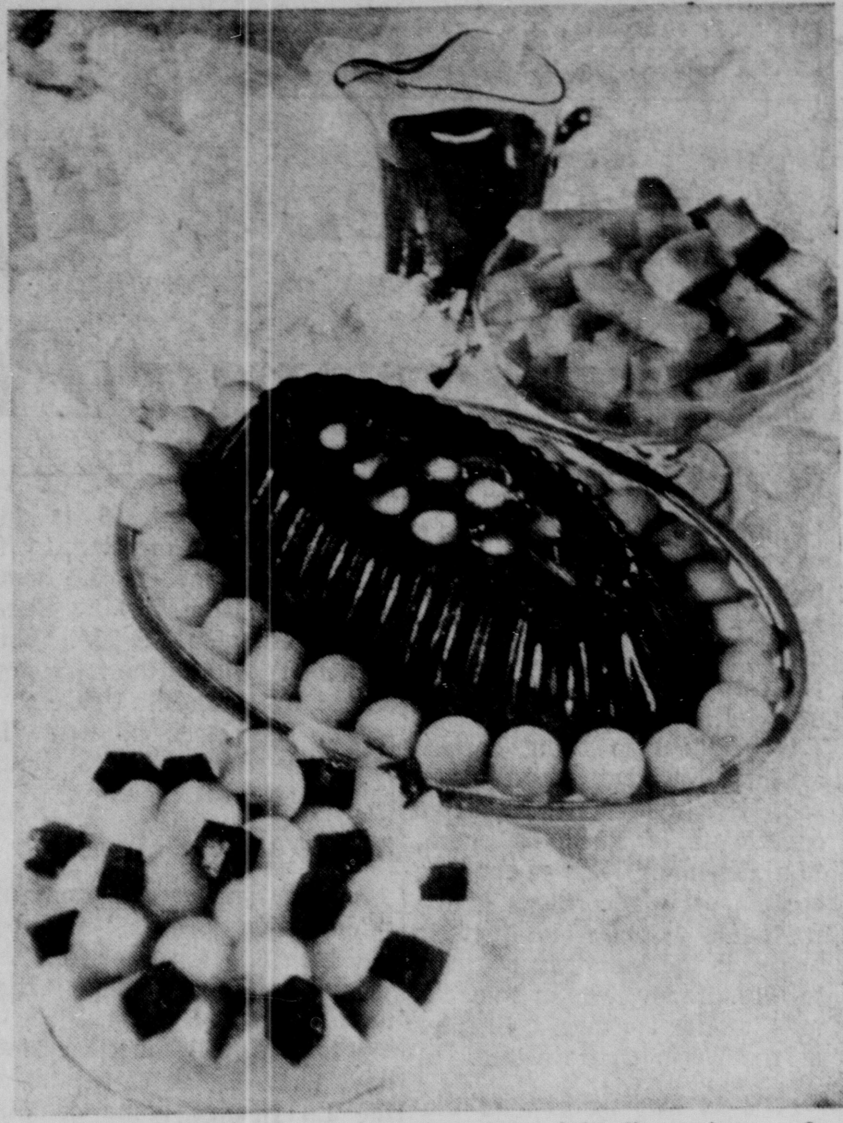
1 medium-sized honeydew melon
1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce
¼ cup lime or lemon juice

Cut melon in half crosswise. Scoop out melon balls. Reserve shells. Cut a design on the edge of melon shells, if desired. Cut cranberry sauce into ½-inch cubes. Arrange melon balls and cranberry cubes in melon shells and sprinkle with lime or lemon juice.

CRANBERRY WATERMELON COMPOTE
(Makes 4 servings)

4 cups watermelon fingers
1-1/3 cups cranberry juice cocktail, chilled

Arrange watermelon fingers in serving dishes and chill thoroughly. Serve with a pitcher of chilled cranberry juice. Recipes use Ocean Spray products.



A GRAND FINALE to a hot summer's night dinner is a cool, crisp melon salad made with ruby-red cranberry juice and ringed with melon balls.

Tuna Platter

Here's a cool and lovely Tuna Picture Platter, ideal for summer meals. Just chill cans of tuna in refrigerator. When ready to serve platter, open up the cans, turn out the tuna, and garnish with crisp raw vegetables. No cooking! Just good eating.

TUNA PICTURE PLATTER

3 or 4 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna in vegetable oil
8 slices cucumbers
Carrot curls
3 or 4 large tomatoes
3 or 4 hard-cooked eggs
Sliced stuffed olives
1 bunch chicory
Fringed celery sticks
Radish roses
French dressing

Better Than One— Two Kinds of Fish

You won't believe how much better fillet of sole tastes when rolled and stuffed with minced lobster, or how much more attractive baked cod becomes when topped with a row of tiny shrimps then brushed lavishly with fragrant Spanish olive oil.

Or fasten a fillet of flounder around a boned salmon steak and bake it in a savory olive oil-onion-and herb sauce.

THE COST IS only slightly more: one frozen lobster tail makes enough stuffing, combined with bread crumbs, for six fillets of sole. A quarter of a pound of shrimp added to cod changes a budget fish into a regal offering.

The use of olive oil in cooking fish makes a world of difference. In Spain, where most of the world's olive oil supply comes from, they sometimes simmer fish in olive oil instead of water.

This is not the same as frying or sauteing, for the oil simply "bubbles" and the fish cooks gently. Another similar technique is to make a simple sauce of onions, olive oil and tomato and cook the fish in this —or, for a short cut, make the sauce by combining olive oil with canned tomato sauce and instant minced onion.

FILETE LANGOSTA ROLLENO
(Lobster- Stuffed Sole Fillets)

6 fillets of sole, fresh or frozen
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 rock lobster tail
2 tablespoons Spanish olive oil
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup minced parsley
1 tablespoon minced onion
Pinch of oregano

Trim fillets evenly. Combine remaining ingredients, place spoonful over each fillet and roll up, placing in large sheet of heavy duty foil with overlapped side down.

Sauce

Saute 1 small minced onion in 2 tablespoons Spanish olive oil, add 1 cup (8 oz. can) tomato sauce, 1 tablespoon minced parsley and ½ teaspoon salt. Simmer until smooth. (Or instead of fresh onion, use 1 tablespoon instant minced onion, combine with remaining ingredients.)

Spoon sauce over stuffed fillets, seal foil tight, bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes. Six servings. (SH

Week's Best Food Values

Chicago area food values for the market week of Sept. 14-19 are as follows:

POULTRY: Turkeys, ducks, fryers.

MEATS: Ground beef, round and sirloin steaks, beef pot roasts, sirloin tip roasts, bacon, pork butts, and sausage meats.

PRODUCE: Green beans, peppers, brussels sprouts, beets, sweetcorn, squash, cucumbers, radishes; cantaloup, bananas, peaches, plums and pears.

The report is by the University of Illinois' Consumer Service.

Add your herbs to Spanish olive oil in a heavy pot, cook a few seconds before browning meat for the stew in the hot oil. This freshens the herbs and helps to give the sauce more robust flavor.

Instead of using plain water for the liquid, use vegetable or meat stock, or tomato juice, or wine, or dissolve a bouillon cube in water for the liquid in the stew (in this case omit salt). Tricks like this turn an ordinary stew into ragout.

Devises Own Dough For Bread, Rolls

by LOIS SEILER

On Tuesday of every week, be it winter, summer, spring or fall, Mrs. Frank L. Smith of Arlington Heights can be found in her kitchen baking homemade bread.

HOMEMADE BREAD, poppy seed crescents, hamburger buns and any number of other appealing rolls can be made by Mrs. Frank L. Smith's versatile yeast recipe. This good cook bakes bread weekly for her family, and it is evident that their mother's culinary endeavors are appreciated by her children, Larry, 8, and Frances, 19. (SH

This accomplished cook experimented with several recipes and then combined the best parts of each to devise a basic dough for a white bread which really suited her family. From this basic recipe she makes a week's supply of bread, plus a variety of appealing rolls.

Hot dog and hamburger rolls, salt sticks and poppy seed rolls can be made from her original recipe, and each roll has its own special qualities.

Because poppy seeds so often fall off the tops of dinner rolls, Mrs. Smith rolls them up inside her crescents. Either coarse salt, kitchen salt or garlic salt may be sprinkled on the salt sticks, or parmesan cheese or caraway seeds may be used. Hot dog rolls can be easily made by spreading rolled out dough in a cake pan and scoring it in the proper shape, while the dough for hamburger rolls is cut with a large coffee cup.

For variety, Betty Smith often bakes her bread in one-pound coffee cans, which makes interesting, round loaves. "Children especially like the round slices," she said. The white bread has a fine and even grain, light texture, crispy crust and delicious homemade flavor.

ANOTHER of this good cook's specialties is an interesting and unusual Shoo-Fly-Pie. Often made by her mother, this Pennsylvania Dutch recipe has long been one of Mrs. Smith's favorites.

Interesting in its preparation, the recipe calls for flour, sugar and shortening combined with a pastry blender and mixed with molasses, boiling water and baking soda.

Turned into two unbaked pie shells, the filling becomes soft and cake-like during the baking period, and a little "gooey" in the center. "If you like a molasses flavor, you'll like this pie," Mrs. Smith commented.

In addition to her culinary interests, Mrs. Smith enjoys participating in activities involving children. She is a Girl Scout leader and troop organizer and teaches Sunday School at St. Paul's United Church in Palatine.

The Smiths have two children: Frances, 10, and Larry, 8. The family lives at 1801 N. Kennicott in Arlington Heights.

THURS., SEPT. 17, 1964

BASIC WHITE BREAD DOUGH

4 packages dry yeast
½ cup warm water
1 quart milk (skimmed or homogenized)
¼ pound butter or margarine
6 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons salt
3 well-beaten eggs
14 cups pre-sifted flour (approximately)

Dissolve yeast in warm water in a large bowl.

Scald milk; add butter, sugar and salt. Stir until dissolved. Cool to room temperature. Add beaten eggs to cooled milk mixture; add milk mixture to dissolved yeast.

Combine 6 cups flour with milk mixture and beat well. Add 6 more cups flour and mix well. Turn out onto floured surface and kneed in just enough flour to make a soft dough which is not sticky.

Place in buttered bowl, cover with a tea towel and let rise until double in bulk. Punch down and let rise again. Shape into five loaves, place in buttered bread pans and let rise again.

Bake at 400 degrees until golden brown, approximately 20 to 30 minutes.

THE BREAD may be baked in one-pound tall coffee tins. Fill greased cans ⅔'s full with dough and let rise until three inches over the top of can. Bake at 400 degrees. Makes at least 8 coffee cans. Cut in round slices.

Poppy Seed Rolls:

Take ⅛ of the dough and roll thin into a circle 12-inches in diameter. Spread with 2 teaspoons soft butter; sprinkle with 4 teaspoons poppy seeds. Cut into 8 pie-shaped wedges, roll up from the outside towards the center and shape into crescents.

Place on greased cookie sheet and let rise until double in bulk. Bake at 400 degrees until golden, approximately 10 to 15 minutes.

Hamburger Buns:

DETERMINE THE QUANTITY needed and roll dough ½-inch thick. Cut with a large coffee cup. Place on a greased cookie sheet and let rise until double in bulk. Bake at 400 degrees until golden.

Hot Dog Rolls:

Roll out dough ¼-inch thick and spread on a greased, 9 by 13-inch cake pan. Score dough after it has risen to make 10 hot dog rolls. Bake at 400 degrees until golden.

Salt Sticks:

Roll pieces of dough in your hands very thin — about the thickness of a pencil and 6-inches long. Place on greased cookie sheet and let rise. Brush with egg yolk mixed with 1 teaspoon water. Sprinkle with either coarse salt, table salt, grated Italian cheese or caraway seeds. Bake at 400 degrees until golden.

SHOO-FLY-PIE

2 8-inch unbaked pie shells
3 cups flour
½ cup sugar
½ cup shortening
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup boiling water
1 cup dark molasses

Work the flour, sugar and shortening together with a pastry blender. Set aside 4 heaping tablespoonsful for topping.

Combine boiling water and molasses and add baking soda. Stir. This will bubble up. Add to dry ingredients and mix well. Pour into pie crusts and sprinkle with topping. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes. Yield: Two pies. (SH

South Church Rites Unite Ohio U. Pair

It was on the campus of Ohio University in Athens that Roberta Lynn Fontaine of Mount Prospect met Gary Frank Blasius of Youngstown, N. Y., and their romance was culminated in marriage Aug. 22 in South Church, Mount Prospect.

The bride, daughter of the Robert L. Fontaines, 902 Ioka St., has gone east to live in the home town of her husband, while he is employed in nearby Niagara Falls, N. Y., for Hooker Chemical Corp. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Blasius, reside in Euclid, Ohio.

THE COUPLE were attended by family members and sorority and fraternity affiliates from college days as they met at the church altar to be married by Rev. Edwin I. Stevens at 5 in the afternoon.

The rites were followed by a garden reception and buffet supper hosted by the bride's parents for 85 guests. After the day's festivities the newlyweds departed for a week's honeymoon in Cleveland and Niagara Falls.

IN THE DOUBLE ring ceremony the bride wore a traditional white silk organza dress with fitted bodice, scooped neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and a full skirt ending in a chapel train. The front of the dress was trimmed with re-embroidered alencon lace and seed pearls in a floral motif.

The bride also wore a 3-tiered French silk illusion veil held in place by a corwn of lilies of the valley. She carried her mother's wedding handkerchief as well as a crescent bouquet of stephanotis, white roses and ivy.

HER ATTENDANTS were gowned alike in street-length lilac organza dresses with a contoured bell skirt accented at the back waistline with a self-fabric bow falling to the hemline. Their bouquets were composed of statice and purple asters, and they wore lilac bow headpieces to hold their short butterfly veils in place.

Karen Williams of Arlington Heights was maid of honor, while Mrs. James C. Fontaine, the bride's sister-in-law of Glenview, and Linda Loucks of Crestline, Ohio, were bridesmaids.

THE GROOM'S fraternity brother, John Mirosavich of Cleveland, was his best man, and Leonard Serio of Cleveland and James Fontaine, the bride's brother, ushered.

Greeting the guests at the reception, the bride's mother was gowned in pink crepe with a matching jacket and accessories. Mrs. Blasius greeted in a pastel blue crepe with matching jacket and white hat. Both mothers had orchid corsages, Mrs. Fontaine's in pink and Mrs. Blasius' in white.

During the reception the groom's "brothers" serenaded the newlyweds with traditional fraternity songs. (Bak Studio (S

Diane Fox' Wedding Has Gold, White Color Scheme

In an Aug. 22 wedding with a gold and white color scheme, a former Arlington Heights resident, Miss Diane Dorothea Fox, daughter of the senior Richard W. Foxes, now of Normal, Ill., became the bride of Lawrence E. Aavang, son of the Elmer Aavangs of Woodstock. The Fox family moved from Arlington Heights three years ago and the bride, who grew up in Arlington Heights, finished her high school education in Normal Community High School, after which she attended Bradley University for two years.

University Pair Are Wed In DeKalb Church Rites

Immanuel Lutheran Church in De Kalb, home of Northern Illinois University, was chosen for the Aug. 15 wedding of Carole Ann Leiterman of Chicago and David Louis Beigel of Arlington Heights. The couple have been attending Northern, the bride now graduated and teaching third grade in Streamwood School. The groom is a senior at the university this year.

Their vows were repeated at 5 o'clock before Rev. E. George Krause, with the families of the pair, the James Leitermans of Chicago and the Alfred Beigels, 135 Golf Terrace, and friends in attendance.

FOUR PINK ROSES on a white satin prayer book were carried by the bride as she came down the church aisle. She wore a floor-length nylon sheath dress trimmed with Swiss lace. The dress had a short-sleeved jacket with a draped neckline and the back of the dress was accented with a short train.

A circlet of Swiss lace and nylon formed a headpiece to hold her 2-tiered butterfly veil in place.

Rose Ann Hertl of Chicago was maid of honor and Marci Beigel, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid. Both were gowned alike in peacock blue sheath dresses of crepe over taffeta and wore matching bows in their hair, edged with netting. Each of the girls carried two white roses.

DWAYNE MUELLER of Mount Prospect was the groom's best man, while Martin Mielke of South Bend and Butch Baud of Midlothian seated the guests.

For the double ring rites Bill Burger accompanied Mrs. Dave Schroeder at the organ as she sang several appropriate melodies.

Witnessing her daughter's marriage, Mrs. Leiterman wore an avocado green sheath dress and had a white rose corsage pinned to her shoulder. Mrs. Beigel chose an aqua sheath dress with a lace bodice and also had a white rose corsage.

THE NEWLYWEDS greeted 135 guests at a reception held later in the Maitre d' Restaurant in Elk Grove Village. The couple then left for a honeymoon of two weeks in Upper Michigan and Wisconsin.

They are now at home at 127 College St., Elgin. (Jenart (S

The garden of the Charles Klopp home, 61 N. Benton St., Palatine, was the setting for the reception following the Aug. 8 marriage of Phyllis Elaine Klopp and John Armistead Church. The groom's parents, the Randolph Churches, came from their Richmond, Va., home for the day's festivities which began with the ceremony in St. Philip Episcopal Church, Palatine.

The couple is now living in the Nassau Arms Apartments in Princeton, N.J., where the groom is employed by American Can Co. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia an received his Ph.D. from the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton, Wis.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Palatine High School and Lawrence College, Appleton, and is beginning to teach in Trenton, N.J. schools.

The couple was married at 3 p.m. before the families and friends.

The bride chose a white silk organza floor-length dress for her wedding day. The enteir dress was embroidered in a floral motif, and the same material formed a pill box headpiece to hold her bouffant veil in place. She carried a cascade of white summer flowers and greens.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Alan Dimenn of Arlington Heights, and two bridesmaids, Mary Church of Richmond and Julia Meloy of Cleveland, wore aqua dresses and carried nosegays of lavender and blue flowers for the ceremony.

BEST MAN was Randolph Church Jr., the groom's brother, of Fairfax, Va., and ushers were Charles D. Klopp of Cambridge, Mass., and Marshall R. Church of Richmond.

For the day's festivities Mrs. Klopp wore a pink silk dress and Mrs. Church wore a light blue silk. Each of the mothers had white orchid corsage pinned to her shoulder.

The couple spent a week's honeymoon in the Chicago area before going east to live.

Percy Aide Liked Editorial On Education

Permit me to offer my congratulations on your editorial comment of Sept. 3 which so aptly accentuated education as "the biggest. . .and most important function of state and local governments." This view coincides exactly with what Chuck Percy has been saying for 14 months throughout Illinois.

There is no doubt that effective leadership in Springfield would be extremely helpful to all educational interests. It is interesting, and at the same time sad, to note the incumbent governor's record of performance in education. We can learn from this experience, however, and work to see that it is not repeated.

If I may, I'd like to say that in an address entitled "The Challenge We Face in Education" delivered at Bradley University as long ago as October, 1963, Chuck Percy called for the removal of the office of State Superintendent of Education from politics. He said, "We should empower the State Board of Education to choose the best qualified man for the job of administering the state public school system. We could then begin to lay an enduring groundwork for common sense approaches to our educational problems." Chuck has consistently held and often repeated this view.

Thank you again for the timely editorial.

Candidate Says Rival Quoted Out of Context

Recently, my Republican opponent attacked my views on Viet Nam in a press conference. Since he quoted me out of context in that interview, I am writing to give your reading public an accurate report of what I did say at my own press conference in Jume.

I was asked what our policy should be in South Viet Nam. I replied that there seemed to be one of three things we could do. First, we could continue our present policy of aid to South Viet Nam's government and military forces. Second, we could increase our involvement and press for a total military victory. Third, we could use our influence to get a cease-fire under international inspection followed by a withdrawal of all foreign troops under a United Nations guarantee, leaving the way open for a negotiated settlement of the issues.

I said further that it seemed to me the people of South Viet Nam were not deeply committed to the war in their country. Therefore, we ought to consider the alternative of a cease-fire, international inspection and negotiation before becoming even more heavily involved. And we ought to consider the views of our allies and of other nations concerned with the war in Viet Nam.

In recent weeks, there have been student riots, Buddhists and Catholics attacking each other, a rapid succession of governments and a notable increase of anti-Americanism by the civilian population. We are now spending two million dollars a day for military aid in that unhappy country.

Experts disagree on what United States policy should be.

Feels Middle Ground Omitted On Sororities

I think perhaps last week's article entitled "Sororities Stir Mixed Emotions" would have been less dramatic and more realistic if it had refrained from stating extreme positions without the accompanying middle ground.

My personal attitudes toward sororities have and will remain unsettled until I have been given the chance to view them first hand. When I was misquoted as questioning sororities on the grounds of their contrast to the civil rights movement, I was not speaking so much from a personal viewpoint, but rather with national trends in mind.

The recently passed Civil Rights Act automatically set the stage for a nationwide reexamination of values, and it was this of which I was speaking. I believe Mr. Alfred McClung Lee wisely suggested that sororities function as "schools for mature participation in a democratic society," as I understand this to be a basic purpose of college education.

Beatle Fan Feels Police Told Falsehood

On the news at 10 on Channel 9, Sept. 5, a policeman told all the teenagers that if they stayed behind the fence, that the Beatles would walk along the fence.

Some girls were crying, and yelling, "They won't walk along the fence, you're a liar," and "I hate you, I hate you!"

When they got off the plane, the policemen took them straight to the car. Then the girls started breaking through the fence, and the car sped away. If I was in the crowd, I would of jumped over the fence too, after the lie that policeman told the girls.

The newspapers are always saying that the Beatles keep dodging their fans. This isn't true, because Paul McCartney said on a newscast that they would like to ride around the airport field and see their fans, and when Queen Elizabeth came there were more than 4,000,000 people, and there wasn't even one incident. What can a few teenagers do?

You ask any Beatle fan what they would do, ant they'll tell you just what I did.

Favors Debates in Print by Rival Parties on Big Issues

I noticed with interest the offer of your pages to a partisan dialogue between the Palatine Township Committeemen. The Republican Committeeman accepted, but his Democratic counterpart refused because he would conduct "his" campaign in his own way and "without fanfare."

If Paddock sincerely offers its pages to a discussion of public issues, it deserves commendation. There should be no objection to subjecting public alternatives to public debate. Democracy, like the law, ought to be governed by the "rule of reason"; competing interests should be required to earn the informed and rational approval of the electorate.

I should suggest that you inaugurate a weekly series in which a specific subject matter would be assigned, e.g., fiscal policy, Medicare, United Nations. Opposing parties might be given advance copies of the main argument so as to permit a short rebuttal. Moreover, the dialogue might continue beyond the election, embrace "nonpolitical" issues, and could well include forums before the public.

As you know, the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions is conducting a "dialogue" on the highest level. Its contribution to America is priceless, but it reaches only a fractional section of the leadership community. Public discussions at other and wider levels are long overdue.

If your program were limited to a 500-word, one-shot deal, I can better understand Mr. Dilks' refusal to participate. I doubt that he lacks articulate spokesmen, or that he feared his party's position could not survive a debate. In a predominantly Republican area, I should think that the Democratic Party would jump at the chance of give-and-take with its rival.

Perhaps if you were to resubmit your offer to Mr. Dilks on a basis as suggested above, he would reconsider. If he again decines, I should gladly enlist local spokesmen for the Democratic Party point of view; these persons might not be "official" spokesmen, but they would be competent and responsible.

A newspaper debate by local residents should have great readership appeal and would represent a new and exciting development for the community.

Disagrees with Column on 'White Backlash'

Like Mr. Bauman, I am against rationalized hate in any form, but I feel he is guilty of oversimplifying complex issues. To me his form of rationalizing is as regretful as the rationalized hate which he opposes.

Perhaps he is correct in saying the term "White Backlash" is a regrettable one. The liberal community has used this word to describe any person or group who opposes their view on any subject.

It is easy to call every vote for Mr. Wallace an example of "White Backlash," but isn't it possible that many voters agreed with Wallace on his racial views but felt his views on fiscal matters, foreign policy and States Rights were preferable to his ultra-liberal opponent? Isn't it possible to disagree with certain sections of the Civil Rights Bill on the basis of fear of the concentrated power encroachment of the federal government, without being a bigot.

Mr. Bauman speaks of the courage Negroes must face in their daily lives. I think we must also consider the courage it takes to disagree with the enormous power of the liberal community; for example—

1) To oppose any portion of the Civil Rights Bill makes one a bigot.

2) To oppose communist appeasement make one a lunatic right winger.

3) To oppose the encroachment of federal government makes one a product of the 19th Century.

4) To oppose coddling of rioters makes one a racist.

5) To oppose inflationary fiscal policies makes one a heartless villain.

6) To oppose foreign aid (even to our enemies) makes one an isolationist.

7) To oppose the mainstream of collectivist thinking makes one a "hate monger."

8) To feel a firm stand towards communism maintains the peace makes one a warmonger.

In my opinion, by oversimplifying issues, Mr. Bauman runs the danger of becoming a victim of the rationalized hate which we both oppose.

Angry That Pools Closed On Warm Day

Just a few words on swimming pools — a third was voted to be built in our area. — Why?

We have a 16-year-old son who has an annual pass. He has, naturally, chores — jobs so that it isn't always convenient to go to the pool during the afternoon session.

Tonight, (Aug. 30) was the "straw that broke the camel's back." Afternoon temperature in the 80's and this evening when he left to go to the pool he was back in 45 minutes. Both pools were closed and the temperature was 79. Why?

We should have a third pool. For what? So we can pay taxes so it can be closed at whose convenience?

I'm angry, Who is crazy in this community?

We voted against another pool. Why tax us "poor people" for someone's whim?

Calls Daley Outspoken Foe Of Suburbs

Thank you for the confirming opinion that Governor Kerner's veto of increased aid to schools has deprived our schools of badly needed funds.

Those of us who have had to go to the polls this past year to vote increased property taxes for school purposes will remember his veto when we again go to the polls in November.

The Governor can never justify his action on the argument that there were no funds available. He raised the cigarette tax and the sales tax and had sufficient funds to add thousands of workers to the State payroll, finance social and political functions and provide more than $300,000,000 a year for public aid.

In the next several weeks we will hear the same campaign promises we heard four years ago, but the people realize now that the governor's actions in Springfield are controlled in Chicago.

We recognize too that the Mayor of Chicago is an outspoken enemy of the suburbs—

Praises Roselle Firemen for Quick Action

Although the attached may seem quite unusual and applies directly to our Roselle Fire Department, I think your readers in nearby communities may find it of interest as it closely parallels the thinking of some of your readers such as myself. Prior to Aug. 29, I had had little or no contact but now appreciate the fire department.

On the morning of Aug. 29 at 8:07, the writer was barely able to summon his wife, Ethyl, who at a glance could tell the writer was having extreme difficulty in breathing. She placed a phone call to our local fire department and asked for emergency inhalator service. Within 60 seconds, the inhalator truck was in our driveway and I was on full emergency oxygen. Although the Roselle Fire Department does not provide ambulance service, the inhalator truck does contain a small portable stretcher for extreme emergency. Chief Hugh Seddon decided there was no time to be lost if there was a chance so I was whisked away in the inhalator truck.

Here again cooperation and training paid off through our local police and fire department radio communication network. All police departments between Roselle and Elmhurst Hospital were alerted as well as an emergency team. Doctors were at the emergency entrance of the hospital. I was naturally unaware of any of this performance at the time.

I have been informed by the doctors that there was 90 per cent blockade in the bronchial tree with a blood pressure of 280/164 and a pulse rate of 140-160. After being on oxygen and the critical list for 2½ days — I am here.

A combination of quick and efficient action through the local fire department and the police makes me want to get on the old soap box and yell! In spite of our high taxes, we are getting thousands of dollars in protection from pennies spent. God Bless em!!!

Says Editorial 'Warmed Hearts' Of Educators

Your editorial and accompanying cartoon (Sept. 3) on education as a major campaign issue, were ones that certainly warmed the hearts of many educators. They reflect many of the feelings educators have regarded important issues that voters should consider when voting for candidates running for state offices.

Since education is an important function of state government, the state should start assuming more of its role in education.

1. Raise state aid to local school, at least toward the national average of 40 per cent. This would give local tax payers some relief from the rapidly rising high cost of "Quality Education."

2. True educational leadership from the state office of public instruction. Here I agree wholeheartedly with you that this office should be released from its political shackles and be allowed to move freely toward giving "maximum leadership to the educational community." On this point, Illinois lags far behind many states, who have dumped this obsolete marriage between politics and education.

The other point mentioned in your editorial to increase college facilities, promote consolidation of schools for improvement of instruction are certainly part of the issue. I believe if the state assumes the two roles numerated in the previous paragraph, these others will follow in natural sequence, as the fruits of good educational leadership, ample financial support and community pride and leadership in providing the best education possible for our children.

As your cartoon suggests, the voters must also elect those legislators that are cognizant of modern educational needs for our state. They should also select those legislators that are willing to work toward converting these needs into operational educational realities that will become part of the educational program for the youth of our state.

Mrs. Eugenia Chapman of Arlington Heights, a former teacher, secretary of the Board of Education of High School District 214 and a candidate for the State Legislature is a person whom I feel fits these qualifications. Mrs. Chapman has been a long time friend of education and good government. This is evident through her tireless efforts as a school board member and her active participation in the activities of The League of Women Voters. I feel if the voters elect legislators who have Mrs. Chapman's qualities, motives and sincere interest in education and good government, most of your editorial wishes will become enacted and added to our education system.

These are my own personal feelings, but I am sure that many of my colleagues in education, who know Mrs. Chapman and are acquainted with her work, share these same sentiments. In my grade book, Mrs. Chapman rates an "A" in Educational Issues.

Tells of Steps Taken for More Library Cooperation

I read with interest and approval your editorial noting the cooperative library venture of Libertyville and Mundelein. Certainly the two libraries involved are to be contratulated. I think, however, other suburban library users should fully understand why this is a difficult step to take in many areas.

Rapid suburban expansion has made the new and the old cose, often adjacent, neighbors. Established communities understandably do not want their older, more well-stocked and well-staffed libraries drained by an influx of new borrowers from surrounding communities. The obvious youth of the newer communities (approximate average ages of Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, and Schaumburg Township respectively are 24.2 18.4 and 18.3) points out just one of the real dangers that presents itself to an existing, balanced collection. The established community can then only give; it cannot receive.

Thus, new communities begin their own libraries. Because these communities will probably grow quickly and gain proportionately in assessed valuation, hence in library resources, the problem is not insoluble; it is only momentarily forbidding.

As an interim step, the librarians of Barrington, Elk Grove Village, Rolling Meadows, Roselle, and Schaumburg Township have met and have begun to do three important things:

1) To establish a program of interlibrary loan whereby a registered borrower checks his own library first and if it doesn't have the desired resource, his library can borrow from one of the others for him. (Thus the collections of the other libraries are made available to him.)

2) To compile a union list ("library-ese" for combination list) of all reference books and periodicals contained within each of the five libraries, so that a borrower can immediately see where to go for a bit of information and the libraries do not have to duplicate on expensive and little-used materials.

3) To gather together a revolving group of mystery, western, and science fiction novels as these are expensive to replace, and fans apparently read through a limited collection quickly.

When comparable "volumes per capita," percentage of borrowers against total population, and number of circulations per resource figures evolve from the various libraries (as they have in Mundelein and Libertyville according to Illinois Libraries), when comparable numbers of hours and variously qualified staff are available, and when a comparable benefit can be given and received, then the old, new, and the middle-aged libraries can inter-mingle comfortably and provide better service for all.

Believes Barry Must Have Done Something

The Chicago Sun Times for Sept. 6, 1964, carries the following:

"Q. Can you tell me if Sen. Barry Goldwater or his running mate, Rep. William Miller, has ever introduced any major legislation since they were in Congress? F.T.R., Phoenix, Ariz.

A. They have not."

Obviously, this must be in error. How is it possible for men of the caliber of Senator Goldwater or Representative Miller to have been in the Congress as long as they have without at least doing something? I am sure that your readers would appreciate it if you would set the record straight by listing the major legislation introduced by Senator Goldwater and Representative Miller since they have been in office.

Favors Debates in Print by Rival Parties on Big Issues

I noticed with interest the offer of your pages to a partisan dialogue between the Palatine Township Committeemen. The Republican Committeeman accepted, but his Democratic counterpart refused because he would conduct "his" campaign in his own way and "without fanfare."

If Paddock sincerely offers its pages to a discussion of public issues, it deserves commendation. There should be no objection to subjecting public alternatives to public debate. Democracy, like the law, ought to be governed by the "rule of reason"; competing interests should be required to earn the informed and rational approval of the electorate.

I should suggest that you inaugurate a weekly series in which a specific subject matter would be assigned, e.g., fiscal policy, Medicare, United Nations. Opposing parties might be given advance copies of the main argument so as to permit a short rebuttal. Moreover, the dialogue might continue beyond the election, embrace "nonpolitical" issues, and could well include forums before the public.

As you know, the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions is conducting a "dialogue" on the highest level. Its contribution to America is priceless, but it reaches only a fractional section of the leadership community. Public discussions at other and wider levels are long overdue.

If your program were limited to a 500-word, one-shot deal, I can better understand Mr. Dilks' refusal to participate. I doubt that he lacks articulate spokesmen, or that he feared his party's position could not survive a debate. WHAT IS the United Church of Christ?

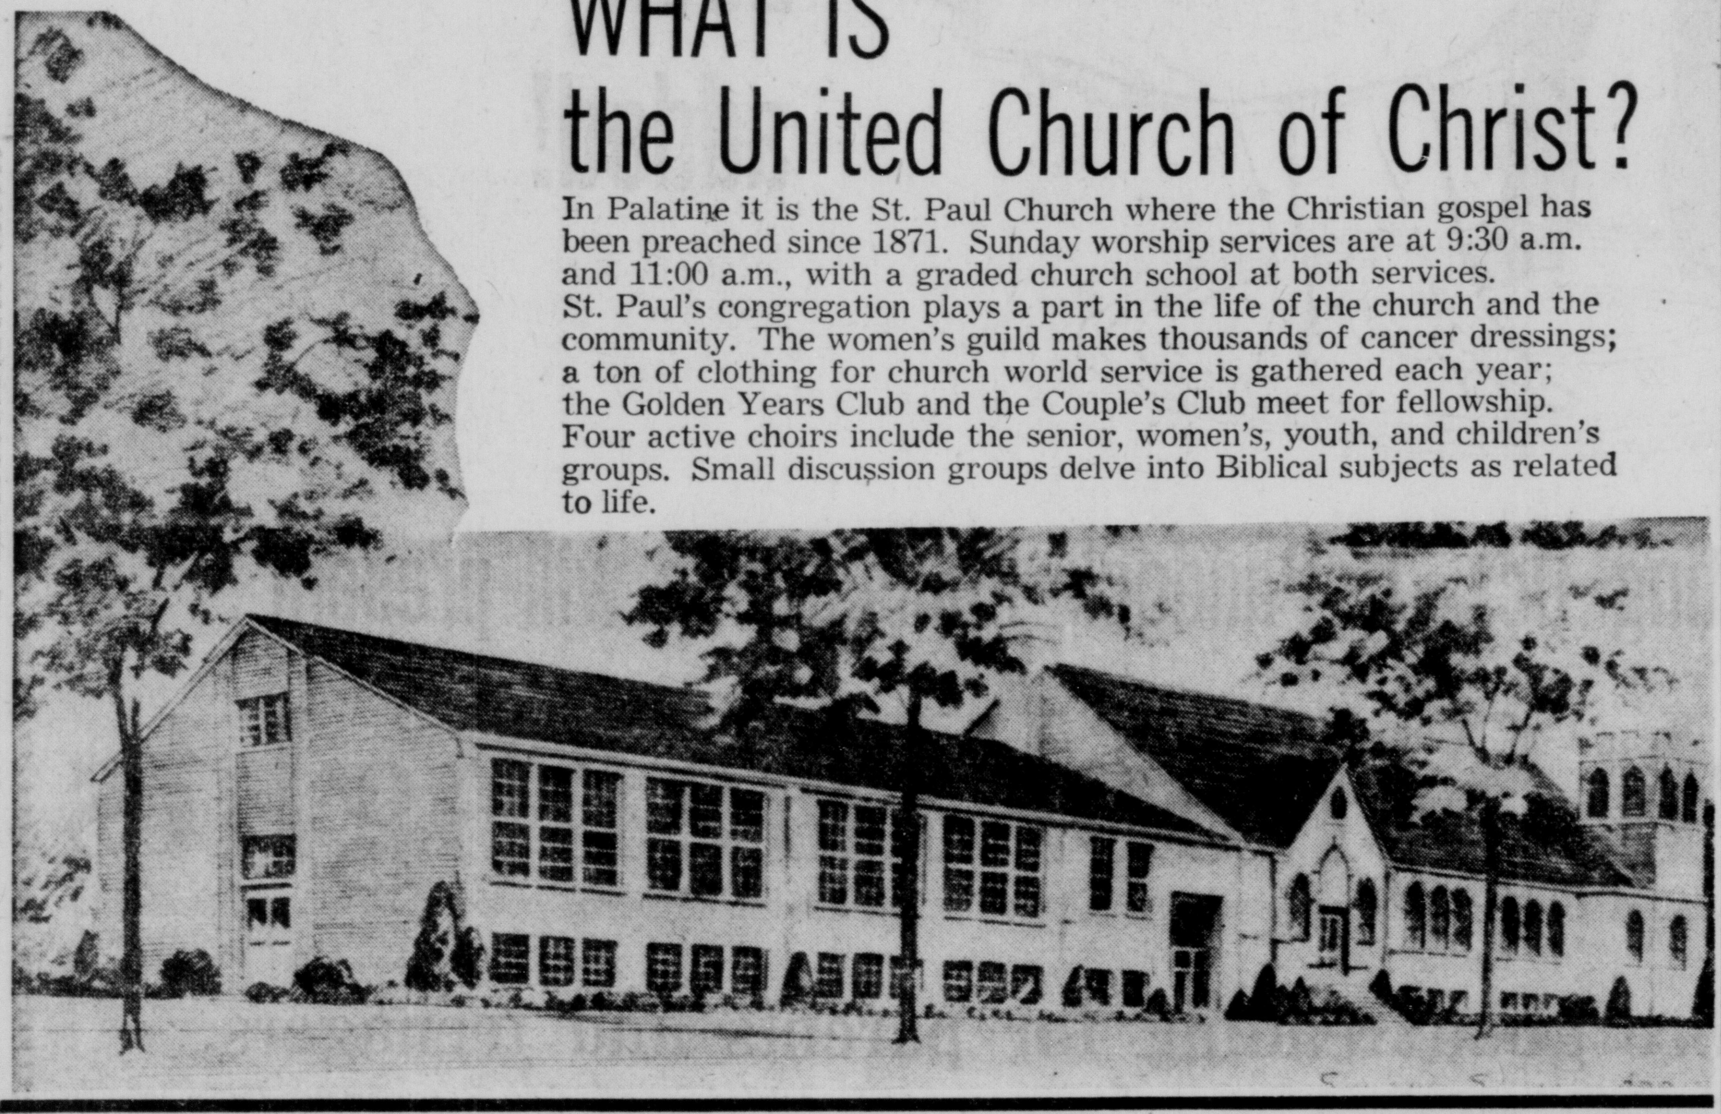
In Palatine it is the St. Paul Church where the Christian gospel has been preached since 1871. Sunday worship services are at 9:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., with a graded church school at both services. St. Paul's congregation plays a part in the life of the church and the community. The women's guild makes thousands of cancer dressings; a ton of clothing for church world service is gathered each year; the Golden Years Club and the Couple's Club meet for fellowship. Four active choirs include the senior, women's, youth, and children's groups. Small discussion groups delve into Biblical subjects as related to life.



Junior Hi kids of St. Paul's Youth Fellowship like to sing — loud and clear — along with the Pastors.

Pastor Glenn G. Gumm (right) and Associate Pastor John C. Eichacker participate in congregational activities.

The women's guild makes thousands of cancer dressings a year, gives stewardship a practical meaning for them.

The United Church of Christ is a new denomination, with roots that are centuries old. It came into existence in 1957 when the Congregational Christian, and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches merged. England's 16th Century Reformation gave birth to the Congregational Church, whose members were among the Pilgrims. The Evangelical and Reformed Church was born of the Reformation in Europe under men like Luther, Zwingli, and Calvin. The United Church of Christ is a united and a uniting church.

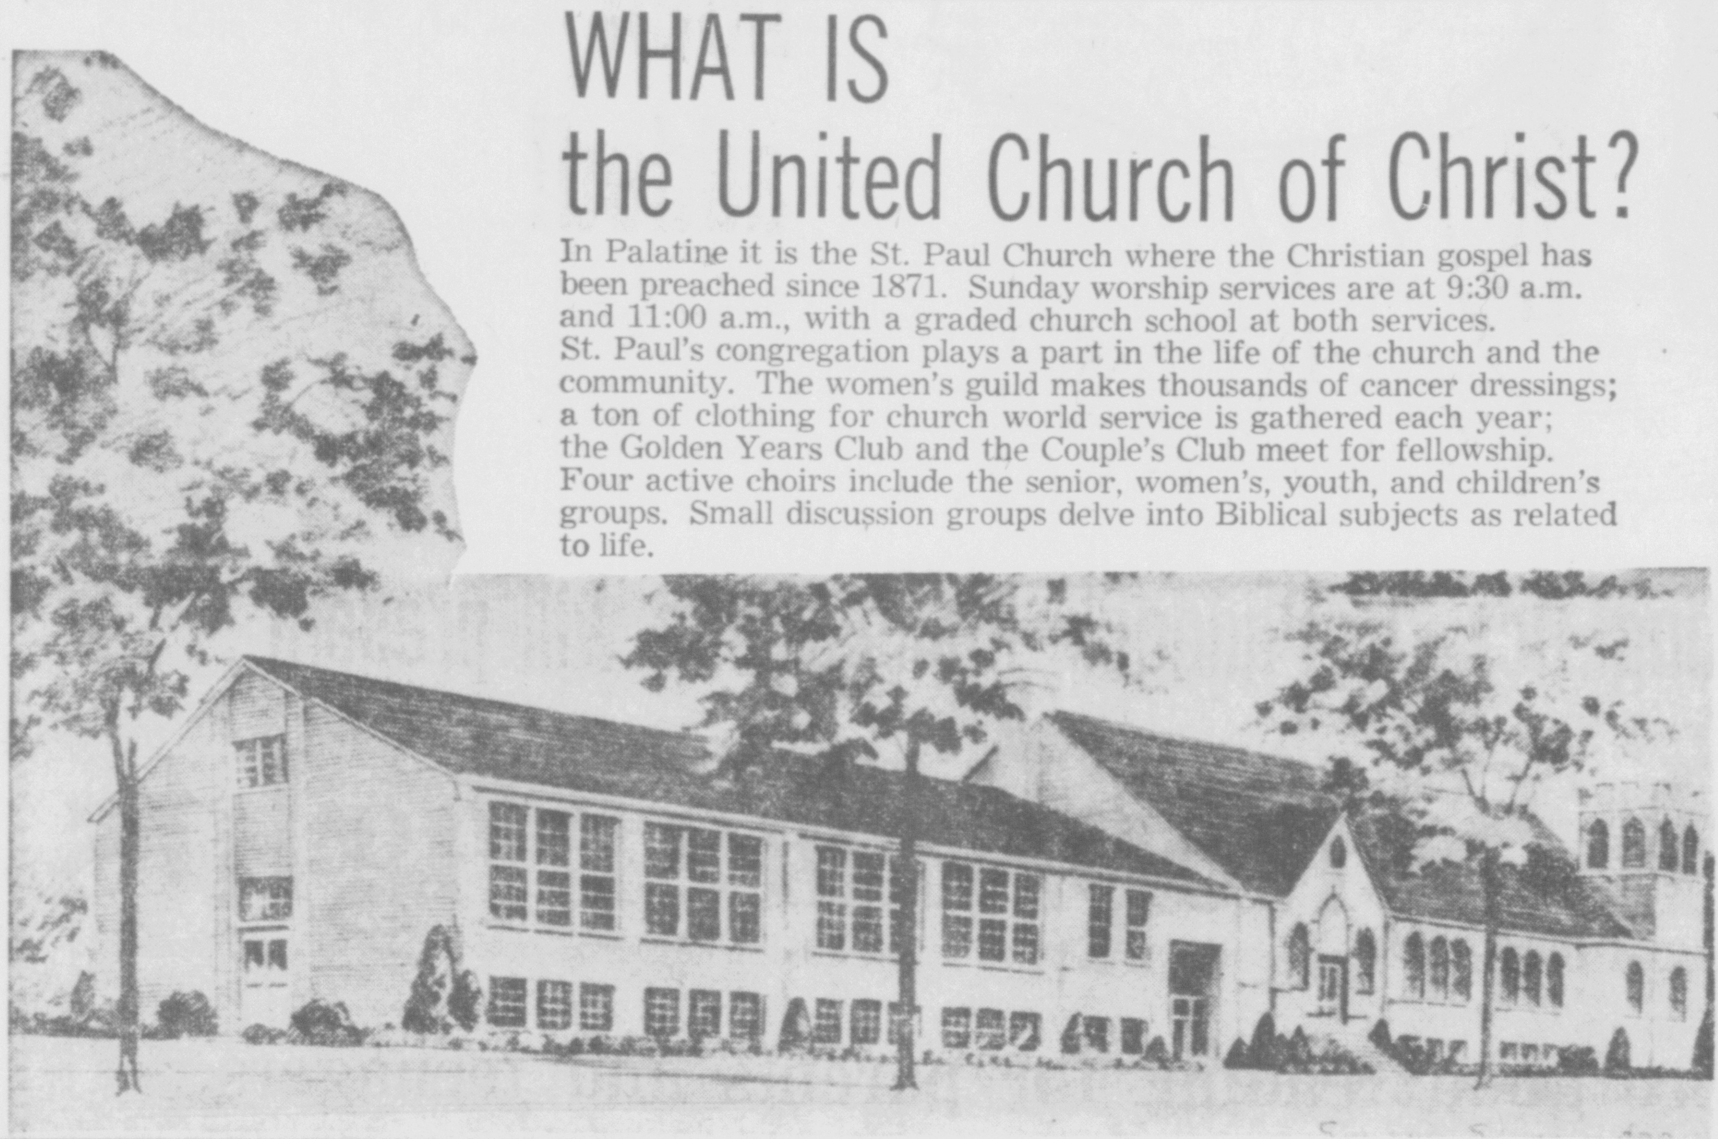
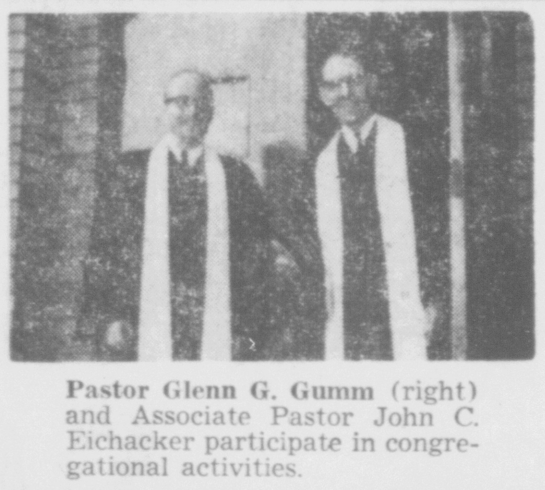
WHAT IS the United Church of Christ?



In Palatine it is the St. Paul Church where the Christian gospel has been preached since 1871. Sunday worship services are at 9:30 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., with a graded church school at both services. St. Paul's congregation plays a part in the life of the church and the community. The women's guild makes thousands of cancer dressings; a ton of clothing for church world service is gathered each year; the Golden Years Club and the Couple's Club meet for fellowship. Four active choirs include the senior, women's, youth, and children's groups. Small discussion groups delve into Biblical subjects as related to life.

Junior Hi kids of St. Paul's Youth Fellowship like to sing — loud and clear — along with the Pastors.



Pastor Glenn G. Gumm (right) and Associate Pastor John C. Eichacker participate in congregational activities.

The women's guild makes thousands of cancer dressings a year, gives stewardship a practical meaning for them.

The United Church of Christ is a new denomination, with roots that are centuries old. It came into existence in 1957 when the Congregational Christian, and the Evangelical and Reformed Churches merged. England's 16th Century Reformation gave birth to the Congregational Church, whose members were among the Pilgrims. The Evangelical and Reformed Church was born of the Reformation in Europe under men like Luther, Zwingli, and Calvin. The United Church of Christ is a united and a uniting church.

Barbershop Groups Perform Sept. 27

Barbershop singers from both coasts will be on hand when the Country Chords Chorus of Sweet Adelines presents its fifth annual barbershop show Sunday, Sept. 27.

The program will be staged at Maine East High School, Dempster and Potter, at 2:30 p.m.

THE CASUALS, Sweet Adelines regional champions, are also scheduled to perform.

Since its organization five and a half years ago, the Country Chords chapter has sung for hospitals, churches and civic groups, placed second in the 1963 regional competition and lent financial support to Clearbrook School for retarded children. The group meets every Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. at Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines.

Illinois Ranks 4th In Aviation

Illinois now ranks fourth among the states in pilot and aircraft registration, according to information released in the latest bulletin published by the Illinois Department of Aeronautics.

The sate has 14,000 registered pilots and 3,600 aircraft. It has 125 commercial airports and 500 private air strips.

Only California, Texas and New York, in that order, outrank Illinois in total number of pilots and planes; and Illinois continues to be known as the hub of the nation's air and surface transportation system, mainly due to the many and excellent facilities available in greater Chicago. (A15

Card Designer Shows Work at Park Ridge Bank

September art exhibit at Citizens Bank and Trust Co. in Park Ridge is the work of Mrs. Stanislawa Murman, who has been painting for the past 24 years.

The paintings on display at Citizens reveal a great deal about Mrs. Murman's background. The colorful portraits of Russian girls in native costume and other scenes of Russian life refect her three-year stay in Russia. She studied in Mexico and captured the country's smoldering vitality in vivid portrayals of bullfights and native dancers.

Mrs. Murman's paintings hang in many area schools and churches, and those who think they've seen Mrs. Murman's work before may be right. She is a designer for the Religious Greeting Card Co. whose cards for Christmas and other special seasons are popular throughout the entire country. (Bill

Illinois Ranks 4th In Aviation

Illinois now ranks fourth among the states in pilot and aircraft registration, according to information released in the latest bulletin published by the Illinois Department of Aeronautics.

The sate has 14,000 registered pilots and 3,600 aircraft. It has 125 commercial airports and 500 private air strips.

Only California, Texas and New York, in that order, outrank Illinois in total number of pilots and planes; and Illinois continues to be known as the hub of the nation's air and surface transportation system, mainly due to the many and excellent facilities available in greater Chicago. (A15

September art exhibit at Citizens Bank and Trust Co. in Park Ridge is the work of Mrs. Stanislawa Murman, who has been painting for the past 24 years.

The paintings on display at Citizens reveal a great deal about Mrs. Murman's background. The colorful portraits of Russian girls in native costume and other scenes of Russian life refect her three-year stay in Russia. She studied in Mexico and captured the country's smoldering vitality in vivid portrayals of bullfights and native dancers.

Mrs. Murman's paintings hang in many area schools and churches, and those who think they've seen Mrs. Murman's work before may be right. She is a designer for the Religious Greeting Card Co. whose cards for Christmas and other special seasons are popular throughout the entire country. (Bill

'Glass Menagerie' May Have Advance Sell-Out

Masque and Staff's season-opener production of Tennessee Williams' 'Glass Menagerie' may be sold-out before we open the doors, according to Bob Johnson, president of the Elk Grove Village theater group.

Masque and Staff will present "The Glass Menagerie" Friday and Saturday nights, Sept. 25 and 26, and again on Oct. 2 and 3 in the main auditorium at Dempster Junior High School, Dempster Road at Elmhurst Road.

Opening night, Friday, Sept. 25, will be a benefit performance for the Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Clinic with the "house" sponsored by the Elk Grove chapter.

"Confidence in the group for good theater has been growing steadily with the excellent reception given our recent plays, 'The Rainmaker,' 'Picnic' and 'The Moon Is Blue' among others," Johnson commented. "This year, our patron following alone is over 10 times larger than in any previous year and includes residents from Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine, Medinah, Park Ridge and even Chicago — in addition to those from Elk Grove itself."

Masque and Staff recently completed its 1964-'65 season patron drive with almost 400 persons signed in support. Patrons of Masque and Staff, in addition to being listed by name in all playbills, also receive a season pass good for all four 1964-'65 productions and are entitled to reserved seating at those shows.

"The Glass Menagerie," a Tennessee Williams favorite and one of the most famous plays of modern theater, is the poignant drama of a shy young crippled girl who finds refuge from the world in her imaginary kingdom of miniature glass animals. The mother, a turn-of-the-century southern belle, tries to guide her family by her own past standards in the vibrant present setting of the 30's.

DIRECTOR OF the play is Sollace hotze, resident of Elk Grove Village. Cast of characters now in final stages of rehearsal are Jim Spahr, narrator-actor Tom; Liz Brodersen, mother Amanda; Liz Romero, daughter Laura, and Fred Brodersen, Tom's friend, Jim.

Masque and Staff's new semicircular seating arrangement at Dempster auditorium provides room for over 800 persons at the four performances. Individual performance tickets or season passes may be ordered by calling Jesse Cusser at HE 7-0649 or Loretta Tomaselli at HE 7-0698.

Patrons who already hold season patron passes are urged to reserve their seats now by calling date preferences in to Marilyn Presar at HE 7-0760.

Ask Players to Join Orchestra

The Civic Symphony Orchestra of Oak Park and River Forest, oldest suburban community orchestra in the metropolitan Chicago area, is again extending an invitation to qualified musicians to join the reorganized 75 piece orchestra which rehearses every Tuesday at 7:45 p.m., in Room 25 of Oak Park-River Forest High School, Ontario and Scoville Avenue.

Those interested should contact Mrs. Donald Rehkopf, personnel chairman, at GL 3-3815 to make arrangements for a brief audition for section placement at 7:30 p.m. on the remaining Tuesday evenings in September. (Bill

Finds Character Neglected In Des Plaines Guild Opener

by JIM PHILLIPS
Paddock Drama Critic

With a brightly attractive, electric "come hither" shedding its light over Lee Street and a theatre season of plays that promises variety and challenge, Des Plaines Theatre Guild opened its 1964-65 curtain Friday evening with the Peter Coke tale, "Breath of Spring."

The breathing, for the most part, was regular. But there were times when more oxygen was needed to complete the operation. "Dr." Allen E. Hall, dramatic surgeon, provided a steady directing hand when it came to getting his staff of assistants around the stage on schedule, but in doing so, he neglected a very important and somewhat obvious element of the play: its characters—who are all characters. If any one of them begins to resemble a normally bored, normally tired-of later-life Britisher, the whole pot of tea gets cold. Such was the case with Lucille Quist and, at times, Mary Fisk (man-active social bug and elocution teacher, respectively).

Miss Quist lent enough unnecessary seriousness to her characterization to risk throwing the other roles out of comic perspective—although this was the director's fault as much as hers. She used very little facial expression and moved stiffly. Yet, she is an actress and proved it during her second and third act scenes.

MISS FISK was much too orderly in the first act. Her moments on the phone later in the play indicated she had relaxed—still, just because she played an elocution teacher didn't mean she had to act like one. This is a director's fault—Hall did not analyze just what type of a free lance verb-and-voweler exists in a flat overlooking the Albert Memorial. Playwright Peter Coke knew. Director Hall didn't.

Mike Rankin's Brigadier turned out to be ruddy-well comic late in the play; few in the audience could understand him in the first act. Coming off with a "jolly good show" militaryman's lingo is a challenge, and the challenge was well met after Rankin slowed his delivery. He is quite talented and knows how to accentuate lines through gesture and timing.

Betty Zermain's Dame Beatrice was a dandy bit of acting. She developed a balance between comedy and seriousness. The Dame is strictly a controlled type of nut. And a sympathetic one, at that. Miss Zermain only cracked the shell when necessary. She remains and accomplished actress, this DPTG veteran, and certainly a technician when called upon for line reaction.

If any mink coats are to be given, however, I would say, "Find a few hundred of the little animals and see that Judy Fisher (Lily) and Sue Anne Anderson (Hattie) are outfitted from head to toe." Miss Fisher handled a difficult bit of half-cocked cockney in excellent fashion. She's as cute as a Britannia button, with a delightfully-relaxed stage presence that saved many a first act moment from dropping into unconsciousness.

SPEAKING of being unconscious, anyone who didn't get a yuk from watching Miss Anderson hobble about as the frightened, fruity, medicinally-miserable Hattie, must have been. She provided the screwloose outline that could have been used by many of her on-stage colleagues. Her steps were prancing hesitations, her facial expressions were hilarious variations of dried prune, and her voice rambled from a squeaky Zasu Pitts to something resembling the call of a laryngitus-plagued yellow-bellied sapsucker. She was a splendid Peter Coke character.

In brief appearances, Chuck Sule and John Clark as the Scotland Yard officials seemed well suited to their roles.

General set decor and design for "Spring" were up to the usual competent DPTG standards (although I'm still wondering what that black African mask-plaque was doing over the mantelpiece, amid the English countryside paintings and other British bric-a-brac dotting the set.) Make-up, though a little strong on the Brigadier, was accomplished with skill.

"Breath of Spring" was a good first-of-the-season selection. DPTG always did have a knack for opening its doors to the unusual and the amusing. It's too bad the audience was small Friday night. Perhaps things will pick up this weekend (Friday and Saturday) and Sept. 25 and 26 when that unique group of arch criminals (or is it arch nuts?) in Dame Beatrice Appleby's flat again get the jolly ol' urge to make off with the mink.

Teachers Exhibit At Baird & Warner

The works of two public high school teachers are being featured in the current exhibit in Baird & Warner's Mount Prospect office, 21 E. Prospect Ave., according to Robert G. Walters, district sales manager.

Win Jones, who is in his seventh year of teaching art at Barrington High School, has been termed one of the up-and-coming "fresh" watercolorists on the American scene by the French art magazine, La Revue Moderne. He has had numerous one-man shows in and about the Chicago area and was one of the youngest exhibitors in this year's New York showing of the American Watercolor Society. During the 1961-62 school year he was an exchange teacher to London, England, under the auspices of the Fulbright Act.

A GRADUATE of Lawrence College in Appleton, Wis., Jones received a master of arts degree from Northern Illinois University at DeKalb. In addition to his regular class schedule, he conducts two courses in the adult evening session at Barrington High School during the fall and spring. These classes are to begin early in October.

Eleanore Garner, who completes the duet of this month's Baird & Warner guest artists, is a graduate of the School of the Chicago Art Institute, with an undergraduate degree in drawing and painting and a master's degree in graphics. She has exhibited in museum print shows throughout America and teaches art at Wendell Phillips High School in Chicago.

Area residents are invited to view their work in Baird & Warner's Mount Prospect office. (BILL

AL D'LACY and The King's Men provide the musical entertainment at Old Orchard Country Club, Prospect Heights. Among their recent engagements have been three years at the Buttery Room of the Ambassador West in Chicago and the Chase Park Plaza in St. Louis, Mo. The combo will play show tunes, Latin American and authentic gypsy music and jazz with Norm King supplying the comedy. (BILL

Wheeling Thespians Rehearsing Comedy

Members of the Wheeling Community Theatre are currently rehearsing a light whimsical comedy entitled, "If A Man Answers," which will be enacted at the Wheeling High School on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 25, 26 and 27.

The production is the second in the first season of this new group theatre.

Miss Judy Trunda, 702 Linda, Dunhurst, has been assigned the primary female role, that of Chantal, a rather immature husband hunter whose sincerity and naivete provoke innumerable comedy situations.

THE ROLE was portrayed by Sandra Dee in the film version and like Miss Dee, Miss Trunda is blonde and projects a similar effervescent personality both on stage and off. Although Miss Trunda readily admits to a lack of theatrical background, she worked backstage while at Prospect High where she was graduated last June.

When her day as dental assistant is over and if time permits, Miss Trunda pursues such sports as tennis and dancing. Being the eldest in a family of four brothers and two sisters, she is occasionally called upon to help out in the kitchen and she does like to cook.

Her 16-year-old brother, Jay, also has joined the group and will be featured in a minor role.

Golf Mill to Show 'Charade,' 'Bedtime Story'

A touch of comedy, mystery and suspense are the ingredients of the double feature combination opening at the Golf Mill Theatre tomorrow (Friday).

David Niven, Shirley Jones and Marlon Brando star in "Bedtime Story," and the companion feature, "Charade," stars Cary Grant and Audrey Hepburn. The films, both in technicolor, will be at the Golf Mill for one week only.

As a special treat for the children, "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea," plus a cartoon show will be presented at the kiddie matinee on Saturday, starting at 1:30 p.m. and ending at 4 o'clock. (Bill

RICHARD BURTON and Ava Gardner form an explosive love team in "The Night of the Iguana," screen version of Tennessee Williams' prize-winning play. Deborah Kerr and Sue Lyon also star. Filmed on location in Mexico, the picture was directed by Academy Award winner John Huston. It opens tomorrow (Friday) at the Catlow Theatre.

A HIGHWAY ...AND ITS IMPACT ON SUBURBIA

August 20, 1958, was a big day for northwest suburbs.

It marked formal dedication ceremonies for the new $500 million Northwest Tollway . . . and the beginning of a new chapter in the history of northwest Chicagoland.

For it is the toll road, and its sister roadways in the metropolitan network of expressways and superhighways, which have provided much of the impetus behind the emergence of northwest suburbs from scattered country towns and truck farms into a prosperous complex of attractive residential communities, pleasant industrial parks, and modern retail centers.

In recognition of National Home Week Sept. 20-27, Paddock Publications devotes its special Fall Home Festival Supplement to a detailed report on the influence and impact of the tollway-expressway system on the growth and development of northwest suburbs.

Among the score of special reports and feature articles by Paddock Publications editors are:

–How suburbia's "new face" has been created by an Automotive Era, climaxed with completion of a half-billion-dollar "dream" – the Northwest Tollway;

–How the commuter has served as a key to growth of northwest suburbs, with roadways and railways boosting suburban populations;

–How new highways are leading new industry northwestward in the search for space, beauty, and skilled workers;

–How suburban land values have been skyrocketed by expansion of the tollway-expressway system;

A HIGHWAY . . . AND ITS IMPACT ON SUBURBIA

August 20, 1958, was a big day for northwest suburbs.

It marked formal dedication ceremonies for the new $500 million Northwest Tollway . . . and the beginning of a new chapter in the history of northwest Chicagoland.

For it is the toll road, and its sister roadways in the metropolitan network of expressways and superhighways, which have provided much of the impetus behind the emergence of northwest suburbs from scattered country towns and truck farms into a prosperous complex of attractive residential communities, pleasant industrial parks, and modern retail centers.

In recognition of National Home Week Sept. 20-27, Paddock Publications devotes its special Fall Home Festival Supplement to a detailed report on the influence and impact of the tollway-expressway system on the growth and development of northwest suburbs.

Among the score of special reports and feature articles by Paddock Publications editors are:

–How suburbia's "new face" has been created by an Automotive Era, climaxed with completion of a half-billion-dollar "dream" – the Northwest Tollway;

–How the commuter has served as a key to growth of northwest suburbs, with roadways and railways boosting suburban populations;

–How new highways are leading new industry northwestward in the search for space, beauty, and skilled workers;

–How suburban land values have been skyrocketed by expansion of the tollway-expressway system;

–How the Northwest Tollway has threatened the established boundaries of suburban villages competing for lucrative land annexations;

–How a network of suburban highways is taking shape as road planners continue to look toward future needs;

–How highway construction affects the planning and prosperity of present and future shopping center developments; and

–How suburban builders stress swift, convenient highway transportation as a prime influence on potential home buyers.

The automobile brings new freedom as well as new problems to a new Suburbia.

Tollway a Factor In Home Ownership

Development of the tollway and expressway systems has made home ownership in the northwest suburban area possible for many persons who otherwise would not have considered living so far from their place of employment.

That is the opinion of Ed Kohl, partner in Falkanger-Kohl Real Estate of Palatine, which has been in business in the area for nine years.

IN THOSE nine years, the population has doubled with a resultant increase in the number of real estate transfers, Kohl said, creating a healthy real estate market in this area.

Falkanger-Kohl takes pride in its record of selling nine out of every ten homes listed with the firm. Kohl attributed this success to its "value-appraising" system. A trained staff of sales counselors informs potential home sellers of market conditions and other factors necessary to complete a home sale.

Besides Kohl and his partner, Norm Falkanger, the staff includes Fred Dutner, Virginia McClinton and Ceil Schwartz.

Financing is another key to successful selling, Kohl said, and the firm's staff is trained in all phases of F.H.A., G.I. and conventional financing.

THE PARTNERS believe the northwest suburban area offers the prospective home purchaser whatever living conditions he wants, from efficiency apartment to countryside estate, with all the conveniences of rail, highway and air transportation, large shopping centers and both city and country recreation.

Falkanger-Kohl is also developer of the Barrington Trails subdivision at Barrington.

New Roadways Change Living

by BOB CUMMINS

THURS., SEPT. 17, 1964

Almost a decade ago teams of surveyors fanned out across northeastern Illinois.

They tramped over the rich loam of Winnebago and Kane counties, their windbreakers bright against the green shoots of young corn. Standing on the bluffs above the Fox River, they sighted their transits across that historic valley. At the outskirts of the metropolis, shadowed by factory smoke, they clambered across tangles of rail tracks and between busy switch engines to complete their work.

These men were mapping the route for the Northwest Tollway, which was to provide an ultramodern, high-speed, non-stop route for cars and trucks to and around Chicago and thence to Rockford, Madison, and the great northwest beyond.

SUCH A PROJECT would have seemed fantastic a generation earlier. In the '20's, Northwest Highway had been built to link Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Palatine and share the traffic load with Rand Road. Together, those two roads were well able to handle the traffic of those days.

Perhaps an outpouring of Model T's and their contemporaries on a nice Sunday afternoon in April would strain the capacity of Rand Road and Northwest Highway, but such traffic jams were not regarded as a crisis.

In the years after World War II, the situation began to change drastically.

With a prosperous nation at peace once again, the auto industry set out to satisfy a pent-up craving for family automobiles. New records in automobile production were set, quickly broken, and then shattered once again.

NEW PATTERNS of living became popular, based largely on mass ownership of automobiles. The automobile brought new freedom to families and allowed those who wished to break away from city living to do it.

Many of them did not break away and the pace of suburban growth quickened, then broke into a trot and finally a headlong gallop. The sleepy country towns along Rand Road and Northwest Highway became home for thousands of newcomers. And along with the new families came businesses and industries, too.

The traffic arteries in the area became choked. There were jams at every stoplight. And so the idea of a high-speed non-stop toll road began to move from dream to reality.

The surveyors were sent into the field and then, on Sept. 22, 1956, at Cherry Valley in Winnebago County, construction work began.

In the next year the face of the land was changed.

HUGE EARTH-MOVING machines took slices out of hillocks and filled ancient gulches. Sleepy old country roads became dead ends while others got new bridges to span the highway. Miles and miles of fencing marched up hill and down dale, leaping the meandering creeks of the prairie.

In less than two years — on Aug. 20, 1958 — the first section was ready for traffic.

It was a big day for the northwest suburbs. Auto dealer Nicholas Lattof of Arlington Heights and executive Jack Hughes of Littelfuse, Inc., one of the area's biggest industries, led a cavalcade of 1,800 persons in 780 autos to the dedication ceremonies at the O'Hare Field entrance to the tollway.

There, to the blaring brass of the Fifth Army Band, the tollway was officially opened and a new chapter in northwest suburban history began.

THE TOLLWAY was a mammoth project, but because it stretched for 187 miles, its true magnitude was not always appreciated. But it cost $441 million (with accessories and appurtenances, about half a billion dollars) and that is the equivalent of about 100 new and modern high schools!

It took a little time for the tollway to catch on, as is usually the case with something new. In its first full year of operation, the tollway's revenues were less than $1 million.

Then they began rising rapidly. In the next year, 1960, they more than doubled, totaling $2,071,000. In 1961, they reached $3,243,000; in 1962, $3,750,000; in 1963, $4,167,000 and this year are running at a rate which indicates an annual income of more than $4.5 million.

These figures are seen as proof that the tollway filled a genuine need.

FURTHER EVIDENCE is the spread of a network of free expressways throughout the nation under the auspices of the federal highway program.

Eventually, the toll booths in Illinois will be removed and the highway will become free. That day will arrive when the bondholders have been paid. The bond schedule sets the year 1994 as the date for completing payment but Donald R. Bonniwell, head of the tollway commission, has his sights set on an earlier date.

Bonniwell hopes to increase revenues and cut expenses so that the bonds can be retired by 1983 and the tollway then become free.

It seems like a long time, but it will be only a brief early phase in the life of this highway, for roadways are more permanent than most of the works of men.

THE ROUTES laid out by Roman engineers are still traveled in the 20th century. The trails followed by North American Indians are being followed today, except they are not trod by moccasined feet but by heavy-duty, puncture-proof, six-ply tires.

Likewise, the tollway route mapped by those surveyors of a decade ago will be followed by future generations of travelers from whom the suburban explosion of the 1950's will be only a footnote in the history books.

Suburban Builders Stress Convenient Transportation

by BEN BURNS
Staff Writer

To northwest suburban real estate developers the ever extending network of toll and expressway arteries means the growth of opportunity for new enterprises.

Just as in the early days of railroad development across the nation when the people followed the tracks west, people are now following the expressways and tollways out across the suburbs, according to Kimball Hill, head of Kimball Hill Associates, which developed Park Ridge and Rolling Meadows. The foresighted builders are preceding the people, he said.

"The record has shown that where the new throughways are put into operation they stimulate growth along them the same way it used to be along the railroads," Hill said. "This happened along the Eden expressway and the same thing is happening along the Northwest expressway."

"We have located our developments near the tollways for access," said Herman Soifer, director of sales for Miller Builders Inc. of Des Plaines. "We have followed the path of the roads through the northwest suburbs. We would like to continue this pattern in the future. There are certainly enough areas to be developed and there is a substantial market in this vicinity."

SOIFER SAID the pattern of commuter traffic to the central city has demanded the development of homes along the new throughways.

"These people are looking for access and egress to the tollway. They want to get to the tollway as fast as possible and it is a major factor in the selection of a home."

Close to the tollway could mean within 15 or 20 minutes driving time from an access ramp or even up to 45 minutes, Soifer said. Miller Brothers have four developments currently and these are from three to eight minutes from entrance and exits to the tollway, Soifer said.

The network of fast traffic expressways has certainly created a trend in development and a positive attitude in the minds of families seeking homes in the suburbs, he said.

"They know if the tollway is out there, there has to be people and business there and it must be convenient and a good place to live. This has definitely affested the commuting patterns," he said.

"As far as we are concerned the road system has been a complete plus factor," Howard Krafsur, vice president of Bennett and Kahnweiler, the firm that developed the Centex Industrial center at Elk Grove village, said.

"The travel time has been reduced from an hour and 20 minutes to 25 minnutes. It has greatly changed the pattern of traffic, but no one can say exactly how much impact the system has had on the development of Chicagoland. We can't say specifically that we made one deal just because of the tollway, but we have probably made many deals because of it," Krafsur said.

IT IS HARDER to ascertain the transportation problems created by the tollways and expressways. According to both local and state officials the problem would be many times as great if the new fast routes for traffic were not available.

"I don't think the system has caused any problem really in traffic," said Arlington Heights police chief L. W. Calderwood.

"If it weren't for the tollways and expressways we would have a bigger problem. Without their expansion we would be in miserable shape and nothing would be able to move."

ROLLING Meadows police chief Cy Campbell said the completion of portions of the new expressway in his area has graphically reduced traffic problems.

"Based on this year as opposed to last year, we have had a lot less men and less problems associated with Arlington Park race track," Campbell said. "The system has definitely lessened our problems."

The state highway department answers a question on the problems of transportation by citing statistics. By 1980, population in the 1,236 square miles centered on the Chicago Loop is expected to increase to more than 8 million, which is equivalent to picking up the city of Detroit and all of its streets and expressways and problems and setting it down in Chicago, Roger Nusbaum, Deputy Chief Highway Engineer said.

"Within 20 years we know that there will be double the number of vehicle miles driven and we know this can't occur on the existing street system," Nusbaum said. "More than 80 per cent of our streets and highways were planned before the auto was even invented," he said.

MORE THAN 60 per cent of Chicago families and more than 90 per cent of suburban families own cars. By 1980, these figures will jump to at least 75 and 95 per cent, respectively, and more families will have cars, according to a Chicago Area Transportation study.

"We feel the answer is to have a grid of freeways about six miles apart," Nusbaum said. "If this is not done it is doubtful if the suburban communities can grow. Unless the highways keep pace with expansion, the expansion cannot occur," he said.

Tree Roots Put Sidewalk Askew

When sidewalk slabs get askew, the cause nearly always is lifting by tree roots. It is possible to reset a slab by raising it with a long pinch bar, bracing it with stones while the root is cut away with a hatchet, and resetting the slab in a thin bed of cement.

When patching sidewalks, try to match the color of the original by adding lampblack to the cement mix.

Villages Compete for Tollway Annexations

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

As the network of superhighways spreads through northwest suburbs, village officials and administrators continue to disagree on a "natural boundary" theory.

This theory says that a village or city should try to avoid jumping across a tollroad, or an expressway, because they create a barrier similar to a lake or river.

The legal right of a village to cross a tollroad now appears firmly established. The Illinois State Supreme Court last January upheld the validity of a series of annexations by the Village of Hoffman Estates in which the village crossed the Northwest Tollroad to gain 2,500 acres of land in Palatine Township.

Justices on the high court in a unanimous opinion said that to make a tollway a bar to growth of a village would "Deny to those communities, which by chance may be bounded by a tollway, the opportunity to acquire additional tracts which it may need for existing municipal purposes and for natural growth. It might also forever deny those persons living across the tollway the opportunity to enjoy the services and facilities which a municipality can offer, or encourage the formation of numerous small and competing local governments have a duplication of effort and affording limited services."

THE JUDGES thus settled a legal question. But there is another side to the "natural boundary" theory: The problems of municipal administration.

One village which never has crossed a tollroad is Arlington Heights, even though the opportunity has arisen to the south.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson says he considers a tollroad a natural boundary, from the viewpoint of municipal administration. These superhighways, says Hanson, are greater barriers than railroad tracks. Complications are created in servicing the area with fire and police protection, street maintenance, snow plowing. Little difficulty is encountered in running a water line under a highway, but sewer mains are more difficult because of the necessity of staying on grade.

Hanson foresees some of the difficulties coming with the Palatine Road junior expressway. This designation, he notes, was established by Cook County after Arlington annexed north of Palatine Road. Some of the barrier will be removed by overpasses at Rand and State Roads and a grade crossing at Kennicott, but the wall will remain.

Of all municipalities in the northwest suburbs, the city of Rolling Meadows is being cut up most by expressways.

THIS SITUATION hasn't been by choice of the city fathers, for they worked unsuccessfully to have Interstate 90 (Route 53) skirt the city to the west. But the state instead chose to run the route through built up residential areas, passing just west of Arlington Park race track, to Northwest Highway. In addition, the county has made Euclid into a four-lane, limited access road to the south of the track and now plans to extend it westward through Plum Grove Estates.

Mayor John J. Woods of Rolling Meadows expresses confidence that the community will be able to overcome problems created by the new Route 53, one of which has been the loss of prime industrial park acreage. Another problem has ben the threatened cut off of the shopping centers on Kirchoff Road. The state under pressure from the city did agree to permit an ingress and egress for the portion of Route 53 south of Kirchoff. But there is no outlet or inlet for traffic moving in the opposite direction.

ROLLING MEADOWS has spent two years trying to convince the State Highway Dept. that a pedestrian bridge should be built across the Route 53 near Central Road. At that point, there are 12 traffic lanes, including service roads.

Woods says the bridge is needed for children going to school, families going to church, mothers going to stores. But the state says a bridge can be built only if a traffic survey is taken and it shows at least 500 persons crossing the road every day.

But here's the rub. Any child crossing the road would have to climb over a chain link fence and walk through the 12 lanes of traffic. So now there are no pedestrians to count. "It's ridiculous," says Woods.

Additional expenses have been added to the city by the service roads. Some of them are on land that was in the city before the expressway was built, others have been annexed since and others still will be annexed. Service roads must be annexed if the village is going to annex across the expressway.

Woods says the expressway hasn't prevented good police and fire protection of any area within the city.

CONDITIONS NOW confronting Rolling Meadows may be expected in a few years in other municipalities.

Elk Grove Village now crosses no expressway. But Interstate 90 will cut the present village off from over 1,000 acres of land which the village has annexed in Schaumburg Township.

The Village of Schaumburg jumps the Northwest Tollroad at two points. Both areas are zoned industrial.

Mount Prospect has avoided crossing any superhighway. So has the Village of Wheeling.

THE VILLAGE OF Palatine is skirted on its east side by the proposed I-90, which has removed a few residential lots from the area north of Northwest Highway. But I-90, paralelling the present Wilke Road will serve to strengthen that line as the dividing line between Palatine and Arlington Heights. Superhighways may divide other units of local government besides villages. The Prospect Heights elementary school district will be divided by the junior expressway on Palatine Road. Suburban Builders Stress Convenient Transportation

by BEN BURNS
Staff Writer

To northwest suburban real estate developers the ever extending network of toll and expressway arteries means the growth of opportunity for new enterprises.

Just as in the early days of railroad development across the nation when the people followed the tracks west, people are now following the expressways and tollways out across the suburbs, according to Kimball Hill, head of Kimball Hill Associates, which developed Park Ridge and Rolling Meadows. The foresighted builders are preceding the people, he said.

"The record has shown that where the new throughways are put into operation they stimulate growth along them the same way it used to be along the railroads," Hill said. "This happened along the Eden expressway and the same thing is happening along the Northwest expressway."

"We have located our developments near the tollways for access," said Herman Soifer, director of sales for Miller Builders Inc. of Des Plaines. "We have followed the path of the roads through the northwest suburbs. We would like to continue this pattern in the future. There are certainly enough areas to be developed and there is a substantial market in this vicinity."

SOIFER SAID the pattern of commuter traffic to the central city has demanded the development of homes along the new throughways.

"These people are looking for access and egress to the tollway. They want to get to the tollway as fast as possible and it is a major factor in the selection of a home."

Close to the tollway could mean within 15 or 20 minutes driving time from an access ramp or even up to 45 minutes, Soifer said. Miller Brothers have four developments currently and these are from three to eight minutes from entrance and exits to the tollway, Soifer said.

The network of fast traffic expressways has certainly created a trend in development and a positive attitude in the minds of families seeking homes in the suburbs, he said.

"They know if the tollway is out there, there has to be people and business there and it must be convenient and a good place to live. This has definitely affested the commuting patterns," he said.

"As far as we are concerned the road system has been a complete plus factor," Howard Krafsur, vice president of Bennett and Kahnweiler, the firm that developed the Centex Industrial center at Elk Grove village, said.

"The travel time has been reduced from an hour and 20 minutes to 25 minnutes. It has greatly changed the pattern of traffic, but no one can say exactly how much impact the system has had on the development of Chicagoland. We can't say specifically that we made one deal just because of the tollway, but we have probably made many deals because of it," Krafsur said.

IT IS HARDER to ascertain the transportation problems created by the tollways and expressways. According to both local and state officials the problem would be many times as great if the new fast routes for traffic were not available.

"I don't think the system has caused any problem really in traffic," said Arlington Heights police chief L. W. Calderwood.

"If it weren't for the tollways and expressways we would have a bigger problem. Without their expansion we would be in miserable shape and nothing would be able to move."

ROLLING Meadows police chief Cy Campbell said the completion of portions of the new expressway in his area has graphically reduced traffic problems.

"Based on this year as opposed to last year, we have had a lot less men and less problems associated with Arlington Park race track," Campbell said. "The system has definitely lessened our problems."

The state highway department answers a question on the problems of transportation by citing statistics. By 1980, population in the 1,236 square miles centered on the Chicago Loop is expected to increase to more than 8 million, which is equivalent to picking up the city of Detroit and all of its streets and expressways and problems and setting it down in Chicago, Roger Nusbaum, Deputy Chief Highway Engineer said.

"Within 20 years we know that there will be double the number of vehicle miles driven and we know this can't occur on the existing street system," Nusbaum said. "More than 80 per cent of our streets and highways were planned before the auto was even invented," he said.

MORE THAN 60 per cent of Chicago families and more than 90 per cent of suburban families own cars. By 1980, these figures will jump to at least 75 and 95 per cent, respectively, and more families will have cars, according to a Chicago Area Transportation study.

"We feel the answer is to have a grid of freeways about six miles apart," Nusbaum said. "If this is not done it is doubtful if the suburban communities can grow. Unless the highways keep pace with expansion, the expansion cannot occur," he said.

Tree Roots Put Sidewalk Askew

When sidewalk slabs get askew, the cause nearly always is lifting by tree roots. It is possible to reset a slab by raising it with a long pinch bar, bracing it with stones while the root is cut away with a hatchet, and resetting the slab in a thin bed of cement.

When patching sidewalks, try to match the color of the original by adding lampblack to the cement mix.

Villages Compete for Tollway Annexations

by DON HEINE
Staff Writer

As the network of superhighways spreads through northwest suburbs, village officials and administrators continue to disagree on a "natural boundary" theory.

This theory says that a village or city should try to avoid jumping across a tollroad, or an expressway, because they create a barrier similar to a lake or river.

The legal right of a village to cross a tollroad now appears firmly established. The Illinois State Supreme Court last January upheld the validity of a series of annexations by the Village of Hoffman Estates in which the village crossed the Northwest Tollroad to gain 2,500 acres of land in Palatine Township.

Justices on the high court in a unanimous opinion said that to make a tollway a bar to growth of a village would "Deny to those communities, which by chance may be bounded by a tollway, the opportunity to acquire additional tracts which it may need for existing municipal purposes and for natural growth. It might also forever deny those persons living across the tollway the opportunity to enjoy the services and facilities which a municipality can offer, or encourage the formation of numerous small and competing local governments have a duplication of effort and affording limited services."

THE JUDGES thus settled a legal question. But there is another side to the "natural boundary" theory: The problems of municipal administration.

One village which never has crossed a tollroad is Arlington Heights, even though the opportunity has arisen to the south.

Village Manager L. A. Hanson says he considers a tollroad a natural boundary, from the viewpoint of municipal administration. These superhighways, says Hanson, are greater barriers than railroad tracks. Complications are created in servicing the area with fire and police protection, street maintenance, snow plowing. Little difficulty is encountered in running a water line under a highway, but sewer mains are more difficult because of the necessity of staying on grade.

Hanson foresees some of the difficulties coming with the Palatine Road junior expressway. This designation, he notes, was established by Cook County after Arlington annexed north of Palatine Road. Some of the barrier will be removed by overpasses at Rand and State Roads and a grade crossing at Kennicott, but the wall will remain.

Of all municipalities in the northwest suburbs, the city of Rolling Meadows is being cut up most by expressways.

THIS SITUATION hasn't been by choice of the city fathers, for they worked unsuccessfully to have Interstate 90 (Route 53) skirt the city to the west. But the state instead chose to run the route through built up residential areas, passing just west of Arlington Park race track, to Northwest Highway. In addition, the county has made Euclid into a four-lane, limited access road to the south of the track and now plans to extend it westward through Plum Grove Estates.

Mayor John J. Woods of Rolling Meadows expresses confidence that the community will be able to overcome problems created by the new Route 53, one of which has been the loss of prime industrial park acreage. Another problem has ben the threatened cut off of the shopping centers on Kirchoff Road. The state under pressure from the city did agree to permit an ingress and egress for the portion of Route 53 south of Kirchoff. But there is no outlet or inlet for traffic moving in the opposite direction.

ROLLING MEADOWS has spent two years trying to convince the State Highway Dept. that a pedestrian bridge should be built across the Route 53 near Central Road. At that point, there are 12 traffic lanes, including service roads.

Woods says the bridge is needed for children going to school, families going to church, mothers going to stores. But the state says a bridge can be built only if a traffic survey is taken and it shows at least 500 persons crossing the road every day.

But here's the rub. Any child crossing the road would have to climb over a chain link fence and walk through the 12 lanes of traffic. So now there are no pedestrians to count. "It's ridiculous," says Woods.

Additional expenses have been added to the city by the service roads. Some of them are on land that was in the city before the expressway was built, others have been annexed since and others still will be annexed. Service roads must be annexed if the village is going to annex across the expressway.

Woods says the expressway hasn't prevented good police and fire protection of any area within the city.

CONDITIONS NOW confronting Rolling Meadows may be expected in a few years in other municipalities.

Elk Grove Village now crosses no expressway. But Interstate 90 will cut the present village off from over 1,000 acres of land which the village has annexed in Schaumburg Township.

The Village of Schaumburg jumps the Northwest Tollroad at two points. Both areas are zoned industrial.

Mount Prospect has avoided crossing any superhighway. So has the Village of Wheeling.

THE VILLAGE OF Palatine is skirted on its east side by the proposed I-90, which has removed a few residential lots from the area north of Northwest Highway. But I-90, paralelling the present Wilke Road will serve to strengthen that line as the dividing line between Palatine and Arlington Heights. Superhighways may divide other units of local government besides villages. The Prospect Heights elementary school district will be divided by the junior expressway on Palatine Road. The Mount Prospect Park District serves an area south of Northwest Tollroad. The Palatine Rural Fire District serves parts of Schaumburg Township south of the tollway. (SS

New Homes Offer Many Wife Savers

Things that "work" to make life easier for home owners are included in new homes on today's market, builders point out.

These boons to easier homemaking are offered in a range from variable room lighting to garbage disposers, from automatic laundrys to built-in knife sharpeners and from self-ventilating roofs to complete air conditioning.

Some of the more glamorous wife-savers are supplemented by building materials that have been proved by time to be both helpful and decorative. Peg-Board, for example, is so popular that builders frequently incorporate panels in the garage or utility room, the laundry or workshop.

USED AS A closet liner, Peg-Board has been efficient as a storage-extender and ventilator.

In laundry room cabinets, its ventilation factor makes the quarter-inch perforated hardboard unexcelled as sliding doors, builders have been told by homemakers. As a result, many of them specify them for such cabinetry regularly.

Because of its good appearance and high storage capacity, the heavy-duty paneling has been installed as a matter of course on at least one wall of the garages offered by numerous builders, according to Masonite Corp., the manufacturer.

Tax on Males

Nyasaland extracts a personal tax of $4.20 on male workers who earn $168 a year.

A newly-formed network of Chicago area realtors has, according to a local real estate agent, shown enormous progress during its first three months.

John R. Sontag, Mount Prospect realtor who is one of the founders and officers of U. S. Homefinders, Inc., said this week, "Since June 1 of this year, 10 real estate offices, each independently owned and operated, have been franchised to use the name Homefinders. All these offices are in the Chicagoland area, with two in the city itself and the rest in the suburbs, including Mount Prospect and Palatine."

Homefinders' purpose, Sontag explains, is to serve the public better by training members and employees in the latest selling techniques and developments, plus a referral plan.

"Ethics are a 'must' with us," he declared. "Politeness, courtesy and good manners are part of what we insist on. High pressure selling is absolutely out. And our members tell us that this alone is an aspect of business the public appreciates!!"

The Code of Ethics of The National Association of Real Estate Boards is agreed to by each Homefinders member, in writing, prior to admission to the group. Each member is, in his own right, a leading real estate agent in his own community.

"Within the next year," said Sontag, "we expect to have 40 to 50 member firms in the Chicago area, and we already are receiving inquiries from downstate and adjacent states."

An important advantage of the Homefinders network, according to Sontag, is its ability to reduce office overhead through group advertising contracts and mass purchase of pamphlets and business cards. Members enjoy the advantage of top professional help in public relations, news releases and advertising on a local, state and national level.

"Consolidating our dollars into purchasing power is tremendous. Consolidating our minds in an open exchange of business approaches and ideas is stupendous," Sontag continued.

"It pushes aside business stagnation, stirs excitement and creates progress. The small independent today is lost in bigness. Some of the old timers in the real estate business, although well-known and highly respected in their own particular locality are not known by the transferred-in, out-of-town- buyer who usually by-passes the small, independent realtor simply for lack of time to get acquainted. Little by little the independent becomes smaller and the larger chain office gets bigger."

Sontag stated that his own office has sold and participated in $111,650 of additional business through the referrals within the Homefinders offices since June 1. Projected, this would represent an annual increase of nearly half a million dollars in additional business, he explained.

The ultimate goal of Homefinders is to have over 1,000 offices across the United States with a complete customer referral service. This would enable a seller here to get a guaranteed price on his home so that he could purchase one out-of-state without the worry and strain of having to sell his home before being able to buy a new one elsewhere. Plans are already under way to start such an operation throughout the entire metropolitan Chicagoland area, in the very near future.

Weekly meetings have kept all Homefinders members abreast of current activities. A general membership dinner meeting held at The Elks Club in Des Plaines Sept. 14 was well-received, according to Sontag. Homefinders welcomes in[illegible] from interested real estate firms, he added, emphasizing that only one member firm can be accepted from any one community. (SS

JOHN R. SONTAG, owner of Homefinders at Mount Prospect and a director of U. S. Homefinders Inc., welcomes Harry E. Johnson, owner of Homefinders of Palatine, as the eighth Realtor to join the Homefinders organization, founded last June by Sontag and three other north suburban Realtors.

Builders Use More Woodlike Paneling

Home builders make it a point of giving prospective purchasers what they want.

A recent survey of leading builders, reported by a trade magazine as reflecting the wishes of buyers, lists "the seven most important rooms of the house" and tells the most-wanted features.

The rooms are kitchen, master bathroom, master bedroom, family room, dining room, living room and foyer.

An interesting element, pointed out by Masonite Corp., is that woodgrained panel walls are in demand for both living room and family room.

"IN FACT," said John Concord of the hardboard manufacturer's consultation staff, "the survey showed that twice as many leading builders now are using paneling in the family room as in the living room."

In family rooms, 53 per cent of the builders were including wood-grained paneling on at least one wall, and 45 per cent were using it on all walls. Twenty-four per cent were including paneling on at least one wall of the living room.

Builders are using woodgrained hardboard widely because of its top appearance, high durability and easy maintenance. In the Royalcote line they and their customers have a choice of three shades of walnut, two of cherry, plus teak, elm, pecan and oak.

Woodgrained paneling gives a home an aura of luxury that, until the arrival of woodgrained hardboard, was available primarily to the right. Now, due to research and manufacturing, the hardboard woodgrains are used in the building of houses in all price classes, Concord points out.

"Consolidating our dollars into purchasing power is tremendous. Consolidating our minds in an open exchange of business approaches and ideas is stupendous," Sontag continued.

"It pushes aside business stagnation, stirs excitement and creates progress. The small independent today is lost in bigness. Some of the old timers in the real estate business, although well-known and highly respected in their own particular locality are not known by the transferred-in, out-of-town- buyer who usually by-passes the small, independent realtor simply for lack of time to get acquainted. Little by little the independent becomes smaller and the larger chain office gets bigger."

JOHN R. SONTAG, owner of Homefinders at Mount Prospect and a director of U. S. Homefinders Inc., welcomes Harry E. Johnson, owner of Homefinders of Palatine, as the eighth Realtor to join the Homefinders organization, founded last June by Sontag and three other north suburban Realtors.

Sontag stated that his own office has sold and participated in $111,650 of additional business through the referrals within the Homefinders offices since June 1. Projected, this would represent an annual increase of nearly half a million dollars in additional business, he explained.

The ultimate goal of Homefinders is to have over 1,000 offices across the United States with a complete customer referral service. This would enable a seller here to get a guaranteed price on his home so that he could purchase one out-of-state without the worry and strain of having to sell his home before being able to buy a new one elsewhere. Plans are already under way to start such an operation throughout the entire metropolitan Chicagoland area, in the very near future.

Weekly meetings have kept all Homefinders members abreast of current activities. A general membership dinner meeting held at The Elks Club in Des Plaines Sept. 14 was well-received, according to Sontag. Homefinders welcomes inquiries from interested real estate firms, he added, emphasizing that only one member firm can be accepted from any one community. (SS

Builders Use More Woodlike Paneling

Home builders make it a point of giving prospective purchasers what they want.

A recent survey of leading builders, reported by a trade magazine as reflecting the wishes of buyers, lists "the seven most important rooms of the house" and tells the most-wanted features.

The rooms are kitchen, master bathroom, master bedroom, family room, dining room, living room and foyer.

An interesting element, pointed out by Masonite Corp., is that woodgrained panel walls are in demand for both living room and family room.

"IN FACT," said John Concord of the hardboard manufacturer's consultation staff, "the survey showed that twice as many leading builders now are using paneling in the family room as in the living room."

In family rooms, 53 per cent of the builders were including wood-grained paneling on at least one wall, and 45 per cent were using it on all walls. Twenty-four per cent were including paneling on at least one wall of the living room.

Builders are using woodgrained hardboard widely because of its top appearance, high durability and easy maintenance. In the Royalcote line they and their customers have a choice of three shades of walnut, two of cherry, plus teak, elm, pecan and oak.

Woodgrained paneling gives a home an aura of luxury that, until the arrival of woodgrained hardboard, was available primarily to the right. Now, due to research and manufacturing, the hardboard woodgrains are used in the building of houses in all price classes, Concord points out.

Tollway Boosts Suburb Land Values

Assessment Based On Property's Use

The particular "use" of land is a determining factor in assessing land values, township assessors report.

George Sim, Bloomingdale Township assessor, said that a farmer's land assessed at more than 16 per cent its market value would be prohibitive to the farmer.

A FARMER CANNOT farm profitably and pay the same taxes proportionately as a home owner or a factory owner.

Wheeling Township Assessor John Peters is in agreement.

The use of land must be looked at, Peters said.

An assessor cannot penalize and in effect drive a farmer out because his market value per acre has jumped as much as 400 per cent in recent years.

But assessed valuations have been rising on farms over the years.

While farmers do have a "preferred" assessment because of the use, they have not been altoghether by-passed by the assessor.

SIM GIVES this example: A typical farm in Bloomingdale Township in 1956 was assessed at $100 an acre.

Today, a short eight years later, the assessment is $220 an acre, or more than 200 per cent.

The market value on the same farm has probably risen about 300 per cent. (SS

No End Seen To Land Boom

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer

What's up? Land values, that's what.

Up, up, up goes the land values in the northwest suburbs.

And the farmers who are selling out are reaping money harvests.

Ten years ago you could buy a farm near Arlington Heights or Palatine for as little as $700 an acre. Today that same farm would command at least $4,000 an acre to $8,000 an acre.

The northwest suburbs are in the midst of a land boom which is not going to stop, say local Realtors.

SEVERAL YEARS ago, a similar land boom was affecting the Northshore region of Cook County.

Today a subdivider is lucky if he can get raw acreage at $4,000 an acre. And this "cheap" price usually exists only in the Hoffman Estates and Roselle areas.

Much of the raw acreage that is left around Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine is valued at $8,000 an acre.

And at Old Orchard, at Rand Road and Euclid Avenue, a 20 acre tract planned for high-rise buildings is valued at $20,000 an acre.

According to Palatine Realtor Charles Neal, the 1957 market value for the Old Orchard 20-acre tract was no more than $2,500 an acre.

"Land values have been rising at a minimum of 15 per cent a year," Neal commented. "And for some prime land the value has been rising as much as 30 per cent a year."

KENNETH TUCKET of Kenroy, Inc. in Chicago, commented on an industrial park his company has in Arlington Heights.

In 1959, the company payed $2,000 an acre. Now it couldn't be touched for less than $3,500 an acre, he said.

The string of villages along the Chicago and North Western Railroad always had a potentoial for a boom.

It was just a matter of time before Chicago ran out of needed residential and industrial land sites.

However, the boom to the west can be greatly attributed to the Northwest Tollway.

Without the tollway, it's doubtful that such villages as Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg and Hanover ever would have been developed as rapidly as they have.

THE TOLLWAY guarantees a a fast trucking route which permits industry to settle in this area.

The tollway brought with it rising land values which are beginning to rival those along the Chicago and North Western strip of villages.

ROBERT STARCK, a Mount Prospect Realtor, commented that land speculators have been buying up land along the railroad and tollway routes.

"To find land cheap enough to make it worth farming," Starck said, "you'd have to buy beyond the Wisconsin border."

The speculators, he said, are buying land beyond the immediate northwest boom area for $1,500 an acre.

This area, he said, is in the vicinity of Crystal Lake and Woodstock. In 10 years time, this will be a boom area also, he predicted.

Realtor Carl M. Behrens of Arlington Heights is pretty much in agreement with Starck on this point.

HE MENTIONED that the Woodstock and Hebron areas still have some farm land cheap enough to make it worth farming. Hebron is almost on the Wisconsin border.

Neal predicts that northwest suburban values will continue their 15 per cent a year rise.

Starck, however, feels that peaks have been reached.

Starck and Behrens commented that certain limits do exist.

FOR INSTANCE, a subdivider cannot pay an $8,000 an acre price and expect to build homes which most middle class buyers could afford.

Behrens said property values, "aren't getting worse," but only better. However, some land owners think they own gold but they actually price themselves out of the market.

This is the case, he said, for land near Barrington Road just west of Hoffman Estates.

Behrens said the closer the land is to the tollway or the railroad, the more it is worth. In these areas, $8,000 an acre is still a marketable price.

Judging from comments by the Realtors, the present going market price for land to be used for single family dwellings is $4,000 an acre.

HOWARD TURNER, Roselle's superintendent of public works, and a land owner, said his farmland is worth variously $3,000 to $5,000 an acre. It depends on just where it is located and the availability of utilities.

Anything over the $5,000 figure right now would, in effect, take it off the market for use by a subdivider for single family dwellings.

Land values are usually determined by their expected use and nearness of utilities and transportation arteries.

For instance, the $4,000 an acre price more or less prevails for residential development. For industrial or commercially zoned areas, the values start around $6,000.

Small prime parcels, according to Neal, will command the $8,000 to $10,000 prices.

Survey Finds Most Homes Still Dark

The lamp and shade people are going all out to take American families out of the dark and into the light where they belong.

"Surveys show that nearly 80 per cent of homes in the U. S. are poorly lighted," spokesmen for the Lamp and Shade Institute of America report.

Standards for good lighting call for at least five portable lamps, as distinguished from installed fixtures, for the living room and master bedroom.

THERE SHOULD also be two or three in each additional bedroom, plus one lamp for each 40 to 50 square feet in other rooms of the house where the ends of good vision and decoration must be served.

In buying and using lamps, the Lamp and Shade Institute offers these tips:

1. CHOOSE LAMPS with the proper bulb wattage and switching for the job at hand. Three-way lamps adapt to a number of conditions. Most of these lamps come with one of two combinations: 50-100-500 watts and 100-200-300 watts. A few call for a 30-70-100 bulb. If the lamp is to be used for reading, choose a more powerful combinaiton.

Lamps taking small bulbs up to 100 watts are for dressing table and night-stand use. Single-switch floor and table lamps should have a bulb of at least 100 watts, preferably 150 watts.

2. WITH TABLE lamps, the over-all distance from the floor to the bottom of the lamp shade should usually be no more than 40 to 42 inches. The height of the table lamp therefore depends on the height of the table on which it rests. So when you shop, take along a tape measure to make sure of lamp heights suitable for your rooms.

3. If possible, try to have the tops of all lamp shades at the same height within the room. A uniform effect is more pleasing than an up-and-down pattern.

4. In rooms requiring four or five lamps, there should be at leaste one matched pair, located so that they have some relationship to each other, such as on a pair of end tables, or on a dining buffet.

5. TRANSLUCENT shades give more general light than do opaque shades, which are useful for dramatic effect and for desk lighting. Whichever you use try to select a shade with a white inside surface for maximum light reflection.

6. Make sure that the placement of bowls and bulbs in the lamp is such that the light source doesn't shine in the eye and create glare.

How to Keep Old Staircase Safe

Do shaky stairs give you the shakes?

Occasional checkups are need- to keep the staircase in solid condition. The newel post may need reinforcing with additional screws. The handrail brackets tend to loosen and should be braced with heavier screws.

Squeaky steps often can be corrected by working glue between the riser and tread, followed by driving additional finishing nails into the step. If balusters have become wobbly, check the filler strips and replace those that are too short. A few finishing nails in the square ends of the balusters will keep them rigid.

Survey Finds Most Homes Still Dark

The lamp and shade people are going all out to take American families out of the dark and into the light where they belong.

"Surveys show that nearly 80 per cent of homes in the U. S. are poorly lighted," spokesmen for the Lamp and Shade Institute of America report.

Standards for good lighting call for at least five portable lamps, as distinguished from installed fixtures, for the living room and master bedroom.

THERE SHOULD also be two or three in each additional bedroom, plus one lamp for each 40 to 50 square feet in other rooms of the house where the ends of good vision and decoration must be served.

In buying and using lamps, the Lamp and Shade Institute offers these tips:

1. CHOOSE LAMPS with the proper bulb wattage and switching for the job at hand. Three-way lamps adapt to a number of conditions. Most of these lamps come with one of two combinations: 50-100-500 watts and 100-200-300 watts. A few call for a 30-70-100 bulb. If the lamp is to be used for reading, choose a more powerful combinaiton.

Lamps taking small bulbs up to 100 watts are for dressing table and night-stand use. Single-switch floor and table lamps should have a bulb of at least 100 watts, preferably 150 watts.

2. WITH TABLE lamps, the over-all distance from the floor to the bottom of the lamp shade should usually be no more than 40 to 42 inches. The height of the table lamp therefore depends on the height of the table on which it rests. So when you shop, take along a tape measure to make sure of lamp heights suitable for your rooms.

3. If possible, try to have the tops of all lamp shades at the same height within the room. A uniform effect is more pleasing than an up-and-down pattern.

4. In rooms requiring four or five lamps, there should be at leaste one matched pair, located so that they have some relationship to each other, such as on a pair of end tables, or on a dining buffet.

5. TRANSLUCENT shades give more general light than do opaque shades, which are useful for dramatic effect and for desk lighting. Whichever you use try to select a shade with a white inside surface for maximum light reflection.

6. Make sure that the placement of bowls and bulbs in the lamp is such that the light source doesn't shine in the eye and create glare.

How to Keep Old Staircase Safe

Do shaky stairs give you the shakes?

Occasional checkups are need- to keep the staircase in solid condition. The newel post may need reinforcing with additional screws. The handrail brackets tend to loosen and should be braced with heavier screws.

Squeaky steps often can be corrected by working glue between the riser and tread, followed by driving additional finishing nails into the step. If balusters have become wobbly, check the filler strips and replace those that are too short. A few finishing nails in the square ends of the balusters will keep them rigid.

Expressway Both Boon, Headache to Suburbs

Stress Community Planning Factors

by TOM EDWARDS
Staff Writer

Chicago area tollroads and expressways have been a boon to the development of the northwest suburbs, but there are also headaches a-plenty attendant with these superhighways.

They bring new residential and industrial development, but can also cause drastic relocations of business and shifts in trade.

They make it more possible for people to live in the countryside and work in the cities, but these rivers of concrete are also physical barriers which divide the countryside and impede expansion of some municipal boundaries.

Expressways are mountainous in the effect they have on the development of a region and the planning of local communities.

FOR MUNICIPALITIES which straddle the expressways, such as Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg now do, there are incumbent problems of extending sewer and water facilities under the expressway, and providing equal police and fire protection to both sides. Additional fire stations which might not have been otherwise needed may have to be established, and a dual utility system constructed.

An expressway can also provide a buffer between residential and industrial development, but it can also divide a community's residential development into two very separate neighborhoods which feel little kinship for each other. Long Grove is one community which has been battling a proposed junior expressway route (Route 53) in order to prevent division of what it considers its community area.

RATHER THAN form a divider, however, the Northwest Tollway often poses a hurdle for the expansion of municipal boundaries in northwest suburbs. The tollway is presently a terminal boundary for four northwest area villages, Mount Prospect, Elk Grove, Arlington Heights and Rolling Meadows.

Without the near proximity of the tollway, however, these communities would probably be expanding at a much slower rate than they are.

An advantage to the barrier the tollway forms is that it is one point at which neighboring communities can often agree on a mutual boundary, thereby avoiding internecine warfare to annex land. That is, expressways to some extent may help prevent situations where developers play one community against another in order to gain lowered building standards or other concessions.

WHILE EXPRESSWAYS bring more business into the suburban setting, the yalso bring new businesses to compete with the old, and new shopping centers to compete with former retail centers. Expressways will make some previously existing business areas more accessible; others will be made relatively less convenient, resulting in their being "by-passed" by shoppers.

Former traffic oriented business will no doubt suffer the major jolts, finding itself high and try with a choice of either relocating or going out of business.

Regional shopping centers, such as Randhurst, follow the expressways, requiring further adjustments for local retailers and budgets of local taxing bodies.

Looking at the planning problems from the other angle, state highway officials must anticipate future development in locating expressway routes as well as fulfilling existing needs. They must plan routes to avoid adverse disruption of individual communities and still provide convenient access to the highway and to various geographic points.

WITH ALL these considerations in mind, it is then the job of the highway planners to find the most suitable terrain on which to construct the highway.

They must make provisions for highway service uses near expressway interchanges or in the form of intermittent "cases" along the expressway.

Regional and "metropolitan area" planning has been stimulated by the advent of limited access highways, as more planning cooperation between urban, suburban, county and state levels has become necessary. In the Chicago area the Northeastern Illinois Metropolitan Area Plan Commission has been formed to view planning problems in the whole northeast section of Illinois, and inter-community governmental organizations such as the Northwest Suburban Conference have sprung up to cope with mutual problems.

Expressways have made huge metropolitan complexes more practical from the standpoint of both economics and living amenities.

WHILE THEY have helped bring about some centralization of thinking, they have also fostered a great deal of decentralization of living, usually referred to as the "urban sprawl."

The contribution of expressways to this sprawl is often criticized. Land is being wasted, and too much is being put under concrete, it is argued. Other means of transportation should be developed, and Los Angeles is cited as an example of too much emphasis on expressway transportation.

Planner Ralph Campbell of Tec Search, Inc., in Evanston, feels this criticism is largely unwarranted. People are getting from place to place in less time with expressways despite the sprawl, he said.

THE SUBURBAN sprawl also allows for green belts, forest preserve and other living amenities and land uses which would not be possible in densely concentrated development, Campbell continued.

The argument that too much of our land area is being covered with highways is "overplayed," the planner believes.

But it appears certain that developments, with such tremendous impact on society as expressways exert, have to be carefully planned from the national to the local level.

Commuters Major Factor in Growth

by DAN BAUMANN
Staff Writer

Few, if any, of the communities in the northwest suburbs are hurting for population growth.

But:

The largest communities, population wise, are those which grew up along commuter railroads.

The largest communities in terms of the number of new residents likewise are those located on rail lines.

Because they started with nothing, the new tract communities located near express highways or other major routes are experiencing the fastest percentage rate of growth.

DOUBLY blessed are those communities with both a commuter railroad station and easy access to a major automobile route.

Comparisons, of course, are hazardous because all communities have some kind of highway connections with Chicago and other parts of the metropolitan area. The quality of those connections varies in degree and in many cases can only be judged subjectively.

Even where a railroad exists in the center of town, an individual—or a majority of the individuals who make up the town—may choose to use highway transportation, whether good, bad or indifferent.

ARBITRARY classifications, then, are necessary. Mount Prospect becomes a "railroad" town, even though many of its residents may commute to Chicago via tollway and expressway connections to the south. Hoffman Estates, with easy access to the Northwest Tollway, becomes a highway town, even though some of its commuters may drive to the railroad station in nearby Roselle.

Another deterrent to easy comparison is that factors other than transportation—distance to the city, promotion by builders, home costs and the like—affect population growth.

The community which has experienced and is experiencing the largest numerical growth is Arlington Heights. The village enjoys both rail service and fairly close access to the Northwest Tollway.

DEVELOPMENT OF NEW expressways and modernization of commuter rail facilities have been major factors in the rapid growth of new and established northwest suburban communities since 1950. Highways and railways are cited as primary causes for the flight to suburbia. An example of such transportation changes is the picture above of a sleek new Chicago and North Western commuter streamliner paralleling the new John F. Kennedy Expressway. (SS

Arlington Heights grew from a small town of 8,768 in 1940 to 35,400 in 1963. It jumped 19,000 during the 1950's and another 8,000 from 1960 to 1963. Arlington is the largest community in northwest suburbs.

SECOND LARGEST is Mount Prospect, with a 1963 population of 24,400. Mount Prospect, too, has a railroad line but access to express highways is more difficult. The village added more than 20,000 to its population since 1960.

The third largest community, Palatine, has the double benefit Arlington Heights enjoys. Its population grew by 7,400 in the 1950's, added another 4,300 from 1960 to 1963 to a total of 15,800.

One of the earliest tract communities, Rolling Meadows grew to a town of 10,879 from its incorporation in the middle 1950's until 1960. However, its growth from 1960 to 1963 is estimated to have crept up only 640. Rolling Meadows has excellent highway access, is somewhat less convenient to train transportation than the larger villages.

BENSENVILLE, the only one of the five largest communities which is located in DuPage County, is a "railroad" town with a population of 11,100. The inadequacy of highways feeding through Bensenville is legend, though the community is near the tollways.

Only Rolling Meadows among the five largest communities does not have direct rail service.

A markedly different picture exists in the next five largest villages: only one has easy access to commuter rail lines, and three of the five are tract communities incorporated since 1956.

ELK GROVE Village, with 11,000 residents in 1963, added 4,400 since 1960.

Hoffman Estates added 2,500 in the same period, to 10,800.

Access to the Northwest Tollway is easy from both villages.

The next three towns are basically "highway" towns, although one—Streamwood—is located near a rail line.

Addison had commuter service until the 1930's, when it was halted. Still, its population has grown steadily from 813 in 1950 to 6,741 in 1960 to 10,500 in 1963.

Wheeling's growth has been almost as rapid. In 1950 it had 916 residents, in 1960 7,169 and in 1963 10,200.

STREAMWOOD, incorporated in 1957, had 4,821 residents by 1960, 8,300 by 1963.

Of the next five largest communities—three of them in DuPage County—four are served by commuter lines. They are Itasca, 3,800; Wood Dale, 4,400; Roselle 4,100; Itasca, 3,800; Buffalo Grove, 1,900; Bartlett, 1,800.

Check Heating System Before Buying House

Thousands of families will be shopping for new homes this fall.

Unfortunately, many will be "penny wise and pound foolish" at the expense of future comfort and enjoyment of the home, says a man who has been associated with the homebuilding industry for more than 30 years.

"For instance, probably no other feature of the home will be as important to the family's comfort and good health as the heating system," points out Charles H. Franke, president of American Furnace Co., St. Louis.

"Yet the prospect of moving into a 'dream home' will be so exciting that many home buyers won't even think to ask about the size of the furnace, the ductwork, air conditioning, air filtering, possibilities for expansion and other important factors."

The homebuying public generally takes it for granted that the home will be heated, but this is really only the beginning of a modern comfort system, according to Franke, once a real estate salesman himself.

More important is how efficiently it is heated, because this usually will determine the size of the fuel bill. A few dollars more invested in a quality furnace originally could mean a saving of several hundred dollars in fuel costs over the life of the heating plant.

IN ADDITION to the basic heating system, today's home buyer also should investigate central air conditioning and electronic air filtering, the furname company executive advises.

Summer cooling can be combined easily and economically with winter heating, giving the family year-around comfort from one system. With the new electronic filters, the air circulated through the home in both seasons now can be cleaned with unprecedented efficiency.

"Considering the long service it will provide, a good, year-around comfort system is one of the most economical investments a home buyer can make," Franke said. "It will pay families shopping for homes this fall to add this point to their check list."

Paper Cups Can Aid Family Health

What multi-purpose utensil in almost every home can be—and often is—used as a holder for tooth brushes and paste, an aid to taking pills, a dipper for use in rinsing the hair, a bath toy for the baby, a mixing bowl for mouth and eye washes and, most of all, as something from which to drink?

The answer is the common bathroom drinking glass.

Every member of the family uses it. However, it rarely gets thoroughly washed because it's invariably overlooked.

NOW THE Dixie Cup Division of the American Can Co. is leading a campaign to make the common bathroom glass as obsolete as the old tin dipper. Dixie is introducing a new paper cup dispenser—even the cup brims are protected — especially designed for bathroom use. The new product is avaiable in supermarkets, chains and other food outlets in this area.

Tests of bathroom glasses have shown they are carriers of many bacteria, including harmful types that cause sore throats, colds and other respiratory ailments.

The U. S. Public Health Service has branded the common drinking glass a major offender in spreading ailments through the family. Getting rid of it may save misery and perhaps money, too, because the annual bill for colds is $35 to $40 per family.

DOUBLY blessed are those communities with both a commuter railroad station and easy access to a major autombile route.

Comparisons, of course, are hazardous because all communities have some kind of highway connections with Chicago and other parts of the metropolitan area. The quality of those connections varies in degree and in many cases can only be judged subjectively.

Even where a railroad exists in the center of town, an individual—or a majority of the individuals who make up the town—may choose to use highway transportation, whether good, bad or indifferent.

ARBITRARY classifications, then, are necessary. Mount Prospect becomes a "railroad" town, even though many of its residents may commute to Chicago via tollway and expressway connections to the south. Hoffman Estates, with easy access to the Northwest Tollway, becomes a highway town, even though some of its commuters may drive to the railroad station in nearby Roselle.

Another deterrent to easy comparison is that factors other than transportation—distance to the city, promotion by builders, home costs and the like—affect population growth.

The community which has experienced and is experiencing the largest numerical growth is Arlington Heights. The village enjoys both rail service and fairly close access to the Northwest Tollway.

Arlington Heights grew from a small town of 8,768 in 1940 to 35,400 in 1963. It jumped 19,000 during the 1950's and another 8,000 from 1960 to 1963. Arlington is the largest community in northwest suburbs.

SECOND LARGEST is Mount Prospect, with a 1963 population of 24,400. Mount Prospect, too, has a railroad line but access to express highways is more difficult. The village added more than 20,000 to its population since 1960.

The third largest community, Palatine, has the double benefit Arlington Heights enjoys. Its population grew by 7,400 in the 1950's, added another 4,300 from 1960 to 1963 to a total of 15,800.

One of the earliest tract communities, Rolling Meadows grew to a town of 10,879 from its incorporation in the middle 1950's until 1960. However, its growth from 1960 to 1963 is estimated to have crept up only 640. Rolling Meadows has excellent highway access, is somewhat less convenient to train transportation than the larger villages.

BENSENVILLE, the only one of the five largest communities which is located in DuPage County, is a "railroad" town with a population of 11,100. The inadequacy of highways feeding through Bensenville is legend, though the community is near the tollways.

Only Rolling Meadows among the five largest communities does not have direct rail service.

A markedly different picture exists in the next five largest villages: only one has easy access to commuter rail lines, and three of the five are tract communities incorporated since 1956.

ELK GROVE Village, with 11,000 residents in 1963, added 4,400 since 1960.

Hoffman Estates added 2,500 in the same period, to 10,800.

Access to the Northwest Tollway is easy from both villages.

The next three towns are basically "highway" towns, although one—Streamwood—is located near a rail line.

Addison had commuter service until the 1930's, when it was halted. Still, its population has grown steadily from 813 in 1950 to 6,741 in 1960 to 10,500 in 1963.

Wheeling's growth has been almost as rapid. In 1950 it had 916 residents, in 1960 7,169 and in 1963 10,200.

STREAMWOOD, incorporated in 1957, had 4,821 residents by 1960, 8,300 by 1963.

Of the next five largest communities—three of them in DuPage County—four are served by commuter lines. They are Itasca, 3,800; Wood Dale, 4,400; Roselle 4,100; Itasca, 3,800; Buffalo Grove, 1,900; Bartlett, 1,800.

DEVELOPMENT OF NEW expressways and modernization of commuter rail facilities have been major factors in the rapid growth of new and established northwest suburban communities since 1950. Highways and railways are cited as primary causes for the flight to suburbia. An example of such transportation changes is the picture above of a sleek new Chicago and North Western commuter streamliner paralleling the new John F. Kennedy Expressway. (SS

Check Heating System Before Buying House

Thousands of families will be shopping for new homes this fall.

Unfortunately, many will be "penny wise and pound foolish" at the expense of future comfort and enjoyment of the home, says a man who has been associated with the homebuilding industry for more than 30 years.

"For instance, probably no other feature of the home will be as important to the family's comfort and good health as the heating system," points out Charles H. Franke, president of American Furnace Co., St. Louis.

"Yet the prospect of moving into a 'dream home' will be so exciting that many home buyers won't even think to ask about the size of the furnace, the ductwork, air conditioning, air filtering, possibilities for expansion and other important factors."

The homebuying public generally takes it for granted that the home will be heated, but this is really only the beginning of a modern comfort system, according to Franke, once a real estate salesman himself.

More important is how efficiently it is heated, because this usually will determine the size of the fuel bill. A few dollars more invested in a quality furnace originally could mean a saving of several hundred dollars in fuel costs over the life of the heating plant.

IN ADDITION to the basic heating system, today's home buyer also should investigate central air conditioning and electronic air filtering, the furname company executive advises.

Summer cooling can be combined easily and economically with winter heating, giving the family year-around comfort from one system. With the new electronic filters, the air circulated through the home in both seasons now can be cleaned with unprecedented efficiency.

"Considering the long service it will provide, a good, year-around comfort system is one of the most economical investments a home buyer can make," Franke said. "It will pay families shopping for homes this fall to add this point to their check list."

Paper Cups Can Aid Family Health

What multi-purpose utensil in almost every home can be—and often is—used as a holder for tooth brushes and paste, an aid to taking pills, a dipper for use in rinsing the hair, a bath toy for the baby, a mixing bowl for mouth and eye washes and, most of all, as something from which to drink?

The answer is the common bathroom drinking glass.

Every member of the family uses it. However, it rarely gets thoroughly washed because it's invariably overlooked.

NOW THE Dixie Cup Division of the American Can Co. is leading a campaign to make the common bathroom glass as obsolete as the old tin dipper. Dixie is introducing a new paper cup dispenser—even the cup brims are protected — especially designed for bathroom use. The new product is avaiable in supermarkets, chains and other food outlets in this area.

Tests of bathroom glasses have shown they are carriers of many bacteria, including harmful types that cause sore throats, colds and other respiratory ailments.

The U. S. Public Health Service has branded the common drinking glass a major offender in spreading ailments through the family. Getting rid of it may save misery and perhaps money, too, because the annual bill for colds is $35 to $40 per family.

Highway Planners Are Looking to Tomorrow

Suburban Network Is Taking Shape

by JOAN LORENSON
Staff Writer

The network of express highways in the northwest suburban area is beginning to take shape.

Construction of the first sections of the Route 53 expressway has been completed.

Definite routing of the I-90 Eisenhower expressway extension is concrete except in "isolated instances," according to J. H. Dinkheller, Illinois district engineer.

Funds have been set by the state for acquisition of right of way this year.

Land for the Palatine junior expressway is being acquired for the necessary grade crossings in the Arlington Heights-Prospect Heights section of the road.

CONTRACTS WILL be let Oct. 9 for the extension of Route 53 near Anderson Drive in Winston Park Subdivision in Palatine, said Ronald Kennedy, project engineer for Route 53. This contract would cover the bridge proposed in this area.

Arcole Midwest of Evanston received the bid this week for construction of a bridge across the Chicago and North Western Railroad and Northwest Highway. Officials anticipate November, 1965 as the finish date for this section of the work.

The portion of the highway north of Rand Road and including Dundee Road interchange is expected to be let for contract in early 1965; its completion is predicted as about January 1966.

THE RIGHT-OF-WAY has been acquired near Anderson Drive. Condemnation of land is underway in the area near the cemetery on Rand Road. Land also is being appraised up to Rand Road.

I-90, the Eisenhower expressway extension north of Elmhurst is almost ready for designing.

The definite route has I-90 going midway between Grand and Lake Streets, crossing Wood Dale north of Grand then following a northwest course almost parallel to Salt Creek until it reaches Addison Road. It would then cross north of Green Meadows Estates subdivision, continuing to the north where there are some homes in Wood Dale. It would cut diagonally with the proposed Route 53.

The state is negotiating with the Forest Preserve to change the direction in the area of Higgins Road and Route 53.

The route's pattern in the Itasca area remains to be settled. B. M. Borrud, district engineer of the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings in Elgin, has promised in the next month to give the village a sketch plan showing the final alignment through the area west and southwest of Itasca.

Analysis of traffic shows a more elaborate highway with greater traffic capacity will be required, Borrud has stated.

I-90 IS TO END at an interchange with Route 53 south of Rolling Meadows.

Dinkheller said the state has funds programmed for I-90 right-of-way acquisition for this year.

He declined to predict how long it would take to complete the I-90 construction, except to note the interstate highway program must be open for traffic in 1972.

The 1966 Cook County Highway program includes the extension of Euclid Avenue, a limited access road, through Plum Grove Countryside Subdivision. This would be a two-lane extension from the Route 53 cloverleaf westward to Algonquin Road. The construction program calls for the contract to be let in 1966-67. It may be completed in 1967, according to the Cook County Highway Department.

The network of express highways will be built in spite of the protest to it. The state highway department engineers insist expressways are located "to meet the needs of the traveling public."

Illinois has no master plan for highways. A study which brings together state, county and federal government officials is supposed to be made for completion in 1965.

MOST PEOPLE do not complain about too many expressways but where they are situated. For example, in Itasca village officials have protested to the state over the I-90 routing which would bisect an area designated as a "green belt and park area."

The last routing proposed by the state would put a seven acre park west of the highway. The highway would cut near one of the village's wooded and more attractive residential areas.

Route 53's more northerly course to Grayslake has aroused cries of protest from residents in the Long Grove area. Long Grove has preserved itself as a rustic but expensive residential area. Actual construction will not begin for several years, giving the residents hope they still might have the highway routed farther from their area.

Plum Grove Countryside, built as a wooded, higher priced neighborhood, fears the impact of the Euclid Avenue extension.

RESIDENTS' protests have brought courteous meetings and "reasonable" explanations for the routes from the highway officials. Residents fight at best a delaying battle.

As the highways are constructed, the area will be opened to greater population.

Industry officials admit the expressway system is a lure for the sites of their plants.

The highway systems also are supposed to make fast routes to Lake Geneva and Madison, Wis.

Such highway building also may bring apartment development near the high speed highways. Perhaps this trend was foreshadowed when the developer of Plum Grove Countryside requested change in zoning to allow multiple family development instead of residential zoning near the Euclid Avenue extension. A Rolling Meadows apartment project is planned near the Route 53 interchange.

For better or for worse, the express highways are here. (SS

Ground was broken in Palatine last week for a new industrial building designed for multiple occupancy.

Containing approximately 40,000 square feet, the structure is being erected in the Sellstrom Industrial Park south of the North Western tracks and west of Route 53.

THE DEVELOPER, Aberdeen Properties, Inc., says the building will have nine basic units offering space multiples of 2,500 to 5,000 square feet. Flexible construction methods will permit alterations to meet the needs of its tenants. A covered service corridor includes an indoor loading platform with space for three trucks. Lighted parking facilities for 110 cars is another feature.

Present occupants of the Sellstrom Industrial Park include Sellstrom Manufacturing Co., Industrial Molded Products Co., Inc. and Weber Brothers Auto Service, Inc.

Occupancy of the new Daniels Street building is set for Jan. 1, 1965. Those wanting further information should call Aberdeen Properties, Inc. at FLanders 8-2000.

WHAT MAKES OUR HOUSES HOMES???

Really a combination of many things.

We don't build speculation houses. We only build for the people who will live in them and we plan their homes with their family needs and dreams in mind and our many years as experienced builders and designers enable us to help our owners choose so wisely that one dollar seems to do the work of two.

The Colonial model above is still too popular to sell so we are keeping it open through the Fall. It's completely furnished and landscaped and you are welcome any day from 1 to 5 p.m.

This 4-bedroom, 2½ bath, dining room, kitchen, beamed and cherry paneled family room, living room with fireplace, utility and mud-room convenient to the kitchen, plus a full basement and two-car garage with extra storage, sells for $26,800.00 on your lot! We look forward to showing it to you.

We also build contemporary and multi-level homes. We'll show you colored slides on weekends and some exciting plans.

Heat Controls Now Precise, Automatic

Automatic home heating control has come a long way since the days of the "damper flapper."

Developed in the 1870's, the "damper flapper" was an early attempt to control home heating. This primitive device opened and closed the heating plant's damper doors to regulate heat output.

Today, there are precision thermostats combined with area zoning that provides home heating comfort automatically and economically, reports the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council.

AREA ZONING with modern hydronic (hot water) heating is generally recognized by heating engineers as the most practical method of heating when the areas to be zoned are of similar occupancy or have common traffic, says the Council.

The bedrooms, for instance, can be on one zone and thermostatically controlled for one temperature, while the dining room, kitchen and living room area are on a second zone. A basement can be on a third zone.

Zoning saves up to 20 per cent on fuel bills since it allows the home heating boiler to send heat only where it is needed.

Temperatures can be set lower to effect savings in rooms not in use. (SS

Business Bureau Warning

Be Cautious of Survey

"I am making a survey. May I ask you a few questions?" Many housewives have been greeted with this, or a similar approach by telephone or at the door.

The Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan Chicago reports that although there are many legitimate surveys, all too frequently such an approach is but a misleading door opening technique for the purpose of selling a service or product.

It is generally a poor policy to answer a series of questions over the telephone unless you are positive as to the caller's identity. Ask "What is the purpose of your survey? Are you selling anything?" If the answer is not direct, be suspicious.

But the principal problem is that related to persons at the front door. The first question to determine, before you invite a stranger into your living room or answer any questions, is whether the "survey" is legitimate or whether it is a phony. In some instances, the salesman's professed desire to get information from the consumer about her buying habits or preferences is a complete sham. Some salesmen calling on business organizations have also represented to prospective customers they are making such a survey, but solely as a ruse to get past the receptionist to the desk of their prospect.

LEGITIMATE survey people carry proper and positive identification; therefore, ask for such information. What company does he represent and what is the purpose of the survey? If and when you are given such information and you are still not satisfied, ask him to wait while you check. Legitimate surveyors will not object to such a procedure. If the firm is out of town, chances are it will have notified local authorities its representatives planned to be in your neighborhood on such- and-such a date.

If the stranger has departed when you return to the door, the chances are that he was a phony. Another sure sign to spot him is when he assures you at the outset that he is not a salesman, but about half way through his questioning he shifts into a selling pitch. Obviously he has lied about the purpose of his call and has deceived you to gain entrance into your home. If you then wish to do business with him, you do so at your own risk.

Among other such devices used are misuse of the name of a nationally known advertiser as sponsoring the "survey," use of spurious questionnaires and the "rewarding" of a customer for his cooperation by "giving away" some commodity at an alleged, but not real, discount.

TRAINED researchers, employed by organizations engaged in market research and public opinion pools, do not attempt to sell anything and will not make your name available for a future sale. They are only interested in statistics.

In the interest of protecting public good will toward such organizations and the usefulness of research information to business, as well as in protecting both business and the public from deceptive sales methods, it is recommended that what are really sales appeals not be camouflaged as something which they are not.

'Convenience' Key to Shop Center Success

Highways Affect Future Planning

by JIM CARNS
Staff Writer

The parking lot at Randhurst Shopping Center will accommodate 7,500 cars — cars which come from all over the northwest suburbs and further, bringing persons who have determined that this is the most convenient of several shopping alternates.

Convenience has built the shopping center, in all its sizes and varieties, into a symbol of suburbia — and the trend of growth continues.

The self-contained and economically isolated community is as out-of-date as the general store, and the reason is simple: It is often faster to drive 15 miles by expressway than five in town.

THE NORTHWEST suburbs are laced well by a system of state and federal highways, and it is not surprising that the area's only major shopping center is located at the junction of two of the most heavily traveled.

But a system of expressways in the area is still fledgling, and the potential of faster, more concentrated travel routes is already having its effect on planning for large shopping facilities.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has announced the pending development of a retail center near the present intersection of Highway 53 and Golf Road in Schaumburg Township, but the present address tells only part of the story.

Highway 53 at that point is the scheduled route for a federal interstate highway, I-90, due to be completed before 1972. The Sears center is to be completed in 1967.

THE SITE, far away from any present municipal development, is also only a hop off the Northwest Tollway.

Another case, much further removed from the formal planning stage, involves 40 acres of commercially zoned land at the intersection of Dundee and Wilke Roads in Arlington Heights.

The address is not impressive without the added information that Wilke Road at Dundee is the charted route of Highway 53 expressway now under construction, and Dundee Road is to be a major interchange.

Robert J. Flynn, vice president and general manager of the Randhurst Corporation, sees the development of faster transportation channels as a key to location of shopping facilities, though no expressways are contemplated to brush the Randhurst Center.

"The market is defined more by travel time than by distance," he says; "and a faster route would be a help."

BUT THE SHOPPING center trend is not all toward the large facility, designed to serve a number of communities. The vast majority serve a community, or a neighborhood.

Centers such as Green Meadows in Addison, Arlington Market, or the Palatine Plaza derive their business primarily from one village, and thus would depend much less upon an expressway or tollway.

The key here is parking, as it is with smaller facilities which are designed to serve only a neighborhood. George W. Prassas, developer of several centers including the Market Basket in Arlington Heights, terms the transient trade as negligible.

IN THE FACE of the shopping center trend, keyed upon the automobile and convenience of both access and parking, the central business districts of many northwest suburban villages are seriously challenged.

No matter how well laced by transportation arteries, the congested downtown district does not offer either acres of parking or the convenience of a mall.

The shopping center has loomed in the foreground as a site choice for major department stores, and the Sears location in Schaumburg Township follows the pattern.

As the northwest suburbs become more and more populated, and expressways are developed to meet the pressing needs of the mobile citizenry, the only problem to halt development of large centers would appear to be lack of an infinite number of department store chains.

FOR THE SMALLER centers, there is an even brighter future as development in villages spreads further and further from the old business centers.

New communities such as Rolling Meadows and Hoffman Estates, without an aging downtown, have successfully substituted community centers with desirable results in both appearance and practicality.

In fact, the only problem which may bother these far-flung centers with the development of the area is the possibility that the same express channels which bring people may take them away to an Oakbrook or an Old Orchard — putting competition on a far broader scale.

Builders President Gives Pointers to Home Seekers

John A. Stastny, president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, said this week that home buyers should be aware of key factors in selecting a home. He gave answers to five subsequent questions asked of home builders.

Q. When looking for a new house how much should you consider spending?

A. "A common rule of thumb is that a family can afford a house costing 2½ times its annual income. This is only a starting point because there are other factors involved. For example, your age, projected income, size of family and age of its members."

Q. SUPPOSE you want to buy a lot and then have your house built. What do you look for then?

A. "Your builder can be a big help in checking on a lot, but if you can do it yourself first check the 'lay of the land' carefully. Then ask a lawyer to study the deed to your lot before you buy. You should check on any restrictions on use of the land and look into local taxes and assessments. Finally, have a survey made to establish exact boundaries and become familiar with zoning laws of the neighborhood."

Q. What should a wife look for in a new house?

A. "Probably the most important room to a woman is the kitchen. She should check 'the work triangle.' It offers a clue to her working comfort. The steps from the refrigerator to sink or countertop to stove and back to refrigerator make the triangle. The area should be compact and convenient for movement and it should be located outside the main path of traffic."

Q. WHAT ABOUT the layout of the house?

A. "You should inspect the room zoning. By this, I mean the grouping of rooms by their function. Bedrooms and bath are one zone. Kitchen, dinette and laundry are another. Living room, family room, dining room and perhaps den and foyer are the third major zone.

Q. Will I need a lot of tools to maintain my new home?

A. "First let me say that our HBAC builder members encourage you to check your warranty on the new home. We prefer to make any adjustments necessary and this can be done by just calling your builder. A basic home tool kit is a good idea. It should include: a utility wrench, size 16; assorted faucet washers; a pair of standard hand pliers; medium size screwdrivers; claw hammer; keyhole saw; a box of assorted nails and brads; a sturdy penknife; and a roll of friction tape."

Stastny said that to the average person buying a home is the largest single investment of a lifetime. He pointed out that HBAC builders are always willing to answer questions and invited those interested to visit a new home during National Home Week, Sept. 20-27.

Highways Enhance Property Values

The fact that Route 53 connects directly with the Northwest Tollway system has had a desirable effect on the Palatine real estate market.

Many transferees moving into the area are employed in positions which require regular use of the O'Hare Airport and various state and national highways which are close to Palatine. Such proximity plays an important part in maintaining the value of their property.

This factor and the ready resale market in the Palatine area are credited with increasing real estate sales in the area. One realty firm which has experienced an increase in its sales is Kemmerly Real Estate, 728 E. Northwest Hwy. Its sales by June had equaled its 1963 total.

JACK L. KEMMERLY believes a forward thinking village government and progressive school system are other factors that have encouraged many new residents to locate in Palatine.

No matter what their housing needs, a family can be satisfied, he believes, because properties range from the low teens to those over $100,000, all within the Village of Palatine's jurisdiction.

Kemmerly Real Estate is a member of Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, National Association of Real Estate Boards and MAP Multiple Listing Service. Kemmerly is a member of the MAP board of directors.

Another case, much further removed from the formal planning stage, involves 40 acres of commercially zoned land at the intersection of Dundee and Wilke Roads in Arlington Heights.

The address is not impressive without the added information that Wilke Road at Dundee is the charted route of Highway 53 expressway now under construction, and Dundee Road is to be a major interchange.

Robert J. Flynn, vice president and general manager of the Randhurst Corporation, sees the development of faster transportation channels as a key to location of shopping facilities, though no expressways are contemplated to brush the Randhurst Center.

"The market is defined more by travel time than by distance," he says; "and a faster route would be a help."

BUT THE SHOPPING center trend is not all toward the large facility, designed to serve a number of communities. The vast majority serve a community, or a neighborhood.

Centers such as Green Meadows in Addison, Arlington Market, or the Palatine Plaza derive their business primarily from one village, and thus would depend much less upon an expressway or tollway.

The key here is parking, as it is with smaller facilities which are designed to serve only a neighborhood. George W. Prassas, developer of several centers including the Market Basket in Arlington Heights, terms the transient trade as negligible.

IN THE FACE of the shopping center trend, keyed upon the automobile and convenience of both access and parking, the central business districts of many northwest suburban villages are seriously challenged.

No matter how well laced by transportation arteries, the congested downtown district does not offer either acres of parking or the convenience of a mall.

The shopping center has loomed in the foreground as a site choice for major department stores, and the Sears location in Schaumburg Township follows the pattern.

As the northwest suburbs become more and more populated, and expressways are developed to meet the pressing needs of the mobile citizenry, the only problem to halt development of large centers would appear to be lack of an infinite number of department store chains.

FOR THE SMALLER centers, there is an even brighter future as development in villages spreads further and further from the old business centers.

New communities such as Rolling Meadows and Hoffman Estates, without an aging downtown, have successfully substituted community centers with desirable results in both appearance and practicality.

In fact, the only problem which may bother these far-flung centers with the development of the area is the possibility that the same express channels which bring people may take them away to an Oakbrook or an Old Orchard — putting competition on a far broader scale.

Builders President Gives Pointers to Home Seekers

John A. Stastny, president of the Home Builders Association of Chicagoland, said this week that home buyers should be aware of key factors in selecting a home. He gave answers to five subsequent questions asked of home builders.

Q. When looking for a new house how much should you consider spending?

A. "A common rule of thumb is that a family can afford a house costing 2½ times its annual income. This is only a starting point because there are other factors involved. For example, your age, projected income, size of family and age of its members."

Q. SUPPOSE you want to buy a lot and then have your house built. What do you look for then?

A. "Your builder can be a big help in checking on a lot, but if you can do it yourself first check the 'lay of the land' carefully. Then ask a lawyer to study the deed to your lot before you buy. You should check on any restrictions on use of the land and look into local taxes and assessments. Finally, have a survey made to establish exact boundaries and become familiar with zoning laws of the neighborhood."

Q. What should a wife look for in a new house?

A. "Probably the most important room to a woman is the kitchen. She should check 'the work triangle.' It offers a clue to her working comfort. The steps from the refrigerator to sink or countertop to stove and back to refrigerator make the triangle. The area should be compact and convenient for movement and it should be located outside the main path of traffic."

Q. WHAT ABOUT the layout of the house?

A. "You should inspect the room zoning. By this, I mean the grouping of rooms by their function. Bedrooms and bath are one zone. Kitchen, dinette and laundry are another. Living room, family room, dining room and perhaps den and foyer are the third major zone.

Q. Will I need a lot of tools to maintain my new home?

A. "First let me say that our HBAC builder members encourage you to check your warranty on the new home. We prefer to make any adjustments necessary and this can be done by just calling your builder. A basic home tool kit is a good idea. It should include: a utility wrench, size 16; assorted faucet washers; a pair of standard hand pliers; medium size screwdrivers; claw hammer; keyhole saw; a box of assorted nails and brads; a sturdy penknife; and a roll of friction tape."

Stastny said that to the average person buying a home is the largest single investment of a lifetime. He pointed out that HBAC builders are always willing to answer questions and invited those interested to visit a new home during National Home Week, Sept. 20-27.

Highways Enhance Property Values

The fact that Route 53 connects directly with the Northwest Tollway system has had a desirable effect on the Palatine real estate market.

Many transferees moving into the area are employed in positions which require regular use of the O'Hare Airport and various state and national highways which are close to Palatine. Such proximity plays an important part in maintaining the value of their property.

This factor and the ready resale market in the Palatine area are credited with increasing real estate sales in the area. One realty firm which has experienced an increase in its sales is Kemmerly Real Estate, 728 E. Northwest Hwy. Its sales by June had equaled its 1963 total.

JACK L. KEMMERLY believes a forward thinking village government and progressive school system are other factors that have encouraged many new residents to locate in Palatine.

No matter what their housing needs, a family can be satisfied, he believes, because properties range from the low teens to those over $100,000, all within the Village of Palatine's jurisdiction.

Provide Draft-free Comfort for Elderly

Temperature extremes affect the elderly more than the young, so draft-free heating and air conditioning are especially important to this growing segment of our population.

According to L. J. Sylvester, president of the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council, senior citizens and everyone else benefits from healthful year-round climate control in a home.

For scientifically designed draft-free comfort, the Council recommends a separate (direct expansion) cooling system with ceiling-high registers and a separate hydronic (hot water) heating system with floor-level baseboard distributors.

THE SEPARATE hydronic heating system and separate cooling system have several advantages. The heat delivered at low level and rising gradually creates human comfort economically. The cooling, delivered at high level and gradually falling, provides the best distribution of summer comfort in the house.

Thus, the ideal in climate conditioning for both summer and winter is achieved, and the cost of the two separate systems is only slightly higher than makeshift systems, notes the Council.

Break-In Help for New Home

You can minimize many of the problems of "breaking in" a new house if you install a furnace humidifier at the start.

"Dry air is often responsible for warped doors, windows that stick, moldings that pull away, and cracked walls in new homes," advise engineers of Hamilton Humid-Aire, Chicago.

These things happen because the materials used in new houses lose much of their moisture. The loss is especially rapid when the heat is turned on.

TO AVOID this, your new house should be equipped with a furnace humidifier that will keep the indoor relative humidity between 35 and 45 per cent.

In many houses, new and old, the indoor air in winter can have as little as 8 to 12 per cent relative humidity. That's dryer than the air in Death Valley, which has 25 per cent relative humidity.

Air this dry acts like a sponge. It pulls moisture from wood, plaster, drywall, paint, wallpaper—anything it touches.

Result? You complain to your builder and wait for the service man to arrive.

"With a proper humidifier, you're less apt to have this trouble, which means fewer service calls for you and the builder to worry about," say the Humid-Aire people.

THE BEST KIND of humidifier has rotating bronze discs in a stainless steel water reservoir. As the discs turn, they pick up water and hold it for evaporation in the warm air stream from the furnace.

With this type of humidifier, maintenance and hard water problems are reduced to a minimum. (SS

Dry Flowers for Winter Decoration

How about preserving some of your garden flowers for arrangements when the wind howls and the snow flies? It's time to begin if you want the pleasure of working with flowers and other plant materials.

Pick flowers you plan to dry just before they reach the peak of their bloom. Keep in mind that all plant materials shrink during drying so you should gather twice as much as you think you'll need.

Besides drying flowers from the garden, you can dry seed pods, berries, vegetables and gourds. You can't preserve all flowers and materials the same way. You can use borax, sand or silica gel for roses, but you hang cockscomb to dry.

DETAILS FOR preserving flowers and other plant materials are given in the Flower Arrangement correspondence course from The Pennsylvania State University.

Illustrations show how to develop well-proportioned arrangements with emphasis on color harmonies and shapes of containers. The same principles of arrangement for fresh flowers apply to dried flowers.

To get the Flower Arrangement course, send $1.75 to Correspondence Courses, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Make your check or money order payable to The Pennsylvania State University. The complete course will be sent by return mail, and all mailing costs are prepaid.

Dry Flowers for Winter Decoration

How about preserving some of your garden flowers for arrangements when the wind howls and the snow flies? It's time to begin if you want the pleasure of working with flowers and other plant materials.

Pick flowers you plan to dry just before they reach the peak of their bloom. Keep in mind that all plant materials shrink during drying so you should gather twice as much as you think you'll need.

Besides drying flowers from the garden, you can dry seed pods, berries, vegetables and gourds. You can't preserve all flowers and materials the same way. You can use borax, sand or silica gel for roses, but you hang cockscomb to dry.

DETAILS FOR preserving flowers and other plant materials are given in the Flower Arrangement correspondence course from The Pennsylvania State University.

Illustrations show how to develop well-proportioned arrangements with emphasis on color harmonies and shapes of containers. The same principles of arrangement for fresh flowers apply to dried flowers.

To get the Flower Arrangement course, send $1.75 to Correspondence Courses, Box 5000, University Park, Pa. 16802. Make your check or money order payable to The Pennsylvania State University. The complete course will be sent by return mail, and all mailing costs are prepaid.

HINTS TO HOMEOWNERS

by Richard H. DeLano, Associate Farm Advisor

ALERT HOMEOWNERS DIAL DAILY 392-3060

If fall is here, can winter be far behind? How long will it be before killing frosts and the gardening year? According to a University of Illinois publication, "Freeze Probabilities in Illinois," we still have some gardening time.

Records show that the first light frost (32 degrees) in areas near the lake will occur about Oct. 20. For the eastern half of the Cook County, the first light fronst usually occurs about Oct. 15. The western portion of the county, with the exception of the northern pan handle, often experiences its first touch of frost about Oct. 10. The northern pan handle of Cook County and the western half of DuPage County may expect their first frost about Oct. 5.

However, even after a light 32-degree frost, many flowers such as chrysanthemums, geraniums, petunias...even roses, will continue to bloom. The final curtain of the gardening season is really rung down by the first night of 28-degree frost.

This 28-degree killing frost occurs near the lake about Oct. 30, the eastern half of the county about Oct. 25, and in all of DuPage County and the northern pan handle of Cook County about Oct. 20.

For 'frost prediction dates in other areas of the state, obtain the publication, "Freeze Probabilities in Illinois" by sending a card to me at P.O. Box 414, Arlington Heights, Ill., Zip code 60006.

With the first killing frost so far in the future, you can see that it's still worthwhile to continue maintaining your insect and disease control measures.

Zinnias, for example, should be protected from mildew by a weekly spray of Phaltan (also called folpet) or Karathane. Roses should also be given attention during this season. If unprotected, black spot and powdery mildew will defoliate and weaken the plants at the time they should be in their second peak of bloom.

Fungicide sprays or dusts containing Captan, Ferbam, or Maneb will control black spot. Phaltan is a fungicide that will do double duty. It controls both black spot and powdered mildew. Karathane or Actidione PM also controls powdery mildew.

Certainly it's a temptation to let the garden decline for the rest of the season. However, if disease control measures are continued up to the final 28-degree or killing frost, several extra weeks of garden pleasure will result.

For up to the minute tips on fall garden care, phone "Home Owner Hints." •Recorded messages based on current conditions are changed each week day at noon. In North Cook County dial 392-3060. 15BB

No More Apartment Heat Woes

The old picture of the apartment dweller knocking on the pipes for the janitor to send up more heat rapidly is becoming a thing of the past.

In the new apartment buildings springing up all over the country today, tenants control their own comfort conditions.

Many new and remodeled buildings, in fact, provide a complete, ducted heating and air conditioning system for each apartment, points out American Furnace Co. of St. Louis, pioneer developer of such systems.

The tenant has his own thermostat, and it's strictly up to him as to how warm or cool he keeps his apartment. This means the size of his fuel bill also is up to him.

With this type of system, the apartment resident has central air conditioning, instead of several room units. He also has the important advantage of automatic air filtering. And he can add humidification.

NEW COMBINATION heating and air conditioning systems introduced by the St. Louis furnace firm for apartments and other multi-unit buildings consist of two space-saving cabinets, both of which are installed out of sight.

The heating unit, a slim, compact furnace with a built-in cooling coil, requires less than four square feet of floor space and can be installed in a closet or alcove.

The air conditioning unit can be installed through an exterior wall. Only 15 inches deep, it extends into a closet, utility room, stairwell or basement for convenient inside servicing.

Silent Bell?

When a doorbell fails to work, first thing to check is the push-button contacts, which may be oxidized. Pull out the button by loosening the retaining screws, if any, and examine the spring-type contacts inside. A piece of sandpaper can be used to brighten the metal of the two parts, where they touch. In nearly all cases, this will correct the trouble. Then replace the button as before. (SS Pull out the button by loosening the retaining screws, if any, and examine the spring-type contacts inside. A piece of sandpaper can be used to brighten the metal of the two parts, where they touch. In nearly all cases, this will correct the trouble. Then replace the button as before. (SS

Panel to Discuss Open Occupancy Laws

"Open Occupancy Legislation" with a star panel participating will be the theme for the bimonthly Northwest Human Relations Council meeting Tuesday, Sept. 22, at Prospect Heights Community Church.

Discussion will center on effectiveness of open occupancy laws in other states and possibility of such legislation in Illinois.

Expressways Lead Industry to Suburbs

New Highways Key to Growth

by BOB SETLIK
Staff Writer

Industry was late coming to the northwest suburbs. One problem was the reluctance of homeowners to bring something into their communities usually associated with the smoke, odor, and blight of the city's manufacturing districts.

When tax bills began to rise, residents lost some of their adversion to industry. Villages developed sufficient controls to eliminate undesirable manufacturing operations.

City officials began to avidly pursue industry.

BUT THIS wasn't enough. Industry could not afford to leave Chicago despite the enticements offered by the suburbs — expansion room, blight-free locations—unless it had an adequate transportation network into the central city.

Thus the beginning of substantial industrial development in the suburbs can be dated from the construction of the tollway and expressway system into the city.

The northwest suburbs largest industrial area, and possibly largest single industrial area in the state, is Elk Grove's Centex Industrial Park.

The park covers 1700 acres, employs 5,000 people, and has over 100 industries operating within its boundaries.

Marshall Bennett, of Bennett and Kahnweiler, exclusive real estate agents for the park, recalled that the Northwest Tollway was under construction when the site was decided upon. He has received assurance that an exchange would be located at Elmhurst Road, 800 feet from the park entrance.

"THE TOTAL expressway system is the main justification for our development of the park," he said. "It's our lifeline into the city."

Bennett said the proximity to the tollroad and nearness of O'Hare International Airport were the principal reasons for choosing the site at Elmhurst and Higgins Roads.

Development at the park began in 1958.

"Overnight when the tollroad opened the travel time from Elk Grove to the city went from one hour 45 minutes to 19 minutes," he said.

BEING NEAR an expressway system aids the employers and the employes, according to Bennett.

The employer with products to distribute saves time because of the expressway system and also has access to a larger labor force.

Much of Centex Industrial Park's labor force comes from Chicago, particularly the city's northwest side.

Bennett said the expressway system has changed the attitudes of many Chicago residents who would have been reluctant to travel to the suburbs to work.

"These people don't want to drive an hour and a half to work," he said, "now it only takes 15 minutes."

BENNETT'S observations are seconded by Robert Bowden, president of the Sencore Co. in Addison Industrial Park and a member of that park's industrial association.

He said the development of an expressway system has changed the attitude of many businessman toward the suburbs.

His firm manufactures electronic instruments, and has constant dealings with export agents and other people in the central city.

Bowden recalls talking to advertising and export agencies who are considering moving to the suburbs.

"At one time these people thought they had to be downtown," said Bowden, "many are moving out because they can now supply their customers in time from the suburbs."

HE SAID at one time his firm would not have considered an account with an advertising firm located outside the city. Now they have one with a firm located in Bensenville.

Bowden said because of the expressway system firms in the park now see job applications often from Chicago residents. It allows the companies a greater reservoir of talent from which to choose.

Spokesman for suburban companies told the same story.

The Orenda Co. in Palatine, an assembler and tester of turbo-rating machinery, chose its site over one in Wheeling because of the proximity of the Route 53 expressway.

It also considered more expensive sites nearer Chicago, but then reasoned that the expressway system made the difference in distance negligible.

Orenda came to Palatine late in 1963.

BERNARD LATUSEK, chairman of the board for Penray Co. in Elk Grove's Centex Industrial Park, said traveling time is much less to most locations since his firm moved from Chicago two years ago.

It was located then at Ashland and Lake Streets.

He said a delivery trip to Cicero now takes 22 minutes; then it took 45 minutes. The time needed to reach downtown Chicago has been greatly reduced, he said.

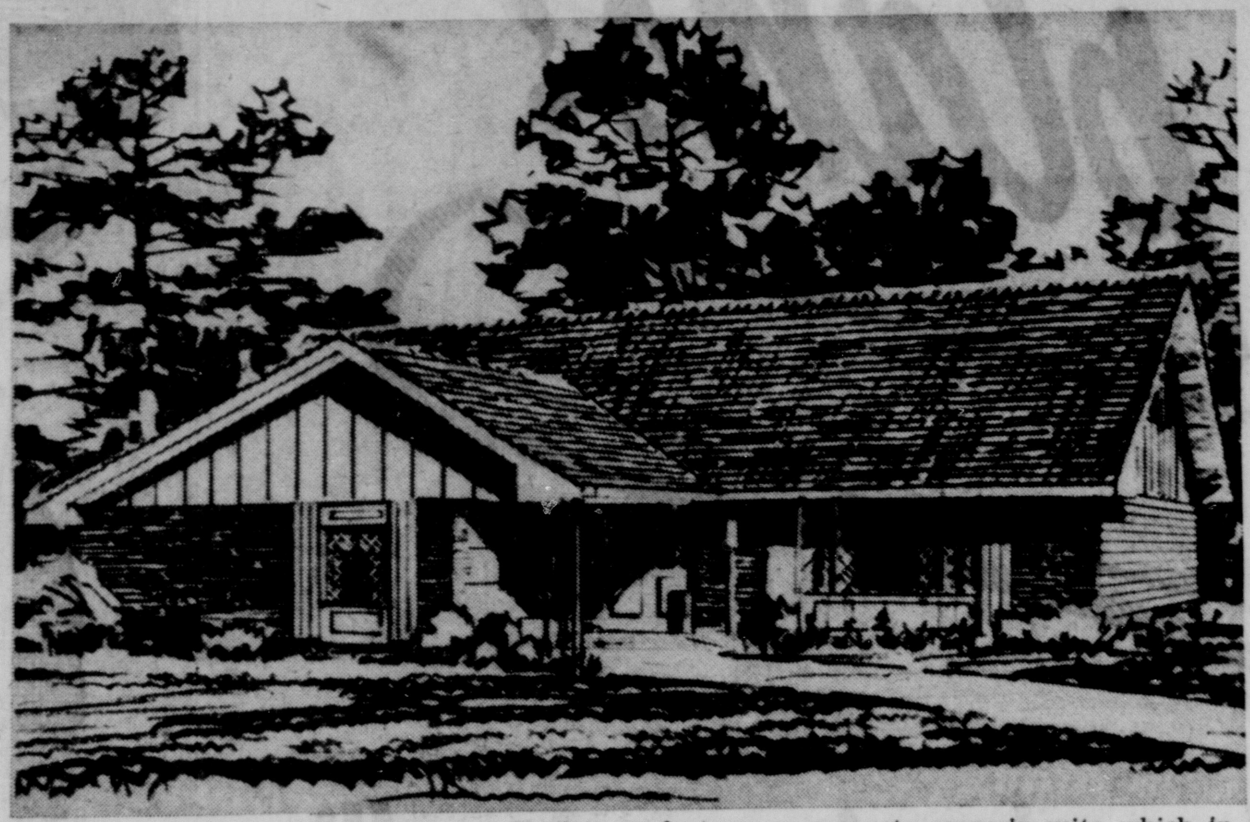
The savings in traveling time was one of the motivating reasons for the company's decision to move, he said. It manufactures automotive chemicals.

Vern Whitnell, community relations coordinator for Pure Oil, said convenient access to the expressway system was a "very important" factor in the firm's decision to move to Schaumburg Township three years ago.

IT IS LOCATED near the Rohlwing Road exchange with the Northwest Tollway, the only exchange in the area with exits and entrances in both directions.

The company's clerical and maangerial force works out of the building.

"It allows our work force to be mobile," he said, "we can easily reach banks and post offices. The expressway eliminates communications problems."



DISTINCTIVELY STYLED "Bonus One" is among the 1964 models now showing in Plum Grove Countryside, located on Route 53, two miles south of Palatine. The Cape Cod home features a separate owner's suite which includes master bedroom, private bath, huge closet and dressing room with extra-wide vanity. (SS

Home Buyers Value Customer Service

The added services offered to the buyer of a new home — or the lack of them — are frequently as important to the purchaser as the home itself.

Albert Riley, builder of Plum Grove Countryside on Route 53, two miles south of Palatine, is especially attentive to the "etxras" he can provide individual buyers in trade-in, financing and follow-up service.

He notes: "After all, buying a home is a major event for any family. And every customer is important to us. That's why we cooperate in every way possible — and then some!--to satisfy buyers in Plum Grove Countryside."

Among the additional services offered home buyers, [illegible] emphasize his firm's "Equity Transfer" trade-in plan, off-site building and one-year warranted construction responsibility.

As a practical assurance to buyers of his responsibility, the builder warrants every new home sold against defects of materials or workmanship. This warranty is in effect for a full year after possession.

RILEY'S "Equity Transfer" plan for present home owners provides a practical, detailed method for handling the sale of the old home by the builder's sales organization, timed to the construction of the new home. Off-site building of an Plum Grove Countryside model is offered, and the builder will obtain a suitable site in the general area desired if the buyer wishes.

Among Plum Grove Countryside models, the "Bonus One" --a story-and-a-half Cape Cod home -- has been typically attractive to buyers using the builder's special customer services, including off-site construction in other communities.

A high-gabled roof and distinctive colonial exterior markeye-catching design. Inside, a wide stairway leads from the foyer to the upper floor. The large living room opens immediately to the right, past a decorative planter. The formal dining room features a view window which nearly fills one wall.

The well-plannel kitchen has matching cabinets and built-in appliances in a convenient U-shape. There is a large pass-through into the family room. A table-high, open-hearth early American fireplace for charcoal broiling is a popular option for year-round use in the kitchen. Centrally located toward the rear of the house, the family room is open to the kitchen, has its own rear garden entrance and a big closet.

A SPECIAL layout feature in this model is the owner's suite, occupying almost an entire wing of the house. It includes a room with extra-wide vanity, full bath, two clothes closets and its own utility closet.

On the second floor are the main bathroom, five closets and two bedrooms. These are ideal for children's rooms or guest rooms. Many other options are offered, including single or two-car garage.

The "Bonus One" and four other fully-furnished models are open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily in Plum Grove Countryside, located on Route 53 two miles south of Palatine (SS

Floral Note For Chairs

Upholstery materials for kitchen dining chairs are offered in a wider range of colors and textures than ever before, with particular emphasis on new flamboyant floral patterns.

"Most women like the softness of pattern somewhere in their kitchen," observes Henry O. Radloff, a furniture company sales manager. "Since wallpaper presents maintenance problems, patterned chair covers are considered an ideal solution."

Patching Walks

When patching a sidewalk or driveway, widen the crack as much as possible with a cold chisel. Undercut the crack in the form of an inverted "V" and expand the space underneath to give the new cement a better grip. To match the cement to the old color so the patch won't be too obvious, add a little lampblack to the mortar. (SS

Albert Riley, builder of Plum Grove Countryside on Route 53, two miles south of Palatine, is especially attentive to the "etxras" he can provide individual buyers in trade-in, financing and follow-up service.

He notes: "After all, buying a home is a major event for any family. And every customer is important to us. That's why we cooperate in every way possible — and then some!--to satisfy buyers in Plum Grove Countryside."

Among the additional services offered home buyers, [illegible] emphasize his firm's "Equity Transfer" trade-in plan, off-site building and one-year warranted construction responsibility.

As a practical assurance to buyers of his responsibility, the builder warrants every new home sold against defects of materials or workmanship. This warranty is in effect for a full year after possession.

RILEY'S "Equity Transfer" plan for present home owners provides a practical, detailed method for handling the sale of the old home by the builder's sales organization, timed to the construction of the new home. Off-site building of an Plum Grove Countryside model is offered, and the builder will obtain a suitable site in the general area desired if the buyer wishes.

Among Plum Grove Countryside models, the "Bonus One" --a story-and-a-half Cape Cod home -- has been typically attractive to buyers using the builder's special customer services, including off-site construction in other communities.

A high-gabled roof and distinctive colonial exterior markeye-catching design. Inside, a wide stairway leads from the foyer to the upper floor. The large living room opens immediately to the right, past a decorative planter. The formal dining room features a view window which nearly fills one wall.

The well-plannel kitchen has matching cabinets and built-in appliances in a convenient U-shape. There is a large pass-through into the family room. A table-high, open-hearth early American fireplace for charcoal broiling is a popular option for year-round use in the kitchen. Centrally located toward the rear of the house, the family room is open to the kitchen, has its own rear garden entrance and a big closet.

A SPECIAL layout feature in this model is the owner's suite, occupying almost an entire wing of the house. It includes a room with extra-wide vanity, full bath, two clothes closets and its own utility closet.

On the second floor are the main bathroom, five closets and two bedrooms. These are ideal for children's rooms or guest rooms. Many other options are offered, including single or two-car garage.

The "Bonus One" and four other fully-furnished models are open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily in Plum Grove Countryside, located on Route 53 two miles south of Palatine (SS

Floral Note For Chairs

Upholstery materials for kitchen dining chairs are offered in a wider range of colors and textures than ever before, with particular emphasis on new flamboyant floral patterns.

"Most women like the softness of pattern somewhere in their kitchen," observes Henry O. Radloff, a furniture company sales manager. "Since wallpaper presents maintenance problems, patterned chair covers are considered an ideal solution."

Patching Walks

When patching a sidewalk or driveway, widen the crack as much as possible with a cold chisel. Undercut the crack in the form of an inverted "V" and expand the space underneath to give the new cement a better grip. To match the cement to the old color so the patch won't be too obvious, add a little lampblack to the mortar. (SS

The Way We See It

Sign Ordinances Must Be Enforced

More often than not in recent months, some furor involving signs has been in the news of northwest suburban communities.

Elk Grove Village had quite a hassle over an illegal sign that suddenly appeared at its shopping center.

In Mount Prospect, questions have been asked about the approval of an oversize sign by the newly appointed building commissioner.

Rolling Meadows officials have been weighing the request by a supermarket for a major exception to that municipality's sign code.

These are just some of the cases. Several others could be cited. Each case has its own particular circumstances, of course, but certain arguments are apt to be repeated in an effort to sway village officials from strict adherence to the sign laws.

One argument is that large signs are necessary to attract business.

A corollary to this argument is that the village will benefit by increased sales tax revenues resulting from the additional business attracted by large signs.

In some of the older villages, large signs are suggested as a means of restoring vitality to the central business district, where that is a problem.

And, of course, there is the inevitable argument that "so-and-so down the pike has a big sign so I need one to compete."

Although it may be true that a particular merchant might reap short-term benefits from a huge sign, we believe that any significant relaxation would be harmful to the villages as a whole and to their business communities.

The sign ordinances are an important part of over-all zoning regulations recommended by professional planners and adopted after careful consideration.

They are part of the reaction against the excesses of pre-zoning days when blatant, unregulated signs made a jungle out of highways and business streets.

The post-war shopping centers, which have been so spectacularly successful, have recognized the public's revolt against ugliness by ruling out garish, oversize signs in favor of attractive architectural lines, landscaping and shade trees.

It hardly seems likely that any shopping area, downtown or elsewhere, will strengthen itself by turning the clock back and adopting the standards of the past.

More likely, the result would be to scare two persons away for each one that is drawn to a store by some gigantic sign.

If exceptions are made for a few, the requests will begin to snowball and it will be difficult to refuse any of them.

Let's stick to our sign ordinances and safeguard the attractiveness of our business areas.

Opportunity for Suburbs

The village presidents and mayors of all Chicago-area suburbs have been invited to an important meeting tonight (Sept. 17) at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. At this meeting, they will hear an explanation of what has been called "a new era" in government highway financing.

What is new is the provision of the 1962 Federal-Aid Highway Act which restricts grants to highway projects that are produced by cooperative, comprehensive planning on the part of states, cities and villages.

The new law becomes effective next July 1.

Virden E. Staff, Illinois chief highway engineer, has pointed out to all the invited mayors and village presidents: "While the cooperation called for must be evidenced by a written agreement between the State Highway Department and the local communities of the urbanized area, a written agreement, of itself, is not sufficient.

"Rather, it must have as its foundation a continuing plan based on an up-to-date analysis of land use, population, transportation facilities, economy of the region and other factors which govern and affect transportation requirements."

Among the benefits that can be expected to result from the new system, two come to our mind quickly, because they concern topics on which we have editorialized more than once.

One benefit is that municipalities are going to be adequately informed on highway plans and, in fact, will have a voice in the planning. In the recent past we have seen how municipalities were uninformed on vital plans for the Palatine junior expressway and the Route 53 expressway.

The second benefit is that the state will be drawn into a joint planning effort with the municipalities of the metropolitan area, instead of standing aloof. Greater state imvolvement in metropolitan area planning is long overdue.

Perhaps the experience of joint planning on highways will lead state officials to greater participation in metropolitan area planning in other fields, such as water resources, recreation, education, air pollution — to name a few.

It is important that suburban officials take full advantage of the new opportunity that is opening up for them.

Premature Proposal

We commend the Arlington Heights Women's Club for its recent attention to the recreational needs of Wheeling Township's older people, but we believe a donation of up to $10,000 of township funds to the "Over 50 Club" would be premature.

This is the action that is proposed for approval at a special town meeting Tuesday.

The "Over 50 Club," or any other proposed recipient of township funds, should first give the public the results of its study of the problem and a plan of action to meet it.

Township electors should postpone action on the proposed donation and ask that an advisory group be appointed by township auditors to examine the needs of senior citizens and available community resources to meet them, and make a full report with recommendations at the annual town meeting next April. The "Over 50 Club" could play an important part in this study.

Teenagers 'Speak Up!'

School Is Necessary

BY DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer

("Speak Up!" is a new feature of Paddock Publications Page of Opinion. Each week a staff editor samples the viewpoints of representative citizens on some topic of local or national interest. This week's inquiring reporter, Dan Pribilski, questioned suburban teenagers on the value of education.)

There's one thing most responsible teen-agers agree upon: school is necessary, and the more education a person gets today, the better off he will be.

PRIBILSKI

Last week 24 high school students, mostly juniors and seniors, from Park, Forest View and Arlington High Schools, were asked a variety of questions ranging from their likes and dislikes of school to the school dropout problem.

Most said they liked school and were happy to have started school this month.

THOSE WHO didn't like school said they realize, however, that education is their key to future success. As one Arlington Heights student said, "Studies show that the more education you have, the more money you will earn."

Although it was agreed school is important, some said they are still floundering as to what they want to do or be.

Most of the students said that they will go on to college.

Linda Arnold, 17, of Forest View High School, said she intends to major in physical education in college.

SHE SAID, "When you're through with high school, you are faced with either going to college, getting a job or getting married.

"We're really not mature enough yet. College can help us mature," she added.

For Linda and others who commented on college, they indicated that college, besides preparing a youth for a profession, is a bridge to adulthood. It helps a youth "cut the apron strings."

ONE PROBLEM, however, as Forest View students said, "You can go through college without really working." Therefore, college does not guarantee a road to an easy life afterward.

All 24 students said that their teachers are good. Except for a few isolated instances, the teachers are considered to be the best available.

"Sometimes teachers are too good," Ron Blecke, 17, of Arlington High School said.

Problem students apparently are a problem for good students.

STUDENTS who cause trouble disrupt classes and the rest of the students often go along with them, the students reported.

Many comments were made on the dropout problem.

Todd Toepper, 17, of Lake Park High School, doesn't believe his school makes much of an effort to keep potential dropouts in school. His fellow students at Lake Park agreed.

A different opinion exists at Forest View High School.

Students at Forest View believe that the administration bends over backwards to help troublesome or slow students stay in school.

HOWEVER, the Forest View students take a harsh attitude toward the potential dropout.

They agree that the troublesome ones should be kicked out of school.

"They only take up room and hurt the morale of the other students," one Forest View girl said. "They're not learning anything so why force them to remain in school?"

Greg Bluhm, 17, of Arlington High School, thinks that the selective service law should be changed so that dropouts are immediately drafted into the Army.

ED HELLER, 16, of Arlington Heights, commented on a friend who was a dropout.

"Sometimes kids who drop out feel strange in school," Ed said. "Maybe they're older, 18 or 19, and only juniors. Life is rushing by." This was the case of his friend. The friend quit school, joined the Army, and is now finishing high school in the Army.

The general opinion of most pupils was that dropouts "are stupid for leaving school."

Gay Leep, 17, of Lake Park, said, "They're foolish to drop out. I don't see why any would want to do it."

Interviews Slated

As part of its special 1964 Election Year news coverage, Paddock Publications newspapers will again hold exclusive interviews with candidates for top state, county, and congressional offices.

Since 1959, the newspapers have invited leading candidates to participate in special press conferences with Paddock editors to discuss issues and events of particular concern to citizens in northwest suburbs.

BEGINNNING next week, Paddock Publications will publish special reports based on interview sessions with the following candidates in the Nov. 3 election:

Democrat incumbent Otto Kerner and Republican Charles Percy for governor; Democrat incumbent William G. Clark and Republican Elroy Sandquist for attorney general; Republican incumbent Donald Rumsfeld and Democrat Lynn Williams for Congress, 13th District; Republican John Erlenborn and Democrat Jerome Zeigler for Congress, 14th District; Democrat incumbent Daniel Ward and Republican John Bickley for Cook County state's attorney; Republican incumbent W. Russell Arrington and Democrat David Baylor for state senator, 4th District.

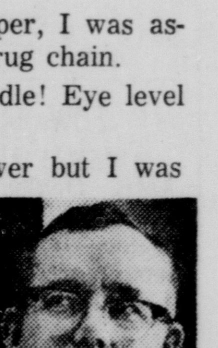
New Sales Pitch Coming?

by BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

The week before last, while reading our paper, I was astonished at one of the items in the ad of a big drug chain.

"Delta flash camera," it said. "Easy to handle! Eye level viewer. Film, bulbs, batt., 7 pc. kit . . . $3.66."

Perhaps I have been living in an ivory tower but I was amazed that a camera kit could be sold for only $3.66.



CUMMINS

I think the people in the ad agency read my mind. I think they said, "So Cummins was astonished by our Delta camera? So, let's really curl his hair!"

Thus, as I was checking the ad in last week's paper, I came across this message: "Look! Diana $1.97 snapshot camera. Eye level viewfinder. Strap. $1."

I tried to figure out how a camera could be made and sold for $1, but I couldn't come up with the answer. However, my train of thought led me to an old suspicion. My suspicion is that before long everything will be sold on credit and everybody's profit will be in the form of interest on installment loans. We have already gone a long ways in that direction.

Perhaps not far enough to startle anyone yet. That will come when the competition for installment accounts grows a little keener, and stores start paying us to buy.

I can picture some of the ads.

"1963 Tangerine 8. Sharp. Clean. Good rubber. Driven to grocery store on Saturday mornings by school teacher. Algebra test papers still in glove compartment. We pay you $100 to buy it!!!"

Or perhaps something like this:

"1962 Fosfate sports coupe. Classic car. Stick. Full power. First comer with rusty trade-in gets $100 bill. With good trade-in, $10."

Naturally, some people are going to have a hard time adjusting to this system.

It's going to be tough on the salesmen to begin with. Some of them will need a period to get used to the new way of selling. Until they do, they can expect an occasional tongue-lashing from the sales manager:

"Well, how do you explain yourself, Cottingham? You were on the floor for six hours and only gave away $500. And you call yourself a salesman?!?"

It will be hard to grasp the meaning of some conversations until we get used to the new sales techniques.

WIFE: Wow, here's a 7-piece dining room set advertised and it only costs the store $250!!

HUSBAND: Don't be silly, dear! You know we can't afford to accept more than $50. We took the stores for almost $400 last month and that's living way over our heads!"

There will be one nice thing about it. When you've had a rough week and you get to Saturday without the price of a movie and a couple of beers afterwards, you will always have something to fall back on. Just go out and buy a new lawn mower.

What Value In College?

by BOB SETLIK
Staff Writer

College should have ended for me after the first year. My curiosity and interest were at their height then.

Since that first year, college has been a constricting experience. I return unwillingly this fall for my fourth year, choosing it over the draft.

The only year of value was that first one. My mind did open. From the people I met, more than anything else, I developed a sense of awareness which hadn't been there before.

And awareness is all a person like me should expect from his university years. I do not plan to become a specialist; my interst is merely to be interested and develop the flexibility to find a way out of whatever corners I may back into later.

Yet after that first year, I have been engaged in a constant battle not to develop a distaste for the things I enjoy.

MY MAJOR is English. It should be difficult to make that subject distasteful; good writing is too easy to enjoy.

After taking 10 English courses at two major midwestern universities, I have seen this accomplished. English did become boring. They commit crimes on college campuses in the name of intellectual discipline.

I think college professors invented that term to justify having spent the better part of their lives collecting information for their tedious lectures and obscure books.

PRESERVATION OF your sense of wonder is more important than what passes for intellectual discipline. College courses rarely are geared toward the imaginative student. The drones do best.

SETLIK

But most of the students will never write doctor's dissertations or publish obscure analyses of unimportant works. To these the main value of a liberal arts education should be to keep them in a perpetual state of awareness.

The tedium and tension, the pompousness, and the depressing seriousness of a college campus argue against retaining your sensitivity. Those students on a college campus who are serious about their existence there are under unnatural strains.

I doubt if these students enjoy what they are doing. Yet they want to learn. They are eager and curious. I don't believe these students dislike studying per se; they dislike studying when it has no purpose. But most colleges have never developed a better justification for studying than to earn a grade. That is an insult to an intelligent student.

IT WASN'T UNTIL last semester, while attending the University of Illinois, that I had a professor who was undermining the system. He gave two tests during the semester. Both were easy, and I don't recall anyone earning less than a "B." He assigned two papers. If a person turned in a reasonably intelligent effort, he received an "A." Obviously, everyone would receive a good grade.

He did not compromise on the subject matter, however. The grade assumed secondary importance, and for the first time I enjoyed a course. I think I learned more from his course than from the other ten combined. He believed we wanted to learn. We were not pressured.

That is not the way things usually are done. I wonder how many students react against their force feeding in college by throwing up all that undigested knowledge once they graduate.

Don Vickery, staff photographer for Paddock Publications suburban newspapers, won an honorable mention award in the monthly photo clip contest sponsored by region 5 of the National Press Photographers Association.

The award was for a feature picture of a young boy in a swimming pool. Other winners in the June competition were Charles Vallone of the Racine, Wis., Journal Times; George Bertonz of the Southtown Economist, Chicago; Roland Finner and Ernest Anheuser of the Milwaukee Journal; and Dale Stierman of the Dubuque, Ia., Telegraph-Herald.

The NPPA's region 5 covers the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Illinois.

Yet after that first year, I have been engaged in a constant battle not to develop a distaste for the things I enjoy.

MY MAJOR is English. It should be difficult to make that subject distasteful; good writing is too easy to enjoy.

After taking 10 English courses at two major midwestern universities, I have seen this accomplished. English did become boring. They commit crimes on college campuses in the name of intellectual discipline.

I think college professors invented that term to justify having spent the better part of their lives collecting information for their tedious lectures and obscure books.

PRESERVATION OF your sense of wonder is more important than what passes for intellectual discipline. College courses rarely are geared toward the imaginative student. The drones do best.

SETLIK

But most of the students will never write doctor's dissertations or publish obscure analyses of unimportant works. To these the main value of a liberal arts education should be to keep them in a perpetual state of awareness.

The tedium and tension, the pompousness, and the depressing seriousness of a college campus argue against retaining your sensitivity. Those students on a college campus who are serious about their existence there are under unnatural strains.

I doubt if these students enjoy what they are doing. Yet they want to learn. They are eager and curious. I don't believe these students dislike studying per se; they dislike studying when it has no purpose. But most colleges have never developed a better justification for studying than to earn a grade. That is an insult to an intelligent student.

IT WASN'T UNTIL last semester, while attending the University of Illinois, that I had a professor who was undermining the system. He gave two tests during the semester. Both were easy, and I don't recall anyone earning less than a "B." He assigned two papers. If a person turned in a reasonably intelligent effort, he received an "A." Obviously, everyone would receive a good grade.

He did not compromise on the subject matter, however. The grade assumed secondary importance, and for the first time I enjoyed a course. I think I learned more from his course than from the other ten combined. He believed we wanted to learn. We were not pressured.

That is not the way things usually are done. I wonder how many students react against their force feeding in college by throwing up all that undigested knowledge once they graduate.

Teenagers 'Speak Up!'

School Is Necessary

BY DAN PRIBILSKI
Staff Writer

("Speak Up!" is a new feature of Paddock Publications Page of Opinion. Each week a staff editor samples the viewpoints of representative citizens on some topic of local or national interest. This week's inquiring reporter, Dan Pribilski, questioned suburban teenagers on the value of education.)

There's one thing most responsible teen-agers agree upon: school is necessary, and the more education a person gets today, the better off he will be.

PRIBILSKI

Last week 24 high school students, mostly juniors and seniors, from Park, Forest View and Arlington High Schools, were asked a variety of questions ranging from their likes and dislikes of school to the school dropout problem.

Most said they liked school and were happy to have started school this month.

THOSE WHO didn't like school said they realize, however, that education is their key to future success. As one Arlington Heights student said, "Studies show that the more education you have, the more money you will earn."

Although it was agreed school is important, some said they are still floundering as to what they want to do or be.

Most of the students said that they will go on to college.

Linda Arnold, 17, of Forest View High School, said she intends to major in physical education in college.

SHE SAID, "When you're through with high school, you are faced with either going to college, getting a job or getting married.

"We're really not mature enough yet. College can help us mature," she added.

For Linda and others who commented on college, they indicated that college, besides preparing a youth for a profession, is a bridge to adulthood. It helps a youth "cut the apron strings."

ONE PROBLEM, however, as Forest View students said, "You can go through college without really working." Therefore, college does not guarantee a road to an easy life afterward.

All 24 students said that their teachers are good. Except for a few isolated instances, the teachers are considered to be the best available.

"Sometimes teachers are too good," Ron Blecke, 17, of Arlington High School said.

Problem students apparently are a problem for good students.

STUDENTS who cause trouble disrupt classes and the rest of the students often go along with them, the students reported.

Many comments were made on the dropout problem.

Todd Toepper, 17, of Lake Park High School, doesn't believe his school makes much of an effort to keep potential dropouts in school. His fellow students at Lake Park agreed.

A different opinion exists at Forest View High School.

Students at Forest View believe that the administration bends over backwards to help troublesome or slow students stay in school.

HOWEVER, the Forest View students take a harsh attitude toward the potential dropout.

They agree that the troublesome ones should be kicked out of school.

"They only take up room and hurt the morale of the other students," one Forest View girl said. "They're not learning anything so why force them to remain in school?"

Greg Bluhm, 17, of Arlington High School, thinks that the selective service law should be changed so that dropouts are immediately drafted into the Army.

ED HELLER, 16, of Arlington Heights, commented on a friend who was a dropout.

"Sometimes kids who drop out feel strange in school," Ed said. "Maybe they're older, 18 or 19, and only juniors. Life is rushing by." This was the case of his friend. The friend quit school, joined the Army, and is now finishing high school in the Army.

The general opinion of most pupils was that dropouts "are stupid for leaving school."

Gay Leep, 17, of Lake Park, said, "They're foolish to drop out. I don't see why any would want to do it."

Interviews Slated

As part of its special 1964 Election Year news coverage, Paddock Publications newspapers will again hold exclusive interviews with candidates for top state, county, and congressional offices.

Since 1959, the newspapers have invited leading candidates to participate in special press conferences with Paddock editors to discuss issues and events of particular concern to citizens in northwest suburbs.

BEGINNNING next week, Paddock Publications will publish special reports based on interview sessions with the following candidates in the Nov. 3 election:

Democrat incumbent Otto Kerner and Republican Charles Percy for governor; Democrat incumbent William G. Clark and Republican Elroy Sandquist for attorney general; Republican incumbent Donald Rumsfeld and Democrat Lynn Williams for Congress, 13th District; Republican John Erlenborn and Democrat Jerome Zeigler for Congress, 14th District; Democrat incumbent Daniel Ward and Republican John Bickley for Cook County state's attorney; Republican incumbent W. Russell Arrington and Democrat David Baylor for state senator, 4th District.

Wonderful World of Credit

New Sales Pitch Coming?

by BOB CUMMINS
Staff Writer

The week before last, while reading our paper, I was astonished at one of the items in the ad of a big drug chain.

"Delta flash camera," it said. "Easy to handle! Eye level viewer. Film, bulbs, batt., 7 pc. kit . . . $3.66."

Perhaps I have been living in an ivory tower but I was amazed that a camera kit could be sold for only $3.66.

CUMMINS

I think the people in the ad agency read my mind. I think they said, "So Cummins was astonished by our Delta camera? So, let's really curl his hair!"

Thus, as I was checking the ad in last week's paper, I came across this message: "Look! Diana $1.97 snapshot camera. Eye level viewfinder. Strap. $1."

I tried to figure out how a camera could be made and sold for $1, but I couldn't come up with the answer. However, my train of thought led me to an old suspicion. My suspicion is that before long everything will be sold on credit and everybody's profit will be in the form of interest on installment loans. We have already gone a long ways in that direction.

Perhaps not far enough to startle anyone yet. That will come when the competition for installment accounts grows a little keener, and stores start paying us to buy.

I can picture some of the ads.

"1963 Tangerine 8. Sharp. Clean. Good rubber. Driven to grocery store on Saturday mornings by school teacher. Algebra test papers still in glove compartment. We pay you $100 to buy it!!!"

Or perhaps something like this:

"1962 Fosfate sports coupe. Classic car. Stick. Full power. First comer with rusty trade-in gets $100 bill. With good trade-in, $10."

Naturally, some people are going to have a hard time adjusting to this system.

It's going to be tough on the salesmen to begin with. Some of them will need a period to get used to the new way of selling. Until they do, they can expect an occasional tongue-lashing from the sales manager:

"Well, how do you explain yourself, Cottingham? You were on the floor for six hours and only gave away $500. And you call yourself a salesman?!?"

It will be hard to grasp the meaning of some conversations until we get used to the new sales techniques.

WIFE: Wow, here's a 7-piece dining room set advertised and it only costs the store $250!!

HUSBAND: Don't be silly, dear! You know we can't afford to accept more than $50. We took the stores for almost $400 last month and that's living way over our heads!"

There will be one nice thing about it. When you've had a rough week and you get to Saturday without the price of a movie and a couple of beers afterwards, you will always have something to fall back on. Just go out and buy a new lawn mower.

Don Vickery, staff photographer for Paddock Publications suburban newspapers, won an honorable mention award in the monthly photo clip contest sponsored by region 5 of the National Press Photographers Association.

The award was for a feature picture of a young boy in a swimming pool. Other winners in the June competition were Charles Vallone of the Racine, Wis., Journal Times; George Bertonz of the Southtown Economist, Chicago; Roland Finner and Ernest Anheuser of the Milwaukee Journal; and Dale Stierman of the Dubuque, Ia., Telegraph-Herald.

The NPPA's region 5 covers the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Illinois.

Burton's 'Hamlet' to Have Limited Showing

The miracle of electronics will bring to the Arlington Theatre next week the wide-acclaimed performance of "Hamlet" starring Richard Burton as the melancholy Dane.

A new electronic - optical process made it possible to record the play as it was being performed in the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre in New York. On Sept. 23 and 24 more than 1,000 motion picture theatre audiences in the United States and Canada will be able to see the Burton interpretation exactly as it was portrayed on the New York stage.

The name of the latest scientific invention that is making next week's performance possible is Electronovision - Theatrofilm. Unlike ordinary motion picture or television cameras, which require intense light, Electronovision cameras may operate with only the available light as in a darkened theater.

The Electronovision cameras photograph electronically the play or event being enacted, and as many as 15 may be operated simultaneously, as was done in recording Richard Burton's "Hamlet."

The images captured by the cameras are transmitted to a specially equipped monitoring board, located apart from the stage area, from which they are carried to mobile stations that record and transmit them instantly. Then they are converted to the necessary size and shape for Theatrofilm production.

ONLY A LIMITED number of persons were able to see Burton's portrayal of "Hamlet" in New York, but thousands will be able to see his performance through the Electronovision - Theatrofilm process, Don L. Knapp, manager of the Arlington Theatre, pointed out.

This showing is an historic first, Knapp said. The success of this venture will make it possible for future Broadway producers to attract many big name stars who up to now would not commit themselves to a stage production that might tie them up for a full year With the revenue possibilities of Electrovision - Theatrofilm, they can be signed for a two-month run and still make more than they would in a year in a stage role, he explained.

Knapp believes this is the forerunner of many productions that will bring stage plays and other events to audiences everywhere at prices they can afford.

Knapp emphasized that next week's showing of "Hamlet" through Warner Bros. is not a studio production but a "live" performance.

"ONE HAS TO see it to appreciate the realism and drama," he commented.

Starring with Burton in "Hamlet" are Hume Cronyn, Alfred Drake, Eileen Herlie, William Redfield, George Rose and George Voskovec. The play was staged by John Gielgud and won acclaim by critics and public alike with many calling Burton the greatest Hamlet of all time.

There will be four performances only with matinees on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 23 and 24, at 2 p.m. and evening performances at 8 p.m. No other showings are scheduled at any other theaters after these dates.

"This is an exclusive northwest suburban area showing for these two days only," Knapp stressed.

Tickets are on sale at the box office in advance or may be ordered by mail. Seats will not be reserved, but the number of tickets for each performance will not exceed the capacity of the Arlington Theatre, which is 1,200 persons. (A15

Fewest Ask Pay Benefits Since 1956

The number of individuals claiming jobless pay benefits during the week ending Sept. 5 was the lowest since the week ending Oct. 13, 1956.

Reflecting the fall business pick-up now in full swing, the total seeking unemployment benefits for the week ending with Labor Day weekend also was the lowest for 1964.

ACCORDING TO State Labor Director John E. Cullerton, claims for state unemployment compensation were filed by 51,755 persons in the week ended Sept. 5. This was 3.2 per cent fewer than in the preceding week and 21 per cent fewer than the corresponding week in 1963.

The number of claimants in Cook and DuPage Counties was 31,102.

Among those seeking compensation were 590 construction workers. (A15

Burton's 'Hamlet' to Have Limited Showing

The miracle of electronics will bring to the Arlington Theatre next week the wide-acclaimed performance of "Hamlet" starring Richard Burton as the melancholy Dane.

A new electronic - optical process made it possible to record the play as it was being performed in the Lunt-Fontanne Theatre in New York. On Sept. 23 and 24 more than 1,000 motion picture theatre audiences in the United States and Canada will be able to see the Burton interpretation exactly as it was portrayed on the New York stage.

The name of the latest scientific invention that is making next week's performance possible is Electronovision - Theatrofilm. Unlike ordinary motion picture or television cameras, which require intense light, Electronovision cameras may operate with only the available light as in a darkened theater.

The Electronovision cameras photograph electronically the play or event being enacted, and as many as 15 may be operated simultaneously, as was done in recording Richard Burton's "Hamlet."

The images captured by the cameras are transmitted to a specially equipped monitoring board, located apart from the stage area, from which they are carried to mobile stations that record and transmit them instantly. Then they are converted to the necessary size and shape for Theatrofilm production.

ONLY A LIMITED number of persons were able to see Burton's portrayal of "Hamlet" in New York, but thousands will be able to see his performance through the Electronovision - Theatrofilm process, Don L. Knapp, manager of the Arlington Theatre, pointed out.

This showing is an historic first, Knapp said. The success of this venture will make it possible for future Broadway producers to attract many big name stars who up to now would not commit themselves to a stage production that might tie them up for a full year With the revenue possibilities of Electrovision - Theatrofilm, they can be signed for a two-month run and still make more than they would in a year in a stage role, he explained.

Knapp believes this is the forerunner of many productions that will bring stage plays and other events to audiences everywhere at prices they can afford.

Knapp emphasized that next week's showing of "Hamlet" through Warner Bros. is not a studio production but a "live" performance.

"ONE HAS TO see it to appreciate the realism and drama," he commented.

Starring with Burton in "Hamlet" are Hume Cronyn, Alfred Drake, Eileen Herlie, William Redfield, George Rose and George Voskovec. The play was staged by John Gielgud and won acclaim by critics and public alike with many calling Burton the greatest Hamlet of all time.

There will be four performances only with matinees on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 23 and 24, at 2 p.m. and evening performances at 8 p.m. No other showings are scheduled at any other theaters after these dates.

"This is an exclusive northwest suburban area showing for these two days only," Knapp stressed.

Tickets are on sale at the box office in advance or may be ordered by mail. Seats will not be reserved, but the number of tickets for each performance will not exceed the capacity of the Arlington Theatre, which is 1,200 persons. (A15

Fewest Ask Pay Benefits Since 1956

The number of individuals claiming jobless pay benefits during the week ending Sept. 5 was the lowest since the week ending Oct. 13, 1956.

Reflecting the fall business pick-up now in full swing, the total seeking unemployment benefits for the week ending with Labor Day weekend also was the lowest for 1964.

ACCORDING TO State Labor Director John E. Cullerton, claims for state unemployment compensation were filed by 51,755 persons in the week ended Sept. 5. This was 3.2 per cent fewer than in the preceding week and 21 per cent fewer than the corresponding week in 1963.

The number of claimants in Cook and DuPage Counties was 31,102.

Among those seeking compensation were 590 construction workers. (A15

FROZEN FOODS

20th Century Miracle

Today's modern homemaker has a genie in her kitchen . . . frozen foods!

Franklin H. Graf, executive vice-president of the A. C. Nielsen Company, reported in a seminar to the March 1964 convention of the National Association of Frozen Food Packers that frozen foods now account for an estimated 3.2 per cent of our annual grocery bill. This represents a staggering annual national sales volume of around $1.8 billion. This does not include institutional, in-plant or other non-grocery sales. When you add them, you have a total frozen food industry registering sales of approximately $4 billion.

What are the reasons for the astronomical growth of frozen foods? Perhaps the most important is their convenience. The most popular innovation in frozen food packaging during the past three years has been the boil-in-bag concept. The packaging of frozen vegetables in butter sauce in a vacuum pack, flavor-tight cooking pouch has been a real boon to hurried homemakers. She simply drops the flavor-tight cooking pouch into boiling water, brings to a second boil and continues cooking the number of minutes specified on the package, then opens and serves the vegetable. Water never touches the vegetables while they are cooking, so the garden-fresh color and flavor are conserved and the vegetables cannot become water-logged. Two or more vegetables can be prepared at the same time in the same pan of boiling water and there is no messy pan to clean. In addition, the flavor-tight cooking pouch effectively seals in any offensive cooking odors.

A second advantage of frozen foods is their excellent and uniform quality. Frozen foods know no season! Vegetables to be frozen by a leading vegetable packer are, for example, picked at their fleeting moment of perfect flavor and immediately flash frozen to retain their garden-fresh flavor. Homemakers can now enjoy corn with a "fresh off the cob" flavor the year around. Unlike fresh vegetables, which often take several days in transit from the field to the market and to your table, frozen vegetables are frozen immediately after being harvested to retain their flavor, color and valuable nutrients.

Frozen foods offer endless menu variety. Because Mrs. Homemaker is freed from the drudgery of shelling peas, scooping melon balls and husking corn, she can now lend her creative talents to the fun of glamorizing her favorite fruits and vegetables. This personal touch reflects her interest in her family's own individual food tastes and gives her endless variety in menu planning.

"The Wonderful World of Frozen Food"

This special frozen food supplement was published through the cooperation of the Chicago Frozen Food Buy-Time Committee and the Suburban Press Foundation of Chicago, Illinois. Circulated on Sept. 17, 1964, in 75 leading Chicago suburban newspapers, it was produced and edited under the direction of Gordon W. Bohlman and the Pioneer Publishing Company, Oak Park.

Take Care of Quality

by Barbara Goede, Home Economist for Hyde Park Co-Op Super Mart

Keep frozen foods cold enough! Use frozen foods soon enough! Keep these basic rules to keep quality in the frozen foods you purchase. Sounds simple and easy, doesn't it? But there's a catch. It's the word "enough." What is cold "enough"? Soon "enough"?

When you feel a package of food that is cold and hard, you naturally assume it is frozen. But just "frozen" isn't good enough to keep the quality in frozen foods. They must be kept at 0° F. or lower.

Unfortunately, not all freezer compartments are 0° F. Do you know how cold yours is? If you are not sure, use a refrigerator-freezer thermometer to check the temperature. Or the firmness of ice cream kept in your freezer can be a guide. If the temperature is -5° F. or lower, the ice cream will be too hard to dip. At +12° F., ice cream is soft enough to dip. And at +20° F., it is too soft to dip.

Let's look at some different kinds of home freezer facilities. An ice cube or freezer storage compartment in a refrigerator-freezer usually ranges in temperature from +10° to +25° F. if the freezer does not have a separate door. But if the freezing compartment has an outer door separate from the refrigerator, the temperature is usually 0° to +15° F. And then there are the upright and chest type freezer appliances. These should maintain 0° F. but some of them will have "warm spots" or fluctuations in temperature during automatic defrosting cycles.

Why is temperature so important? Because it will affect the length of time you can keep frozen foods and retain their quality. When the temperature is above 0° F., chemical and physical changes occur that cause foods to lose nutritive value, color, flavor, and characteristic texture. Fluctuations in temperature cause quality damage and these changes accumulate.

The first sign of quality loss you'll see is large quantities of icy frost inside the package. Some nutrients will be lost in this frost. This is followed by color loss, texture changes and flavor changes.

This brings up the problem of thawed frozen foods. The length of time the food is thawed and the temperature it reaches are the critical factors in deciding whether to use the food or refreeze it or discard it.

If the food does not get above refrigerator temperatures (40° F.), it can be used, preferably within one day. If the product still contains ice crystals or, even though completely thawed, the temperature of the product does not get above 40° F., the food can be refrozen. It will be safe to eat. Food poisoning bacteria grow very slowly between 38° and 45° F.

Just before you put food in your home freezer, it's a good idea to date the packages. This will help remind you to use them soon enough. As you can see from the preceding information, "soon enough" depends largely on the storage temperature and the temperature fluctuations experienced by the frozen foods. It will also depend on the nature of the food.

If your facilities are only the ice cube compartment type of freezer with temperatures ranging from 10° to 25° F., one week is recommended storage time. If you should keep frozen foods at these temperatures longer than one week, the food will be safe to eat but there will be decided quality changes as mentioned previously. You may find the food too unpalatable to be eaten.

If your freezer holds 0° F. or lower, the following are maximum storage times to maintain quality. These are recommended by the Institute of Home Economics of the U. S. Agricultural Research Service.

Bread and rolls, unbaked	2 to 3 weeks
Cake, chocolate	4 months
Cake, yellow	6 months
Crabmeat	2 months
Fish sticks, etc., cooked	3 months
Fish, uncooked	2 to 4 months
Fruits and juices	12 months
Ice Cream	1 month
Minute steaks, beef patties	3 months
Meat pies, TV dinners, etc.	3 months
Pies, unbaked	8 months

Get The Most Out Of Your Freezer

A modern freezer gives the homemaker economy, convenience and even a bit of fun in family meal planning. Before you buy give some thought to the size of your family, your shopping habits and plans for home freezing. Make sure that your freezer has a defrost drain. To get the most out of your freezer, think of it as a checking account for food. Take advantage of food bargains and in-season purchases. Don't hoard the food in your freezer—use it.

1964—Bountiful Year For Frozen Foods

By CAROL BEST

National Association of Frozen Food Packers

Frozen foods are constantly spreading wider the abundance that farmers grow. At any season of the year mealtimes never lack for the bright variety of fresh-tasting fruits, vegetables, and juices kept that way at zero degrees from harvest-to-table.

Commercial freezing of foods is the best method known for capturing the innate texture, flavor, and nutritive value of garden-and-orchard-fresh harvest when the foods are at their peak.

According to the just-released pack figures of the National Association of Frozen Food Packers, the frozen food supply in all categories is very good. The four great favorites in the frozen food line—frozen potato products, frozen green peas, frozen strawberries, and frozen concentrated orange juice—will be adequately supplied this year.

New trends show some increase in the frozen potato products which are prepared in more varied ways. Whole strawberries continue on the increase to satisfy the demand for plump berries.

Other frozen fruits to enjoy especially this year are frozen peaches and frozen red raspberries, as these are well supplied. Frozen blueberries are an excellent product. A reason for the fresh flavors of bakery pies and frozen pies that you purchase in any season is the fact that such a large part of the pack of frozen fruits goes into the larger containers for sale to bakeries and restaurants.

Because of the freezing industry's dependence upon agricultural supplies, pack of frozen vegetables as a group are slightly down as compared with last year; however, there is a plenty of frozen vegetables for the home because of the holding advantage that freezing gives them. Frozen vegetable dishes, especially those in sauces, are very prominent in retail vegetable displays.

A tremendous growth in frozen prepared food production is noted. This is in entrees, dinners, foreign specialties, desserts. And predictions are that soon all baked goods will be sold in the frozen form from frozen food cases.

Newest factor is the new frozen food display case in the supermarket; some are now sporting new equipment which displays the packages at eye level on shelves. The zero-cold protecting the food is held in by an air curtain, through which the customer reaches her hand to make her selection. We are also selecting frozen foods from upright freezer display cases that have glass doors through which you view the selection. Here at least the supermarkets display frozen foods where they are seen as easily as are shelf products. It was found that frozen food purchases increased by 300 per cent in the short period of five weeks in one store where a new upright case presented a more convenient display to the customer.

Refrigeration developments helped bring the frozen food industry into its GO position: Systems for mechanically refrigerating trucks and railroad cars—better home refrigerators, home freezers—zero temperature warehouses. All now work together to hold the foods' original taste, color, and texture after rapid freezing in the frozen food plant.

If you should keep frozen foods at these temperatures longer than one week, the food will be safe to eat but there will be decided quality changes as mentioned previously. You may find the food too unpalatable to be eaten.

If your freezer holds 0° F. or lower, the following are maximum storage times to maintain quality. These are recommended by the Institute of Home Economics of the U. S. Agricultural Research Service.

Bread and rolls, unbaked	2 to 3 weeks
Cake, chocolate	4 months
Cake, yellow	6 months
Crabmeat	2 months
Fish sticks, etc., cooked	3 months
Fish, uncooked	2 to 4 months
Fruits and juices	12 months
Ice Cream	1 month
Minute steaks, beef patties	3 months
Meat pies, TV dinners, etc.	3 months
Pies, unbaked	8 months

Get The Most Out Of Your Freezer

A modern freezer gives the homemaker economy, convenience and even a bit of fun in family meal planning. Before you buy give some thought to the size of your family, your shopping habits and plans for home freezing. Make sure that your freezer has a defrost drain. To get the most out of your freezer, think of it as a checking account for food. Take advantage of food bargains and in-season purchases. Don't hoard the food in your freezer—use it.

"The Wonderful World of Frozen Food"

This special frozen food supplement was published through the cooperation of the Chicago Frozen Food Buy-Time Committee and the Suburban Press Foundation of Chicago, Illinois. Circulated on Sept. 17, 1964, in 75 leading Chicago suburban newspapers, it was produced and edited under the direction of Gordon W. Bohlman and the Pioneer Publishing Company, Oak Park.

1964—Bountiful Year For Frozen Foods

By CAROL BEST

National Association of Frozen Food Packers

Frozen foods are constantly spreading wider the abundance that farmers grow. At any season of the year mealtimes never lack for the bright variety of fresh-tasting fruits, vegetables, and juices kept that way at zero degrees from harvest-to-table.

Commercial freezing of foods is the best method known for capturing the innate texture, flavor, and nutritive value of garden-and-orchard-fresh harvest when the foods are at their peak.

According to the just-released pack figures of the National Association of Frozen Food Packers, the frozen food supply in all categories is very good. The four great favorites in the frozen food line—frozen potato products, frozen green peas, frozen strawberries, and frozen concentrated orange juice—will be adequately supplied this year.

New trends show some increase in the frozen potato products which are prepared in more varied ways. Whole strawberries continue on the increase to satisfy the demand for plump berries.

Other frozen fruits to enjoy especially this year are frozen peaches and frozen red raspberries, as these are well supplied. Frozen blueberries are an excellent product. A reason for the fresh flavors of bakery pies and frozen pies that you purchase in any season is the fact that such a large part of the pack of frozen fruits goes into the larger containers for sale to bakeries and restaurants.

Because of the freezing industry's dependence upon agricultural supplies, pack of frozen vegetables as a group are slightly down as compared with last year; however, there is a plenty of frozen vegetables for the home because of the holding advantage that freezing gives them. Frozen vegetable dishes, especially those in sauces, are very prominent in retail vegetable displays.

A tremendous growth in frozen prepared food production is noted. This is in entrees, dinners, foreign specialties, desserts. And predictions are that soon all baked goods will be sold in the frozen form from frozen food cases.

Newest factor is the new frozen food display case in the supermarket; some are now sporting new equipment which displays the packages at eye level on shelves. The zero-cold protecting the food is held in by an air curtain, through which the customer reaches her hand to make her selection. We are also selecting frozen foods from upright freezer display cases that have glass doors through which you view the selection. Here at least the supermarkets display frozen foods where they are seen as easily as are shelf products. It was found that frozen food purchases increased by 300 per cent in the short period of five weeks in one store where a new upright case presented a more convenient display to the customer.

Refrigeration developments helped bring the frozen food industry into its GO position: Systems for mechanically refrigerating trucks and railroad cars—better home refrigerators, home freezers—zero temperature warehouses. All now work together to hold the foods' original taste, color, and texture after rapid freezing in the frozen food plant.

Rosy-ripe strawberries, peaches sweet as summer, cantaloupe in spoon-size balls of flavor . . . . this is what you can look forward to in frozen foods from Jewel.

For once inside the deep cold of the freezer—the fresh vivid sun-ripened coloring and lively flavor of these summer-fresh foods is stopped cold — held in frigid suspense.

That's when Jewel folks hurry them into freezer trucks . . . into Jewel's frozen food cases — careful to see that the temperature stays a constant low (zero to ten degrees above) . . . so the freshness captured in the freezing stays perfectly, deliciously fresh.

When you open a package of Jewel frozen foods—you waken the summer goodness for the very first time since the day it was picked, packed and frozen. Enjoy the goodness summer brings all year long . . . and as often as you make a visit to the frozen food cases at Jewel!

So stop by and stock up often – its like having a maid to call on when you're short on time!

Strawberries from the Northwest are brightest and best. The same is true of peaches – asparagus, too. And it takes the California sun to grow broccoli firm and crisp enough for freezing. This is why Jewel so often goes far from home for the fruits and vegetables you buy as Mary Dunbar and Cherry Valley frozen foods. They're specially selected for freezing . . . and frozen close by the growing fields. Open up a package and you know – even before you taste – that they'll be home-grown good!

A TRIP TO JEWEL BRINGS A WORLD OF EXCITING MENU IDEAS!

Jewel's frozen food variety makes tempting your family with new and different meals so wonderfully easy! Genuine Italian pizza, Chinese Chow Mein, the makings of New England Chowder, and other regional favorites are "regulars" in our frozen food cases. Tired of the same old vegetables? Before a Cave Lady could whip up an ash cake, she first had to grow the grain and then crush it with crude implements.

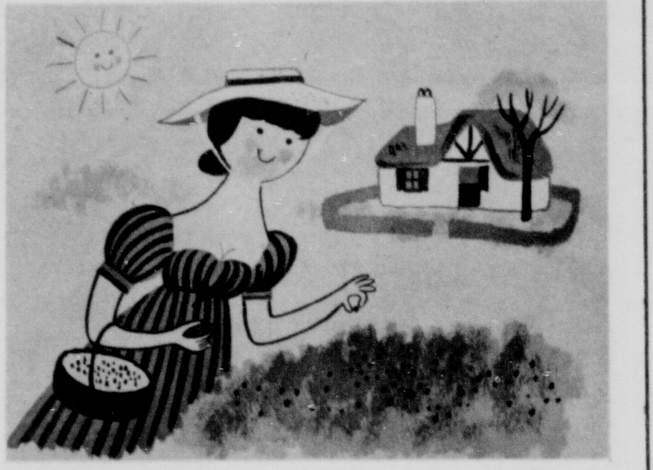
Bakers held such an important place in Egyptian society, that baking furnaces were built in temples, and bakers were as esteemed as priests.



English women of the mid-1700's, in preparing desserts, had to gather sweet fruits and herbs, cull simples and express juices, all according to carefully prescribed methods.

Cakes: From Ice Age To Freezers

When the world was younger, an ape-like creature called Peking man, stalked through the forests shopping for dinner. His idea of a tasty treat was to scoop the soft, sweet marrow from a pile of bones.

As the years rolled by, man became a little more sophisticated in his taste for the sweet things of life. A mere 40,000 years ago, the Cave Painters, inhabiting Southern France and Spain, had certain niceties in their diet. They varied their menus by robbing bees' nests and gathering fruit and nuts to top off a hearty meal of wild beast.

By 8000 B.C. desserts were enjoyed by the Lake Dwellers in what is now Switzerland. However, before a lady Lake Dweller could serve her guests an ash cake, she had to plant the grain, wait patiently for the harvest and crush the cereal with crude implements. This done, she was ready to bake the cake, from barley, wheat, millet, rye or oats, mixed with water. For that party flair, she flavored it with a few caraway seeds.

The first recipe book appears in the form of a clay tablet unearthed in the valley of the Euphrates, dating back to 3000 B.C. It describes the Sumerians' ideas of a proper meal for the gods, ending with a reference to cakes.

The Egyptian concept of a good dessert was a kind of cake made from crushed dates blended with coarse flour, a crude forerunner of today's cakes made with fresh fruit. Baking for the Egyptians was a tedious task at best, but it did have its compensations. Bakers held such an important place in Egyptian society that baking furnaces were built in temples and the bakers were as esteemed as the priests.

A tomb drawing from 2000 B.C. in Thebes, shows that bakers deserved all the praise they received. The drawing depicts men pulverizing grain and dates with huge stones, mixing their batters in great bowls and pouring the batter into long, narrow molds to be slipped into an open furnace.

In 310 B.C. the Greek Hippoluchus wrote to a friend in Athens describing a wedding feast he had attended. He reported that "Sweetmeats in plaited baskets made of ivory were distributed to everyone, with cheese cakes of every kind known, Cretan cheese cakes and your Samian ones, and Attic ones, with the proper boxes or dishes suitable to each kind of confection."

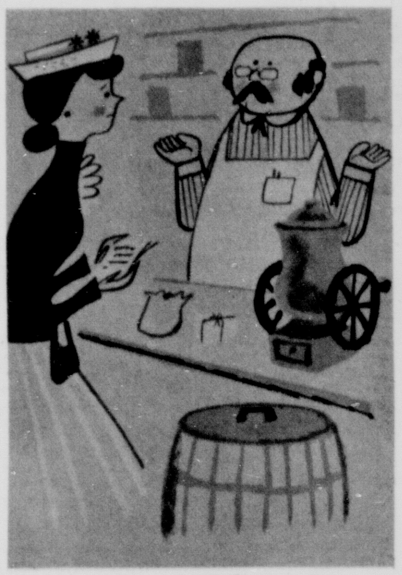
For the Romans, sweets were fairly simple. A popular dessert was bread soaked in milk, fried and topped with honey. For variety, the Roman hostess offered her guests crisp little nut cakes, stuffed with Syrian dates.

Nothing too exciting happened in cake history until a number of cook books appeared in England during the 1700's. Most of the cook books reveal that English women spent a considerable part of their lives gathering sweet fruits and herbs, culling simples, and expressing juices according to a carefully prescribed method. "Gather your currants when the sun is hot upon them," said one writer. She went on to caution that some leaves for spices were to be picked in the dry and some in the cool. The English used parsnips and raspberries in their cakes; red beetroot, potatoes and oranges were converted into biscuits.

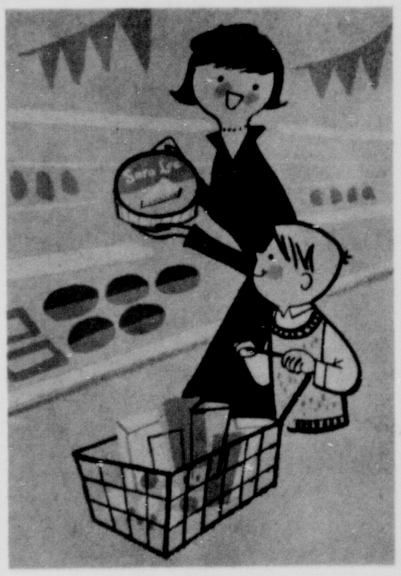
In the early days, as the pioneers crossed the great plains of North America, there was little time to park the prairie schooner and whip up a tempting dessert. Cake ingredients as well as time and energy were in short supply.

Unlike her forebears, today's homemaker has no dessert worries about growing the grain, grinding the flour or gathering the sweet oranges. She can step up to her grocer's freezer, select one of a variety of delicious frozen cakes and take them home to delight her family.

Or, at the drop of a guest's hat, she removes a frozen cake from her freezer and within an hour serves up a delicious treat that will be remembered for its goodness and quality.



A day book of a Midwestern grocer at the turn of the century shows that the entire list of imported articles of food numbered 16 items — including coffee, chocolate, cinnamon and tea.



Unlike her forebears, today's homemaker has no dessert worries, such as growing grain, grinding flour or gathering the sweet oranges. She can step up to the grocer's freezer and select from a large variety of baked goods, frozen fresh from the oven.

Serving on a refreshment committee? Plan on an assortment of frozen breads, cakes or pastries, which can be purchased days ahead of time and kept oven-fresh in the freezer until the big day.

Terry's New Kitchen At Schaumburg To Be Opened For Guided Tours

Fifteen years ago Terry Anderson borrowed his mother-in-law's popular recipes for barbecue sauce and beef, gravy and sliced beef and beef chop suey, and prepared them for retail grocery stores. So great was the demand for these treats, that he found it necessary to open a kitchen at Park Ridge, and more recently, at Schaumburg, near Palatine.

This new facility will be open for public inspection soon, with guided tours showing the "Terry's is Terrific" products being packaged, quick frozen, and ready for shipment to stores throughout greater Chicagoland and the United States. The products are packed in sanitary rigid plastic containers, which seals in the flavor while cooking.

BREAKFAST TREAT—WAFFLES IN A FLASH FROM YOUR FREEZER

(Photograph and article courtesy of The Quaker Oats Company for Aunt Jemima Frozen Waffles)

Mom, why can't we have waffles more often? Now you can you can have waffles every morning, afternoon and evening. It's so easy when you use frozen waffles!

Frozen waffles are convenient to serve and they are as crisp and delicious as when you make up the batter yourself. No muss, no fuss, no waffle iron necessary. The toaster or the oven does all the work. All you do is eat 'em!

1 . . . 2 . . . 3 . . . hot waffles for breakfast. One . . . out of the freezer; two . . . out of the package and into a preheated toaster or a preheated hot oven (400°F.); three . . . onto a plate ready to be topped with butter and syrup. Ummm, good.

Set the toaster indicator at medium. Push the toaster down once to preheat it. Place the frozen waffles in the toaster; heat until the waffles pop up. If they are not as hot as you like, return them to the toaster for a moment or two.

When using the oven, preheat it to hot (400°F.). Separate the frozen waffles and place them on a cooky sheet or aluminum foil; heat 7 to 9 minutes or until warmed through. Great for a crowd!

With so many delicious uses for frozen waffles, you'll need a freezer-full to keep your hungry brood satisfied. For breakfast, top the toasted waffles with a poached egg and cheese sauce made from condensed cheddar cheese soup; serve them with fried sausage links. For lunch, serve frozen waffles topped with creamed chicken or place a slice of tomato, crisp-cooked bacon and cheese on a toasted waffle and give it a quick trip to the broiler for a real treat.

Here's a dessert idea for your next party or special dinner — Baked Alaska Waffles! Make it like this: Toast 12 frozen waffles in the oven. For the meringue topping, beat 6 egg whites, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar together until foamy. Gradually beat in ¾ cup sugar; continue beating until the meringue is stiff and glossy.

To assemble the alaskas, put two waffle sections together with slices of very firm ice cream. Place them on a cooky sheet covered with brown paper. Spread the meringue over the sides and top, covering them well and making sure to seal them to the paper. Bake in a preheated very hot oven (450°F.) 3 to 5 minutes or until delicately browned. Serve them immediately with chocolate sauce. Makes 6 servings.
